The Carefree Felt Grows E'en More Carefree

The small Felt Hat, Fashion's pet for these many months, makes room for the "feminine fedora." And no wonder that the latter is so happily received when the summer mode is boyish at least half way through. With a man's crown and brim, the hat has a stylish slant whichever way one twirks it. In white, it is predicted, this crusher will best succeed, for in white it has that mite of femininity which is just enough. But there are many colors too.

FIRST OF JULY is a holiday with the most of us. No doubt you've planned a jolly outing already. This is just to remind you that all the clothes and "trifles" you need may be chosen here.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burto

Gloria turned then, and looked straight at Miss Briggs. "I want to talk to my husband. Will you please leave us alone?" she asked coldly.

The secretary did not meet Gloria's eyes. But she walked slowly out of the office. The door closed behind her.

Gloria opened her handbag and laid the check Dick had sent her, down upon his desk.

"There's your money. I've brought it back to you," she said. "I don't want anything from you, Dick."

She raised her questioning eyes to his face. "What was the big idea in sending it to me?" she asked.

Under her ... Dick flushed darkly. Gloria could ... that he was embarassed.

"I thought ... you understood that I was going to ... care of you," he said. "I told you ... if you lived with your folks, I'd see ... at you had plenty of money. . . . send you $50 every week, just as ... said I would".

Gloria shook her head. "No, you won't," she ... radicted, "because I shan't take it. ... m going back to work this morning. ... earn my own money. . . . So you ... keep yours to pay off some of the de... I piled up for you!"

She couldn't ... sist saying that. The memory of D... sermons about debts was still a thorn ... her flesh.

"I'll send ... a check for $50 every week, just as ... said I would," Dick repeated firmly. "So long as you're my wife, I'm going ... support you. And I don't want ... to work in some office with a lot of ...."

Gloria interrupted him with a laugh. "I'm not your ... any more," she cried. "The law may ... I am, and you may say so! But ... not!"

Her face ... white, and hard with rebellion. "A... another thing. . . . I'll work anyw... I please! And it'll take more than ... you to stop me!" she added.

Dick was ... less. As he stood there looking ... r, without a word to say, she began ... ry.

Tears reddened ... her eyes and coursed down through ... rouge that was thick on her cheeks. ... mouth trembled.

"Dick," she ... gan huskily, "I've been so lonesome. ... And look. . . ." She held out ... hands to show him the burns and ... on them.

"See, I've been trying to cook," she sobbed. "Dick, please let me go home again. . . . I can't stand being away from you. I can't stand it!"

"Ssh!" Dick hissed, frowning. "Be careful or Miss Briggs will hear you! Hush!"

Gloria sank down on the floor and laid her head on the seat of Dick's swivel chair. "What do I care if she hears me or not!" she said thickly. "All I care about is getting home, again!"

"Please, please don't treat me like this," she sobbed.

Dick lifted her to her feet. "For Lord's sake, get up!" he said sharply. "And don't come here again, until you can control yourself, Glory! . . . What are you trying to do? Put on a one-act play for Miss Briggs' benefit?"

His sharpness brought Gloria to her senses. She stood up and dried her eyes.

"All you think about is Miss Briggs, isn't it?" she asked, choking. "And what is she, anyway! Nothing but a little old maid! . . . I wouldn't care so much if I'd lost you to a raving, tearing beauty . . . ."

Her voice broke again.

She almost ran out of the office.

Two pretty office girls were there, chatting as they combed out their fluffy bobbed hair, as they rouged their lips . . . preparing for the morning's labor.

They looked at Gloria's tear-stained face curiously, as she came in. She bathed her red eyes and hot cheeks with icy water. Then she carefully powdered her face, added a touch of color to her cheeks.

In the mirror, she could see the two girls looking at the expensive bead bag and gold vanity case she had laid on the marble shelf below the mirror.

"Don't envy me," she wanted to say to them. "I'm just a working girl like you are. Only I'm out of a job!"

Out in the street the sun was high, and shining with a white, blistering glare. It was ten o'clock.

The army of office girls had disappeared from the street . . . and those other workers . . . the home women, were abroad in their crisp wash dresses and white shoes.

"I was one of them once," Gloria thought regretfully, "But I didn't know my luck when I had it!"

. . . She was furious with herself for going to Dick's office.

"I suppose it tickled Briggs to death when I came out, crying!" she said to herself between clenched teeth.

Then, with her chin up and her head held high, she went into the real estate office of Forbes, Forgan and Fargo.

She found her knees trembling, and her breath coming fast with nervousness as she followed an office boy into the presence of Ulysses X. Forgan.

He was a man growing elderly. Rather sparse brown hair streaked with gray, two hard brown eyes with pockets of wrinkles under them, a high nose, and a mouth like the slot in a gum-machine . . . that was Ulysses X. Forgan.

He had a mind like an adding-machine. He seldom thought of anything but figures. They were to him what talk and laughter were to other men.

The one quality he had that made him human was his love of beauty. . . . He loved it in the impersonal way that the Greeks worshiped it.

And Gloria with her amber eyes, and tremulous mouth was beautiful that morning. Ulysses X. Forgan looked at her as he might have looked at a painting in a museum.

He hired her. "Worth looking at even if she can't typewrite," he said to himself. "And she probably can't. The good lookers are all dumbbells.

But as the days went by, he realized that Gloria knew her business. And she began to study his. She would slip just the paper he happened to be looking for under his nose just when he wanted it.

"I may have been a failure as a wife," she told herself Saturday when she took her pay envelope from the cashier, "but I've always been a crackerjack business woman! . . . Maybe it's the thing I was cut out for, after all!"

She had a vision of herself in the coming years, growing large and sharp-eyed and efficient . . . a successful business woman with nothing to live for but a job!

It was a gray and dreary outlook . . .

When she went home that afternoon, she took a leisurely bath and curled up on her bed for a nap. It was six o'clock when she awoke.

Her hair was damp with perspiration, and it curled around her ears and forehead. Her cheeks were flushed, and her eyes were starry as a baby's when it wakens from its afternoon sleep.

She looked in the glass . . . No, she wasn't the type of woman to be unmarried, to live alone. She was too beautiful for that.

. . . Down in the kitchen she could hear her mother at work, getting supper. She dressed herself in a gingham house-frock and went down to help with the meal.

Gloria sliced the cold veal loaf, and quartered lemons for the pitcher of iced tea. She made a plateful of lettuce sandwiches. "Thank goodness we aren't having anything hot to eat," she said cheerfully to her mother. "It's sweltering, isn't it? . . . Look at those sandwiches! I'm getting to be some housewife, eh what?"

She laughed brightly. But her thoughts were anything but cheerful . . .

This was Saturday night. Carnival for everybody! . . . The end of the long week's work. . . .

All over America girls were waving their hair, and dressing themselves in their best bib and tucker, to go out "stepping." Wives were hurrying with the supper dishes, so that they might not make their families late for the "movies."

Everybody, everywhere, had something special to do.

"Everybody but me," Gloria said to herself, as she sat out in the porch swing, after supper.

She stared out into the gathering dusk. The stars were coming out, like polished pin points in the sky above the tree tops.

A Ford car drove up before the house next door, and a man jumped out and ran up the steps. Gloria heard a screen door slam. . . .

Presently he came out again, with the girl who lived there . . . little Peggy Quin.

"My stars! She can't be more than sixteen . . . and having a beau already!" Gloria exclaimed to herself. "But then, that's not so bad, when I'm only twenty-one, and married and—" She stopped suddenly. She had almost said "divorced."

With a pang of loneliness, she listened to Peggy Quinn's gay voice, as she climbed into the little car and took her seat there. It chugged away down the street. . . .

Then her mother and father came out of the house. They were going out to do their regular Saturday night marketing.

"Better come along," Mr. Gordon advised her. "We'll probably wind up at a movie. We 'most always do."

But Gloria shook her head. "No thanks, darlings," she said, "I'm too comfortable to move. . . ."

She watched them go down the street together. What children they were, starting off on their innocent spree! . . . After all, it wasn't what you did that made life interesting. It was the people with whom you did them, who counted!

Her mother and father . . . they were happy because they had each other. . . . Inside the dark house, the telephone rang.

Gloria quivered. Who could it be? Dick, perhaps! . . . But no, it was only Aunt Dorcas, very likely, or Cousin Lulu.

"Hello," she said languidly, into the receiver.

In The Morning Her Tongue Was Coated HadBad Taste In Mouth

Miss Pearle L. Zinck, Barss Corner, N.S., writes:—"I was awfully troubled with my liver, and used to get such dizzy spells I would have to sit down while I was doing my work.

In the morning, when I used to get up my tongue was coated and I had a bad taste in my mouth and often times, throughout the day, I was troubled with pains in my stomach.

I suffered in this way until a friend of mine who had used your

FLOWERS DECK RESTING PLACE OF ODDFELLOWS

193 GRAVES.

Rev. Bro. C. W. Rose, D.D., Was Marshal of Parade—240 Present.

The annual decoration ceremony of the Independent Order of Oddfellows was held yesterday afternoon, when the members of the two Peterborough lodges, Otonabee No. 13, and Peterborough, No. 111, with visiting brethren, marched to Little Lake cemetery. Two hundred and forty Oddfellows, marshalled by Rev. Brother C. W. Rose, D.D., took part in the service at the cemetery and then, in seven parties, decorated the graves of 193 departed brethren.

After the hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee" had been sung, the chairman, Dr. Rose, called on Bro. R. J. Martin, P.G., to act as Noble Grand, and Rev. Bro. A. J. Langford to act as Chaplain.

The first speaker was Rev. Bro. R. C. Blagrave, D.D. Dr. Blagrave spoke of the beautiful God's Acre, which suggested the inevitable destiny. None, he said, loves death, or its associations of sadness, and bereavement. Such hallowed spots serve as a reminder that life, with its cares and pleasures, as it is known to people here, is not the whole of life. There is a greater life that God knows better than mortals.

Rev. Bro. Norman R. McLeod, said that the service of decoration demonstrates the real spirit of Oddfellowship.

Following the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," Rev. Bro. J. D. Richardson spoke. He spoke of the solemnity and sacredness of the service, which showed that the friendship of Oddfellowship does not cease at the grave, but is carried on, in the decoration of the graves, and in the care of those left behind.

Arrangements for the ceremonies were in the hands of a committee headed by Brother R. J. Martin, Past Grand. Music was provided on the march and in the cemetery by the Salvation Army band, under Bandmaster Robinson.

GREAT WELCOME FOR HAIG FROM OTTAWA PEOPLE

Glorious Work For Canada as Keystone of Empire, Says Marshal.

ELOQUENT ADDRESS.

Thousands Welcomed Marshal and Listened to His Reply.

OTTAWA, June 29.—(Canadian Press.)— A tremendous reception was given yesterday afternoon by the capital of the Dominion to Field Marshal Earl Haig, Commander of the British Forces during the greater part of the Great War, and Lady Haig. Loud and hearty expression was given to the deep admiration of the people and the Canadian heroes who fought under him in France. Not less eloquent was the reply of Earl Haig in addressing the thousands assembled in front of the Parliament buildings. His concluding words will endure long in the memory of those who were stirred by their utterance.

"Nowhere has Canada a more glorious or more individual work to fulfill," he said, "than lies to her hand to-day as the link between the old world and the new, the bond between two hemispheres, in fact, the keystone of the arch of the British Empire, and an equal part in the greatest undertaking which the enterprise and energy, wisdom and sacrifice of any people or community of peoples have heretofore created for the betterment of man and the greater glory of God."

NEW DISTILLERIES.

Two New Canadian Brewing Concerns Granted Dominion Charters.

OTTAWA, June 29.—(Canadian Press).—The incorporation of two new Canadian distilleries is posted in the current issue of the Canada Gazette. Canadian Distillers, Limited, of Trenton, is given a Dominion charter, with an authorized capital stock of $500,000. Dominion Distillers, Limited, Montreal, also is incorporated with capital stock of $1,500,000.

EARTHQUAKE ROCKED FOUR

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 29—(United Press). —The earth tremors locked Los Angeles and vicinity at 6.44 this morning. The quake lasted approximately thirty seconds and early reports indicated that it was felt over a wide area. Buildings shook menacingly and timbers were heard to crackle. Light supspended from ceilings swayed like pendulums.

Old timers said it was the most severe shock in this section in years.

Again This Morning.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 29. —(Canadian Press). — Great Falls was visited with its fourth earthquake in thirty two hours at two thirty o'clock this morning. Houses were shaken by the quake that lasted several seconds.

Oil Tank Overthrown.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29. — An oil tank collapsed at Naples, submerging the Southern Pacific Company's tracks there the company was advised. The quake seemed to centre at a point between San Luis Obispo and Carpenteria. Small landslides were reported at Benham and Puenta.

Communication Snapped.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29. — (Canadian Press). — Southern California, in the vicinity of Santa Barbara, 300 miles south of San Francisco, was rocked by an earthquake of major proportions at 6.45 o'clock this morning, information received here by Western Union Telegraph Company indicated.

Principal lines of communication into the area believed most severely affected have been snapped.

Water Tank Upset.

Reports from Gaviota indicated that the region most severely rocked is between Ventura & Santa Barbara At Gaviota rail lines were broken by the shake and a large water tank was tumbled over on the railroad right of way and was flooding over the yards.

Buildings Rocked.

LOS ANGELES, June 29. —(Canadian Press).—A severe earthquake shock rocked Los Angeles at 6.43 o'clock, this morning. Downtown buildings swayed considerably but the movement was slow and even and there was no indication of damage.

Recorded in Toronto.

TORONTO, June 29 —(Canadian Press). —The Earthquake which occurred in sections of the Western United States on aSturday was registered on the seismograph at Toronto observatory as a very large disturbance. The first wave arrived at 8.26 p.m. on Saturday, 75th meddian time and the greatest intensity was recorded between 8.33 and 8.37. The distance from Toronto to the Epicentre was 1,645 miles, the disturbance being in the Rocky mountain range through Montana. Faint vibrations continued until 11 p.m.

ANNUAL PICNIC ST. PAUL'S S. S.

Splendid Outing at Chemong Park on Saturday—Many Sports.

BEST IN HISTORY.

(Contributed).

The Sunday School of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church held the annual picnic on Saturday afternoon to Chemong Park, and the weather was ideal for the outing. To the number of about 300, old and young, they were transported by car from the church to the park.

Under the guidance of Oliver Steer, the young folks soon gathered around, and the programme of sports was commenced, with baseball for the younger people, while the older folks moved about chatting and enjoying themselves.

The Races.

The races claimed attention after a spell, and the following events were carried out:

Girls, 6 and under—Ida Dundas, Eleanor Reid, Alice Laing.

Boys, 6 and under—Allan Clark, Grant Clark, Jack Henry.

Girls, 9 and under—Rachel Jackson, Winifred Eggleton, Marion Jacquith.

Boys, 12 and under — Frank Spencley, Donald McKay.

Girls, 15 and under — Marcella Spencley, Ina Terrace.

Boys, 15 and over—Adam Sands, Richard Cowan.

Shoe race, girls—Ina Terrace, Clara Patterson.

Broad jump, team of three — Harry Chenhall, Arfere Tedford, Hedley Vickers.

Ladies' race—Mrs. Currie.

Men's race—"Scotty" McLeish.

Baseball Game.

A baseball game was called between mixed teams of ladies and gentlemen, the pitchers being, respectively, Mrs. Stan. Anderson and Oliver Steer; and catchers, Adele Vincent for ladies and W. Ferguson for the gentlemen. Many wonderful plays were noticed, for instance, W. Ferguson with his home run, and hit at the plate; single-handed catch by one of the ladies, the other hand hors de combat owing to a hurt; Ethel Rae finding it too strenuous at centrefield, with the ball coming her way, and betaking herself to the lunch baskets, giving up when her team went to bat; Scotty McLeish razzing the players and missing the ball every time at bat; Stan. Anderson had a home run at a gallop, and Aleitha Davidson manfully swinging the bat but hindered on way to bases by uncertain footing. Many other points of interest were noticed, but the game was called for refreshments, with victory to the ladies' team, 7 to 3.

Refreshments were partaken of with a zest by all, after which prizes were presented by Oliver Steer, Art. McLeish and Tom Dutton.

A few ends of ball were played, and cars were turned homeward, with the tired but happy party, the finest picnic in the history of St. Paul's Sunday School.

MURRAY ST. CHURCH HAD ANNUAL PICNIC

(Contributed).

The members of Murray Street Baptist Church Sunday School, with their friends, enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon and evening on the river and at Wallace's Point last Saturday. The steamer Stoney Lake left the George Street Wharf at 1.45 p.m. with a crowd of happy youngsters, with their parents and teachers, all intent on enjoying the beautiful sunny afternoon that it was their good fortune to have for their picnic. It is not always the luck of a Baptist picnic to have a fine afternoon.

After a sail down the river the rest of the afternoon was spent at Wallace's Point, where a good game of indoor baseball was played between the Baraca Class and a scratch team captained by Harry Doughty. The Baraca Class won, after a hard contest.

The races, which had been run off previously, were won by the following:

Girls, 6 and under—Dorothy Boorman.

Girls, 7 and 8—Dorothy Friendship, Marion Harvey.

Boys, 7 and 8 — Norman Wilson, Gordon Herron.

Girls, 9 and 10 — Jean Wilson, Mary Brooks.

Boys, 9 and 10—Billy Ellis, Sydney Ferguson.

Girls, 11 and 12 — Phyllis Rome, Jean Harvey.

Boys, 11 and 12—Mavin Hamilton, Wilfred Lefley.

Girls, 13 and 14 — Viola Harvey, Marion Armstrong.

Boys, 13 and 14—Jim Ellis, Clifford Vincent.

Boys, 16 and under — Jim Ellis, Mavin Hamilton.

Young ladies — Viola Harvey, Florence Lasenby.

Young men—Mr. Evans, Mr. Miller.

Married ladies—Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. C. Barringer.

Wheelbarrow race—Mavin Hamilton, Jim Ellis.

The prizes were presented to the winners by the pastor, Rev. Dr. C. W. Rose, assisted by A. J. Madill, superintendent of the Sunday School.

The boat reached the George Street Wharf at 8.30 p.m., everyone well satisfied with a pleasant afternoon well spent.

LAWN SOCIAL.

Female Voice Choir Forced Indoors By Inclement Weather.

The lawn social held under the auspices of the Female Voice Choir, postponed from Thursday until Friday of last week, was held in the G.W.V.A. hall, on account of inclement weather. There was a good attendance during the afternoon and evening, and the proceeds of the event will be devoted to buying music for the choir's winter programmes.

The hall was gaily decorated with white and red crepe paper streamers and the central tea tables were arranged with pretty flowers. Mesdames Geary, Harrison and Fisher had charge of refreshments; Mesdames Bailey, Dainton, Pink, Kitchen and Hamlin of the ice cream and soft drinks; Mesdames McKinley and Gilbert of the fish pond; Mrs. Jackson and Miss M. Allen of the sale of aprons; Mesdames Chatten and Murray of the fancy work; Mrs. Lynch of the fortune-telling, and Mesdames Anderson, Kitchen and Perkins of the candy.

Mrs. Bugg was general convenor of arrangements. Mrs. Brealey was winner of the box of chocolates given to the lady selling the largest number of tickets for the recent concert given by the choir.

HEALTH QUESTIONS.

Answers to Health Queries.

R. S. F. Q.— What causes a headache in the back of the eyes? When I sit down for any length of time and then get up the blood seems to rush from my head. What is the cause of this?

A.—This may be due to a number of different conditions. Have your blood pressure taken. This may show up the cause and then proper treatment may be advised.

H. H. Q.—What do you advise for pains in the neck? I can only turn very slowly.

A.—Your trouble may be due to neuritis caused by some infection in your system. The teeth, tonsils, sinuses, intestines and kidneys should all receive attention. For further particulars send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

An Anxious Mother. Q.—What would you advise for a boy 18 months old who is bowlegged?

A.—I suggest that you consult an orthopedic surgeon.

A. J. Q.—Why is it that my wife becomes very ill whenever she eats fish?

A.—Many people are very susceptible to certain foods. She should omit fish from her diet.

FISHING FOR LOVE :: By Juanita Hamel

Of course it's not really necessary to fish for love, for real love comes without angling. But sometimes it is fun to find the heart-pool and use one's most alluring bait, to see the nice little 'fish' nibble and then squirm on the end of the line.

And Dan Cupid—the scamp—sits by and laughs, thinking of the time when the tables will be turned and Miss Fishermaid will be dangling on Love's line. And fishing is really a harmless amusement for everyone concerned except the fish. But beware! Some fish are fighters!

SECRETS OF CHARM

By Lucrezia Bori

I want my readers to realize fully the magic which can be worked by daily walks.

Many a time I have seen a woman start out to walk when she was feeling dull and had a heavy, listless look in her eyes. When she was in this state her complexion, too, would appear dull and listless. The dullness of her eyes made them appear heavy-lidded and drooping.

She would return an hour later, after brisk walking accompanied by deep breathing, and look at least five years younger. That dull, lifeless expression would be entirely gone from her face. In its place would be a look of lively interest, and the complexion, which looked unattractive, would show color and interest and life.

There is all the difference in the world in her appearance and in her outlook on the world. Is not a good daily walk well worthwhile if this is to be its reward?

Now, one of the chief values of good walking is that it forces deep breathing, and deep breathing cleanses your body. When you are at rest, and when the inactivity of your body does not induce deep breathing, you use about four hundred and eighty cubic inches of air a minute. When you are active you breathe in more air, and more life-giving oxygen is carried to your lungs.

You can see from this why your appearance after a period of outdoor activity is so much more attractive. The extra oxygen has brought color to your cheeks and a sparkle to your eye, and you are brighter and more interested in yourself, therefore you merit more interest and attention from others.

When you sleep you breathe less deeply than at other times. The subsequent decreased circulation makes some of us look much paler and less attractive when we first get up than we appear an hour later, awhen we have moved about and breathed more deeply and stirred up our circulation.

Now the daily walk is simple. Practically all of us can manage this at some time of the day. If you are engaged in housekeeping, you can manage to go out to do your marketing and take a brisk walk before or after you have attended to the business of selecting your groceries for the day.

If you go to business each day, surely you can manage to walk all or part of the day there or back. If it is too far away to walk the entire distance, I advise selecting some portion of the route for walking.

One housewife tells me that after she has gotten her family off to their various tasks after breakfast, she goes out herself for a brisk walk before she even clears up the dishes. She says that in this way she gets her lungs full of pure air and her brain cleared for thinking out the details of the day before her. I think it an excellent plan if the walk can be managed as easily at this time as another. Of course, many of you will have to plan it according to your time, but the thing is to be sure you plan it so you will get the beauty walk in every day.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., declares that children are going to do what their parents did and not what their parents tell them to do.

True for you, Mr. Rockefeller, and may you never speak a word less true.

The school teacher was talking to me about it the other day.

"I wonder if parents realize what mirrors children are," said the school teacher.

"Now that little girl in the front seat there; worldly and knowing and so utterly pleased with herself; she's only been in school a week and she's already picking out the rich girls to play with. She has no use for a girl with a plain dress or a girl who isn't popular. She's looking out for herself, I can tell you, every hour in the day and minute in the hour.

"Gwendolyn's father is rich and Gwendolyn comes to school in a limousine and Gwendolyn gives pleasant little parties.

"I've never seen the little girl's mother, but I know all about her, just from watching the new little girl.

"Look at that little fellow over there—the one with the surly face and the disagreeable way.

Is He a Gentleman at Home?

"Do you suppose his father is a perfect gentelman at home, or don't you believe that he's the sort of man who growls at his wife and scares his children. I'll wager a box of chocolates that that boy is an exact imitation of his father, and ten chances to one, papa is always lecturing him about his manners, too.

"Look at that silly, affected, mincing little girl—she'll be better when she's been here a few weeks. She's fallen in love with one of the older girls, a nice, simple, honest, straight-forward creature, and in a few days poor little Miss Affection will be doing her best to be nice and simple and unaffected, too.

"I saw her at church with her mother the other day. I could have picked the mother out in a crowd of strangers. Little Miss Affectation is a perfect copy of her, from her mince to the toss of her head.

"No, it isn't what we say to children that makes so much difference, it's what we do.

"We can deceive older people with pretense and hypocrisy, but children are too clever to be fooled that way. They can see through a mask ten times as quickly as a grown person. It's pathetic sometimes to see how hard they try to be fooled, and can't manage it.

"Mr. Rockefeller must have been a teacher sometime, somewhere—anyhow, he knows something about children, wherever it is that he learned it."

Dear me; I do wish I had never been small and mean and petty-minded and prejudiced—not when a poor, loving trusting little child was looking to me for an example—don't you wish the same thing?

IN THE KITCHEN

By Jeanette Norton

MAKING PRESERVES OF STRAWBERRIES AND OTHER FRUITS

Fruits and vegetables should be "done up" just as they approach the very height of their season. The flavors are finest before the dead ripe period. A great many women have trouble making their strawberry jelly jell, without the addition of pectin, but if done when the berries are slightly green at the ends, success will attend their efforts. Another sure way is to add a cupful of fresh strained green apple juice to the berries which supplies the needed pectin to make it jell. An economical way to do when making strawberry or raspberry jelly is to wash, hull, and place the berries in the kettle, allowing half a pint of sugar to a pint of berries, then add the cupful of apple juice. Melt down slowly, skim as the mass heats; then when the berries are soft, strain through a colander without mashing the fruit. Then add the fruit for pies or shortcake, adding a sugar syrup, or for sauce. Next strain the juice through damp cheesecloth spread in a fine seive. Measure the juice and to each quart of juice add a half cupful of sugar. Bring to boiling point, skim, and cook the syrup until a little tried on a cold plate shows a jelly-like tendency. Have the jelly glasses sun dried and hot, when the jelly is poured into them then allow them to cool and stand uncovered until the jelly is beginning to firm. With this method there is nothing wasted. Raspberries, blackberries, loganberries and strawberries, as well as currants, may all be done in this way.

Blueberry Jam.

In buying do not confuse blueberries with huckleberries. The former are the large cloudy and seedless berries, the latter are black, small and have a group of seeds in each. Wash and pick carefully three quarts of perfect blueberries and place them in a kettle with three pints of sugar and a small cupful of apple juice. Heat and melt together slowly, then skim well as the berries cook down. Stir the mass frequently with a wooden spoon and when a little of the juice, tried on a cold plate, is inclined to be of jelly-like consistency, remove from the fire. Fill warm jam pots with the jam and let stand open until set and cold. Cover down with a little melted paraffin, then with paper caps, gluing the edges close with white of egg. Label and store. It is best to store in a cool dark place but not where it is damp.

Canned Apple Sauce.

Wash and peel four dozen tart apples, quarter, core and slice them thin. Cover them with water to which the juice of a lemon has been added. Take all the peelings and put in a kettle and cover them with water; cook gently until all the peelings are soft, then strain through damp cheesecloth spread in the strainer. Drain the apples and put them in the preserve kettle, with a cupful and a half of the juice from the peelings and add two pints of sugar, two and half if the apples are very sour. Heat and melt together, then beat and cook the apple sauce in the usual way, stirring frequently, so that it does not burn. When done, work it through a puree seive to mash all lumps, reheat it and can in the usual way. Seal tight and it is ready when needed to turn right into the pie crust.

Wash and pick over three quarts of blueberries and put them in a kettle with a pint and a half of sugar and a half cupful of water; melt down and cook until the berries are soft, then can in the usual way. Ripe cherries may be prepared by washing, stoning and cooking with a pint of sugar to a quart of fruit and a half cupful of water in the bottom of the kettle.

Let's Talk It Over

FREE AND EASY.

Kate is through with the Ten Commandments.

Absolutely through.

She says that she is bored to death with them.

First, she had to learn them, when she went to Sunday School, and she never got a prize for them even then.

Then at boarding school they were dinged into her head day and night and now she has joined a club that exists for the special purpose of getting rid of the ten commandments.

They have a couple of rooms in a studio building. Not much furniture. All the club members sit on the floor anyway. They'd rather, it's so much more Bohemian. And they always turn out the electric lights and have candles.

The president of the club is a Cynic. Kate knows she is, because she has heard her say so.

The Cynic was twenty-two on her last birthday and she feels that life and its illusions are about over for her. She has been in and out of love so many times that the very idea of it bores her to death. Oh, yes, she wears vamp ear-rings and an ankle bracelet.

She doesn't rouge at all — the Cynic. She wears some kind of dead-white paint that makes her look like a weary ghost. Oh, yes, of course, she uses a lip-stick, and a bright scarlet one at that. She smokes a good deal.

The Cynic was the one who started the boycott of the ten commandments, and dear me, how the club jumped at the idea.

They were free and enlightened souls, they said. Nothing slavish about them. Why should they walk in the dark behind a lot of ancestors?

Why not strike out for themselves and form a new code of morals and immorals?

Why not show Moses that he wasn't the only one—he and his commandments. Why, it was perfectly lovely, just to feel free and bold like that. Their new commandments are not going to have any "shalt nots" at all. They are all going to be "shalts." It isn't important, the Cynic says, what you must not do. The great thing is what you must do.

You must be free, you must live your own life, you must discard all the old-fashioned sentimentality about duty — and if there is one word—no, if there are two words that ought to be wiped out of the language, those words are "right" and "wrong," the Cynic says.

Things aren't "right" and they aren't "wrong"—not any more—not for the members of the new club. They are just pleasant or they are unpleasant, and that's that.

If you see a man you like, why bother to think about his wife? It's her business to look after him, and if she doesn't do it — that's her affair.

If you want to leave your mother, old and ill and alone — that's your business—what if she didn't leave you when you were young and ill and helpless—that was her business. Let her take the consequences of her own folly.

Oh, you ought to hear Kate talk about it; it's a thrill, I can tell you that.

Dear little Kate—what a good time she is going to have laughing about the ten commandments.

The Cynic—well, if I were Kate I wouldn't take my rather good-looking sweetheart to that club so often.

I think the Cynic has her eye on him. I wonder how Kate will feel about the ten commandments if the Cynic has her way.

What do you think?

TODAY'S FASHION

By Vera Winston

This Sports Dress of Natural Pongee Is Worn With a Felt Hat to Match.

The vogue for materials of natural tint was exploited in the early Spring in natural kasha, and in jersey of natural tint.

The soft beige or natural color is just as smart now as it was earlier in the season, and this simple frock above of pongee is the result. The glass buttons are its only trimming.

The little hat is of felt in natural tint. A leghorn hat of tailored type might be worn by those who prefer straw for Summer.

HOME TOWN RECIPE.

Here is a recipe for strawberry jam, that is described by its owner, Mrs. C. A. White, 296 Frederick Avenue, as making good, firm jam:

To one pound of fruit allow one and one quarter pounds of sugar. Mash berries and boil slowly for twenty minutes, without water or sugar. Then add sugar and cook exactly three minutes after boiling commences. Seal down tightly.

RECIPE WANTED.

A subscriber to The Examiner is desirous of obtaining a recipe for the making of good, firm ice Cream. Could any our readers oblige us with a formula?

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, JUNE 30.

Although rather adverse lunar figures dominate on this day, Saturn trined by the Solar orb may be responsible for the removal of a long thwarting situation or the breaking up of a crystallized condition to make way for future substantial progress and worthwhile returns for industry, patience and application. New projects are encouraged under the prevailing stellar rule. Despite some passing disappointment in social, romantic and domestic activities, there may be compensating developments in affairs of the heart. Avoid money risks.

Those whose birthday it is may look for the removal of some stubborn obstacle—to make room for steady progress, despite small cares and perplexities transitory in their nature. However, they should avoid all money risk. Personal affairs may cause slight anxiety, but look for pleasant romantic developments. A child born on this day should make its best success in the employment of others, probably through the assistance of elderly persons. It should be taught to shun extravagance and lending money.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl still in my teens and have been "keeping company" with a young man for some time. Recently we had a little quarrel and parted. It was mostly my fault.

Please tell me how I can win back his love. I would like to give a party and invite him.

What shall I do?

WAITING A.

WAITING A: If you realize that you were in the wrong it is your place to take the first step toward reconciliation, my dear. Write the young man a note explaining the situation and asking his pardon. If he is still interested in you he will be delighted to renew your friendship.

Then, if you wish you may invite him to your party. However, I suggest that you "make" up first and then extend the invitation when you know it will be accepted.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Is it proper for a young man to escort a girl to his own party?

WAITING.

WAITING: Yes, it would be quite proper for you to call for one of your guests if you have not asked her to invite a gentleman friend. However, if this will be too much trouble, you might ask a friend to call for her.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of The Examiner office.

This new way works wonders on cloudy teeth

Modern science, by perfecting a new way of combating the stubborn film that covers teeth, now opens the road to whiter teeth, safely.

THAT cloudy teeth, yellowish, discolored teeth can be made whiter is now an accepted fact. Foremost dentists of the world are widely urging this new method. You can have cleaner, prettier teeth if you will start today.

This is accomplished by combating a viscous film that covers teeth. A stubborn, hard to remove film that old type dentifrices do not fight successfully.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel this film. Under it are the clear, attractive teeth you envy in others. Combat it, and your teeth become many shades whiter—more glistening. This offers you a 10-day test free. Mail the coupon.

The great enemy of teeth

Film is the great enemy of teeth beauty. And a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the common cause of pyorrhea. It holds food in contact with teeth, inviting the acid that causes decay.

You can't have prettier, whiter teeth; you can't have healthier teeth unless you combat that film.

Ask your druggist or mail the coupon for Pepsodent. Don't expect the same results from old time dentifrices. Begin beautifying your teeth today.

ONCE UPON A TIME JACK THE GIANT KILLER. I

by W. J. ENRIGHT.

Peterboro 2, Kingston 1; Oshawa 12, Belleville 2; Washington Won Sunday

WHITEHOUSE VICTORIOUS OVER CAIRNS IN PITCHING BATTLE AND PETES BEAT PONIES 2 TO 1

Young Southpaw Lets Kingston Down With Four Singles and Gives Exhibition.

A SNAPPY TUSSLE.

Ponies Tie the Score in Seventh, But Petes Put Over a Win in Their End of the Frame.

(By F. D. C.)

In a brilliant game marked by clever pitching and almost perfect fielding the Petes evened up scores on the season with the Kingston Ponies and tied them for second place in the League standing by beating Joe Daley's men 2 to 1 at Riverside Park Saturday.

As Oshawa won themselves an easy victory over Belleville the Motorists are perched dizzily at the top of the heap, a game in front of the tightly locked Petes and Ponies.

The leaders have to visit Riverside Park on Wednesday morning and you had better be there, neighbor. It looms up as the classic feature of the season.

Frank Whitehouse, the left-handed member of the Peterboro pitching squad was the big factor in Saturday's victory.

In seven of the nine frames Whitehouse had only to deal with three batters, he let the Daley men down with four stingy singles, and altogether only five of the enemy reached the runways. Hitters like Batstone and Somerville wound up with a zero in the hit column and seven Ponies were retired by the strike-out route.

All of which is intended to convey the impression that the left-hander pitched a beautiful game—the second super fine exhibition he has given against the Poines.

Cairns Good Too.

Bruce Cairns, who several years ago wore a Bankers' uniform in the local Mercantile League but has outlived that fact and developed into a really clever gunner, was on the mound for the Daleyites. He had beaten the Petes twice before this season and against a less airtight brand of throwing than that delivered by Whitehouse would have beaten them again Saturday, for he allowed the homesters only six singles and worked steadily and effectively all through the fixture.

The fielding on both sides was very snappy, the only error being Purvis' miss of a throw from Cairns, a muff that was of considerable help to the Petes. A running catch by Jimmy Hall of a long foul and Rose's great fielding at second were the outstanding defensive features. Hall had a long run after Cherry's foul fly and took it going at full speed. Rose handled seven rollers in great style, several of his stops being of big league calibre.

Play By Play.

Teepel, first up for the Ponies got a lucky single on a sharp grounder between third and short which Johnston overran but his sojourn on the bases was short, Swanston picking him off first with a fast throw to Harrison. Halbert rolled to Rose and Batstone's grounder which bounced over Whitehouse's shoulder was nicely fielded by Johnston.

For the Petes Legon died on strikes, Johnston flied to Teepel and Helson was thrown out by Cairns.

In the second Rose tossed out Somerville, Cherry rolled to Helson and Rose went over fast to smother Purvis' grass-cutter.

Petes broke into the run column on a peculiar play. Harrison fanned but Swanston was hit and Rose got a scratch hit on a roller down the third base line which was rolling foul but took a hop into fair territory as Batstone tried to field it. Hall singled on the ground into right to fill the bases. Wolfe hit one back at Cairns and an easy double play looked certain when the Kingston pitcher shot the ball home and Arniel threw to first, heading off Wolfe Arniel, however, had overlooked the formality of keeping his foot on the plate when he took Cairns throw with the result that Swanston was safe at home. Whitehouse's grounder to Purvis retired the side.

Not a Kingston wheel moved in the third. Nickle struck out, Arneil was thrown out by Johnston and Rose fattened his assist record by a nice play on Cairns' roller Peterboro did not better. Legon lofted to Cherry, Johnston grounded to Halbert and Helson expired on a roller to Purvis.

In the fourth Teepel flied to Legon, Halbert fanned and Batstone grounded to Harrison who beat him to the bag.

For the Petes Harrison was thrown out by Somerville, Swanston hit to Cairns for an out at first and Rose, after working Cairns for a pass, was cut down trying to steal second.

Somerville started the fifth with a grounder to Whitehouse. Hall made a beautiful running catch of Cherry's long foul fly and Purvis hit to Whitehouse who threw him out.

Two Hits, No Runs.

The Petes had two hits in their half but no runs. Hall started the frame by singling on a line to left, his second hit of the game but was caught when he left first too soon, the play being Cairns to Purvis to Halbert. Wolfe rolled to Purvis, Whitehouse beat out a hit to Halbert but Legon fouled out to Arneil.

For the first time in the game Whitehouse had to pitch to more than three batters in the sixth. He issued his only pass of the day, to Nickle, the first batter up. Arniel fanned but on a hit and run play Cairns singled to right centre, Nickle going to third. Cairns then stole second. It was the first time Whitehouse was in trouble and he soon got out of it by putting on the pressure and striking out Teepel and Halbert. It was great pitching in a pinch.

For the Petes Johnston fanned, Helson flied to Cherry and Harrison was thrown out by Somerville.

The Eventiful Seventh.

The Ponies tied the count in the seventh. Batstone was thrown out by Johnston and Rose made a beautiful play on Somerville's hard rap, going over toward second for the drive. Cherry singled solidly to left centre. Once again the Ponies worked the hit-and-run play, Cherry galloping round to third when Purvis punched one on the ground into right as Rose went over to cover second. When Purvis started to second Swanston threw down but the runner was called safe, Cherry scoring on the double steal. Manager Johnston who took the throw at second protested vigorously that he had Purvis blocked off—but the decision stood. Nickle then fanned for the third out.

The Petes came right back in their half and won out. Swanston started them on their way with a single through the box. Rose laid down a bunt intended for a sacrifice but Puvis dropped Cairns' toss and everybody was safe. Hall also bunted and Cairns made the play at third, too late to get Swanston. With the bases full and Kingston's infield in Wolfe smashed a hard one at Somerville which the Pony second baseman knocked down in time to retire the batter. There was no chance for a play at the plate, Swanston carrying in the winning run. Whitehouse also hit to Somerville who shot Rose down at the plate and Nickle went back and made a nice catch of Legon's smash to left.

In the eighth Arneil struck out, Cairns flied to Wolfe and Johnston made a fast play on Teeple's roller to retire the side.

For the Petes Johnston was thrown out by Batstone and Helson rolled to Halbert. Harrison singled through short but the blow accomplished nothing except keeping "Hap's" consecutive hitting record intact, for Swanston flied to Nickle.

The ninth was soon over. Halbert and Batstone were thrown out by Rose and Somerville's fly to centre was easy for Wolfe.

OSHAWA WREST FIRST POSITION FROM KINGSTON

Smothered Belleville 12-2 on Saturday—Win For Jimmy Breckenridge.

TRUNKS LISTLESS.

Oshawa Setting the Central League Pace After Five Wins in Six Starts.

OSHAWA, June 29.—(Special to the Examiner).—Oshawa stepped out into first place in the Central Ontario Amateur Baseball League race here Saturday when they defeated Belleville 12 to 2, in what was the most listless game ever displayed by the Bay of Quinte City team in Oshawa since the organization of the League in 1919.

Oshawa playing the brand of ball that has carried them through the month of June with five victories out of the last six starts had an easy afternoon of it and Jimmy Breckenbridge, who was sent to the mound by Manager Reeves, turned in his first win for Oshawa and a creditable performance, for up to the seventh frame he allowed the batters of Belleville only five hits off his delivery, one in each innings, except the second. In the seventh when Manager Reeves wanted to relieve him on account of a sore pitching finger, he asked to be allowed to continue and Belleville garnered a brace of hits, while in the eighth they gathered three which were good for their only two runs of the game.

Goyer who started for Belleville, was chased to the shower in the second innings, after four runs had been scored and Keon sent in to finish the game and eight runs were chased over the pan in the remainder of the game.

The teams were as follows:

Oshawa—Rowden, 2b; R. Fair, cf; Tyson, c; Ward, 3b; Morrison, ss; Roddick, lf; Dineen, 1b; W. Fair, rf; Breckenbridge, p; Cameron, c; Lennox, p.

By innings:

Belleville	000000020— 2 10 7
Oshawa	05412000x—12 15 2

DE LAVAL WON 5-0.

Defeated Woolens in Juvenile Football Game.

The De Laval and the Woollens met in a Juvenile soccer game on King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon and a very one-sided game ended in a victory for the De Laval, who won by 5 goals to none. For the De Laval, E. Jones gave a great display, scoring 3 goals, and Dyer helping himself to two.

The teams:

De Laval—Parkins; Hope and Langlon; Williams, Gordon and Griffin; R. Jones, Jones, Watkins, Dyer and N. Downer.

Woollens — Rose; Goldie and Vinet; White, Marklam and Sanders; Dallin, Mitchell, McPhate, Sturgeon and Walton.

RAYMOND CASEY, LEFT, AND JOHN HENNESSEY.

These two players are carrying the hopes of America in the international tennis tournament at Wimbledon, England. Casey is the marvel from the Pacific slope and is looked upon as one of the best young players in the country. Hennessey hails from Indianapolis and boasts a good record.

REUTHER FLINGS FOR SENATORS' SECOND VICTORY FROM MACKMEN

Washington Take Two Out of Three Games in Important Series.

DETROIT HALTED.

WASHNGTON, June 28. Canadian Press. — Reuther held the Philadelphia batters in check at all stages today and the Senators won 6 to 1 giving them the edge in the three games thus far played of the important series between the league leaders and the close pressing champions. McNeNeely, the centre fielder, accounted for five of Washington's runs, scoring 3 himself and driving in two more. Lamar drove out a hit to bring his string of conscutive hitting games to 28. The score:

Philadelphia	000000010—1 5 3
Washington	10130100x—6 12 1

Walberg, Stokes, Heimach and Cochrane; Perkins; Reuther and Ruel.

Tygers Finally Blow.

DETROIT, June 28. — Canadian Press. — Detroit's winning streak of nine games ended to-day when St. Louis romped away with the final game of the series, 8 to 2. Hargrave's home run in the 8th with 2 on base gave the visitors a safe lead. Two costly errors gave the Tigers their only scores, although one fumble went for a hit when Lamette and McManus collided at second to miss Haney's fly.

The score:

St. Louis	000111032—8 14 2
Detroit	000002000—2 6 2

Davis and Hargrave; Carroll, Cole and Basseler.

Chicago 8; Cleveland 4.

CHICAGO, June 28. — Canadian Press.—Chicago made a clean sweep of the series with Cleveland to-day by winning the final game 8 to 4, and running their winning streak to seven games. The locals buried their hits for their scores. Thurston pitched good ball in the pinches, the visitors being unable to count him off three innings. Score:

Chicago	20200011x—8 12 1

Uhle, Buckey and Myatt; Thurston and Schalk.

CARTERS VICTORIOUS.

The Cooney Carters, under the leadership of A. Barbeau, defeated the Bridgenorth Butchers at Bridgenorth by a score of 18-10. The Butchers who usually carry rabbits' feet mislayed them on this occasion and the result was disastrous to their cause.

GIANTS RETAIN SLIM MARGIN AS PIRATES PRESS

Both Won Sunday Games—Yde Pitched Pittsburgh Victory Over Reds.

TWO FOR CARDS.

Haines and Sherdel Get Decisions From Cubs Before 22,000.

NEW YORK, June 28. Canadian Press. — The Giants retained their slim hold on first place in National league by defeating the Braves to-day, 6 to 5, Meusel's triple with Kelly on bases in the 8th inning deciding the game. Young's circuit drive with two of the sacks tied the score at 5-all in the 7th.

Boston	020000300—5 8 0
New York	00010041x—6 11 2

Pirates 5; Reds 2.

CINCINNATI, June 28. Canadian Press. — Three Cincinnati pitchers failed to stop Pittsburgh to-day, the Pirates winning 5 to 2. Yde kept the Reds' hits well scattered except in one inning, when the home team scored 2 runs. Carey's home run over the left field fence in the seventh was one of the longest drives ever seen here. The score:

Cincinnati	00000020 -2 9 1

Yde and Gooch; Biemiller, May, Benton, Hargrave, Krueger.

St. Louis Wins Two.

ST. LOUIS, June 28. Canadian Press. — Bolstered by their pitching and timely hitting the Cardinals bagged a double header with the Cubs before an audience of 22,000 to-day. The first game was won 3 to 1 when Jess Haines tossed only three hits. A circuit clout by Jim Bottomley with the bases full in the 5th inning accounted for half of the Cards' runs in the second game. The score was 8 to 3. Ray Blades also got a homer in the closing contest. No one was on base. Cooper was pitching.

The scores:

First game:

Chicago	100000000—1 3 1
St. Louis	00000210x—3 8 0

Blake and Hartnett Haines and O'Farreell.

Second game:

Chicago	000200001—3 7 0
St. Louis	20000010x—8 10 0

Cooper and Hartnett; Sherdel and Schmidt.

HOLIDAY CROWD WILL SEE BEST GAME OF YEAR

Leadership at Stake When Oshawa Comes Here Wednesday.

A MORNING BATTLE.

The biggest crowd of the season will be at Riverside Park on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock when Oshawa and Peterboro clash in the most important fixture of the schedule so far. With the game called for the morning fans who want to go out of town for the afternoon will get a chance to see the battle for the League leadership—and they should see a memorable fight, with first place as the prize.

Oshawa have won five games in a row and are full of confidence but the Petes have snapped out of their slump, putting Belleville and Kingston away last week, and they will go into Wednesday's fixture full of determination. Dainty will carry Oshawa's hopes in the holiday game while Al. Heckman may be sent in against the Motorists.

The Central League, so far as the first three teams are concerned, is having the closest race in its history and every game is of importance in determining the standing. Wednesday's game is particularly important, however, and the big holiday crowd should be well entertained.

CANADIANS DEFEAT U. S. ELEVEN, 1 TO 0

Won First International Soccer Game North of the Border.

MONTREAL, June 29.—Honors in the first international soccer match between Canada and the United States went to the Dominion when the Canadian eleven won by 1 to 0 at Alexandra Park here Saturday. The lone goal came eighteen minutes after the start, when McLaine, the lanky leader of the Maple Leaf team, beat Douglas in the American nets after two tries. Douglas cleverly returned the Canadian's first attempt, but before he could recover McLaine had sent the leather into the net for what proved to be the winning goal.

It was a strenuous struggle throughout and one of the best exhibitions of the association code yet seen here, besides being a contrast of the two different styles of play. The Americans displayed a long passing game, parting freely and quickly with the ball, and drew much favorable comment for their excellent head work. The Canadians excelled at dribbling and combination play, and combination won the day.

Score in the First Period.

Although the Canadians led at the end of the first period, play had ruled practically even in this session. As the game progressed in the second half the wearers of the maple leaf were easily the outstanding aggression. Time and again they penetrated the American defence and only the splendid work of the United States full-back line, with Douglas ever alert between the sticks, kept the American goal from further disaster.

The Canadian team was:

Halliwell, Toronto, goal; Campbell, Toronto, and Clarke, Montreal, backs; Dierden, Toronto, Roy, Montreal, and McKean, Montreal, halfbacks; Faulkner, Toronto, Galloway, Toronto, McLaine, Montreal, McKenzie, Montreral, and Smith, Montreal, forwards.

EARNSHAW WINS DOUBLE HEADER FOR BALTIMORE

Allowed Five Hits in Each Game With Providence and Fanned 13.

ROCHESTER'S PAIR.

Brace of Victories From Buffalo—Jersey City Defeat Reading.

BALTIMORE, June 28. — Canadian Press. — George Earnshaw, the big righthander, hurled both games of a double header for Baltimore to-day, and turned back Providence 10 to 2, and 3 to 1. He allowed five hits in each contest and fanned 13 during the afternoon. Boley's hitting featured the opener, while the bats of Walker and Roser decided the issue in the second game. Scores:

First game:

Providence	010100000— 2 5 1
Baltimore	000201x—3 5 2

Brown, Tomlin and Fox; Earnshaw and Kopshaw.

Second game:

Providence	0000001—1 5 0
Baltimore	0002013x—3 5 2

(7 innings by agreement.)

Ellis and Fox; Earnshaw and Cobb.

Two for Rochester.

ROCHESTER, June 28 Canadian Press. — George Quellich's second home run of the afternoon, his 16th of the year, busted up the second game of a double header here this afternoon in favor of the locals, to give Rochester two victories. The first was won 5 to 3 and the second 7 to 3 in 7 innings. Andy Anderson of Buffalo hit his 18th home run in the first tilt. Sores:

First game:

Buffalo	000010020—3 7 3
Rochester	00020111x—5 9 1

Lepard, Auer and Hill; Levsen and Lake.

Second game:

Buffalo	1200003—6 8 2
Rochester	0200221—7 8 2

Brlce, Maley and Fond; Knapp, Moore and Head.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

"Can you describe exactly, in one of your brief articles, just how the golf club is swing?" a correspondent asks me. I can.

Here is all there is to it. When you drive a nail with a hammer, you let the head of the hammer do the work. If you chopped a log with an axe, you would let the head of the axe do the work. By the same rule, and in precisely the same manner, when you swing a golf club you let the head of the golf club do the work. That means you swing the club back, letting the wrists break slightly at the top, as you would with a hammer; then you let your arms start to fall toward the ball, largely of their own weight or inclination, and you let the clubhead whip through, applying some pressure just as it hits the ball, exactly as you would apply pressKeep about as loose with the club as you would with the hammer — just enough hold of the shaft to command it. Don't try to "force" the shaft, for when you do you are trying to hit the ball with yourself rather than with the club-head.

PACKERS BLANK NORTH DUMMER AND SCORE SIX

HALF TIME 3-0

Dummer's Goalie Was Off Form While Montgomery Stopped Everything.

North Dummer and the holders of the W. H. Taylor cup, the C.P.C., met on Saturday afternoon on King Edward Park to decide which team would enter the final. The Packers put up the best game they have played this season, and ran out winners by six goals to none. The feature of the game was the magnificent goalkeeping of T. Montgomery, who gave the best display of goalkeeping seen on the park this season. The Packers introduced a new back, A. Downer, from the Juveniles, who, with D. Grant, made a splendid pair of backs. North Dummer put up a great fight, but their goalkeeper was completely off form.

The Packers won the toss, and Foster went away, H. Jory relieving, and sent to R. Payne, whose shot Montgomesy blocked, and sent to Mitchell, who was robbed by F. Bell, who sent Munroe away, but his final effort went just wide. Halliday, who played very well, sent to J. Downer, who in turn gave to Foster, whose shot the goalkeeper caught, and from a faulty clearance, Foster scored the first goal. From the centre kick the Township made a great effort to score. R. Payne made a splendid run and sent in a terrific drive. Montgomery made a great save at the expense of a corner. Rufus took the kick and sent well among the crowd, H. Munroe heading just over the bar. From the goal-kick Montgomery kicked over the half-way line. W. James fastened on to the sphere and sent to Mitchell, who shot across the goal. James met it and scored No. 2. This put the Township men on their mettle. R. Payne and Thompson tried hard but could do everything but score. Payne once hit the crossbar, and W. Little met the rebound and missed by inches. Halliday came to the rescue and sent to Buchan, who gave to Mitchell who went away at top speed, and, beating all opposition, scored the best goal of the game. The pace now was a cracker. Munroe, on the left for Dummer, made a lightning raid on the Packers' goal, and, beating Gore, sent a daisy cutter which Montgomery caught and threw out. Cross sent to Foster, who made a nice run. Moore kicked out. Half-time arrived with the score 3 goals to none in favor of the Packers.

Second Half.

Upon resuming, the Township men went away at full speed. S. Payne sent out to Munroe. A. Downer came to the rescue and kicked out to Mitchell, who sent across the goal-mouth. J Downer met it and put it out of the reach of Jorey. From the centre kick, F. Bell tried his best to score, and only the splendid goalkeeping of Montgomery prevented him. Tom just turned the ball around the post. From the corner which Munroe took, he sent wide. From the goal kick Tom sent well down the field. Buchan trapped the ball and sent to J. Downer, who again beat Jory. The Township men, nothing daunted, were again near the Packers' goal. Grant, who was very steady, relieved with a huge kick. Gore beat Batten for possession and sent to W. James, who made no mistake, and scored goal No. 6. The Township forwards made a desperate effort to reduce the lead, but instead of the inside men shooting they sent to their wing men. There was no further scoring, and the Packers left the field, winners by 6 goals to none.

The teams:

C.P.C.—Goal, Tom Montgomery; backs, A. Downer and D. Grant; halves, L. Gore, A. Halliday and J. Cross; forwards, J. Mitchell, J. Buchan, W. James, T. Foster and J. Downer.

North Dummer—Goal Jory; backs H. Jory and A. Moore; halves, F. Bell, E. Batten and H. Hamilton; forwards, R. Payne, S. Thompson, W. Little, H. Munroe and S. Payne.

Referee—F. McKinley.

JUVENILE GAME.

Knights and Dodgers Will Play on Tuesday at Sacred Heart Grounds.

To-morrow night at six o'clock the Sacred Heart grounds will resound to the clamor of a baseball game, when Knights of Columbus and Dodgers meet in the Juvenile series of the City League. A good game is promised, as these teams are both anxious to get this game to improve their positions in the League. Masterson is billed to serve them up for the Caseys, and Weston will likely draw the assignment for the Dodgers.

THISTLE THRUST WOOLLENS OUT G. N. GORDON CUP

Brilliant Game By Mitchell —Richmond Equalized Through a Penalty.

LOSERS UNLUCKY.

Dawson's Soft Goal—Woollens' Fierce Bombardment Against Thistle Defence.

The Woollens will not win the G. N. Gordon Cup this year because the Thistle defeated them by the odd goal—2 to 1—in a very rugged soccer game at Nicholls Oval on Saturday afternoon before a good attendance of spectators who were rootin' for the favorites. A soft goal was their fate but it was the same kind of goal that put the Quakers out, so it is all in the game, but Woollens were unlucky.

Features of the Play!

For a time nothing of particular note took place, but eventually following a corner kick for Woollens, the full backs twice in quick succession cleared very cleverly, but were beaten when Blowers travelled along the wing with no opposition against him which let the left half rattle the cross-bar from a 20-yard drive that rebounded out to Mitchell who placed it in the rigging.

Woollen's Excellent Defense.

After this five minute's disaster, the Thistle responded with nice combination that was nullified by the excellent defence of the Woollens—This was very evident when Richmond went on his own but his action never materialized as Cridland held on to him and giving the timely shoulder when in the act of shooting. Then Blowers and Mann concentrated a move. To complete an attack against Brown's citadel but Wade at centre-half frustrated the close-passing tactics to his team's advantage. At this period, the Thistle eleven was completed by two players taking right positions. Both goals were jeopardised in the play that followed for a while, and once a bit of a "breeze" threatened when Burgess was unnecessarily charged. From the free-kick, Blowers shot went up in the sky. Twice in succession, Clark made progress on the right-wing to gain two dangerous corners, that Gaskill put past from close range.

Richmond Beat Griffine!

From the goal-kick, Wade transferred the ball across to Browell on the left wing, Sayers tackled but his opponent gained possession again and, ssending across a beautiful centre, Cridland, heading out for a corner-kick. Browell planted the ball in middle of the goal, Richmond tried to head it but some infringement by Woollen's player caused a penalty award. "Hughie" took the kick that landed in the net but he was lucky because Griffine touched it a second too late. Both now even, play was very keen in mid-field and Woolens dominating in attack. F. Wade, having some snappy encounters with Burgess. He gave no latitude around goal, although the outside left gaining fruitless comers, and during the latter, Gaskill hit the upright. Nearing half-time, the Woollens made things interesting in the Thistle area when Brown was tested by long shots, more particularly the one Blowers smashed against the cross-bar. Half time score—one goal each.

Half Time.

An abnormally long interval was taken the Woollens made straight for Thistle territory, on resuming. Clark and Gaskill getting inside the defense. Anderson intercepting their anticipation at the crucial moment, when a goal was in view. They continued the bombardment against Brown's charge but his full-backs were very solid in the pinches when the wing men would sling the sphere to one another, thereby keeping the Thistle half-backs jumping to offset the gruelling pace. J. Wade being the pronounced factor in holding his opponents in repeated onslaughts. The exchanges continued, thereafter, to be keen and often vigorous, several men seeming to prefer playing the individual, instead of the ball. A minute or so later, following a free kick for the Thistle, near the penalty line, the ball missed the upright from Wade's attempt. William's, at left-half, had many lively tussels against his opposing wing—Clark and Gaskill. On this occasion he gave Browell an opportunity to go along the wing, Sayers being beat by him in the proximity of the goal.

A Deceiving Goal.

He lashed across to Richmond who was checked by Chambers for a corner-kick. Carmichael placed amongst a sea of players that came to Dawson who sent in a very low ground shot that deceived Griffine all the way as it trickled into the corner of the net. He could not see its progress owing to many players being bunched together. Encouraged by their sucess, the Thistle put Carmichael into the defense from the forward line, sending the Lewiston Brothers on the wing which was a dead issue, in fact, only two speeds—slow and dead slow. This weakness let Blower's have a field day while he specialized in his "wicked left-shots."

Woollens Hard Luck!

The losers changed their forward line to their detriment which was only individualistic and minus combination. Although, they deserved better fate when leading the unmerciful attack against Brown's citadel. The goal keeper picking them up from all directions and punting with two fists the dropping shots from in below the bar. As a last minute reviver, Chambers changed places with Mitchell and this being very noticeable as Dawson watch his movements around goal. He, eying nearly successful as Brown picked up the rolling ball at the upright. Play was constantly interrupted by free kicks as the Woollens attack fell away and to lose the chance to win the Gordon Cup this year. Thistle 4, Canadian Woollens 1.

CRICKET MATCH WON BY 'B' TEAM

Royal Oak Club Lost to Peterborough Cricket Club 77 to 33.

IDEAL PITCH.

In ideal cricket weather these two teams men on the Peterboro Club's ground, which ground it is conceded all round is fast approaching the old time cricket ground in appearance.

It resulted in a gain for the B team by 77 runs to 33.

This was the first time the Royal Oak as a club had played on a matting wicket which might explain their failure at the bat.

The fielding of both teams was good, only two or three difficult catches ing missed while a very hot drive was held by J. Stratton at mid off which retired Dunkerly. The Peterboro Club seemed to lapse into their old time malady of running each other out for for three succumbed to on this account in their innings.

Reg. Dyer, of the Royal Oak team, won the toss and sent his team in to bat against the bowling of Foster and Thorpe (the latter who is on the Peterboro A team bowling in place of F. Dyer, who was not able to play.) Dunkerly, playing steadily, made the top score of 12 for the Royal Oak and thanks to a last wicket stand by Nicholls and Monkman, the score was run up to 33, Thorpe taking 6 wickets for 13 and Foster 3 for 20.

G. Coutts, Captain of the B team, and Conner-Fenton, opened the batting for the Peterboro club, and with only four runs scored the former was bowled. With Thorpe in with Conner-Fenton, a fine stand was made, and the visitors' total was passed before Thorpe was run out at 35. Conner-Fenton continued to pile up runs and was finally caught having made the top score for Peterboro of 32, giving only one difficult chance of a catch. For the Royal Oak Reg Dyer and Duggan bowled until the fall of the eighth wicket, each taking 3 wickets, when Malch relieved the latter and took the last wicket.

The Peterboro club is having field day on Wednesday ext (Dominion Day) when it entertains the Birchcliffe Club f Toronto. This will be an all day match, starting at eleven o'clock when it is expected two innings each will be played. Practices are called for Monday..

GROSS LANGUAGE AT GIRLS' GAMES

Managers of Girls' Soft Ball teams which play their games in Central Park are unanimous in their denunciation of a certain type of spectator which insists on hurling approbuous and impolite remarks at the players who entertain hundreds of people.

It is regrettable that it should be necessary to draw public attention to this despicable practice but when it becomes so common that games must be interrupted in order to remonstrate with such malignant persons it is high time that the offence be stopped.

A complaint was entered at the police station which will result in future games being patrolled and, in the event of a recurrence of the odious practice, the responsible parties will be summarily dealt with and may possibly occupy a guest room at the police station.

Parents and friends of the players are regular attendants at the games, and have no desire that she should be subjected to a running fire of coarse criticism and invective.

Hereafter, thanks to police protection, the games may proceed in an orderly manner.

FALSE ALARM.

Chief Gimblett Repeats the Warning of Other Days —No Mercy.

The Fire Department was called out last night at 11.06 on a false alarm. The Chief issues a warning that no mercy will be shown to any found wantonly and unnecessarily giving an alarm.

The Chief also reminds automobile drivers that the proper procedure for them on hearing the siren is to pull into the sidewalk and stop. The objectionable practice of some drivers of pressing so closely on the fire wagon as to impede the men in the use of the water line must also cease, says the Chief.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT

With Oshawa leading the Central loop by a game over the Petes and Ponies billed to meet Manager Johnston's outfit in a league fixture at Riverside Park at 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning, Peterboro ball fans have a Dominion Day attraction of unusual interest. With the leadership hinging on the result, the game promises to be by long odds the most exciting battle of the year and the Petes are all keyed up to the mad flight of the Motorists who have won five games in a row, the longest spurt of the season. Duke Dainty will be sent in to beat the Johnstonites and although Veteran Southpaw has been going great guns the home talent hope to toss him for a loss on the holiday morning and pull up tied for first place, with half of the schedule completed. Many Oshawa fans will follow their team to Peterboro and scores of other out of town enthusiasts will see the fray.

Saturday's game was the best played exhibition of the season. Whitehouse and Cairns had a big edge on the batters and with the two teams fielding in great style, it was an airtight battle, that kept the fans in their seats until the last man was out.

Peterboro's first run was a lucky break, with the bases full and one out, Wolfe hit a roller to Cairns and a sure double play was in sight when the pitcher heaved home well ahead of Swanston coming in from third and Arneil threw to first to double Wolfe. But in his anxiety to get the ball away fast, the Kingston catcher forgot to keep his foot on the plate in taking the throw and Swanston was safe at the plate, Wolfe being called out at first. Arneil's lapse thus costing a run.

The Ponies were nearly as lucky in tieing up the game in the seventh. With two out and Pony runners on first and third, Swanston threw to second to nip Purvis coming down from first and although Shiner Johnston declares he had the runner blocked off, Umpire Dell called him safe, Cherry, of course, registering on the play. And then the third batter fanned.

Jimmy Hall was much in the lime light Saturday with a spectacular catch and two clean hits and a sacrifice. This young outfielder was the only player on either team to get more than one safety.

The Central League standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Oshawa	7	4	.636
Peterboro	6	5	.545
Kingston	6	5	.545
Belleville	3	8	.273

Games this week:

Wednesday:—Oshawa at Peterboro, 10 a.m.; Kingston at Belleville.

Saturday:—Kingston at Peterboro; Belleville at Oshawa.

Rose's work at second base has been a feature of the Petes defensive work this season. The Petes keystone guardian has handled a flock of chances, accepting 67 out of 70 for an average of .957 and has covered all kinds of ground to cut off hits.

Hap Harrison and Del Cherry, the Pones centre fielder both kept kept up their consecutive hitting record on Saturday. They are the only two regulars in the Central loop who have made, at least, one hit in every league game this season. Each got his safety Saturday, the last time up and Harrison had two strikes on him when he crashed one through short to keep his work intact.

In his last two games against the Ponies, Whitehouse has held them to one run per game and a total of nine hits. "The kid has a better curve than Dainty," was the tribute paid to him by one of the Veteran Kingston players after the game.

Manager Joe Daly left town lamenting that the Petes were lucky to win. But when a team plays errorless ball behind a pitcher who allows only four hits and five men to get on bases they'd be mighty unlucky to lose. The Kingston pilot, however, was not looking at it from that angle.

Next Saturday should see a repetition of Saturday's fine game in asmuch as the Ponies will be back at Riverside Park for another battle and it is more than likely that Whitehouse and Cairns will resume their pitching duel.

Al. Heckhman may make his first home start of the season against Oshawa on Wednesday morning. Heck has not been in action since the Petes' last visit to Kingston, but his arm is coming along nicely and he may draw the assignment on Wednesday. The dean of the Petes staff will get a big reception from the fans if he goes to the hill top on the holiday game.

Oshawa gave Dainty a rest on Saturday, in order to have the left hander ready for the Petes in the Dominion Day fixture. The manoeuvre gave Breckenridge, former Leaside twirler, a chance to hand up his first victory of the season and he got away nicely Belleville failed to show their usual fight, according to Oshawa versions of the engagement.

TORONTO, June 29. Canadian Press. —Stricken with heart trouble as he was driving a Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train through the yards at the foot of Bathurst street on Saturday night, Engineer William McIntosh collapsed, and died as he was carried from the engine cab to the platform at Sunnyside.

McIntosh was feeling in good health when he left his home to make his run. Death was from natural causes.

FOR ORILLIA UNVEILING.

Peterborough Party to Attend Ceremony on July 1—Go By Car.

In connection with the unveiling of the Champlain monument on July 1 by the Hon. Rodolfe Lemieux, M.P., K.C., Speaker of the House of Commons, the local branch of the Ontario Motor League is endeavoring to arrange a motorist's tour to Orillia on July 1.

Peterborough has more than usual interest in this event as the explorer passed through this district in 1615, sailing up the Trent waters and is traditionally asserted to have actually landed within the present limits of the city—at the old wharf which was removed some years ago on the erection of the Duffus garage.

Before the unveiling at 2.30 p.m. of the monument which is the finest bronze memorial in north America and was built at a cost of $35,000, a historic pageant will be staged depicting the arrival of Champlain at Caterague (Orillia). After the speech there will be massed singing by the children and a concert by the Anglo-Canadian Concert Band of Huntsville.

If a sufficient number can be induced to make the trip (a total of 164 miles) the Ontario Motor League intend to have a repair car accompanying the tourists. It has been decided to leave Peterborough at 7 a.m. arriving at Orillia at about 11.30. The party will pull out from Orillia at 6 p.m., arriving home at 10.30. Those contemplating making the trip are asked to telephone the Ontario Motor League, 1360.

AT THE REGENT

"THE SNOB," NEW MONTA BELL FILM.

Directorial Sensation's First Metro-Goldwyn Picture Here. — From Helen Martin Novel.

A great deal of interest attaches itself to this picture because of Bell's sudden rise to prominence as a director, and because of the success of "Broadway After Dark" and "How to Educate a Wife."

Shows Acting Courage.

John Gilbert, popular screen star who became nationally known with his work in "Monte Cristo," "Cameo Kirby" and other pictures, has one of the most unusual roles of his career as 'the snob.' Though it is unusual for a screen leading man to appear in a part in which he does not have the sympathy of the audience, Gilbert was eager to play 'the snob' because of the opportunity to give an unusual and distinctive performance. It is his theory that the public would rather see a leading man vary his screen character and attempt an original characterization than being seen always in the usual leading parts.

AT THE ROYAL

A SHORT PARAGRAPH.

It's "Country Nite" at the Royal,—"Nuf Sed."

"Top of the World" has Four Favorite Stars, Anna Q. Nilsson, James Kirkwood, Raymond Hatton and Sheldon Lewis.

The first [illegible] the new Paramount picture, which [illegible] an excellent bill commencing to-day at the Royal Theatre, has an alluring sound. "The Top of the World" smacks of action and drama and love—the three graces that are fundamentally necessary to every successful photo-play if it is to fulfill its mission of entertainment.

For those who are not familiar with the story it will suffice to say that it deals with a complex love problem involving a girl and two cousins who resemble each other physically. The bitter struggle between these two men reaches a terrible climax and takes an unexpected turn, when a raging flood sweeps down from the mountains with disastrous results. Even the most blase picture goers will experience a quickening of the pulse and a faster beating of the heart when they see the realistic storm effects that the director has achieved. Just one of the many thrills in this melodramatic film! Incidentally, some astonishing photographic effects have been achieved, which show the two cousins, a dual role portrayed by [illegible] good—shaking hands, [illegible] each other in the same scenes, and otherwise acting as though they were distinct and individual personages. Credit for this camera wizardy belongs to Charles G. Clarke, who supervised the photography.

All in all, "The Top of the World" shapes up as mighty worth while screen entertainment and is especially commended to those who are looking for something different in the way of film fare.

AT THE CAPITOL

ELINOR GLYN HAS UNUSUAL CAST FOR "MAN AND MAID."

The various motion picture directors and producers select the casts for their productions in widely different ways. Elinor Glyn, who is supervising a series of pictures for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and whose "Man and Maid" is at the Capitol Theatre to-day, occupies a unique position in that she is transcribing her own stories to the screen and is able to cast the parts identically with the way she has written them.

In this latest production of hers, "Man and Maid," she selected Lew Cody as her hero. The fact that he was established as a villain on the screen didn't perturb her in the slightest, for he looked the part.

Harriet Hammond plays the feminine lead, a girl who had not appeared in a picture in the past two years. Madame Glyn was searching eagerly for a blonde with tragic eyes. None of the available blonde leading ladies qualified. Miss Hammond did, so her return to the screen is to be a momentous one and will establish her firmly as a screen actress of note.

And while Madame Glyn's way of casting is admittedly unusual, it nevertheless is interesting and effective. Victor Schertzinger directed "Man and Maid" for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer under Madame Glyn's supervision.

TAZA OFFENSIVE A SERIOUS MOVE

Fighting Lasted Two Days—Riffs Yielding Foot By Foot.

AVIATORS HELPED.

FEZ, French Morocco, June 29.—(Canadian Press).—The offensive by Abd el Krim, leader, against the French in the region of Taza, was one of the most important moves he has yet made in the eastern sector, official information shows.

Abd el Krim's forces numbered between 5,000 and 6,000, and included some Riffian detachments, although the principal bodies of Riffians are said to have been kept at their base. The action lasted from Tuesday until Thursday, the tribesmen disputing the territory foot by foot and making vigorous counter attacks until driven back to their base. French machine gunners and aviators did good service and tribes friendly to the French took a large part in repelling the attack. Abd el Krim is said to have planned through this offensive to reach Fez by way of El Arba de Tissa, 25 miles north-east of Fez.

EIGHT-GUESSERS ARE GIVEN PRIZE

All Made Same Estimate of Weight of Douro Loaf—Weight Was 96 3-4.

The monster loaf of bread which formed one of the exhibits at the Douro Centennial Re-Union, was made and presented to the committee by Mr. John Grady, baker, of Peterborough. Guesses as to its weight ranged all the way [illegible] the correct weight.

Eight guesses of 97 pounds apiece were recorded in the final total, the lucky guessers being Mrs. Jas. Miller, R.R. No. 7, Peterborough, Fred O'Brien, R.R. No. 1, Indian River, Mrs. D. ROTARIANS ARE GIVEN REPORTS OF CONVENTION

Geo. A. Gillespie and Alpine MacNab Tell of Cleveland Meeting.

10,000 ATTENDED.

Rotary in Twenty-Eight Countries Represented at Big Gathering.

Splendid reports of the annual convention of Rotary International at Cleveland were given at to-day's luncheon of the Peterboro Rotary Club by Rotarians Geo. A. Gillespie and Alpine MacNab, who, with Hugh Bertram, represented the Peterboro Club at the convention.

Considerable amusement was caused through doubts cast as to whether Rotarian MacNab was in Cleveland or not, but he succeeded in establishing this fact that he was present for the proceedings.

Rotarian Gillespie said that there were 10,000 delegates registered at the convention, representing 28 different countries, and that the Cleveland Rotary Club and the people of Cleveland had admirably handled the big task of looking after so many visitors. The speaker reviewed some of the principal addresses given by the speakers at the convention, and remarked that Rotary the world over seemed to be attempting the same work as the Rotary Club of Peterboro was endeavoring to carry on. He told of some of the reports from foreign delegates. Mexico, for example, reported the establishment of agricultural school for boys, while the representative of the Havana, Cuba, club gave his address in Spanish.

Rotarian MacNab devoted most of his address to an eloquent description of the beautiful pageant with which the convention was opened. Starting with a picture of creation, the pageant developed into the birth of Rotary, and then proceeded to illustrate the work done by the Rotary Club, Rotarian MacNab remarking that the whole effect was most impressive. The speaker also referred to the splendid personality of the retiring president, Everett Hill.

President J. H. Seels issued a number of bulletins in regard to the Rotary Carnival on July 16th, and announced that Rotary would again have the assistance of the Kiwanis Club.

In Peterborough Churches

ST. PETERS CATHERAL

Speaking from the text, "And going into one of the ships of Simon, sitting, He taught the multitude out of the ship," Rev Father Finn preached at the Cathedral, yesterday morning.

He said, the boat was a symbol of the church through which Christ still teaches His people, and in Peter was the power confided to that Church. The primary portion of Christ's public ministry was spent in choosing men for His pastoral work and He instructed them in His work by word and example. He said to His apostles, "To you it is given to know the mysteries of the Kingdom of God, but to them it is not given."

To Peter; "Thou are Peter, and upon this rock I will build My Church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." St. Peter was to be to the Church what the foundation of rock is to the house, and the powers of evil would never be able to overcome it, because Christ Himself was the source of its stability and strength. Peter was given the keys and made the governor, as of a city. To him was said also, "Whatsoever you shall bind upon earth shall be bound also in heaven and whatsoever you shall loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven." To him was given the power to loose the soul from every spiritual bond that might prevent its entrance to heaven. To him also was given the power to forgive sins; "Whose sins you shall retain, they are retained, and whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven them,' and to teach "Go ye therefore into all nations,' As a pledge, the Divine promise was given them; "Behold I am with you all days, even unto the end of the world."

The apostles were a body of men endowed with Divine power, having at their head one man, St. Peter, with special prerogatives; that was the Divine plan, and this is the picture of the infant church, which has grown from a small body, like the mustard seed to which it has been likened, to a world-wide church, with its Pope as successors to St. Peter and its bishops as successors to the apostles.

ST. PAUL'S.

Yesterday the congregation of St. Paul's church was privileged to listen to Rev. and Mrs. Jonathan Goforth, missionaries of the Honan Mission, China, and those who heard the messages forenoon and afternoon by Dr. Goforth and the ladies who were present in the afternoon, will long remember the vivid descriptions of their work among the Chinese.

These two faithful workers of the Presbyterian church have labored in China for 37 years and are "willing if spared, to serve 37 years more for their Lord and Master."

Dr. Goforth's voice carried with fire and zeal all through his discourses and was stronger as he reached the concluding sentences. He has been used wonderfully in the redemption of the Chinese, and his work remains as a memorial of his arduous labours and narrow escapes from death, along with his wife.

His text was the 18th and 19th verses of the 15th chapter of Romans. After 37 years' service on the mission field, he was back again to tell of the Gospel preached in China, and which he hoped to preach always. He told of travellers saying the Gospel is dead in China to-day, but his verdict is "brighter than ever—more converts than ever, especially the China Inland Mission." Social service was advised but Gospel simply told is the means to an end to the Christianizing of China.

How busy were the lives of Dr. and Mrs. Goforth may be shown by the figures of conversions amidst great difficulties and trials, where drugs and vice and gambling had to be contended with, credited to the missionary. Three years ago during a gathering of people in a famine area, 3000 were inquirers after the meeting. Crowded tents and four or more meetings a day was the order. Having classes and meetings from time to time in the various villages, the figures read: Four days, 75 converts; three days, 70 (2 school teachers,; five days, 124; four days, 87; annual meeting on Chinese New Year, when the district was given for six days to festivities and gambling, 70 men and women were won by his preaching; with many other such instances, and these including many of the chief men and women of the district. The Gospel is not a failure in China nor in Canada. Let us see that it is preached as we have it in the Bible; there is that preached to-day which is not Gospel. Miss Shiple was one of Dr. Goforth's great workers among women, having a wonderful organizing ability. But the church at home could not send help as there was a deficit. The doctor remarked encouragingly that this would soon be rectified; he felt sure the people would not allow that state of affairs to hold. He told of the huge amount spent on this continent on cosmetics and tobacco—so little for missions. He thought that the people of Canada were right at heart..

The missionary has a field of 1,000,000 Chinese to manage, and was given 700 to 800 villages to work in between times! They were breaking down at one time from overwork, and in answer to prayer in a year they had a dozen helpers come to their aid.

Dr. Goforth here told of a minister in the recent assembly who referring to drug addicts being "redeemed by Fundamentals," sneered at the idea, and the answer was loud applause from the clergymen present. "Such a shameful occurrence filled me with disgust," said Dr. Goforth, "since the fundamentals of our faith are the only means of redemption."

Do not pity the missionary, he said; they are to be envied—"though they have hardships, what is that to the joy of saving souls!" Students of the colleges at various cities were glad to have the whole Gospel and Bible after they graduated and were preaching to the people— much had been cut out of their training. They and the Presbyteries of the mission fields would not favor union, since their only hope and faith were centred in the Westminster Confession of Faith and the Catechism and the Scriptures. And the Creed is given each year to the professors and teachers in these colleges. Thus the old standards of the Presbyterian church will be lived up to stronger than ever.

Afternoon Meeting.

Ladies of Peterboro and the surrounding neighborhood met in the afternoon and heard a fine message, full of interest, from Mrs. Goforth, who told of her part of the mission work with Dr. Goforth in China, principally among the women of that country.

Marshal Fong and his Christian Army was the theme of the evening discourse and in racy, vivid and clear manner Dr. Goforth told of the troublous times during the Boxer rising some years ago.

Marks on His Body.

Dr. Goforth has half a dozen sword slashes on his body to show some narrow escapes, but his love and admiration for Marshal Feng and his army of now 60,000 soldiers, all, or nearly all, Christians, is wonderful to hear. He told of the care the Marshal has for every man under him, ruling them with love, rather than fear and hatred. Marshal Feng heard John R. Mott preach 13 years ago, and was converted then. As a military governor he held sway, and was only 38 years of age when in this position, in Shan-si, later in Honan Province. He is a regular Nehemiah when it comes to training his men in the Scriptures and as soldiers, for they go about their duties singing hymns.

Prayer and study of God's Word were the main characteristics of Marshal Feng and his officers and men, and so will it be with Canada and the world if the people and nations would have it so.

The Music.

The music in the evening was led by the Peterboro Male Voice Choir, and with their conductor, M. B. Chenhall, rendered an octette, "Brightly Gleams Our Father's Mercy," and "The Lost Chord," as well as leading the other hymns with the congregation. This part of the service was very much appreciated by the large audience.

Weddings

METHEREL—COOLEY

A quiet wedding took place at All Saints Church on Saturday, April 27th, at 10 o'clock when Elsie Marguerite, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Cooley became the bride of Maxwell Clarence, son of Mr. A. E. Metherel, Reid street.

The Rev. J. D. Patterson conducted the ceremony. Attendants were Mrs. L. M. Clark of Toronto and Mr. F. Bowness.

The happy couple left later on a motor trip to Detroit and Muskegon

RAYNOR—WEATHERSTONE.

A very pretty house wedding was solemnized Saturday, June 27, at 1.30 p.m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Aspinal, 1035 Water Street, Rev. Mr. Craw of Springville officiating, when Dorothy Janet Weatherstone was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Warren Godfrey Raynor, both of Peterboro. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion, and the ceremony took place in the drawing-room, underneath a pale pink canopy and large wedding bell, and an arch of evergreens and roses. To the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Mr. A. Nichols, the bride was given away by Mr. Wm. Weatherstone, Sr., and looked lovely in her wedding gown of satin charmeuse, trimmed with white swansdown. She wore the customary wedding veil, caught with tiny roses, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Alice Aspinal, who was dressed in pale pink silk crepe de chine, with shoes and stockings to match, and Miss May Jewel, whose dress was of blue canton crepe, with blue shoes and stockings, each wearing a garland of roses and carrying a shower bouquet. The groom was supported by Mr. W. Patterson.

After the ceremony a dainty buffet luncheon was served to forty guests, after which the bride and groom left on the 3.35 C.P.R. train for Toronto, amid showers of confetti and good wishes. On their return, they will reside on Smith Street.

They were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts, testifying to the esteem and popularity in which they are held.

UNITED SERVICE LEAGUE OPENED SESSIONS TO-DAY

Parliament of British Ex-Service Men Meeting in Commons Chamber.

SPEAKER IN CHAIR.

Mr. Lemieux and Premier King Both Made Addresses Welcoming Veterans.

OTTAWA, June 29.— (Canadian Press). —The biennial parliament of the British Ex-Service men began in Ottawa this morning. With the mace of the Canadian House of Commons on the table and the Speaker of the House in the Chair, returned soldiers from every part of the British Empire to the British United Service League began their conference. Field Marshall Earl Haig, Grand President of the League, prefaced his sterling address with the reading of messages of sympathy and encouragement from the King and the Prince of Wales. Premier Mackenzie King welcomed the delegates on behalf of Canada and Mr. Speaker Lemieux extends welcome from the Canadian Parliament. In the absence of the Governor General in the West, the Minister gave the conference Baron Byng's greetings and goodwill.

In opening the proceedings, speaker Lemieux paid a glowing tribute to Earl Haig "who has been the foremost leader in the war and who continues to devote still abounding energy to the work of re-establishing on firmer foundations that peace which our soldiers have won and which all lovers of humanity wish to maintain."

Tribute to Haig.

The Premier added his tribute to Earl Haig. The Field Marshall's high praise of Canadian troops. included in his speech on Sunday, would be preserved as one of the most precious records in Canadian history, he said.

He urged the Veterans to go forward in their labours for the preservation of the peace which they had fought to win.

COAL STRIKE MAY BREAK IN AUTUMN

Conference Opens To-day to Formulate Terms—Maintain Wage Scale.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 29 (Canadian Press)—Whether there will be a suspension of operations in the hard coal field Sepetember 1st on the expiration of the present wage contract depends upon the terms for its renewal which representatives of 155,000 anthracite workers formulate at the Tri-District Convention opening today. Discussion of the demands will take the greater part of the week, it is expected. Once ratified they will be presented to the anthracite mine owners at Atlantic City probably next week. They are expected to stress wage increase, adoption of the check off, term contract and other features.

DISAPPOINTED!

Boy Won His Way Through Examinations and Lost His Prize.

One little boy who has been working hard to pass his school examinations is not as joyful just now as he might be. His father promised him a bicycle if he was successful in getting through the entrance tests. He succeeded in getting recommended, and received the coveted prize, and now someone has taken his bike.

Whoever made away with the boy's bicycle was evidently a discerning gentleman or lady, as the case may be. An old bicycle left standing on the verandah of his home on Stewart Street was passed up and the new bicycle taken. And the result of his year's studying, although it took him through the entrance tests successfully, is a very much bereaved young boy.

CARS COLLIDED.

Boy Thrown to Roadway But Escapes Injury—Autos Smashed.

Yesterday afternoon about 4.45 two cars, one belonging to Harry Tinnie, 556 Aylmer, another the property of George Clark, Roseneath, collided at the junction of George and King Edward streets. A boy was thrown from Clark's car, but was fortunately uninjured.

Both cars were slightly damaged.

TWELVE REPORTED DEAD IN SANTA BARBARA'S RUINS AND DAMAGE BY EARTHQUAKE MOUNTS TO MILLIONS

Estimates of Property Loss Vary From $3,000,000 to $30,000,000—People Warned by Premonitory Tremor —Main Street a Mass of Debris.

BUSINESS SECTION SUFFERED MOST

Stately Buildings Shattered—People Living on Lawns — Under Emergency Conditions—Big Hotel Demolished.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., June 30—A series of earthquakes, described by survivors as rocking and swaying the business centre of Santa Barbara as if it were on a turbulent ocean, early yesterday left the principal structures of the channel city a mass of debris and ruins. The loss of life was not large, due to the tremor occurring at 6.44 o'clock in the morning, and also that the mass of ruins fell in the second earthquake some fifteen minutes after the first tremor.

Indications are that twelve lives were lost although this rests on the recovery of several bodies asserted to be in the ruins.

Mrs. Chas. E. Perkins, widow of the late railroad wizard, former President of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, was declared to be buried in the ruins of a section of the Arlington Hotel. Manager A. L. Richmond said that he did not have the slightest hope that she escaped and debris was being removed to uncover the body. Manager Richmond also believed that Bertram B. Hancock, of Los Angeles, was killed, his room having been above Mrs. Perkins and demolished.

An Avenue of Ruin.

State street, the main thoroughfare, is a ghastly avenue of ruin, portions of its most stately buildings being tumbled down, and cornices, walls and fronts of practically all principal structures shattered down.

The earthquakes continued throughout the day. They menaced the water supply by crashing out the dam of Sheffield reservoir, but a bypass has been established to a main reservoir back in the hills and water provided for the city.

The terror-stricken 30,000 inhabitants in most cases settled down to an emergency existence by noon, many of them living on the lawns.

All buildings on State street are damaged, the Arlington and California hotels are broken, the First National bank is down, one school was demolished and the roof of the Southern Pacific roundhouse caved in, it was reported.

To add to the city's isolation, huge landslides on the state highways out of Santa Barbara have blocked automobile traffic.

Buildings were demolished, pavements uprooted and the collapse of Gibraltar dam near the city unloosed a torrent of water, which flooded the city, adding to the panic and suffering.

General Throughout Southern California.

The quake was general throughout southern California, but apparently centred at Santa Barbara, where the damage and loss of life was greatest. Leading hotels crumbled to pieces and business blocks were in ruins.

Airplanes and relief trains were hastily despatched to the stricken area, with relief, when reports of the disaster first filtered through.

Reports from Gaviota indicated that the region most severely rocked is between Ventura and Santa Barbara. At Gaviota railroad lines were broken by the shake and a large water tank was tumbled over on the railroad right of way and was flooding over the yards.

The Southern Pacific roundhouse at Santa Barbara, Calif., caved in; the railroad station at Golata, nine miles north of Santa Barbara, was demolished and the railroad tracks thrust out of line at Naples, fifteen miles north of Santa Barbara, the Southern Pacific despatchers' office was informed here just before the telegraph wires failed. Wire communication with San Luis Obispo has also been interrupted.

The Cabrillo hotel first split and then collapsed.

An oil tank collapsed at Naples, submerging the Southern Pacific company's tracks there the company was advised. The quake seemed to centre at a point between San Luis Obispo and Carpenteria. Small landslides were reported at Benham and Puenta.

The earthquake did not reach San Francisco.

Worse Than 'Frisco's.

The San Marcos building, the largest business structure in the city, fell in along one-third of its length. The Hotel Arlington and the St. Francis Hospital were partially destroyed.

Survivors of the San Francisco earthquake of 1906, residing in Santa Barbara, declared the shock exceeded in violence the northern trembler which killed more than 450 persons. The twist of the quake broke water and gas mains, snapped telephone and telegraph wires and broke the reservoir supplying the city with water. Breakage of the reservoir did not, however, cause any damage, so far as known.

Haig Thanks Comrades For League Presidency

OTTAWA, Ont., June 30.—(Canadian Press).—"Old comrades I thank you for the honor you have done me in re-electing me Grand President of the British Empire Service League. I want no thanks for anything I have been able to do. You can depend on me to continue to do my utmost for the League."

Thus Earl Haig acknowleges the ovation which greeted him on his return to the conference chamber after his re-election to the grand presidency. His re-election was proposed by Capt. Ian MacKenzie of Vancouver, seconded by Capt. James Quesnel of Australia. Their speeches in praise of the Field Marshal were greeted with great applause.

'QUAKE DAMAGE IS ESTIMATED AT $15,000,000

But Final Counting May Show Nearer Double That Amount.

MORE TREMORS.

Two Quakes During Night Kept Homeless Citizens in Terror.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., June 30.—(Canadian Press).—A check-up this morning of casualties and destruction resulting from the series of earthquakes which have laid waste to a large portion of this city showed that nine people lost their lives and thirty-five were seriously injured in the disaster. A conservative estimate of the material damage, which cannot be definitely established until an architectural survey is completed to-day, fixes the loss as $15,000,000.

Other estimates place it as high as $30,000,000.

The injured were treated at the cottage hospital, the only hospital remaining fit to receive atients. No check has been possible of those treated for injuries in their homes.

State Street, the main artery of the torn and twisted business district, presented a desolate appearance to-day.

Two Swept to Death.

In the crumpled ruins of the exclusive hotel Arlington, the fall of a tank containing 60,000 gallons of water, had swept to their deaths, Mrs. H. Charles E. Perkins, aged millionaire widow of Burlington, Iowa, and Bertram B. Hancock, son of G. Allan Hancock, wealthy Los Angeles realty dealer. The latter escaped with three broken ribs and scalp wounds, after falling and sliding three stories to the ground from a room beside that in which his son met his death.

The San Marcos building, a block below the Arlington Hotel, one of the finest structures in the city, was a paradox of stability and ruins. The centre caved in when the earth waves struck the community. The wings stood apparently intact, but a close survey showed them to be badly cracked and twisted.

Other Hotels Wrecked.

At the other end of the fourteen

J. D. FLAVELLE GROWS WEAKER

Little Hope Held Out for the Recovery of Prominent Lindsay Citizen.

BORN IN PETERBORO

LINDSAY, June 30.—(Special).—The condition of J. D. Flavelle showed no improvement over the week end. It was reported last evening that he was a little weaker, and that scant hope was held out for his recovery. The information had been given out that he had developed pneumonia, but an announcement from a specialist in pulmonary diseases dispelled this fear.

Mr. Flavelle was born in Peterboro, the son of John Flavelle and Dorothea Dundas. In 1873 he married Minnie Cooper of Lindsay, three daughters being born to this union. In 1864 Mr. Flavelle settled in Lindsay and entered into business under the firm name Dundas & Flavelles, dry goods. In 1874 he became manager of the milling interests of the firm. He has a reputation in two hemispheres for superlative skill in curling, having made frequent trips to the big curling 'spiels at Winnipeg. In 1911 he was made President of the Canadian Cereal Milling Co., a big merger, with mills in different parts of the Province. From 1915 to 1921 he was Chairman of the Board of License Commissioners for Ontario. For a number of years he has been chairman of the Board of Governors of the Ross Memorial Hospital and also chairman of the Board of Water Commissioners.

QUEEN PRESENT

Premier Ferguson and Other Canadians Presented to Their Majesties.

LONDON, June 30.—(Canadian Press Cable).—A radiant morning and a company representative of almost every phase of British and Canadian official life awaited their Majesties King George and Queen Mary for the opening by the King of the new Canadian headquarters in Trafalgar Square.

Premier Stanley Baldwin and Mrs. Baldwin; Hon. Dr. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works, representing the Canadian Cabinet; the Earl and Countess of Oxford; Lloyd George and Mrs. Lloyd George; Ramsay MacDonald, former Premier; Philip Snowden, former Chancellor of the Exchequer; Lord Haldane, Rudyard Kipling, Justice L. P. Duff, of the Canadian Supreme Court—these are merely some of the 400 or 500 personages who thronged the pillared halls and ground floor space. Residents and visitors from Canada were there in full strength.

The Grenadier Guards Band agreeably beguiled the time of waiting. Equally agreeable and noticeable was the presence of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police who are spending the summer on duty at the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley and acted as a guard of honor.

Opened By the King.

The great bronze doors of the Canada building, emblazoned with the maple leaf, were closed when the cheers of the crowd which had gathered in the vicinity by the thousands announced that the King and Queen were coming.

Awaiting their Majesties on the steps of the building were Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner in London, and Septimus Warwick, the architect who has had charge of the reconstruction of

CHINESE STRIKE LEADERS UNDER MOSCOW WING

Radicals Influence By Soviet Control Situation in China Now.

BLAME BRITISH.

Other Foreign Residents Would Have Compromised and Helped Moderates.

SHANGHAI, June 30 (Special by United Press) — Radical Chinese leaders under the direct influence of Moscow today control the situation in China. It is the fifth week of the Shanghai strike.

Impartial Americans are severely criticizing the British representatives in Shanghai, who refused to consider any compromise proposition from the start contrary to American, French and Japanese official opinion thereby weakening the stand of the Chinese moderates and strengthening the radical position.

A prompt Shanghai settlement would have permitted the moderates to prevail, which is now impossible. Shanghai, Canton and Hankow are radical camps. The Radicals are triumphant, inflaming the people and forcing moderate support for the extremists demands, which now include return of Shanghai to the Chinese and ousting of the British and French consuls.

Only General Chang's firmness is preventing violence in Central North China. The Shanghai strike is still complete. The extreme heat is aggravating the situation.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the memorial demonstration today. The students are teaching thousands to chant "Overthrow Imperialism," cancel all unequal treaties and "Martyrs are Immortal." They are planning to administer an oath to all Chinese who do not use foreign goods.

Strike funds are pouring in. One foreign newspaper suspended Monday. Another issued only American paper having a Chinese staff.

Shipping is completely tied up, while Russians are helping the ocean liners, but American Dollar Line ships are still unaffected.

Government Must Show Ability

LONDON, June 30 (United Press)—That the Peking Government must demonstrate its ability to shoulder heavy responsibility before any enlargement of Chinese jurisdiction over foreigners is granted her, was understood today from usually reliable quarters to be the Washington position toward the answer to China's thirteen demands.

Washington is said to have indicated this view point should be incorporated in the powers' reply, though it should be stipulated clearly that the powers appreciate China's desire for less restrictions on her sovereignty.

Great Britain has been consulting the other powers concerning the demands which include abrogation of extra-territoriality and it is stated that the Tokio reaction is virtually the same as that of the United States. The powers reciprocate China's wishes for an early conference.

Woman Taken From Debris Alive After Twenty Hours

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., June 30. — (United Press). — A Mexican women, Maconia Villamox, has been taken alive from the mountain of debris that was the San Marcos office building, 20 hours after the earthquake that wrecked the structure, medical officials said this morning.

The woman was scrubbing floors in the building when it collapsed. She has been removto the cottage hospital and may live, it was said.

Another body is believed to be in the debris.

THORNTON TELLS WHY CHANGE IN DECISION MADE

Learned That Many People Had Committed Themselves to Handle Coal.

HAD CALLED IT OFF.

C.N.R. Had Decided Not to Bring Shipment Owing to Re-organization.

OTTAWA, June 30. —(Canadian Press).—Experimental shipments of 25,000 tone of Alberta Coal to Ontario will be made in accordance with the original understanding, Sir Henry Thornton, President of Canadian National Railways, stated in an interview here this morning. Sir Henry explained that since the statement made some weeks ago to the effect that, in view of the pending reorganization of freight rates, the National Railway would not be able to carry out the experiment, there had been a conference with officials of the Ontario Government. In this conference, which was held last Friday, it was shown that many persons in Ontario had in good faith committted themselves to the handling of Alberta Coal. Sir Henry learned that matters had gone so far and actual committments had been made, he felt that the Canadian National Railway should carry out its agreements.

During the last day of the Session, House of Commons voted $25,000 to be used in experiment. The initial cost of $7 per ton is to be paid by the Operators. If it should happen that the cost runs to $8, the Federal Government will pay $1 per ton and if, as estimated by the Railways, the cost should be $9, the Alberta Government will also contribute on dollar per ton.

Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior said in the House at the time that all arangements were made for the shipment three weeks ago.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS UP.

First in Months Shown By Collector of Port of Toronto.

TORONTO, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—An increase, the first in months, will be shown in the Customs receipts at the port of Toronto for the month of June, 1925. The figures, completed to-morrow, will be about $4,300,000, compared with $3,518,646 for the same month of 1924.

WEATHER

The last day of the first half of the year came in with rain and hail, accompanied with quite cool conditions. The thermometer was at 41 degrees, the lowest of the month. Whatever else the many American tourists now scattered throughout the district may say of our climate, they can hardly complain of oppressive heat. With the exception of the first eight days, the month has been quite cool, with frequent showers. As tomorrow will be Dominion Day, our national birthday, I venture to say it will be "Fine and warmer."—W. P.

GREETINGS FROM AMERICAN LEGION ARE RECEIVED BY BRITISH EMPIRE VETERANS

Can't Have Peace by Merely Wishing for It, Fraternal Delegate Declares—Introduced by Field Marshal Haig.

OTTAWA, June 30. — (Canadian Press).—"You can no more have peace by merely wishing for it than you can change a tiger into a tomcat," said James F. Drain, commander of the American Legion, in a speech before the biennial conference of the British Empire Services League of Returned Soldiers here yesterday.

Commander Drain was warmly greeted by the conference when he was formally introdruced by Field Marshal Haig as fraternal delegate to the conference. The common action of British and United States people, said the Field Marshal, would eventually spell the peace of the world. In opening his remarks, Commander Drain said that "we speak a common language which is beyond the mere sound of words."

He emphasized the need of working for peace. The American Legion, he said, was the most powerful influence in the United States for righteous purposes. He extended the warmest greeting from the American Legion to the British Empire Services League, and to Canada, "with whom we have so long lived in peace," he brought a special greeting.

Commander Hett of the British Legion, seconded by Andrew Young, Scotland, moved a warm vote of thanks to General Drain for his address and of greeting to the American Legion. This was carried with enthusiasm.

RAMSAY MACDONALD'S MOTION OF CENSURE DEFEATED BY 373 TO 143

Government Reminds Labor Critics of Their Failure to Solve Same Problem of Unemployment—No Remedy Proposed.

LONDON, June 30.—(Canadian Press)—A motion of censure moved by Right Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald, the Labor leader, against the government for failure to solve the unemployment problem was voted down in the House of Commons last night, 373 to 143.

The motion declared that the government "after a lengthy period of industrial depression and confronted by an alarming growth in the number of unemployed has failed to take measures to deal with a situation of unprecedented gravity."

The debate had a strong flavor of political controversy, the government speakers having the easy retort that the late Labor government had equally failed to solve the same problems. The debate further demonstrated that the government had no heroic measures to propose.

Premier Baldwin in a long speech argued that except in the coal, iron, steel, shipbuilding and engineering industries, which were more affected than others, unemployment was not much greater than a year ago when Labor was in office. Moreover, it should be remembered that the population has increased and emigration has been greatly restricted, while the difficulties were aggravated by the growing foreign tariffs against British trade.

LIBERATOR OF NORWAY DEAD

Christian Mickelson, Former Premier, Risked Life and Freedom in 1905.

DISSOLVED UNION.

NEW YORK, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—Former Premier Christian Michelsen, who died yesterday in Oslo, was the principal factor in bringing about the dissolution of the union of his country and Sweden in 1905. He staked his large fortune as well as his liberty to establish Norway's independence. He might have been president of a Norwegian republic, but he declined, being convinced that it would be better for his country to be ruled by a constitutional monarch.

HIRED MEN BEING PLACED BY BUREAU

Farm Labor and Domestic Help Are Main Requirements Now.

Last week forty placements were made by the Employment Bureau chiefly for farm and domestic help and including some short season engagements at the summer resorts. Thirty-four new applicants for work registered during the week.

There are still on hand some applications for help from farmers in the neighborhood. The Employment Bureau figures indicate little change in the industrial position within the city.

Reports from other centres in Ontario show little evidence of material change, with most factories working fairly steady, but giving no signs of abnormal demand for labor.

NICHOLLS OVAL LOST ITS PETS

Bear Cub and Racoons Were Removed to Toronto Zoo.

DISAPPOINT MANY.

Last week Nicholls' Oval lost its premier attraction when the bear cubs and racoons were removed to Riverdale Park, Toronto. The step was rendered necessary by reason of lack of accomodation for the young animals, the Nicholls' Park Trust, it is said, refusing permission for the erection of proper pens in which to house them.

The bears and racoons were a never-failing source of interest to old and young. As many as 200 people have been counted at one time watching the antics of the young captives. Many have been the expressions of disappointment heard during the last few days from people who had come to the Oval for the special purpose of watching the animals. Several parties called yesterday and asked to be shown them, only to learn that they had been removed.

At different times Nicholls' Oval has housed various wild animals. For over eighteen months a large bear was the chief object of attraction. Then there was a wolf which was ultimately shot and may now be seen stuffed and preserved in the caretakers' house. Half a dozen racoons, and a horned owl were also exhibits at one time.

Now all is changed, and nothing more formidable than a squirrel or occasional black crow will be encountered within the precincts of the Oval.

VET SUGGESTS CONSCRIPTION OF BRITISH WEALTH

E. S. Duggan, of Australia, Says Forcible Use of Money is Justified.

FOR UNEMPLOYMENT.

Establish Industries to Use Products as Well as Farms to Grow Them.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 30. — Canadian Press. — Wealth might be conscripted in Great Britain for the development of industry within the Empire, E. S. Duggan, an Australian returned soldier, told the British Empire Service League Conference here to-day. If conscription of man power had been justified in Britain, there was just as much argument in favor of the forcible use of surplus wealth to solve the unemployment problem in Britain to-day.

Mr. Duggan is a delegate to the second biennial conference of ex-service Men of the Empire now in session here. He did think that land settlement alone would provide for Britain's unemployed. Industries should be established in the Dominions so that their natural products could be turned into manufactured articles more profitably on the spot. Australia's wool clip should be turned into cloth in Australia instead of being sent to Europe, he said.

By building up industry in the Dominions all classes of people would be provided with a livelihood and a future. He felt that there was a good deal of surplus capital available in Britain, and the home government should see if the manufacturers and financiers of Britain could not be persuaded to invest their money and experience overseas.

Every ex-service man was welcome in Australia, he said. The only people not welcomed there were colored people and Asiatics.

There was an amusing interlude when Mr. Duggan expressed the wish that Englishmen migrating to Australia would show more desire to become "Australians."

"They can't forget that they are Englishmen," he complained. Vigorous applause from the English delegates greeted the remark. With a good deal of laughter, he promptly said that they should also be British. They should not be always saying that things were not done that way in England.

"What the devil did they come out for?" he asked.

FIRE DAMAGED VILLAGE OF TARA

Loss of $50,000 Caused By Blaze Which Gutted Business Section.

USED PUMPER.

OWEN SOUND, June 30. —(Canadian Press).—The business section of the village or Tara, Bruce County was damaged to the extent of $40,000 or $50,000 and for a time the entire village was threatened with destruction by a fire which broke out in one of the stores just about midnight. The buildings destroyed included the Queen's Hotel, H. H. Rushton's shoe and grocery store, the Hill Building, the Oddfellows' and Foresters' Hall and the residence of Miss Lizzie Byers. The Bank of Montreal buliding took fire several times but the flames were checked. But for the fact that the motor pumper from the Owen Sound Fire department hastened to Tara and pumped water for hours from the river to the buildings, the whole village would have been wiped out.

$4,000 DAMAGE IN CITY BLAZE

Dipping Room Completely Gutted — Fire Doors and Firemen Save Building.

LIGHT BULB FELL.

The outbreak was caused by the falling of an lighted electric globe which ignited some benzine and in a few minutes the whole vault was ablaze.

The fire doors were immediately closed and the Fire Department succeeded in confining the damage entirely to the dipping room which was completely gutted. The fire raged for about 25 minutes with great intensity. Some motors which were stored in the dipping room were destroyed with all the stock. The loss which is in the neighbourhood of $4,000 is covered by insurance.

RAPID GROWTH IN WHEAT FIELDS

Intense Dry Heat Has Caused Growth and Cut Worms Are Going.

LITTLE RUST.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 30. — (Canadian Press).—Rapid growth is reported from all parts of the Western Canada wheat fields as the result of the intense dry heat of the two past days. Cutworms are disappearing, though many fields in some districts are utterly destroyed. Rust damage cannot be traced in the sections where it has in other years been most prevalent early. The improved conditions are more general than any previous season at this period, but despite the promising progress, new crop exporters did an unusual business over the week-end through the United Kingdom.

LEAVES LINDSAY FOR PETERBORO

Jas. W. Anderson Assumes Duties as C.P.R. Station Master Here July 1.

GIFT FROM ROTARY

LINDSAY, June 30.—(Special). —Mr. James W. Anderson, who is leaving Lindsay on Wednesday to assume the duties of C.P.R. stationmaster at Peterboro, was the recipient Monday of a presentation at the hands of the Rotary Club, of which organization he has been treasurer for the past two years. On behalf of the organization President Miles presented Mr. Anderson with a gold chain.

Tonight Mr. W. Anderson will be the recipient of a presentation from the congregation of St. Andrew's church, having been an elder as well a member of the Board of Managers for the past seventeen years.

Lindsay citizens part with Mr. Anderson with regret. He came to this town from Pontypool as station agent on August 1st, 1904, as the first local agent. The C.P.R. station had just been erected, and there were no sidings and freight sheds. He has been prominent in fraternal and sporting organizations—a member of the Masonic Order, Oddfellows, Rotary, Curling Club and was also an enthusiastic supporter of baseball. He was also a member of the Board of Education for fifteen years.

AT CHEMONG PARK.

Many of the cottagers who occupy summer homes at Chemong Park are still lingering in the city, and their places at Chemong are quiet and lack the cheerful air that pervades the cottages which have been opened up for the season. Fishing so far this year has been very successful, the prospects being excellent for a better fishing season than has been experienced for several years.

Mr. James Long is occupying his cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Perry, Senior, have opened their cottage for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald McClelland are in their summer home.

Mrs. J. Pope has rented one of her cottages to a group of young men from the city: Messrs, Sid Rushton, Ray Bacon, James Johnson and Jim Clark.

Mrs. Tully is in her cottage. Mrs. Victor Tully is with her.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hughes were moving into their newly-purchased cottage, the one formerly owned by Mr. Andrew Brown, yesterday.

Mrs. J. E. Patte and children, and Mrs. Patte's guest, Mrs. Randall, of Toronto, were spending the day at their cottage yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Langford of Guelph have opened their home at the Park.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Brenton are in their cottage.

Dr. and Mrs. Carmichael are occupying the small cottage owned by them.

New additions to their summer homes are being made by Mr. and Mrs. McFarlane and Alderman and Mrs. Jones. The fine addition recently made to her home by Mrs. Hartshorn makes her cottage one of the handsomest in the Park. The addition has three small bay windows and adds immensely to the appearance of the cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hughes have sold their cottage, the "Four Es," to Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Sackville. Mr. Sackville is manager of the Manufacturers' Life Assurance Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Rooney of Toronto are occupying "Resthaven."

Mr. and Mrs. Pearson's cottage has been occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Shevlin and family.

Mr. Bradford of Hamilton is in Mr. Felix Wolff's cottage.

Messrs. A. B. Gates and W. English have rented Mr. Nichols' two cottages.

Mrs. R. Desbecker of Buffalo, N.Y., is in her summer home.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie McDonald, of Toronto, are in Mr. Dan Sullivan's large cottage on the main road.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hiland of Toronto, the former being the leader of the Rendezvous orchestra, have taken Mr. D. Sullivan's small cottage for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Belleghem are in their summer home.

Mrs. Richard Matthews of Toronto, a former resident at the Park of some years back, was a visitor at Mrs. Pope's yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Hungerford are in their large cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Roper are at the Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boyle are in their cottage on the main road.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Oke have opened their home at Chemong.

Mr. and Mrs. Golding of Toronto are expected to-day at the Park, also Mr. and Mrs. McFarlane of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Breyfogle are in their cottage.

A party occupying a portion of Mrs. J. Pope's house consists of Mr. and Mrs. McMullen, Mr. and Mrs. Rowan and Mrs. Arnott, from Bethany.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Thompson are at their summer home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hopwood are at their home on the Island.

Mr. Chas. Forsythe is at "Lakeview."

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hall have opened their cottage.

Dr. and Mrs. McNulty have taken Mrs. A. E. Dixon's cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Luffman of Toronto are in Mr. Redmond's cottage.

An Entertainment.

Events at the Park this season to date included the entertainment by Mrs. M. A. Morrison of her Sunday School class last Friday.

The restaurant at the old pavilion will be opened up this week. Renovations and alterations to the interior have been made, and a permit procured for the sale of the new beer.

Two of the busiest residents at the Park, whose activities do not often reach the social column, are "Mother Machee" and "Mrs. U's." These ladies are at present anxiously engaged in the business of bringing to maturity eighty small feathered charges who were born at the Park during the past few days. "Mrs. U's," who is a large white hen, objects to the same color in her offspring. She reached out a vicious head yesterday and killed a little cream chick that had strayed within her reach. One of the other hens, hatching out a batch of chickens, has been fooling into thinking she mothered a white chick as well as a lot of darker ones, by the inclusion of it with her group of children by Mr. Dan. Sullivan, who is preparing these little broilers for the fate which awaits all chickens.

ACROSS CANADA AND BACK.

The wonder trip of the coming summer will be conducted by Dean Laird of MacDonald College, to Victoria, B.C., and back.

Inspired by the success of the trip to Victoria last year on the occasion of the Teachers Federation meeting at that point, and filled with patriotic motives for everyone to see their own country, the Dean has arranged for a special train of standard sleeping cars to leave Toronto on July 20, visiting Port Arthur, Fort William, Winnipeg, Regina, Moose Jaw, Calgary, Banff, Lake Louise, Vancouver thence steamer to Victoria.

Returning, the trip will be via the Okanagan Valley, Nelson, the Kootenay Lakes, Windermere Bungalow camps from which place the party will be motored to Banff, 104 miles over the newly completed Banff-Windermere Highway, the most charming and awe-inspiring trip it is possible to conceive, with stops at Radium Hot Springs, Vermilion River, and Storm Mountain Bungalow Camps—another day at Banff, then Edmonton, Saskatoon, Devil's Gap Bungalow Camp, near Kenora on the Lake Of The Woods, steamer from Fort William to Port McNicholl, thence rail to Toronto, where the trip will terminate on August 10.

Everything is included at the price of $325.00 from Toronto; transportation, sleeping cars, accomtation in hotels and bungalow camps, meals in diners, hotels, and on steamers, sightseeing tours at points visited, and all gratuities.

All will be welcome.

Fares from other points than Toronto will be named and descriptive illustrated booklet sent on application to Dean Laird, Macdonald College, lege, P.Q., Que.

INDIAN TEAM WILL BE HERE THURSDAY

Curve Lake and Cogs Play at Exhibition Park in E.P.B.L. Game.

The Baseball classic of the season which brings Curve Lake Indian team here next Thursday evening to meet Cognawagas, the lead-League will be well worth a trip to Exhibition Park. The Indians were big favorites here last season. Their record in the first half of the rural series is three wins and two losses and a victory on Thursday will tie play-off necessary for first-half honours.

United Church Services

The services at the United church on Sunday were very largely attended, the speaker being, Rev. George Williams, a missionary on furlough from Formosa, Rev. Mr. Williams is not a stranger to Campbellford as before the consummation of Union, he was supported by St. Andrews church here.

At the morning service the speaker gave a most graphic account of Formosa, the island beautiful, and his work.

The evening discourse was based on Hebrews, Chap 1: Verses 12-13. Jesus was not disappointed in that band of twelve of Galilee. They were willing to live or die for him The message was carried down through the ages till the Dark ages. After that others like Carey in India caught the vision and laid the found ations of the missionary movement. Formerly the doors were closed, but today they are wide open and heathen are receptive.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE MET ON THURSDAY

Miss Langton Spoke on Feeding the Family for Health.

MARMORA, June 30. — Miss Langton was the speaker at the summer series meeting of the Women's Institute in the town hall on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. C. Bleecker occupied the chair in the absence of the president, Mrs. F. Bowen.

Misses L. Bell and Marion Shannon played a duet. Miss Lorraine Conner gave a reading, Miss Alma Osborne sang a solo, and Miss Hart gave a violin solo, all of which were much enjoyed.

Miss Langton was then called upon to speak. Her subject was "Feeding the Family for Health." Physical fitness, which is the highest standard of health, is the greatest service to humanity.

Miss Langton then spoke on what the Institute oculd do in providing public health nurses in the community and in providing hot lunches at school. She also spoke on suitable lunches for school children.

OAK HEIGHTS HAD SPLENDID FESTIVAL

Good Programme Was Put On By Visiting Talent.

A number of people from this vicinity attended the strawberry festival held at Oak Heights on Wednesday evening, which was a splendid success. The proceeds amounted to $85.00. The program, which was given in the church, was provided by the following persons: Clarence Massey, Mr. and Mrs. Lorn Darling, of Morganston; Rev. J. F. Everson and Richard Knight, of Norham; Lewis Roberts, Roseneath; Frank Hayes and Hervie Welton, of Castleton, and Randolph Potter, Albert Cole and son Clayton, of Oak Heights. During the program Mrs. Jessie Mitchell, who for a number of years has been organist and choir leader in the congregation, was called forward and presented with a ninety-piece china dinner set as an expression of appreciation of her services.

A bee held at the United Church on Wednesday to cut down surplus shrubbery and do some repairing to the sheds, was well attended.

Personals.

At a congregational meeting held at Meyersburg on Monday evening arrangements were made for a lawn social and bazaar to be held on the church grounds on July 23.

Mr. and Mrs. George Evans have returned home after visiting friends in Rochester.

Eleven students from Norham School wrote on the entrance examinations in Warkworth, which were held on the three days beginning June 24.

Mr. and Mrs. John Boyce and family have moved to their summer home at Percy Boom.

PEPALL RETURNING FROM LOS ANGELES

Coming Via Vancouver in Charge of Two Police Officers.

TORONTO, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—It was officially stated yesterday that Andrew Pepall is on his way back from Los Angeles in the custody of Provincial Inspector Miller and Detective-Sergeant Nursey, of the Toronto police force. They are coming by way of Vancouver, and may arrive by the week-end.

COMPLETE HARMONY MARKED MEETING OF ORGANIZATION OF CAMPBELLFORD UNION CHURCH

"St. John's" is the Name Chosen By Congregation for the Church.

NO DEBATE HEARD.

Sentiment Was Unanimous On All Important Questions Raised.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 30. — St. John's United Church of Campbellford is the new name that has been given the edifice which for years has been known as the Methodist Church and which shelters the two groups that have been worshiping together since February 8th last. his names was selected at the first congregational meeting of the United groups held in the basement of the building on Monday night when a programme for permanent organization was decided upon and so unanimous was the sentiment of the gathering that not a word of debate was heard on any importnat question raised during the entire evening.

"The Keynote."

"The Church is One Foundation re Jesus Christ, his Lord," the opening hymn sung, was the keynote of the programme. Harmony marked every stage of the proceeedings. The groups that have been together for so short a time might have been united since the beginning for all that was heard to the contrary. There are in the new constitution, concessions to each. There will be elders and stewards in St. John's Church as well as an official board, the personnel of the latter being slightly different from that which existed under the old order. Sunday School workers and choiristers will represen the two groups.

The Business Session.

Rev. Wesley Elliott, the pastor, called the meeting to order and asked Rev. C. F. McIntosh, the associate pastor, to preside over the business session. Mr. McIntosh spoke of the spirit of unity that had prevailed at the meeting of the General Council of the United Church in Toronto and said that this augured well for the future. There may have been difference of opinion but these did not mark denominational divisions. Former Methodists and Presbyterians concurred on important questions. The real inspiration of this spirit of harmony was Rev. Dr. Chown, the revered leader of the Methodist Church.

"I have been told that we could never get along together," said Mr. McIntosh, but for the past two and a half months I have been living in the same house with a Methodist minister and we have never had a word."

Mr. McIntosh regards the first meeting of the General Council as the most important religious event since the Reformation. One of the incidents of that meeting that will live in history is the self-effacing act of Dr. Chown in giving up the leadership and retiring to the ranks.

Organizing the Congregation.

S. A. Maguire, who was elected secretary of the meeting, read the recommendations as the organization that had been agreed to by representatives of the two groups and each one of these was unanihously adopted, not a single word of debate being heard.

The session to to consist of 16 members to be know as elders who shall hold office for two years. They are to be chosen by ballot, without nomination and the matter of their ordination "or setting apart," to be left to themselves and the two pastors. Ballotting for elders will begin no July 5th and all votes must be in by the 19th. Only members of the congregation will be allowed to vote for elders and each ballot must be signed by the voter.

Stewards Elected.

Following out the recommendation of the Joint Committee, the Bard of Stewards, 12 in all, were chosen Monday night. The pastor and associate pastor had selected the names of 16 from the congregation, the four polling the highest vote to hold office for three, the next for two and the lowest for one year. Out of the 16 names on the ballot paper, the following 12 were chosen, both members and adherents being allowed to vote:

For one year—J. C. Birmingham, J. A. Frederick, C. W. Palliser, John Scott.

For two years—S. J. Abernethy, S. A. Maguire, George Oliver, A. M. Rollo.

For three years—E. H. Greig, J. A. Irwin, Dr. H. B. Longmore, Dr. H. O. Richardson.

In this election, no reference was made to the former application of any of these whose names were submitted.

The Session will have charge of the spiritual affairs and the Board of Stewards with the financial questions of the congregation. Elders and Stewards will constitute the Official Board, with the following under the new arrangements added: the lay preacher, the presidents of the Ladies Aid and Woman's Missionary Societies, and of the Young Peoples' League. If any one of these presidents is already a member of the Board the society so represented will have the right to elect another member.

The ballots for Stewards were counted by C. A. Kingston, J. A. Stewart, D. W. Douglas, W. A. Armstrong, P. B. Nelson and T. Rowe

Selecting a Name.

It was D. W. Douglas who suggested that a distinctive name be given the United Church, and this was the only question raised during the evening that occasioned any debate. Out of a list submitted "St. John" appeared to be the favorite, but the question was whether to decide on the name last night or to make the selection by ballot when the Elders are chosen.

After a number of motions had been offered and withdrawn Dr. Longmore brought the question to an issue by moving that the name "St. John" be given without further delay. St. John he said, was the favorite disciple and his gospel was more generally read, perhaps, than that of any of the other evangelists. Dr. H. O. Richardson seconded this motion and it was carried unanimously.

Gifts to Ministers.

From February 8th to June 10th, the finances of the two groups had been kept separate, but from the latter date there is to be one treasury. The Unionists Presbyterians yesterday presented their minister—now their assistant pastor—with a cheque for $50 as a token of the esteem in which they held him and to help pay the expenses of his holiday trip, which began to-day. He will spend the month of August at his summer cottage near Barrie where Mrs. McIntosh and children are now staying.

The United congregation also presented Rev. H. M. Williams, the Formosa missionary, who preached in the church on Sunday with a cheque for $50.00. Both gentlemen returned thanks for the gifts at the meeting last night.

Happy Relatives

Mr. Elliott and Mr. McIntosh each testified to the harmonious relations that have existed between them since they have been associated in pastoral work. At no time has there been any friction or the slightest difference as to procedure.

Musical Programme

After the business session a brief musical programme was given consisting of selections by the quartette Messrs. G. W. Lucy, J. H. Bell, W. Henson and W. Lowe, duetts by Messrs. Henson and Lucy, readings by Mrs. J. H. Bell and solos by Mrs. R. W. Scott. Miss L. Hawley played the accompaniments.

The serving of refreshments brought to a close the first business and social gathering of the United congregations.

WEDDING BELLS.

VEALS—LITTLE

A very pretty June wedding took place on Saturday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock at the Baptist Parsonage, Hamilton, Ontario, when Annie Little of Reaboro, became the bride of Mr. Alexander Herbert Veals of Franklin, Ont. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. H. F. Veals, cousin of the bridegroom. The bride looked charming in a French gown of grey crepe de chine. She wore a pearl necklace, the gift of the bridegroom. A reception was held after the ceremony.

Later Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Veals left on a motor trip through Niagara Falls, New York.

On their return they will reside at Franklin, Ontario.

BROWN—McKINNON.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Baxter, Roseneath, Ont., on Wednesday, June 24th, at 3 o'clock, when their adopted daughter, Margaret B. McKinnon, was married to Mr. Gordon W. Brown of Detroit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Roseneath.

The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Mr. McCord and took place before an arch of greenery and floral decoration. This decoration was also carried out in the dining-room. The bride entered the room with her father, Mr. John Baxter, to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, which was played by Miss Hilda M. Arthur of Fenella. The bride was beautifully dressed in white satin, trimmed with white silk hand-embroidery in rose design and an ornament of rhinestone and brilliants, with flowing double net veil, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Violet Sherwin, Roseneath, was becomingly dressed in pink and carried a bouquet of white peonies, and the little flower girl, Miss Azetta Blodgett, also was prettily dressed in pink and carried a basket of pink sweet peas and roses. She also wore the groom's gift, a gold necklace and pendant.

The groom's gift to the bride was a cabinet of silverware; to the bridesmaid and pianist, strings of pearl beads, and to the groomsman, Mr. Herbert Baxter, a pair of gold cuff links. During the signing of the register, "Love's Pathway" was played by Miss H. Arthur. After the ceremony a splendid luncheon was served in the dining-room to the many guests present.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful presents, including a number of cash gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Brown left later on a motor trip to Toronto and other points. On their return they will go to Detroit to their new home. The many friends of both extend to them their best wishes for future success and happiness.

OBITUARY.

WM. W. SLOAN.

OMEMEE, June 30.—The funeral of the late William Wesley Sloan, a well-known resident of Reaboro, took place on Monday afternoon to Emily Cemetery. The deceased was born in Emily Township and spent his early days there, later moving to Ops. The late Mr. Sloan had been ill for some time, but death was unexpected. He is survived by his sorrowing wife, one daughter, Mrs. Stanley Wetherup, of Oshawa, and three sons: Albert of Omemee, Elmer in Roy, Washington, and Norman in Regina. He was a Presbyterian in religion, also a member of L.O.L. 820.

Are You
Making Sure of a Pension?

You may often have wondered how much it is necessary to save each year in order to be sure of $50.00 or $100.00 a month steady income when working days are over—an income that will continue as long as you live, no matter what may happen to your other plans, or what financial reverses may occur later in life.

We can tell you exactly what amount to set aside.

The Canada Life has issued a new

for men and women, which can be purchased by instalments spread over any number of years.

It is a bond which is backed by a Company with more than 100 million dollars of assets, and with the experience of more than three quarters of a century as a guide.

A Savings Policy

The "Deferred Annuity" plan is the most reliable Bond in existence. The most conservative investors have always believed in this form of saving because of its unquestioned safety. Nothing is so absolutely sure as a monthly Annuity, and no other plan for saving can possibly take its place.

Be Fair to Yourself

Dependence upon relatives or charity in old age should be guarded against. This can be done so very simply by the Canada Life "Deferred Annuity" that no man or woman should neglect to set aside yearly the small amount required to support them after age 60 or 65.

Why not ask for information?

An "Annuity Bond" requires no medical examination.

TUESDAY, JUNE 30, 1925.

DOMINION DAY.

The people of Peterboro, in common with their fellow-Canadians everywhere, will celebrate the birthday of the Dominion of which they are citizens tomorrow.

That is, they will take a holiday, go fishing or motoring, attend ball games, take in a picnic, or something of that kind.

There is no fault to be found with that—a summer holiday calls people out of doors and far afield.

But there is lamentably lacking a national spirit in regards to Dominion Day.

It does not mean half what it should mean to Canadians.

The contrast between the observance of Canada's natal day and the celebration of the 4th of July in the neighboring Republic is marked—and it must be admitted Uncle Sam's way is much the best.

Spread-eagle speeches may cause a smile among outsiders sometimes, but they at least serve to arouse in the people of the United States a love of their country and an appreciation of its history.

Dominion Day could be made to serve a similar purpose in Canada—but we have not yet learned how to so utilize it.

We have not yet got to the stage when we will regard the anniversary of Confederation as a most important national date, worthy of more recognition than it has been accorded.

Up to 1925 Dominion Day has not been a national event—merely a day off from work, with scarcely a thought on anybody's part of why the day is set apart as a holiday.

THE UNITED PROGRESSIVES.

If the reports from Ottawa of the re-organization of the Progressive party by the return to the fold of the Ginger Group are true, the electors of Canada can be pardoned if they begin to wonder about the staunchness of the Progressives' adherence to the political principles they profess.

Throughout the session there has been lack of cohesion in the Progressive party, culminating in the formation of the Ginger Group and a split in the vote on the Budget.

If the members who refused to follow their leader in connection with the Budget are still in good standing and the Gingerites are all back, it will be difficult to convince many people that there is not a very considerable amount of elasticity in the platform of the Forke party.

That may not be a very grievous crime, of course, but then the Progressive party has always claimed for itself a more lofty attitude toward the political game than the old parties.

The latter were accused of merely trying to stay in power or get into power, as the case might be, and of scrapping principles when they might prove a handicap to one or other of these ambitions.

t is apparent now that if the Progressives are re-united there has been a considerable swallowing of principles on the part of somebody.

In getting ready for an election, indeed, the newest group in the political arena manoeuvres in much the same way as drew down upon the heads of the old line parties the condemnation of the Progressive orators.

THE BUSY SENATE.

The Senate may be an archaic institution, a home for worn-out politicians, as it has been often called, but it must be admitted that the closing days of the session disclosed the fact that the Upper Chamber still has a kick left.

What the venerable Senators didn't do to the Government's legislation during the last week was not worth mentioning in despatches.

The bill to compensate the Home Bank depositors was just recognizable after the Upper Chamber got through with it.

The amount was cut almost in two, and the depositors who had more than $500 in the bank have to go into court and show that they need assistance.

The Rural Credits Bill was slain, the proposed amendments to the Criminal Code in regard to the publication of information valuable to hand-book operators were thrown out, and an amendment to the Pensions Act, warmly advocated by the Minister of that department, was rejected.

So, too, were amendments to the Canada Temperance Act, designed to prohibit the private importation of liquor into the various Provinces.

The Attorney-General of British Columbia has characterized this particular action of the Senate as "most regrettable," and other people in various parts of the country have even stronger things to say of other votes in the Upper Chamber.

All in all, the Senators had a lot of fun in the closing days of the session—and the worse of it, as a contemporary points out, that they don't have to offer any explanations to the people for their conduct.

BETTER ACCOUNTING.

The Citizens' Research Institute is, as the Examiner stated yesterday, devoting its energy toward working for the establishment of a standard form of accounting.

That such a reform is necessary there is no reason to doubt.

It is a well-established fact that the amounts paid by Governments—municipal, provincial and national—in salaries, wages and fees is always growing for a number of reasons.

Employees, too, are sometimes appointed for other reasons than the needs of the service and the efficiency of the employee.

Governments are rapidly taking on new functions and establishing new departments and bureaus at the instance of the people or of some vocal minority of the people.

It might naturally be thought that every governmental statement of current expenditures—municipal, Provincial and Dominion—would feature the total amount paid for salaries, wages, fees, retiring allowances and pensions, and that every official budget would contain the estimated amounts which it was contemplated to spend under these heads, together with the number of employees, temporary and permanent, which it was proposed to employ in each department.

Yet the experience of the Institute after inquiring into the matter is that such is rarely, if ever, the case.

In some it is possible to find, by the expense of great labour and care, how much is the total spent for salaries, only to find that wages are sometimes mixed up with supplies.

Few state in one place the total expended for personal services, along with amounts expended under other "objects of expenditure," such as supplies, equipment, upkeep of plant, etc.

HE WANTED TO DO SOMETHING.

Here and there is a man or a woman who feels the urge to "do something." It often comes in the ordinary run of what people call church work; there's a desire to have a part in the undertakings, but how?

Charles J. Wichmann was a tailor in Rochester, and he retired to live with his son-in-law, a Lutheran minister in New York. He could afford to pay his way, but he wanted something to do. He felt there were plenty of people around who needed assistance, a kind word and a little sympathy. C. J., as he is best known, heard of men who gathered at a rescue mission, many of whom were so poorly dressed that they could not go out and take a position. A sermon that his son-in-law preached on, "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" stirred him to action.

On the day he was seventy years of age he went to a New York rescue mission near the Bowery and started in to patch and fix up clothes. It wasn't a case of sewing a button on a pair of pants, he admits, but sewing pants to a button. Soon after he moved over to the Salvation Army's Bowery hotel to carry on the same work, every day except Sunday from 9 to 5. "I do not shower them with salvation or attempt to convert them," he explained. "I feel my way by asking them simple questions about themselves. Soon their story comes out. Maybe not always the first time, but they tell me sooner or later. I haven't yet come across a man who has rebuffed or rebuked me."

C. J. wanted to "do something," yet he wasn't made chairman of a committee, nor did he give an address in support of a theory. He simply looked around until he found something that no person else was looking after, and while he patches and fixes, and often presses the clothing of the men whom we call down and out, he has his congregation one at a time to listen to his kindly advice, and the Salvation Army officers say that it's not infrequent for one of C. J.'s "customers" to come out and confess that he's quit the old life and set his face to newer and better things.

C. J. didn't wait to be invited; he went. He has put himself where he sits in the path of men whom the ordinary church organization couldn't reach. It was a puzzle to his own household where he was spending his days until a reporter happened to dig up the story about him. Past seventy years of age, with no pay envelope at the end of the week, he is writing the best chapter of his life.—London Advertiser.

DOING THE BIG THINGS.

Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy does not believe in democracy. The Fascist leader who came, like the god from the machine, to the aid of Italy in her great need, flatly declares his unshaken faith in dictatorship. And what is more, he enforces it.

"Executive power is foremost in the nation's life," he says, "decreeing the biggest things." He lists war and peace among these, and continues: "The executive cannot be reduced to second-rate functions and be made to dance to the whims of parliamentary mannequins."

Signor Mussolini goes further yet, and advocates a system of class development aimed at making a nation of specialists. This vast pyramid he would erect on the basis of selection, and at the top he would have supreme power in the executive—the very antithesis of popular ideas on democracy.

That is all very strange, in this age, when democracy has become such a household word that most of us believe we have achieved it. But here we have this 20th century autocrat who may have put democracy back a century in his country, but assuredly in doing so has put his country ahead to an equal degree. The world has pretty well abolished the "divine right of kings," but after its first flare has let its interest sag. Thus it has handed over that right to opportunists, who are so often ready to put a finger in the pie. Occasionally one arises, like Mussolini, who towers over and rules all the rest. But mostly they resolve themselves into factions and scheme against one another. Each one has sufficient interested following to drag the wheels of the leading group. The result is a "dance to the whim of the mannequins;" in other words, shifting policies that as often as not are unsuited to the times. But over against that is the world of industry, continually striving toward stability and standard, dictating, by its needs, the very class development which Premier Mussolini advocates. This is an industrial age, and industry rules. It tends to centralize and pyramid power, while the political systems of most present democracies seek to scatter it.

Thus they progress, one against the other. Is the world better off for it? Is it advancing because that clash is an advantage, or in spite of it as a disadvantage? The dictator system is a benefit in isolated cases or in emergency; would it be an equal benefit if it were world-wide? The future historian will judge, for he will have the results of these democratic experiments to compare with other experiments yet to come. He will be guided by the comparison. Unless they change the basic meaning of the word democracy, his verdict will probably be that we in the 20th century had very little of it.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Across the border they have already been killing people with 4th of July fireworks, a week in advance of the national holiday.

The Progressive forces, it is announced, are united again. The next election, however, may break up the union.

BIGGEST 'LUNGE OF THE SEASON

A. W. Gibbon Lands 22-Pound Beauty at Lovesick Lake.

HALF HOUR FIGHT.

The biggest 'lunge caught in this district up to the present time was caught in Lovesick Lake on Saturday afternoon by A. W. Gibbon, of this city.

The fish, which weighed 22½ pounds, was landed after a struggle which lasted for 25 minutes. Mr. Gibbon was casting at the time, about 3.30, when the strike was made. He paddled his boat ashore and fought the fish from a solid footing. He had been out for about half an hour when the strike was made.

The fish was on display in the window of Whites' Cycles and Sports, for several hours on Saturday evening and admiring crowds surveyed the finney beauty with envious eyes.

Mr. Gibbon is manager of the local office of the North American Life Assurance Company.

A THOUGHT.

WHY COURAGE TRIPS US SO

It is so natural for people to appreciate deeds of daring, so human for folks to applaud courage and so unnatural to admire a coward. This may explain why so many flowers are sent to criminals in jail. Courage and daring have always been admired. The very people who deplore the deeds of a criminal seem to be bound to boldness, defiance or danger.

I. Courage is a quality that is so manifestly necessary for maintaining virtue that the thoughtless are sure to applaud courage even when associated with vice.

The trouble with these sentimental senders of roses to robbers and candy to criminals lies in the fact that they cannot seem to understand that what is done in anger is not courage, that what is done in avarice is crime.

The criminal fears death. Therefore, he is not brave. He is a bully and beautiful roses will never redeem him.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

JOBS FOR BOYS.

Dear Examiner,—

With the beginning of the school holidays a number of boys have come to me to ask if I could find them jobs, as they wish to earn something towards their support during the vacation period. Some of these boys belong to families supported by a widow mother, while others are more fortunate in having both parents, but desire to be useful to some one. I am wondering if among our manufacturing industries or in grocers, drygoods, drug stores or other places of business a place might be found for some of these boys, as wages are not of first importance, but work is desired.

If this item reaches the eyes of any who can offer employment, please telephone me and I will give them a letter of introduction for an interview.

Yours sincerely,

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, June 29. — As there will be no cattle market on Wednesday on account of Dominion Day holiday, there was a moderately heavy run of over 6,000 cattle in the market yesterday, including about 1,000 billed through. The market opened with a good brisk demand in all classes. The market was not overloaded with too many unfinished thin cattle. The quality was a good fair average, and included a few extra choice fancy quality butcher steers.

Export trade was active. Rogers and Maybee taking about 600 cattle of the market, besides several hundred billed through to their account The H. P. Kennedy Co., shipped out yesterday about 400 cattle for export most of these billed through. Other export buyers were also in the market for a few loads. Export prices were firm at $7.50 to $8.50 for fat steers.

Butcher trade was strong and active, at prices steady to firm, with last week's close. General run of choice butcher stuff firm from $7 to $7.50, with quite a few sales extra choice and fancy quality butcher steers up to $8 and $8.25.

Fat butcher cows were firm at $5.50 to $6.25.

All other grades of butcher cattle steady at from $6 up.

Calves a little firmer at $9.50 to $10 tops.

Sheep and lambs steady to firm; spring lambs, $15.50 to $16.

Hogs firm ,but unsettled, at the opening, betweeen $13.50 off cars bid steady with last close and $13.75 asked. At noon the market looked like the quarter higher.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, June 29. —There are no signs at the present of any reaction in the market which remains very firm particularly for specials and extras, export trade continues quite brisk, a sale is reported at 42 sents F. O. B. seaboard.

Toronto jobbing specials 40, extras 38, firsts 35, seconds 30.

Montreal jobbing extras 38, firsts 35, seconds 32.

Winnipeg dealers quoting country shippers delivered extras 26 1-2, firsts 26, seconds 21.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, June 29. — Increasing receipts of winter wheat together with favorable conditions for the Spring crop led to a sharp downturn in bread stuff prices to-day. On some transactions there was an extreme decline of 5 1-4 cents a bushel on wheat and 6 1-4c on rye. The wheat market closed heavy, 3 to 4 3-4c net lower, July 144 3-4 to 145 1-4 and September 142 to 142 1-4, with corn 1 3-8 to 2 1-4c down, oats 1 1-8 to 2c off and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a set-back of 25c.

Arrivals of new wheat to-day totalled more than 500 car loads at four Kansas interior markets alone. Other reports indicated also that new wheat was moving freely in the south-west. The depressing effect on prices here as a result of such reports was greatly emphasized by knowledge that the United States visible supply yet totalled more than 29,000,000 bushels of wheat to-day at the end of the old crop season, and that the carry-over into next season was estimated at fully 75,000,000 bushels, a decided contrast with the scarcity which sometimes ago was looked for. As against this showing announcement that the domestic visible supply had decreased 1,998,000 bushels in the last week had virtually no influence on the market.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, June 29 — A weaker feeling developed in the local flour market for Spring wheat grades and prices were reduced 30 cents per barrel. There was no improvement in the demand form any source of supply and the volume of new business was small for this season of the year. The market for winter wheat flour displayed weakness also and prices declined 30 cents per barrel, but even at this reduction buyers showed little disposition to operate.

An easier feeling prevailed in the market millfeed but no actual change in prices was announced. The demand was somewhat limited and the volume of business was small. The trade in standard grades of rolled oat was dull at $3.95 per bag of 90 pounds delivered to the trade.

A fair amount of business was done in eggs in a wholesale jobbing way, there being a steady demand from grocers and other dealers for supplies to meet immediate requirements and the market was moderately active with a firm undertone, sales of specials were made at 39c, fresh extras at 73c, firsts at 34c and seconds at 30c to 31c per dozen. The receipts yesterday were 2,368 cases, as compared with 2,545 for the same day last week, and 1,672 for the corresponding day a year ago.

There was no actual change in the condition of the market for cold storage dressed poultry, prices for all lines being maintained under a steady demand for supplies and sales of 10 to 12 lb. turkeys were made at 40c to 43c per lb., 5 to 9 lb. birds' at 32c to 39c per lb., milk-fed chickens at 35c to 40c per lb., selected fowl at 18c to 28c per lb., selected ducks at 24c to 26c per lb., and selected geese at 18c to 22c per lb.

BUTTER PRICES.

The receipts of butter were 4,804 packages, as compared with 3,038 packages for the same day last week and 1,355 packages for the corresponding day a year ago. A feature of the trade was the stronger feeling that developed in the market and prices scored another advance of 1-2c per lb. which was attributed to the continued good demand from foreign buyers for supplies and the keener competition between local houses for the offerings. The volume of business was fair and the market was moderately active with sales of No. 1 pasteurized creamery at 37 1-2c per lb., No. 1 Creamery at 36 1-2c per lb., and No. 2 creamery at 35 1-2c per lb., No. 1 creamery at 36 1-2c per lb., and No. 2 creamery at 35 1-2c per lb. The exports of butter from the port of Montreal last week showed an increase of 4,051 packages with the same last year, while the total shipments for the season to date have been 24,103 packages in excess of the same period for 1924.

The receipts of cheese were 13,912 boxes, as against 8,592 for the same day last week, and 8,332 for the corresponding day a year ago. There were no new developments in this market, the undertone being firm and prices fully maintained with a steady demand for supplies from English importers and a fair amount of business was done, including some sales on spot of Western No. 1 col-

DUTY OF EMPIRE TO DEVELOP ITS RICH RESOURCES

Great Heritage of British Race May Be Lost, New Zealander Warns.

VETERANS' SESSION

Canada's Need and Preference for Emigrant Farmers Stressed by Major Sharpe.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 30.— "If we fail to develop the magnificent resources of this Empire, may they not be taken away from us and given to somebody else?" asked Gen. Sir Andrew Russell of New Zealand, addressing the British Empire Services League here Monday.

The question of migration of British ex-service men within the Empire was under consideration, and Sir Andrew drew a comparison with the man who had one talent and buried it. It was taken away from him, Sir Andrew said, because he failed to use it. The great heritage of the British race might be lost to somebody else if it was not made use of.

After the opening ceremonies and the adoption of reports the conference of ex-service men of the Empire got down to resolutions and took up first the proposal to extend British Empire settlement and to appoint a committee of the conference to devise means of promoting more rapid migration of veterans. Commander A. P. Hett of Great Britain, moved the resolution, Sir Andrew seconded it. Both urged the need for more rapid settlement under the British Empire Settlement Act. Capt. W. Appleby, of Great Britain, promised that the British Legion would select for settlement overseas its most suitable men and above all its best women. He said the employment service of the Legion regarded the selection of the women more important than that of the men. It was the women who would encourage and support the man in his early struggles in a new environment and her capacity as a wife and mother would make all the difference in the success of the settling family. He said that the settlers now being chosen for western Australia under the agreement with that government were being taken first from the county of Northumberland because they were most suited to the settlement scheme.

Canada Needs Farmers.

Major Dr. W. D. Sharpe, retiring president of the G.W.V.A., spoke for Canada. The Dominion needed farmers. It was at present over industrialized and could not absorb city dwellers from overseas. He thought he could promise to all British ex-service men who were able and willing to take up farming that they could make a living in Canada. He suggested that the group system of migration was not as useful to Canada as the individual group settler.

No Prejudice Here.

It was necessary that the immigrant adopt the customs and spirit of the country as soon as possible if he was going to be content and prosperous. If the British Legion contemplated sending groups to Canada it would be well to consult with Provincial authorities beforehand to make sure that suitable locations could be found for such groups. He denied that Canada had a prejudice against English settlers. He humorously remarked that Scotch and Irish people were assimilated into Canadian life more easily than English, but he thought there could be no doubt about the welcome awaiting the English if they were prepared to become Canadians and not try to "bring their own atmosphere with them." Dr. Sharpe answered a number of questions concerning conditions in different parts of Canada, the relation of farm wages to city wages and such matters.

Hon. James Cornell, Western Australia, said that his state required settlers of British stock and would give a warm welcome to members of the British Legion. Capt. J. L. Bennett, North Ireland, emphasized the need for definite proposals from the Dominions which might be placed before intending emigrants in the old country. The conference adjourned until this morning.

WHEAT REACHES TWO-FOOT MARK

Excellent Prospects for Crops in Western Grain Fields.

DAMAGE SLIGHT

WINNIPEG, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—Crops in Western Canada continue to show the most promising prospects in many years, and throughout the wheat belt growing conditions have been uniformly good, according to the Canadian National Railway crop report, issued Monday. Wheat generally is in shot blade, and in parts of Manitoba and Saskatchewan has reached the height of twenty-four inches.

Manitoba reports excess of moisture in the low-lying districts, but the higher land is making an excellent showing. Cutworm and heavy rain caused some damage, and fine weather is needed to aid these districts. Barley and rye are heading out, the stand being heavy and the growth rapid. Local hail storms damaged some fields, but prospects generally are better than since 1915, the report states.

With the exception of discoloration in isolated districts, the wheat crop in Saskatchewan is making encouraging progress. Continued warm weather is expected to eliminate rust damage, while other crop pests are less menacing than a year ago.

Summer fallow is well advanced and a splendid growth of grass assures good pasturage and hay crop.

Recent rains have almost completely eliminated the destructive work of the cutworm in Alberta. Farmers have taken advantage of the liberal precipitation by breaking up new land, indicating that the acreage to be put in seed next year will be materially increased. Slight damage has been reported from hail, but in the areas, fields are being reseeded to other grains.

HER NERVES SO BAD SHE COULD NOT SLEEP

Mrs. Grace Kitchen, St. George, Ont., writes: "After having a severe attack of pneumonia I was left in a weak and run down condition. My nerves were so bad I could not sleep nights, and in the day time I had terrible fainting spells, caused by my heart being weak. Finally I got so bad I had to take to my bed for weeks at a time, but one day I read about so decided to try them.

After taking one box I felt a slight improvement. I have now taken five boxes, and have gained 35 pounds in weight. I am now more than able to do all my own housework as well as considerable outside work. I cannot recommend Milburn's H. & N. Pills too highly for those suffering as I did."

CROWD CHASED BY A TEAR BOMB

Alberta Police Dispersed Disorderly Group Near Drumheller Mine.

PICKETS RETIRED

DRUMHELLER, Alta., June 30.—(Canadian Press).—The police used a tear bomb yesterday morning in order to disperse a crowd of disorderly men and women which had congregated in front of the Newcastle village hall on the street running through the village.

The usual pickets were standing and lying around the railroad embankment near the crossing leading to the A.B.C. mine, when the police were seen approaching from the A.B.C. mine. There were about fourteen of them. The pickets then left the embankment and walked across the road, halting along the houses on the south side of the street. The police marched up to them and halted a little to the west of them. Inspector Nicholson stepped forward and told the crowd to disperse to their homes and occupations. Nobody moved. The inspector then told the crowd that the A.B.C. mine was not working and asked them again to go. Then he broke the tear bomb. The fumes of the bomb carried by the wind from the west drove into the crowd, which ran, shouting "Shut your eyes."

The police then kept the crowd moving along the north side of the road, the picket becoming a perambulating one. The authorities evidently are working on the assumption that the new miners' organization is not a lawful one and has not the right to picket.

CANADA'S NEW BUILDING OPENED

the old Union Club into the present fine Canadian building. The architect handed the King the keys of the building, after which brief ceremony the doors swung back.

Immediately inside the threshold awaiting their Majesties' entrance were Mrs. P. C. Larkin and Miss Aileen Larkin, daughter of the High Commissioner, who presented the Queen with a bouquet.

Their Majesties then passed through to the dais in the main room on the ground floor while at a respectful distance stood gaily begowned ladies and a hugely interested company generally of both sexes. Grouped around their Majesties were the Duke of Connaught, Lady Patricia Ramsay, Countess Airlie, lady-in-waiting to the Queen; Major Reginald equerry to the King, and Lt.-Col. L. O. Amery, the former Colonial Secretary, whose title now is Secretary of State for the Dominions.

High Commissioner Larkin then read his address to the King and the King replied as follows:

"You have referred to the visit of the queen and myself to Canada, which has ever remained a delightful memory to us both, while I preserve happy recollections of other occasions when I had the good fortune to visit your country.

"You have spoken also of the association of the Duke of Connaught and other members of my house with the dominion. The queen and I remember with pride and gratification the warm welcome extended our eldest son in his visits to different parts of the empire and we realize that nowhere has that welcome been more friendly than in Canada, whose people took him to their hearts from the moment he first set foot on Canadian soil.

"The queen and I are very glad to take part today in the ceremony here. Canada is a great country, alike in a literal sense of its vast extent from sea to sea and great in its achievement and promise. It is right and necessary that its official representatives here should be housed in a manner worthy of the dominion and adequate to the discharge of their ever-growing and important duties.

"I sincerely congratulate you upon the wise instinct which led to the choice of a site so well adapted to your needs and also upon the admirable reconstruction that has been effected."

Many Presented.

At the conclusion of the King's speech the presentations to their Majesties took place. Those present included Hon. Dr. J. H. King, Canadian Minister of Public Works; Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario; Mr. Justice Lyman P. Duff, of the Canadian Supreme Court, Ottawa; Bishop Bidwell, of Kingston, Ont., Rev. Canon H. J. Cody, Toronto; W. S. Alward, Toronto, sculptor of the Vimy Ridge memorial to Canadian soldiers who fell in the war; Lucien Pacaud, secretary to the Canadian High Commissioner, and also the director, manager, foreman and master mason representing the contractors in the reconstruction of the building.

Accompanied by the Canadian High Commissioner their Majesties then inspected the principal rooms of the new building, signed the visitors' book and received the commemorative keys of gold, silver and nickel from the Northern Ontario mines which were specially designed in honor of the occasion. The King received one set of three keys, gold, silver and nickel, and the Queen a similar set. Cable messages from Canadian children to their Majesties were read.

During the inspection of the building the Queen was particularly interested in a painting of the Prince of Wales as an Indian chief.

The whole ceremony of the formal opening of the building lasted barely an hour. The arrangements throughout were most creditable to the High Commissioner and his assistants.

TOURIST CAMP IS CITY ASSET

Well Fitted Up and Convenient—Attractive to Visitors.

WATER PIPED IN

Great Improvements have been made at the tourist camp at the Exhibition grounds, and tourists who stop there will have better accommodation than ever.

Running water has been connected to all sanitary conveniences, adding greatly to the comfort and sanitation of the camp. Arrangements have been made whereby a caretaker will be on hand at all times for the assistance of the visitors and it will be possible to have the buildings open for their protection in wet weather.

This camp has proved a great asset to the city since it was first started. Tourists, who would otherwise have gone right through, have stayed over for several days, spending money in the city and contributing to the prosperity of the citizens generally.

Accommodation is provided for pitching tents, under the big pine trees in fine weather, or in the buildings in wet weather. Good sanitary conveniences and water supply are provided, and the grounds provide plenty of space for the parties to stretch their legs after long car journeys.

'OPPORTUNITY LOST' SAYS J. J. TURNER

Regrets That a Chance to Build Up Zoo Was Not Seized.

"My feeling is one of regret that an excellent opportunity has been allowed to pass," said Mayor Turner when approached by the Examiner, regarding the departure of the animals from Nicholls Oval.

His Worship expressed the opinion that the few animals that were kept at Nicholls Ovan might well have formed the nucleus of a much larger collection when the bears were brought to the City, he said, by Lt. Col. Ackerman assurances were given that the money for the provision of proper accommodation for animals would be forthcoming. Hitherto, the animals had been housed within very small confines, to which the commissioners of the Nicholls Park Trust naturally and properly objected. When the commissioners withheld consent to the erection of permanent quarters, however, there was really no alternative beyond parting with the animals.

Had a start been made even on a very small scale, said the Mayor, the City Zoo would have increased rapidly. From the Dominion Government two buffaloes could have been obtained out of the herd in Wainwright Park, Alberta, which with gifts from other quarters and exchanges with other collections would have resulted through time in a large and varied collection. Such a collection, said the Mayer would have become an asset to the city. It would have been of value educationally to the children; would have been a means of recreation to people of all ages; and would have formed an added attraction to visitors from neighbouring places. Peterboro by reason of its fine parks and beautiful surroundings had been a favorite pic-nic ground, and the knowledge that an excellent collection of animals was on view would have been an added inducement to visiting parties from elsewhere. It was, in matters, like these that Peterboro should take the lead. Other towns in the country looked to Peterboro pretty much as Peterboro looked to Toronto.

His Worship stated he was not disposed to pass any censures on the Nicholl's Park Trust, but he could not help wishing a wider vision had been shown, and a readiness to grasp an opportunity of making what would unquestionably have proved a wise investment for the city.

ORILLIA READY FOR HUGE CELEBRATION

ORILLIA, June 30.—(Canadian Press.)—All is in readiness for the celebration here tomorrow, Dominion Day, of the tercentenary of the arrival of Samuel de Champlain, famous French explorer, into the Georgian Bay territory. Noted speakers from Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal will be present and the pageant in which 3000 persons are to take part will feature the celebrations which are to revolve around the unveiling of a great monument to Champlain.

GEORGE JOBBIT OF THE C. N. R. BRINGS HOME HIS LAST TRAIN AFTER 47 YEARS RAILROADING

Well Liked Conductor of Port Hope-Lakefield Train Retires.

RESIDES IN CITY

Noted for His Unfailing Courtesy to Passengers Throughout Service.

When Conductor George Jobbitt steps down from his train after bringing it in from Lakefield at 5.30 this evening, he will have completed his last official act after 47 years of railway work, and on Dominion Day will be placed on the pension list of the company. In any other line of service a man might put in that length of time during which many mistakes and derelections of duty may have been overlooked, but it is different with railways.

The man who spends all the years of his working life on the road and gives up to enjoy a pension needs nothing but that fact to assure the world that his record is clean. On his left arm Mr. Jobbit wears five gold bars and four gold miniature replicas of the maple leaf. Each decoration certifies to five years of satisfactory service, of trying duty faithfully and efficiently performed. When five bars have been won the decorations are changed to maple leaves. Mr. Jobbitt has put in two years more than the length of time denoted by the gold symbols on his arm.

Began Work at Twenty.

Under the age limit—65—Mr. Jobbitt could have retired two years ago, but at the request of the company, and to his own satisfaction, he remained on duty. His 47 years were up on Tuesday evening of last week, but he finished out the first six months of the year.

Mr. Jobbitt was born in the town of Uxbridge, 67 years ago, and he began his career as brakeman on the old Toronto and Nipissing line between his native place and Toronto. When that road was absorbed by the Midland line he was continued on the pay roll, and when the old Grand Trunk purchased the Midland he still remained and lived to see the system pass into the possession of the Government of Canada. He has carried on under four managements, and at the end he says that of all these public ownership has been the most satisfactory in every day, both from the employees standpoint, and as regards the nature of the service rendered the public. Every faithful railway worker is better pleased when he has the assurance that the patrons on his line are safe and satisfied.

Retires without a Scar.

Mr. Jobbitt was promoted rapidly until he reached the highest point possible to attain in his department. He retires without a scar, with toes and fingers—and therefore limbs—and all his teeth intact. Only once did he figure in an accident; that was when he was a freight brakeman, and a low bridge on the Nipissing road near Toronto, got him. For once he forgot to duck and the bridge caught his forehead, sweeping him upon his back on top of the car. He thinks it was his cap that saved him from serious injury, and in the accident he lost that article of dress, but recovered it on the return trip. He lay unconscious for some time on the car roof but when he recovered was able to make his way to the caboose, a red mark on his forehead being the only sign of injury.

On Port Hope Branch 20 Years.

Mr. Jobbitt has been on the Port Hope-Lakefield run for the past 20 years, coming here from Lindsay, and was one of the best known and most popular pasenger conductors in the district, especially in his attention to women and children travelling on his train. Useless questions never frazzled his patience, and his vigilance for the safety and comfort of his passengers never flagged. Travellers on his train reached their destination and were not allowed to board it when their tickets called for some other route.

Married in 1882.

In 1882 Mr. Jobbitt was married to Miss Elizabeth Drader of Petrolia, and the couple reside at 299 Boswell avenue, where they hope to spend the remainder of their days. They have raised a family of three sons—none of whom ever showed any inclination to follow the calling of their father—and two daughters. The sons are Harold, who is with a large manufacturing firm in Bradford, Pa.; Arthur, of this city, travelling salesman for the Canadian Packing Company, and Frank, who resides at home, and who is accountant for the Peterboro Lock Works.

The daughters are Mrs. H. A. Tanney of Hamilton, and Miss Stella at home, who is president of the Women's Liberal Association.

Mr. Jobbitt has always been a Liberal in politics, and since coming to Peterboro has been a member of Trinity church.

Old Age Leisure.

How a man who at the age of 67 finds himself suddenly out of work, with all his mental and physical faculties unimpaired, who has led a steadily active life since boyhood, escape sinking in to the slough of innocuous desuetude? Mr. Jobbitt is not alarmed over the future. He feels he needs a rest, tacitly admitting that he is not as good a man as he used to be. He is fond of fishing and all sorts of athletic sports—baseball especially—and now welcomes the opportunity to indulge in his favorite pastimes to the limit.

TOO MUCH HEADWAY.

GRAVENHURST, Ont., June 30. — (Canadian Press). — The entire buildings and equipment of the Gravenhurst rock crushing plant were completely destroyed by fire last evening.

The fire had gained such headway before being discovered that nothing could be done to save the buildings or their contents.

RIVALS TO CLASH.

Hastings and Colborne Baseball Teams Will Meet on Holiday.

HASTINGS, June 30—Old time rivals clash in a Northumberland League Baseball game here on Wednesday afternoon when Hastings and Colborne play for their first time this season.

The local boys are working hard to head the league and so far have been fairly successful. For several seasons each of these teams has tried to outplay the other and an exceptionally good game is looked forward to by the fans.

CONTAMINATION IN MILK IS FROM VARIED SOURCES

Possible, by Careful Exercise of Ordinary Sanitation, To Have Good Milk

CLEAN MILK PAILS

(Experimental Farms Note.)

While the sources of contamination of milk are understood in a general way, there is perhaps need of a more widespread knowledge of the relative importance of the various factors upon which the germ content of the milk as it leaves the stable depends.

With the object of determining more closely the relative effect of the various factors, a series of experiments extending over five months was conducted at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. In the tests the various sources of contamination were considered under a wide range of conditions, the numerous factors being divided for convenience into four classes, viz.—care of the stable, care of the animals, care taken by the milker and care of the utensils. By extending the test over a prolonged period, during which daily bacteriological tests were made of the milk of a large number of cows kept under as nearly identical conditions as possible, results were obtained which indicate different degrees to which various factors contribute to the contamination of the milk.

It was found possible, by the careful exercise of ordinary sanitary precautions, to produce a milk of excellent quality without resorting to elaborate expensive methods. One of the points brought out was that the principal sources of contamination are represented by dirt and manure dropping into the pail during milking, and by improperly cleaned utensils. The contamination from the air, to indicate another source, is relatively less important, even when considerable dust is afloat.

The importance of the milk pail was clearly indicated, its state of cleanliness being of more concern than its form. While an open-top pail was found to result in an increased germ content of 200 per cent as compared with one with a small opening if the animals were neglected, yet when care was taken with the animals and the udder wiped before milking, very little extra contamination resulted from an uncovered pail. Of much more importance was the sanitary state of the pail. The tests brought out that this factor affected the contamination more than any other connected with milking. Under clean milking conditions a change from a careful scouring, preferably with the use of steam, to a neglect in the care of the pails resulted in a greater increase in the germ content than the neglect of any other single precaution, while on the other hand, where generally unsanitary conditions prevailed, a change to a proper treatment of the pails resulted in a bigger improvement than from any othre single favourable change of operation.

DAIRY BUTTER IS VERY PLENTIFUL

Eggs, However, Are Becoming Scarcer in Hastings Stores

SELL NEW CHEESE

HASTINGS, June 29.—Dairy butter is quite plentiful at local stores, and is priced at 30 to 35 cents per pound. Eggs are somewhat scarcer than a few weeks ago and are grading from 25 to 27 cents per dozen. New cheese from the local cheese factory is retailing at the stores for 25 cents per pound.

Green peas, grown in local market gardens, are being offered at 25 cents per quart. Lettuce and onions are to be had in any quantities and are retailing at 5 cents per bunch for a generous sized bunch. An incident the American tourists coming into local stores ask for lettuce by the poun d, whereas we in Ontario ask for an d retail it by the bunch. The price paid for it by our American friends is about forty cents per pound and one merchant on weighing some found it to figure out at the same price, 5 cents per bunch, or 40 cents per pound.

Haying has commenced locally and a good crop is reported. Considerable sweet clover and alfalfa is grown as also is timothy and red clover, very little alsace being harvested. Fall grains are looking exceedingly well and spring grains are progressing favorably.

Strawberries are quite plentifully locally, and are retailing at two boxes for 25 cents.

AN EARLY SEASON

Strawberries Are Ten Days Ahead of Last Year's Crop.

OMEMEE, June 29.—The continued showers together with the bright sunshiny days have hastened the strawberry season ten days earlier than last year. An abundant crop is reported and arrivals are coming daily into town. 25c. was the price per box the beginning of the season but this week's price is 2 for 25c., with a possible decrease should the supply continue.

As the parting instructions were being given, the fresh young salesman picked up his bag and started on his initial trip. "Good luck to you," said his chief; "wire us important news."

The following day this message was received: "Reached here safely, good room with bath, feeling fine."

START TO RAISE GOATS ON FARMS THROUGH WEST

Milk Goat Has Won Definite Place As Profitable Live Stock

GROWING DEMAND

Success in British Columbia An Inspiration to Other Provinces

The Province of Manitoba is now showing a keen interest in the raising of milk goats, says a Canadian Pacific bulletin. Several fine herds are already being built up in various parts of the Province from stock introduced from the United States, and steps are being taken to organize a provincial goat society. Many persons are convinced that the goat industry in the Prairie Provinces has a prosperous future ahead of it, and are making provision accordingly.

Capt. H. Walters, who has a thriving goat farm at Petersfield, Manitoba, where he maintains a herd of forty pure-bred, white, hornless Saanen goats, out of original Swiss stock, made the following statement:

"These statistics of infant mortality cll for a food that will save the lives oft children who cannot survive on the general substitute for mother's milk. This great need is best filled by the milk of goats, for it approaches the human article in content and curative qualities. Many hospitals and orphanages in Europe and the United States maintain herds of milk goats to insure their supplies. Thus, with its need so obvious, the goat milk industry is bound to go ahead quickly in Manitoba."

The goat industry in British Columbia has grown so rapidly in recent years that the demand for the naimals far exceeds the supply. The milk goat has won a definite place, and what was considered to be a passing fad is now regarded as a profitable and useful branch of the provincial live stock industry which now embraces more thann200 known herds, comprising at least 2,000 pure-bred animals in addition to those of various grades. The bulletin says further:

"It is hoped that something of the same nature may be accomplished in the Prairie Provinces. It is pointed out that the gradual diminution of cheap, abundant land and pasturage in certain areas and the consequent more intensive conditions of agriculture, in addition to the higher price for dairy products, have created a demand for an animal that produces milk more economically than a cow and under conditions where a cow could not be kept. Eight goats, it is claimed, can be kept in full milk and in good bodily condition on the same amount of feed that it takes to keep one cow. The average good milk goat produces from two to three quarts a day. In addition the goat is non-tubercular, so that there is no danger to be apprehended on this score.

"Canada has a goat society with regulations for admittance to registry. Efforts in Canada toward securing the best breeds of milk goats have concentrated on the three main Swiss breeds, Toggenburg, Saanen, and Nubian, and Canadian registration of pedigree is limited accordingly. It is stated that in many sections of the prairie there is a continuous demand for goat milk in hospitals, etc., whilst the prosperous and thriving state of the dairy industry in Western Canada leaves little apprehension as to the possibilities of disposing of the milk supply.

"An entirely separate branch of the industry, which the Province of British Columbia especially has taken steps to encourage, is the raising of Angora goats. These animals are raised for their wool, properly called mohair. The cheaper grades of animal are used largely in the United States for clearing land by killing brush and they would prove of great value in Western Canada for this purpose. Goats prefer brush to grass and whilst clearing undergrowth will not detroy grass. The uses for mohair are increasing every year whilst many thousand Angora skins are imported for leather. It is pointed out that whilst Canada has no centre of the mohair industry, the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers is always open to handle this product.

"Up to recent years little attention was paid to the goat in Western Canada. Goat-raising is a comparatively new industry in the area but one which is believed to have its place in the area's livestock activities with a sound future before it. A very gratifying success has attended the establishment in British Columbia, and yet in spite of a quite remarkable growth it is stated that there is room in the Province for many more thousands of goats, a condition which is duplicated in the Prairie Provinces."

FRUIT

More General Show of Blossom Than Usual, Except On Peach Trees

There has been a more general show of blossom in orchards than for some years, with perhaps the exception of peaches. Some correspondents refer to the Spy Apple as revealing more bloom than usual after many years of comparative shyness.

The frosts of May, more especially that of the 17th-18th, have done injury to many orchards, and to strawberries, black currants and other small fruits; but in most cases the losses are not serious, as there has been a reserve of blossom in most cases.

As might be expected, Orchards look well where pruned, sprayed and otherwise cared for; while neglected fruit trees are fast dying out or bearing poorly.

Slimy and ropy milk is due to fermentation organisms that usually get into the milk after it is drawn from the udder. For this reason it is necessary to thoroughly scald and disinfect all utensils used in handling the milk. Also thoroughly clean and disinfect the milk house, including walls, ceiling and floor. This is best done by using scalding water and lye and followed by whitewash.

It may be necessary to repeat the cleansing and disinfecting several times to get rid of the trouble.

TO ADVISE ARGENTINE.

J. A. Ruddick, Dominion Dairy Commissioner, has been invited by the Department of Agriculture of the Argentine to visit that country to advise the government on methods of improving the cheese industry.

FODDER SUPPLIES

Show Growth of Pastures Made More Barn Feeding Necessary

The backward growth of pastures this spring put grazing to a later date than usual, and more barn feeding had to be done than was expected. Fortunately there was a good supply of fodder in most instances, and live stock have been brought to the grass in good general condition. A good supply of both hay and straw was on hand, and a fair quantity of ensilage. In many localities there is yet a surplus of hay, which is selling at a comparatively low figure. There is also a sufficient quantity of oats for all calls. Some correspondents estimate the stores of wheat in farmers' hands as from 15 to 25 per cent. On the whole the fodder situation has been well met by the average Ontario farmer.

Farmer Without Help Drives Two Cultivators

DUNSFORD, June 29.—Mr. Walter Brien, who has been disappointed in the farm help he expected to have during the busy season, has been making double time while cultivating his buckwheat ground. Mr. Brien has three horses hitched to the first cultivator; he sits on it and drives them and also leads a team behind hitched to a second cultivator. This when he has gone all over the field once it will be cultivated twice.

The neighbours were all very sorry to hear of Mr. Brien's loss the other morning when one of his best cows simply came up from the pasture field, lay down in the yard, and died. They believe death was due to a bursted blood-vessel. Mr. Brien had just purchased the cow this spring and paid around $70 for her.

His Pet Weakness

By NINA MOORE JAMIESON.

We all know where a young man's fancy turns in the spring, but an old man's, or even an elderly man's, turns to sales, if he is in the country. So many sales come off them! Men are moving to other districts, or to town, or are retiring, or giving up because their wives have died or balked, or their housekeeper-daughters or helper-sons are getting married and leaving home, or because they are quitting the milk business and want to get rid of their cows, or for some equally important reason, which must always be stated on the sale bill.

It would lead to grave suspicion if the reason were withheld. A neighbor of ours, who had been sending five or six cans of milk, decided not so long ago to sell less, do without hired help, and try to take things easier. He had splendid cows, and forthwith arranged for a sale. But you see, he was staying on the farm. He was intending to go on with some sort of cows, after getting rid of these, and the men who came to look at his animals could not satisfy themselves as to his ulterior motive. Something MUST be wrong, where everything looked so very right.

At last, as the crowd, unresponsive to the pleadings of the veteran auctioneer, let the cows slide at ridiculously low figures, the fact seeped into the mind of the proprietor. These fellows had decided that his milk test was down! They considered that he had to sell, because he could not get the legal percentage of butterfat from these fine, big, healthy cows! Wow!

To save the situation he had only to produce his statement from the authorities, showing that his cows really averaged excellently. But if he had not saved that paper? If he had not happened to receive it recently? If in the confusion of sale time it had been lost? Oh, I tell you, sales in the country have their tense situations, and it is no wonder that men yearn to take them in.

Another sale was almost ruined by the presence of a goat—just such another as our Jakie—kept for amusement for the children and as a whim of the owner. But there is a superstition that a goat keeps animals healthy Therefore it must be that animals are unhealthy, or it would not be necessary to have the goat on the premises to keep them in condition!

If a woman ever says to her husband, "I wish we had a new buggy," or "I want to get myself a coal oil stove some day," he does not frown on her, for while on pleasure she is bent, he has a frugal mind! He smiles approvingly and says, "Well, I'll see if I can't get you one at one of the sales."

And that woman lives to regret her rash wish! For when some sunny day she says to him, "This is a beautiful day to clean that rag carpet—I wish you'd give me a hand with it!" he is full of regret. Let the carpet wait until to-morrow. He will sure help her then. But to-day is Jones' sale, and Jones has a good buggy on the bill, and likely it will go cheap. He intends to get it for his wife—particularly for her, since she has expressed a desire for such a possession.

She may gnash her teeth if she thinks that will do any good, but she might as well save dentistry. Her man is going to that sale, and no mere woman has any power to stop him. He would like to go anyway, even if the rag carpet had never been mentioned, and all the more since it has. But he is in no hurry after a buggy. That buggy will save his face all spring, and in the fall the kitchen cabinet, or anything else his wife expresses a need of will be his passport

So country women learn thrift and repression of their wishes. Or they keep their own counsel and accompany their husbands when something is to be sold that they think they might fancy. But man is the master, and women seldom roam around to sales. If they do they are sure to bid against their husbands, as Jin O'Mahony did against her Dan on the geese at Charlie Sparks' sale. Jin ran them away up, and Dan, on the other edge of the crowd out of her sight, hung on doggedly, for she had threatened blue murder and bloody war if she didn't have them to take home with her, and Dan knew when she meant what she said.

It did not occur to him that she might be his opponent—neither did it occur to Jin that it was actually that ignorant Dan of hers setting himself up as so important as to do such a thing. She had a session with him afterwards that settled certain things very definitely, but they lives happily together for all we know, so the geese failed to wreck their home, but it was a narrow escape.

Now while a man may attend sales because he wants to buy something for himself or wants to keep his wife deluded into the expectation of something for herself, there are many other and more real reasons for his attendance. Maybe it is a neighbor who is selling out; if so, it is only right to show at least a kindly interest, and to place at least one bid on some item, however small. Or he may go because he thinks of having a sale some day, himself, and therefore wants to get acquainted with methods and men and their ideas on the subject of buying. He wants to see how the other fellow disposes of his implements, and clips his animals, and in general sets forth his wares. He finds that cows sell best in the early winter, and implements sell best in early spring. He sees that sometimes plows and wagons that are nicely painted will bring more than new ones would cost, though they may have seen years of service! And sometimes they will hardly sell at all, for the farmer, most suspicious creature alive, suddenly develops a fear that the paint is there to cover up defects!

If another man is going and has room in his trusty car, that is often quite sufficient inducement for our man to go along. When it is a big sale, and lunch is served at noon, it is a regular picnic! Men who at home are very definite about their hot meat and potatoes and tea and etceteras, can eat a dry bun and a sandwich out of a paper bag and drink coffee—which at home they would describe as poison!—and they never complain.

After all, why jeer at the helpless man for this, his little indulgence? The wife has her missionary society and her ladies' aid and women's institute, where she may spread herself after her fashion. Sales were primarily invented, no doubt, so that men might have a reasonable excuse for being away from home when these celebrations of the women appeared on the horizon!

Matted Rows Or Hills?

Which Is Best For Strawberries?

Strawberries are grown over a very wide range, on many types of soils, and under a host of soil, climatic and other conditions. Four cultural systems have come into general use: the full matted row, half matted row, hedge row and hills. More strawberries are grown in the full matted row than by all other systems combined. Most provinces and states have condemned the hill system, for experimental results have shown there that greatest yield is not possible when this system is followed, even though the quality of the fruit it produces may be exceptionally fine.

But on Vancouver Island practically all of the strawberries are grown in the hill system. Though the reason is not always apparent, there is usually some good ground for any method followed by all growers in any community. Work was undertaken at the Dominion Experimental Station, Sidney, in 1923, to secure definite information as to the merits of each of the four systems. Plants were secured from three of the best growers in the district, and set in early spring, and so arranged that each of the four systems was on trial in triplicate test plots. Straw was applied to a portion of each of the plots and cultivation discontinued two months previous to harvesting. On the remaining portion, cultivation was continued at regular intervals of about one week up to within a week of the first ripe berries, when this area was strawed.

It will be noticed that yields were much better in the cultivated area in the hill and hedge rows, and the percentage a faiture. In the hedge system, the daughter plant allowed to set between each mother plant did not bear fruit in any appreciable amount the first year, so that the yield of the hedge row was quite nearly the same as that of the hills. At the end of the second picking year, the hedge row may outstrip the hills, in that the daughter plants, along with those originally set, may produce a combined crop greater than the hills. As was pointed out, certain rows were strawed early in the season, with the object of comparing the effect of straw and cultivation up to picking time on evaporation and weed control. The yields with this system were not so great as with the other, but here the half matted rows outyielded the hills. Weeds were not troublesome until the advent of the fall rains.

It will be seen that the hills have every advantage on Vancouver Island. Why should these results be so greatly at variance with those obtained in Eastern Canada? We think it a question of moisture. The summers on Vancouver Island are always exceedingly dry, and only by the most intensive cultivation is it possible to maintain plants in a productive condition. The moisture may be sufficient for the lesser number of plants in hills, but quite inadequate for the greater number in the full matted rows.—E. M. Straight, Supt., Dominion Experimental Station, Sidney, B.C.

Method—	Yield in crate berries per acre, pounds	Yield of jam berries per acre, pounds	Total Yield per acre, pounds
Hill	3826	1618	5444
Hedge row	3878	1693	5571
Half matted row	3381	1751	5142
Full matted row	1510	1002	2512

Ontario Property Commission Will Endeavor to Adjust Claims of Churches.

TORONTO, June 36.—(Canadian Press).—In order that the majority of claims may be on hand to deal with, the Ontario Property Commission, which ... adjust claims of congregations who as a result of the union of churches find themselves without a place in which to worship, will probably not commence its sittings until late in September. The commissioners are allowed to act in places of less than 50,000 population, where a minor and in cases where irregularity in ity is without a place of worship, voting is charged. J. D. Falconbridge, Chairman of the commission, states that counsel may appear. There are numerous appeals on the ground of "hardship," but the commission has only conciliatory powers in these cases.

Hens Did Their Stunt to Prove Claim of Owner

When asked if he could identify some chickens which he had lost, J. McDougall, a farmer, living near Acton, told County Constable Chapman that they were "quiet" hens and that they always greeted his horse when he returned home from town by jumping on the shafts of the buggy.

McDougall took the constable in his buggy to where the chickens were and immediately they saw the horse they performed their "stunt" by jumping all over the shafts of the buggy. The identification was complete.

SPRING SOWING AND VEGETATION

Seeding Began Earlier Than Usual But Cool Weather Held Up Growth

PLANT LESS CORN

Work on the land and spring seeding began earlier than usual, but subsequent cool dry weather held up vegetation. Cattle were not put on the grass any earlier than usual, and the bite was not so generous as was expected. The actual growing season as correspondents reported was variously set at from a week earlier to a week later than usual, as a result of the early opening of the spring with delayed growth on account of the very dry and cool period following.

Spring sowing was on the whole much earlier than usual. Cultivation and seeding began early in April and was completed in most localities by the early part of May. The soil was in excellent tilth for the sowing of grain and other crops, but the dry and prolonged cool weather in some instances prevented the excellent catches expected. Timely rains, it was thought, would soon bring the season's promise up to the average.

Owing to the great injury from the European Corn-borer last year, less corn will be planted in the Lake Erie district and in some other counties, of the Province. On the other hand, there will be increased acreages of oats barley, peas, beans, sugar beets, alfalfa, mixed grains and other crops.

Some correspondents fear that grasses and legumes sown with mixed grains will be thinner than usual this spring, owing to the dry and cold spring.

Early tomatoes and other tender plants set out in the fields have suffered considerably from night frosts.

More spring crops would have been put in were labour conditions more satisfactory for the farmer.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND PIONEER IN FOX FARMING

Little Province in Gulf Is Still Leader in the Industry

BETTER TYPES

Island Farmers Have Striven Ceaselessly to Maintain Leadership

Prince Edward Island, where fur farming originated thirty years ago, still is a leader in the industry. From this little province the industry has spread all over the world. To-day, says the Canadian Pacific Railway in a statement on the fur farming trade, as much as ever, breeders in all parts of the world look to the island for the latest information on foxes. Continuing, the statement says:

"Significant developments in the industry had their origin there. Island breeders have ceaselessly striven to maintain their leadership through the development of better types of foxes both for breeding and fur purposes, and Prince Edward Island animals and pelts are still the criterion. This has been achieved through the realization of enhanced profits, through competitive shows and exhibitions, through the desire of breeders to top the fur auction markets with good skins, and through the encouragement given to the industry by Federal and Provincial Governments.

"According to the report of the Commissioner of Agriculture for the Province, the expansion of the industry in 1924 was perhaps the greatest for many years, and many farmers added to their mixed farming operations a few pairs of silver black foxes, which should materially assist in increasing their revenue. In 1924 more than 6,0 o foxes were exported from Prince Edward Island and more than 7,000 skins were marketed, besides a large number of animals retained in the Province for ranch extension and new foundation stock for those entering the business. The revenue accruing from live foxes and furs in 1924 exceeded the $3,000,000 mark, according to the report, marking it as a leading industry.

"Some years ago the Dominion Government established at Charlottetown a pathological station for the treatment of diseases of foxes, which has since functioned to the great benefit of the industry at large. A new progressive step is the co-operation of Federal and Provincial Governments and island breeders is the establishment of a fox research experimental station, which will include a laboratory where the principal work will be upon nutritional problems. The Provincial Government, through a grant of $5,000 made for the purpose last year, is providing the ranch and its equipment; the fox br ers stock it with animals and the Federal Government is building the laboratory and carrying on the work .

"Such a forward step is only a further indication of what the fox and fur industry means to Prince Edward Island and Canada in general, and that so far from there being any diminution of interest this activity is destined for a greater future. 'Fur farming has taken on a permanency which heretofore it has not enjoyed,' in the words of the Provincial Commissioner of Agriculture. The next progressive step which is promised is the working out of a system of co-operative marketing of the fur products, one calculated to materially assist the producer of furs."

Prospects Are Good at Trent River for Hay and Oats

TRENT RIVER, June 29.—The farmers in this district have wonderful prospects for the summer.

Hay cutting has begun.

Mr. Isaac Lawson, 14th Concession reports hay crop very heavy, having cut seven acres already, also oats never looked better.

Forests cover two-fifths of the total area of Russia.

WINTERING CROP CAME THROUGH GOOD CONDITION

Frosty Nights of May Chief Drawback to Proper Growth

FEW INSECTS

Clover and Alfalfa Shows Prosperous Appearance Where Grown

Fall wheat came through the winter in good general condition, and suffered only slightly from spring heaving. Comparatively little of the crop has been plowed up, the few patchy spots as a rule being drilled in with spring grains, usually barley. The chief drawback to its growth has been the unusually dry weather prevailing the greater part of the spring, and the cool and sometimes frosty nights during May, which more or less prevented the usual extent of spring growth. Taken all together, however, the prospects are favourable for practically an average yield, should nothing occur later to injure the crop. Early sown fields look the best. Slight mention only has been made of injury of the crop by the Hessian fly, wire-worm, or other injurious insects. A generous rain on the 16th of May was very helpful to the fields.

Clover, like fall wheat, wintered well, and was not much affected by heaving in the spring. The present condition of the crop is variously described as from fair to splendid, although the fields have been relatively backward in growth owing to the cool and dry weather prevailing since the middle of April. Some low-lying fields have been affected by night frosts occurring in May, but not seriously. Newly seeded fields look best. Timely rains would soon bring the fields up to the normal condition.

Alfalfa also wintered well, and in most places where grown has a prosperous appearance. This crop is rapidly growing in favour, and is increasing in acreage, and so far this season has done better than any of the other legumes or grasses.

Alsike is said to be doing better than usual up to date, being well spoken of by the growers.

Sweet clover has a number of strong advocates as a fodder crop, although with others it is losing favour. With some growers its best use is for plowing under. It is a thrifty grower as a rule, and this season has been no exception.

SCHOLARS' PICNIC

Closing of School Celebrated —Presentation Made to Teacher From Classes.

BAILIEBORO, June 30.— As Wednesday afternoon was the last day of school for the junior classes of Lakeview School, the children and parents assembled on the school grounds to enjoy a pleasant picnic. Before the sports began a brief programme was put on by the pupils. Miss Isabel Dawson gave a very fitting recitation for the occasion. Mildred Hall also gave a recitation. Miss McConnachie was then called upon to award the prizes for the term work of the pupils. The prizes given were as follows: For Sr. III, Lizzie Clements; for Sr. II, Clifford Thompson; for Sr. I, Herbie Perrin; for Jr. I, Jack Moncrief; for Primer, Helen Howson. The teacher was again called to the front and Miss Beryl Wood read a short address and Miss Mary Tanner and Lizzie Clements presented Miss McConnachie with a set of book-ends and a beautiful table centre. Miss McConnachie gave a very suitable reply and the programme was completed. The young people present spent the remainder of the afternoon in ball games and other sports after which supper was served on the school grounds.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burto

Gloria knew at once that it must belong to Ulysses X. Forgan. She had given her name to him as "Gloria Gordon" when she started to work in his office.

"Yes. . . . It's Mr. Forgan, isn't it?" she asked.

His voice sounded pleased when he answered. "It is. . . . Thanks for recognizing me," he said. "I wonder if I could see you for a few minutes? Perhaps you'd like to go for a little drive . . . ."

The thought of a drive on this sweltering night was refreshing . . . just to lean back against the cushions of a car, and feel the wind in her face! It would be heavenly. . . .

"But I can't go! What was I thinking about when I said I would?" Gloria suddenly asked herself. She was halfway up the stairs, by that time, on her way to get dressed for the drive.

But she turned and went back to her corner of the porch swing.

Here she was, a married woman, going driving with her "boss!" What would people think of her if they found out that she had done such a thing! What would Dick think? . . . He would never forgive her! But then, he was through with her forever, anyway. . . .

After all, what difference did it make to anybody what she did?

Nobody cared. . . . Here she was alone and deserted by everyone in the world! On Saturday night, too!

She stood up, suddenly. "I just will go!" she said to herself, "I'll have every bit of fun that comes my way!. . . . What's the diff?"

If she couldn't have love, she could still have gayety!

But her decision came too late. She wasn't dressed!

Just then the headlights of an automobile swung down the street. They threw their white glare into Gloria's face, as Ulysses X. Forgan turned his

She could see that he was in a light suit, and carried a straw hat.

She welcomed him from the shadows of the vine-hung porc.

"How do you do?. . . . Would you mind very much if we didn't go for a drive?" she asked.

In the light that shone from the hall of the house, Ulysses Forgan could see that she was in a gingham housedress.

Gloria laughed. "All dressed up and no place to go!" she said gaily. "That's what I'm not!. . . Won't you sit down?"

But he stood where he was, turning his hat in his hands. "Are you sure you don't want to go for a drive?" he asked. "It's a wonderful night, Miss Gordon."

Miss Gordon! . . Gloria knew that this was the moment to tell him that she was not "Miss Gordon," but "Mrs. Richard Gregory." But somehow she couldn't bring herself to do it.

"After all it's none of his business," she thought

. . . And yet, it was his his business To work for a man under your maiden name was one thing. To have him come as a caller . . . an admirer . . . thinking that you were unmarried, was quite another.

"Mr. Forgan," Gloria said, and her voice trembled a little, "I'm not 'Miss Gordon.' I'm married . . . separated from my husband. I should have told you, before. . . ."

Even in the darkness she could feel his eyes on her . . . shocked and startled. "You certainly should have told me!" he said sharply. "It's not my habit to become friendly with young women who work for me. . . . And if I had known you were married. . . ."

"Better let me explain," Gloria broke in. "My . . . my husband didn't want me to work. He provides me with money, but I won't take it from him. So it seemed to me unfair to let people know that his wife was out earning her own living . . . as long as I really don't have to do it. Do you see?"

He didn't answer. There was a long heavy silence.

Then Gloria spoke again. "I'm afraid I won't be able to work for you, after this. . . . Goodby, Mr. Forgan," she said quietly, and held out her hand.

He took his dismissal without a word . . . just pressed her hand and went away. Gloria watched the red tail-light of his car disappear in to the darkness.

"Poor, lonely old bird!" she said to herself. "With his sporty clothes and racy car . . . trying to kid himself that he's still young and gay!"

She almost wished that she had gone for a drive with Ulysses X. It couldn't have done any one any real harm, could it? And he had seemed pathetic in his loneliness . . .

But no, she couldn't have any men friends . . . married, as she was! . . . Of course, there would always be men who'd fall in love with her, so long as she was young and kept her looks. But she never would want any of them. . . .

There was only one thing in the world that meant anything to her . . . one thing that she really wanted. And that was Dick's love. But she had found it out too late!

She'd lost it, and it never would come again. . . .

"I wonder where Dick is tonight," Gloria wondered.

Gloria thought of the little dinners she and Dick had had in restaurants. He he had resented the admiring glances of men who stared at her.

She giggled, in spite of her heartache: 'Well, that's one thing he won't have to worry about when he's with Miss Briggs!" she thought. "No one would look at her twice. She's as homely as a mudfence!"

There was undeniable comfort in the thought of Miss Briggs' plainness. . . .

He was not having dinner with anyone.

At the very momen when Gloria was wishing Ulysses X. Forgan goodnight and goodby, he was tearing along green country lanes in the little car he had bought for her.

He came back to town against the wind. It set the blood racing in his veins, and burned his face. It was good to be challenged by the wind . . . to defy it with his own speed.

All day he had been "blue" . . . low in his mind. Everything in his life, lately, seemed to have gone stale and flat. . . .

It was nine o'clock when he got back to town. He drove down the street toward home.

"Home" these days meant his mothers' perfectly ordered house Perfectly cooked meals . . . always on time.

His ties were always pressed and folded neatly in his drawers. His socks were always mended. There never was a single button missing from his shirts.

But, nevertheless, there was something distinctly missing from his life. He didn't know just what it was, either. . . . As Dick swung his car into the driveway, he saw that another car was parked there. His father and mother evidently had ghests. . . .

He backed the car out of the drive. The thought of talking to a roomful of people was intolrable to him just then.

A half hour later he was in the kitchen of his own house. He had tied a clean dish-towel around his waist for an apron.

He held a can opener in one hand and a tin of baked beans in the other. And he was getting his own dinner. A wedge of Yorkstate cheese, a loaf of rye bread, and a baker's pie were on the kitchen table.

For this "delicatessen" meal, Dick had forgone chicken pie and raspberry shortcake at his mother's house that night.

He had come home straight from the office to get his car. And then he had driven out into the open country. . . . Like all people who are beset with loneliness, he had wanted to be alone.

But he was cheerful enough now, puttering around his own house . . . the house where Gloria had so lately been. He ate his cold, indigestible food with gusto. He whistled as he rinsed his dishes and piled them up on the drainboard.

Then he took his pipe from his pocket, and went into the living room. He switched on the lights there, and stopped short, staring.

There was a vase of wilted roses on the table that stood beside his arm-chair. They had not been there a week ago! . . . His smoking stand was in perfect order.

And beside it on the floor lay a square of crumpled cambric . . . Gloria's handkerchief. She had been in the house! . . . . She had come back! But why? . . . And when?

And how had she managed to get in, without a key? Dick tried the living-room windows. They were all locked. Then he went into the sun-room.

He saw at once the window that Gloria had pried open. There were marks on the window sill where the clothes pole had scraped it. . . .

Dick sat down in his arm-chair, and looked at the handkerchief in his hands. The initial "G" was embroidered in one corner of it. And it smelled faintly of mimosa flower.

He put it against his nostrils, and the perfume of it brought back to him the memory of Gloria so keenly that it seemed she must still be there in the room with him!

. . . Dick could almost see her there, putting the long-stemmed roses into the vase, dusting off the smoking-stand with her fluttering little hands. He could hear her lilting voice saying "Rikky-Tikky-Tavvy, I need a new hat," or, "Oh Dick, why worry about bills?"

He found himself staring at the telephone on its teak-wood table in the hall.

. . . All he had to do was to give a number . . . tell Gloria that he wanted her. And in a few minutes she would be here. Here in his arms!

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

Doris and Dee Meet Mama and Daddy Pintail Duck.

"Oh, Dee!" Doris cried, as she spotted two funny looking things sticking out of the water of the lake. "Something is drowning. Come quick!"

Dee came running down the hill to the edge of the lake, just in time to see the owner of the funny lead-colored things pop up out of the water. It was one of the prettiest ducks Doris and Dee had ever seen, and they just stood and stared at it.

It was about thirty inches from the tip of its slate-colored bill to the end of its greenish black tail feathers. Its head and throat was a rich olive brown glossed with green and purple, rather blackish on the back of the neck. Two white lines bordered the blackish part and was lost in a white breast.

"My, but you're pretty!" exclaimed Dee. "What kind of a swan are you?"

"I'm not a swan at all," quacked the floating creature. "I'm Mr. Daddy Pintail Duck, if you please. I will say, though," he laughed, "my neck is rather long for a duck. Have you seen my wife around here? She was here just a second ago, but now I can't find her."

"Was that why you were standing on your head?" asked Doris. "I saw you lead-colored legs flopping around in the water, and I thought maybe you were drowning."

"What, ho, ho, quack, quack!" laughed Daddy Pintail Duck. "I should say I wasn't drowning! I was looking for nice, fresh frogs down in the bottom of the lake. I can stand on my head that way a long time." Then Daddy Pintail flopped, his head completely under the water and his slate-colored legs dangling in the air. Both Doris and Dee sat down on the bank and laughed.

The bushes parted and out glided another pretty duckling. It glanced at the two little girls, then at the legs dangling in the air.

"For shame, Daddy Pintail Duck!" the newcomer quacked, gliding up and giving Daddy Pintail Duck's legs a peck with her bill. "Don't you know we have company?"

Daddy Pintail Duck's glossy head came up with a pop, and he quacked merrily:

"Certainly, I do. I was just showing them how easy it was to stand on one's head in the water. Girls, this is my wife, Mama Pintail Duck." Then he swam around his mate proudly. "She doesn't look anything like me, does she?"

"Gracious, no!" laughed Dee. "I never should have recognized her."

"Well, you probably don't know it," quacked Mama Pintail Duck, "but at nesting season Daddy Pintail Duck changes his suit for a yellowish brown suit like mine. Now I really have to wear speckled vests, for if I wore a white vest like Daddy's, folks would see me floating around on the lake and soon spot my nesting place. Come, Daddy, we must go to market."

Mama and Daddy Pintail Duck bade Dee and Doris good-by, and away they swam.

Doris and Dee watched them until they disappeared around some bushes, then they ran on down the lane to the meadows.

THE EVOLUTION OF THE REED ORGAN

Ever since the foundation of religion, music has played a large part in the ritual of the church. The ancient Hebrews, since the laws of their religion forbade the playing of instrumental music in the synagogue, trained young boys to chant hymns. As the religion was divided into the orthodox branch and the reform branch, the organ was instituted as an important part of the religious ceremonies; the orthodox faction, however, banning it.

Since that time the organ has played a very important role in the ceremonials of the various denominations now existent. No church, however small, is complete without its pipe-organ, and no service is performed without the deep, sonorous tones which only the organ can give.

Little is known about the actual invention of the first organ, because the organ itself was the outcome of a series of attempts to achieve fuller and deeper tones from the ordinary syrinx or Pan-pipe.

The syrinx, a simple mechanism, was a sequence of pipes graduated in length and made of reed, wood or bronze; a contrivance for compressing the wind and for supplying it to the pipes in order to make them speak; and a system for enabling the performer to store the wind and to control the distribution of the supply separately to the several pipes at will.

After the syrinx, a type of organ was invented with bellows and pedal—the forerunner of the modern organ. The mode of blowing which was practised about the time of the introduction of the first keyboard was that which was later developed into the method still in use in Germany. There were a great many separate bellows, each like a magnified kitchen-bellows, but provided with a valve so that the wind could not return into the bellows.

The invention of the pedal is attributed to the fifteenth century. About that time the organ assumed, on the continent of Europe, the general form which it has retained till lately, especially in Germany. From that time on mechanical devices for perfecting the organ succeeded each other very rapidly.

This is due to the fact that interest developed as soon as it was recognized as an integral part of church ceremony. Where formerly only mechanicians and musicians were concerned with the development of this instrument, the influential members of the various denominations took charge of organ-building. They contributed large sums of money to the project, and in a comparatively short time they established the perfected organ in churches and temples all over the world.

YOUR GARDEN

PERENNIALS FOR FALL PLANTING

Many of the perennials as Larkspurs, Coreopsis and Columbines will soon be seeding, and as soon as the seed is saved it may be sown. Also, if you have some seed on hand it may be sown immediately. Start the seeds in a well prepared sunny spot in a corner of the garden or a special seed bed raised a little above the surrounding soil by boards. Sow in rows, not too thickly, and shade until germination has taken place. When the plants are two inches high transplant them to another spot to ensure sturdy plants. By fall, most of them should have attained a sufficiently large size and be strong enough to transplant out in permanent quarters in the border. Those that are not large enough may be carried over winter and planted the following summer. Late fall planted material should be lightly mulched to prevent heaving by the frost.

Some of the biennials as Campanulas, Foxgloves and Hollyhocks do very well treated this way, and make strong plants which will flower the following season.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, JULY 1.

Conflicting conditions are to be read from this day's planetary operations. While it is a most propitious time for those in the employment of others presaging recognition, favors or advancements and for those seeking the influence of those in high places, yet other testimonies point to menacing situations and experiences. The health may prove a disturbing factor and there may be some danger of accident. Litigation and quarrels might terminate adversely and changes, travel or removals are not encouraged.

Those whose birthday it is are under a contradictory reign for the year. It is a fortunate time for anyone in the employment of others or for those seeking the recognition of those in authority, but litigation or quarrels might be disastrous and the health and physical safety should be given consideration. Defer change and travel. A child born on this day is likely to be restless, changeable, stubborn and unruly—which may militate against its success. It may do well in the employment of others.

My European Excursions

By Edwin Robert Petre

HOW THE DANES TEACH HISTORY AND GEOGRAPHY.

Whenever I am in Denmark I am surprised in place after place at the number of school children who seem to be scattered among the tourists. They are not the children of tourists, but little Danes. You meet them in hundreds all over Denmark, traveling round to all the historic places. Denmark which has recently decided against a military foreign policy believes that education is its best defense, so at Government expense, accompanied by their teachers, young Denmark follows me in my Danish excusions. They seem to enjoy the glorious beauty of their country as much as the stranger who comes miles to see it.

WHERE LIE THE MUCH TRAVELED BONES OF COLUMBUS.

In the white city of Seville on the Guadalquivir, a city founded by the Phoenicians and later the capital of the Goths, I always get sunny skies and a climate that is a delight. Oranges and palms and ever blooming roses are everywhere. The best view of the city is from the [illegible] 350 feet up, which as once the minare of a mosque. Clos[illegible] Cathedral, "a majestic and rythmic wonder in stone and stained glass," as George Rennick put it. Inside a conspicious tomb gives shelter to the much traveled bones of Christopher Columbus. They have been buried in Hayti, and in Havana, but now they rest in Spain where Americans come every year to do him homage.

A LINE-O-TYPE.

The flags climb up their poles throughout the city—all over Ontario—and in every province. They ride on a good wind. They burn brightly on the fringes of the sky. The lean poles and the steel and stone and brick buildings supporting them are mere accessories. They are not so easy in the sky as are the flags. They are not used to generations of glory. But as symbols of the conquering spirit the flag typifies they are worthy pedestals for the bits of bunting at the mast heads.

There is the Flag.

Treat them all as one thing—they all bear the same crosses and bars—they are all red, white and blue—they all fly to-morrow to mark the birth of a dominion out of the travail of scattered provinces.

Smoke smears the lower air. The exhaust from motor cars deadens the breath. But the flag finds the blue and the clean wind far above. It is Canada's upward pioneer. There is none farther. It has staked a claim in the clean air for the Dominion's future; it pledges the future. The Union Jack sticks on its desk like a great stamp. This long white day is postpaid. Delivery is assured. There is no need to worry.

It's flying there is a sign from the past that carries to us the message of what has been done by Britain, proud mother of our mighty dominions, and it flutters back a message of our loyalty to the traditions it has built and of our fealty to the Motherland.

The advent of Roxy and his gang in this district is auspicious. It indicates the importance of this section of Ontario as a summer tourist resort since it is the first visited on the tour. And his broadcasting of the story of the wonderful fishing and camping and scenery cannot fail to bring gratifying results.

A Unique Stunt.

Three million people or more will tune in on Friday night to hear Roxy speak from the centre of Peterboro's loveliest tourist home.

And many of them will be caught by the novelty of the affair and many will be won by his descriptions.

Good luck, Roxy and your gang!

DR. HOWSON TO LOCATE IN CITY

Arthur Howson, M. D., a former Peterboro boy and a brother of E. H. Howson of the Peterboro Lock Co., who has been the guest of his parents Mr. and Mrs. George H. Howson for the past few weeks has decided to practice his profession in Peterborough. Dr. Howson, on receiving his degree form Queen's University, enlisted in the Spring of 1915 and for the duration of the war was on active service with the Royal Army Medical Corps, serving both in the East and in France. After the Armistice, he remained for a time with the army of occupation in Germany, being promoted to the rank of maior and acting as commanding officer of a base hospital.

Since leaving the army, Dr. Howson has spent the past five years in post graduate work in London, England, where he was house surgeon in the following hospitals:—Queen Charlotte's Lying-in Hospital, The North Eastern Fever Hospital, Tooting Bec Infirmary and the Prince of Wales General Hospital. The varied nature of his work in these institutions has given him a wide experience in surgery, obstertics and general medical practice.

TORONTO, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—Forty-two sudden deaths, the lowest monthly toll to date this year, took place in Toronto during the month of June, bringing the total for six month of the year to 270. No deaths from automobile accidents in the city are reported this month.

CANNOT SECURE MODIFICATION IN COMPANY TERMS

Proposals Made by McLurg Confirmed By Directors of Company.

CONFERENCE NO USE.

Murdock Wires Head of the Mine Workers Telling of Failure.

OTTAWA, June 30. — (Canadian Press).—It does not seem possible for me to secure any modification whatsoever of the proposals made by Mr. McLurg, states Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor, in a telegram to John W. McLeod, president of the Mine Workers of the Glace Bay district. The telegram refers to the conference between Mr. Wolvin, president of the British Empire Steel Corporation, and Premier King. There was also a subsequent conference between the Minister of Labor and the directors of the British Empire Steel Company on June 29th, with the result that "the company is unwilling to make any modifications whatever of the proposals which were contained in Mr. McLurg's letter of June 17th." The proposals were rejected by the men some days ago, and, at the suggestion of Mr. McLeod, the Minister approached the directors of the company.

Weddings

FITZGERALD—CARMICHAEL

MONTREAL, June 30. (Special to the Examiner.) — The wedding took place quietly Saturday at high noon., at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Orrin B. Rexford, Outremont of Agnes, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. M. Carmichael, of Peterboro, Ont., to Mr. Donald Fitzgerald, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Fitzgerald, of Lakefield. The Rev. Mr Allen, of Outremont Presbyterian Church, officiated Later Mr an' Mrs Fitzgerald left for a motor trip, and will reside in Lakefield

McGREGOR—SAMMS.

A pretty wedding took place at eleven o'clock this morning, at the residence of Rev. and Mrs. P. H. Neville, 351 Charlotte street, when their adopted daughter, Miss Annie Samms, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to T. Alex. McGregor of Smith township. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Neville, in the presence of the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The house was prettily decorated with a profusion of daisies and buttercups.

The bride, who was given away by her sister, Miss May Samms, of Toronto, wore a navy ensemble suit of Italian cloth, with a Gloria Swanson hat of blue and tan and corsage bouquet of ophelia roses.

Mr. and Mrs. McGregor received a number of pretty gifts from a large circle of friends.

HEPPELLE—HOBBINS.

A pretty wedding took place at 8 o'clock this morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, when Alena, daughter of Mr. Dennis Hobbins, of Queen Street, and the late Mrs. Hobbins, became the bride of Peter Heppelle, of Redditt, Ontario. The ceremony was performed by Rev. P. Butler.

The wedding march was played by Miss L. Hurley, and Miss Stella Brady, wearing almond green crepe de chine dress and hat to match, sang very sweetly an Ave Maria and several other hymns during the ceremony.

The bride wore white georgette, with white hat, shoes and stockings, and carried a bouquet of ophelia roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Katie Mahoney, was in blue silk canton crepe with blue hat, and carried columbia roses.

Mr. James Smith acted as best man.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home, Mr. and Mrs. Heppelle leaving on the five o'clock afternoon train for a honeymoon trip, en route to their home at Redditt. The bride travelled in a gown of peach georgette, with black hat, faced with orange, and wrap of blue cloth.

Mr. and Mrs. Heppelle received a quantity of pretty gifts. The gift of the bridegroom to the bridesmaid was an onyx ring, to the best man a pair of gold cuff links and to the vocalist a half dozen silver dessert spoons.

BURT—SCULLY

At seven o'clock this morning in St. Peter's Cathedral, the marriage was solemnized by Rev. P. Costello of Mary Marion, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Scully, of Peterborough, and Thomas Philip Burt, of Toronto, son of Mrs. Burt and the late Philip Burt.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Clare Scully, was dressed in ivory georgette over shell-pink satin. She wore a white veil with wreath of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of ophelia roses and lily of the valley.

The bridesmaid, Miss Anna Scully, was in blonde georgette, with hat to match and bouquet of golden coreopsis.

Mr. Vincent Egan, of Toronto, acted as best man.

The wedding march was played by Miss L. Hurley and Miss Geraldine Collins sang several times.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home on Stewart street, Mr. and Mrs. Burt leaving on the noon train for a honeymoon trip. They will reside in Toronto.

The bride travelled in an ensemble suit of cocoa brown Venetian cloth, with brown hat.

ROXY AND GANG TO VISIT CITY

Will Broadcast the Story of Tourist Attractions From Actual Scene.

UNIQUE SCHEME.

"Roxy and His Gang"—inimitable and internationally known radio entertainers, will broadcast from Peterboro district this week. Arriving here at midnight on Thursday, they will tour the beauty spots in the neighborhood and broadcast their wonders to listeners all over United States and Canada. This scheme, unique in advertising the tourist attractions of any section, is fostered by the Provincial Government, and Peterboro is the first district to benefit through the publicity. The novelty of hearing the charms of the country told by a man actually on the spot will attract general attention.

Every night Roxy will broadcast with his own outfit on 291 metres. On Sunday, his station will be tied in with seven of the most powerful broadcasting stations in Eastern United States, covering a territory in which there are millions of radio listeners. The stations are:

WEAF—New York.
WWJ — Detroit.
ACAE—Pittsburgh.
WEEI—Boston.
KCAP—Washington.
KCPF—Worcester.
WJAR—Providence.

Roxy's sending station is a 500-watt station with a radius of 3,000 miles.

With Roxy is a party of entertainers and helpers, numbering 25. G. E. Patten, motion picture director of the Provincial Government, is arranging the itinerary and is accompanying the party.

PREFERENCE FOR APPLES AND FISH

Producers' Organization Wishes to Encourage Empire Trade.

LONDON, June 30.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The Empire Producers' Organization has submitted a memoranda to the Imperial Economic Committee with reference to Empire trade in apples and canned fish. While strongly advocating preferences on these commodities, which, however, are not within the scope of the committee, the organization insists that whatever is done to assist the apple and canned fish trade, it should be done under a board representative of producers in all parts of the Empire.

The need of organizing the apple producers of the Empire on a basis that would prevent the filtering away of money by piece-meal payments is also emphasized by the Empire Producers' Organization, which suggests that all canned fish should bear upon the cans the name of the country of origin.

'QUAKE DAMAGE

blocks of State Street, which approximately marked the extent of the serious business district damage, the new California Hotel, a hostelry of 100 rooms, completed within the week, was a total wreck.

Another comparatively new hotel, the Carrillo, two large wings of filled concrete construction was badly shaken in its two lowest floors.

Here and there throughout the downtown section the pavement bulged and cracked, while in some locations it had been slashed and chopped into fragments a foot square by the grinding force of successive tremors.

Mission Tower Crashes.

Back of the hills, the old mission of Santa Barbara stood still in part, defying its second earthquake. It had gone through a similar shake in the eighties.

The mission's tower with its sweet-toned bell crashed while the kneeling congregation bowed within. Then the congregation walked out over the wreckage, led by a priest.

Nowhere, only in rare instances, did the men, women and children of Santa Barbara spend last night within doors. Many whose homes were wrecked were forced to sleep in the open. Others slept on their lawns from choice, not knowing when a fresh tremor might bring their houses down about them.

Two facts stood out in the city today. One was the continued, determined calm with which its citizens faced their destiny and their duty and the other was the absence of a serious fire.

Still Trembling.

A violent earthquake shock struck this city at 1.22 this morning. This was the heaviest shake since the heavy tremblor of yesterday. A second severe shock again rocked the ruins at 4.39 o'clock.

LARGE CRACK IN MOUNTAIN SIDE

Fear That Third Avalanche, Larger Than Ever, May Take Place

AT JACKSON, WYO.

JACKSON, Wyoming, June 30.—(United Press). — Chief Mountain, the source of two great avalanches into the Gros Ventre River valley, to-day threatened to continue its whimsical behaviour.

A well-defined crack extending several miles over the north end of the mountain was believed to be a warning that a third avalanche, larger than any heretofore, is threatened.

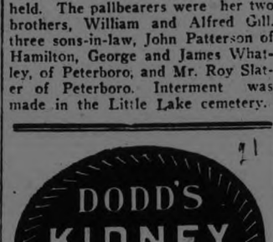
MRS. CHARLES WHATLEY.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Chas. Whatley took place yesterday afternoon. The service was conducted by the Rev. J. D. Richardson of St. James' Church. The floral tributes were many, an evidence of the high esteem in which the deceased was held. The pallbearers were her two brothers, William and Alfred Gill, three sons-in-law, John Patterson of Hamilton, George and James Whatley, of Peterboro, and Mr. Roy Slater of Peterboro. Interment was made in the Little Lake cemetery.



EXAMINER DATED 1857 SHOWS UP CHANGES IN CITY

Address Given as "Canada West" and All Monies Are in British Coinage.

FAMILIAR NAMES

"James Stevenson, Mayor," is Signature on Proclamation of Reward.

The changes brought about by the whirligig of time are well exemplified by a glance through an old copy of the Examiner dated June 9, 1857, discovered in an ancient pumphouse in the city last week, by A. W. Spencley.

Even the heading of the paper recalls pre-Confederation days. The address of the paper is given as at Peterborough, Canada West. All monetary terms indicate that the British coinage was then the only standard in use.

The newspaper, a four page journal contains an account of the murder at sea of the captain of a ship engaged in the slave trade, and gives over two columns to the recording of a debate in the Imperial Parliament on the Jew Bill, a measure introduced with the object of allowing British born Jews to sit in the House of Commons. Two historic names, Lord John Russell and Lord Palmerston appear prominently in the account of the debate.

There is also a report of the shooting of a Mormon elder in the United States by an irate husband whose wife had joined the sect and had become the ninth spouse of the Mormon.

Some names that have still a familiar sound in Peterboro' ears appear in the pages of the old sheet. There is a proclamation signed by the Mayor, James Stevenson; a long letter from James Smith, M.P.P.; in the business directory column is the advertisement of E. Burnham, Barrister at Law; and a local practitioner of that day informs his client that he has removed to Simcoe street, two doors east of the residence of Captain Rubidge.

Some other items seem quite topical at the present day. For instance, we read of an uprising in India and warfare between the Indian rebels and British troops; of uneasiness in China, with British, American and French warships anchored in Chinese ports; and we are told of a riot in Dublin!

No Prohibition!

James Thomson, who at that time carried on business in "Henthorn's Block", Hunter street, advertises for sale 30 barrels of whiskey, "cheap for cash." Perhaps to take the sting out of the offer, he adds that he will receive in a few days a supply of temperance drinks, suitable for the season, including sarsaparilla, strawberry, cream of peaches.

Decimal Currency.

Another iteresting statement is the announcement that the Canadian banks were about to adopt the decimal system of currency. It is added "There can be no doubt but England will accomodate her measures of money to the same rule. Nothing but prejudice would stand up against the innovation.

The name "Red Rose" has been a guarantee of quality for 30 years

NATURE LORE

By WALLACE HAVELOCK ROBB

ASKING DADDY

Do bluebirds ever kiss the sky?
Do catbirds ever scratch?
What makes the swallows fly so high,
When they have eggs to hatch?

O Daddy, why can't people fly,
And sing, like birds, all day;
I wish they could, then you and I,
Would fly so far away.

I'd be a Bluebird, you a Wren,
And John, a Robin Red,
And Mother, from a swallow's nest,
Would make our downy bed.

We'd be so happy, all day long,
We'd never, never cry,
Just play, and sing a warbling song,
Oh, how I'd love to fly!

—W. H. R.

If we could answer all the questions about the birds, which come our way, we would be very wise indeed. However, we can at least try, and day by day, Nature Lore will find some little point of interest.

Only last night, I was called to the telephone by a man who wanted to know what to do about a poor little robin, just out of the nest and unable to fly and crippled, it seems, for one of its wings appears to be deformed. The parent birds cannot take care of it and this gentleman's children are going to protect and feed it, so they have come to Nature Lore for help. We do not know everything, but will give those little girls and their robin, every help we know of.

Flit spray clears the house in a few minutes of mosquitoes and disease-bearing flies. It is clean, easy and safe to use.

Kills Household Insects

Flit spray also destroys bed bugs, roaches, ants, and insect eggs. The cracks and crevices where insects hide and breed are readily reached by Flit spray. Spraying Flit on garments kills moths and their larvae which eat holes. Extensive tests showed that Flit did not stain or injure the most delicate fabrics.

A Scientific General Insecticide

Flit is the result of exhaustive research by expert entomologists and chemists. More than 70 formulas were tested on various household insects before Flit was finally perfected. Flit is a 100% effective insecticide containing no inactive (inert) ingredients.

WHY SUMMER TOYS SHOULD SUPPLANT THE OTHERS

Summer toys are unusually fascinating this year, and whether we plan a vacation at mountain or beach resort or near the backyard sand pile we will find some we want. All the good Winter toys should be mended and furbished up if they need repairs, then packed away until Fall. This gives the old toys a period of rest that lengthens their career, and they are a fresh joy when they come back to the nursery in the early shut-in days.

The ever-popular shovel-and-pail sets vary in choice each season. There are wooden ones with real hoops and paddle-shaped shovels, boat-shaped tin with marine decorations, tall tin pails with pastel colorings having a shiny finish, and one mounted on a small tongued wagon that can be drawn about by the little run around.

The water toys include several mechanical ones, such as a swimming frog, a baby doll girl swimmer, motor boats of all sizes, and swimming ducks that look like big decoy ducks. Then there is an endless array of rubber animals, water inhabitants, and dolls that are inflated with air and move quite naturally over the surface of the waters. Any of these things could be used in a big tub of water in the backyard as well as in larger brooks or streams. Of course, the old water toys guided by magnets are offered with many additions to the well-known favorites. Boats and aeroplanes are always a delight to the youngsters.

Sand molds are as much fun to use as patty pans borrowed in the old days to hold our mud pies. There are wooden molds in all shapes, painted and unpainted. There are also light-weight aluminum, painted tin and earthern ware molds. All these are attractive and the price is not a serious consideration. Of course, there are regular sand screens such as builders use, mills that turn with sand streams as they do with water, switchback railway with dumping cars, and elaborately geared sand derricks.

There is a lovely tea basket, fitted with a sandwich box, a wee cake box, a wee cake box, an open compartment for fruit, and a thermos for milk or cocoa, that promises to be very popular for beach, wood or backyard parties. Little enamelware cups, saucers and plates, a real teapot for the "cambric" tea, and a little case for the teaspoons. At the side, there is a wide loop for the rolled bibs. The delight of an outdoor meal suggested by the presence of the basket is enough to stir the most reluctant appetite.

VELVET AND SATIN.

A FASHION MODEL'S DIARY

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE TELLS ABOUT A NEW COIN DOTTED FROCK

"What do you girls think of this?" Madame asked the above question as she entered the manikins' room, where we were all resting after a strenuous morning.

The "this" she referred to was a bolt of material she had under one arm. As she spoke she unfurled more of the fabric, so we could see that it was a border material. The background was soft cream and the dots were bright, bright red.

"How perfect!" said Pam, who has a great weakness for polka dots of every kind, size and description.

"They're the new coin cots which I'm going to feature in all my crepes from now on," Madame explained.

"I see where the whole countryside will be coin dotted, for I can't imagine anything lovlier for the country, or for the city either, than these lovely dots," said Pam.

"You see, coin dots may be of any size and description, and they don't have to vary from large to small as these dots do," Madame explained. "This just happens to be a border material that I liked especially well and decided I couldn't do without."

"They are making a lot of border materials, aren't they?" asked Pam.

"Yes, indeed," replied Madame. "Border fabrics are smart in kasha for three-quarter coats, as well as in thin crepes and muslins for warm weather wear."

Of course we all wanted to see, and we crowded about as Madame searched in her sketch book for the design she had created.

I peeped over her shoulder and saw that the material was to be made into a stunning tunic frock. The border was so arranged that at the yoke the dots ranged from big to small, and at the hem of the tunic was another border, beginning with big dots and running up to small ones.

"What smart tight sleeves!" someone exclaimed.

"This frock is of such a snappy type that I thought it required tight sleeves," Madame commented.

The foundation skirt was made so the big dots reached all the way to the hem and the whole effect of the dress was one of animated dots.

"What kind of hat is the young lady wearing?" I asked.

"It's to be fine black Bankgok straw with a flesh border, and a bunch of tiny red flowers at the side," Madame explained.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

The rich man's wife is getting a divorce—out West.

Poor thing, and she used to be so happy with her husband, so very happy.

People used to call them Darby and Joan and the Cup and Saucer.

They had a nice little business in a quiet part of town, and Julia had an interest in it. She worked very hard, did Julia, helping her husband build up the business, but she was never too busy at the office to get home in time to get a good dinner for John. Not just something good enough, but something very good. Just exactly what John liked, cooked and served exactly as John liked it. No paper bag meals for John, not if Julia had to sit up late once or twice a week to set the dough for John's favorite breakfast rolls.

And the little home was always bright with flowers in it, there was a lilac bush at the gate, all hung in purple clusters. There was a good old dog in the garden, too, and there was a canary bird in a cage. I hate to see a bird in a cage, but Julia and John didn't hate it—and Julia was always gay and light hearted, and she had a funny little way of singing all the new songs under her breath, part of the way, and then whistling the rest of them, and John would whistle with her in a kind of tenor.

She Pretended to Like Chess.

And evenings, they played cards together or chess. I don't think Julia cared much for chess, but John was fond of it, and she pretended that she was fond of it, took and they were always having a few friends in for the evening. Oh, nothing exciting, just a record on the victrola and a little dancing and some coffee and sandwiches, and maybe a home-made cake along about eleven o'clock. Yes, they really were happy—Julia and John. They had a nice little car, and they used to spend their Sundays in the country. Julia wished she had some children, but that was the only thing in her life she wanted that she didn't have.

And then all at once things took a sudden turn and John began to get rich. It was gradual at first, but the money seemed to bring money, and John got richer and richer.

He bought a fine big house in a smart part of town, and he wanted Julia to have plenty of servants. So they had a cook and a maid and the houseman and a chauffeur, and John had a big touring car for himself and a roadster, and he bought Julia a beautiful limousine.

And Julia went to the best shops and bought the best sort of clothes, and she really is quite a handsome woman, Julia, and everybody said how stunning she looked. And she had a box at the opera and a box at the horse-show, and she and John went down to Palm Beach in December and out to California in February, and along about June, Julia ran over to Paris to see the smart modes—and then she began to notice that John didn't seem to have much time at home.

He Sent Her to Palm Beach.

And last Winter he sent her to Palm Beach without him, and when it came time to go to California he persuaded her to ask her sister and her niece to go with her to the Coast. He stayed. He said "business was business," and he really couldn't make it this time, but poor Julia, she didn't know what was the matter, but she knew it was something besides business that was keeping John. Then some kind friend wrote and told her the miserable truth, and she hurried home, and John admitted it. He said he would settle a good fortune on her and he wished she would set him free.

And now Julia wishes that she and John were poor again and were living in the little home in the quiet part of town. Sometimes when she starts to singing under her breath and gets to the whistling part—she stops all at once and looks as if she wanted to cry.

Poor Julia—and poor John.

How little it means to us sometimes, the thing we work so hard to get—when we really get it.

HOME TOWN RECIPE.

Date cookies are among the very nicest of confections for any occasion. This is a recipe for them used by Mrs. J. F. Sullivan, 468 Gilmour Street:

2 Cups brown sugar.
1 Cup good shortening (or butter and lard mixed).
2 Eggs.
1 Teaspoon soda.

Add enough flour to make a soft dough. Roll cookies and then put in filling before cooking. Make the filling of 1 lb. dates and 1 cup brown sugar, cooked together in a soft paste.

Let's Talk It Over

When Ooo La La, the Sultan's favorite, told the old man a few fancy fables about that little affair in the garden, you could hardly blame her. Fancy fables were Oo La La's main safeguard in a mighty hazardous occupation. Honesty was not the best policy in harem days—it was the worst. Any lady who told the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth about what lay on her mind was apt to get herself tied to a sack and dumped into the Bosphorus. Which same tended to discourage frankness and domestic argument. So if Oo La La wanted to keep her head and her three squares per day, she had to mold the facts to fit the Sultan's fancy. Otherwise she was outta luck.

But when it comes to Mrs. Bill Smith fibbing to Bill and telling the girls not to let Poppa find out about it, that's quite another matter. Quite!

We live in a country called Canada. It is a free and friendly country. It is the friendliest country in all the world for the ladies.

You can't even forbid her to use your safety razor for a neck shave these days without running the risk of being sued on the grounds of mental cruelty. That shows how nice Canadian men have to be to Canadian women, for if a man can't defend his own safety razor, what's left?

Moreover, if in spite of all Bill's good manners, Mrs. Bill decides she doesn't like domestic life, she can go right out and get a job any day she wants. She "doesn't have to stand for Bill's nonsense one minute more than she likes"—no, siree! She can get any sort of job, from pulling eyebrows to running for Parliament. The sky's the limit in Canada as far as Mrs. Bill is concerned.

And yet, in spite of all this freedom and protection and consideration, 99 per cent of the married woman lie to their husbands, and teach such lying to their daughters as earnestly as though they were inmates of a Turkish harem!

From the time little Claribel dons her first hair ribbon she sees other ladies, little and big, Managing Men. Big Sister manages her Sweeties; Mamma manages Dad. They manage them by flattery and fibbing, by half-truths and fairy tales, just as Oo La La managed her man. It all seems a delightful game to little Claribel. She takes to it like a duck to water. And so, in spite of the fact that this is Canada in 1925, she grows up acting as if she were in Turkey in 1700. "Yes, you can go to Sally's party, but you mustn't let poppa know," she cautions. "You know how crazy set he is against those jazz parties, and he'll just take my head off if he finds out I let you go. So if he asks you anything, girls, say you went to Dorothy's to spend the night."

Sounds familiar, doesn't it? It is familiar. It's happening in practically every home to-day in greater or less degree. Now I'm not one of those ruthless abolitionists who would banish the comfortable habit of fibbing entirely from our midst. A fib in time has often saved nine from mighty uncomfortable consequences. There are several subjects concerning which I'd rather be fibbed to than told the truth about. My looks, for instance.

But what I am agin hard is this continual false dealing between man and woman, particularly in the home. There's no earthly reason why a wife should lie for protection from her husband. If the truth makes him noisy, she can call the cop. If it makes him brutal, she can sue for divorce. If she doesn't want a divorce, she can go out and get a job and support herself and her children. If she has the courage to stand up on her hind legs and stick to her guns, she won't be forced to any of these desperate expedients. It's a lot easier to lie to get your board paid than it is to tell the truth and hustle for your own grub. But the woman of to-day has one justification: If Mrs. Bill Smith lies to Bill, it's either because she's a coward, or because she's lazy. Or both!

SUCCESSFUL SOCIAL.

Women of Murray Street Church Held Lawn Social on Grounds.

The Women's Association of the Murray street Baptist church held a lawn social on the church grounds last evening. Considering the cool weather, the attendance was very satisfactory. Excellent music was supplied during the evening by the band of the Salvation Army. General arrangements were in charge of the president, Mrs. Stanley Blewett. A flower sale was supervised by Mrs. B. Jackson. Mrs. R. Gavine had charge of the tea, coffee and sandwiches, Mrs. G. P. Edwards and Mrs. J. P. Cunningham of the strawberries, Mrs. W. Wilson of the cake, Mrs. Walter Kidd and Mrs. Sage of the ice cream. The convenors were assisted by groups of energetic lady assistants, and young ladies of the church helped in serving refreshments.

The age-old charm of daintiness

THROUGH all the ages fair women have realized that daintiness—immaculate cleanliness—forms a large part of their feminine appeal.

But no matter how scrupulous the attentions bestowed upon the hands, the complexion, and all the little niceties of the toilet, if there be even a suspicion of the unpleasantness which arises from excessive perspiration, the picture is marred!—further effort is of no avail. No one is entirely free from this scourge—called by physicians Hyperidrosis. It is the bête noir of dainty womanhood!

Odorono, applied locally, corrects any tendency to perspiration. Odorono is a toilet necessity of incalculable value to every woman who aspires to daintiness.

Odorono is harmless. Physicians have proved beyond a doubt that perspiration, while necessary to health, may be locally checked without causing any ill effect. Odorono is used extensively in hospitals as a safe, scientific corrective.

An application of Odorono twice a week will protect against all embarrassment and discomfort from excessive perspiration. No more stained, soiled clothing! Never again the consciousness of that odour of perspiration rising between you and the enjoyment of the society of your friends!

No dainty woman can afford to be without Odorono. Three million women find continuous relief by its use. It is obtainable at all toilet counters or by mail postpaid. In three sizes. Prices: 35c, 60c and $1.00. Address The Odorono Co., Ltd., 107 Duke St., Toronto.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

William Melhorn, Western Open Golf champion, who is in my opinion the best golfer in existence today, combines with his great playing a method of teaching that he calls the "natural method," and one of the surprising things he acquaints the player with is the fact that in his own driving swing, which sends forth a ball of from 250 to 350 yards, there is not the slightest pressure exerted by him on the clubhead until just before the clubhead meets the ball. Here he exerts what he calls a "slap." "This, he says, "is the same sort of slap you would give a hammer striking a nail." Mehlhorn has the distinction of being a player of the first rank and golf teacher with a method peculiarly effective for Americans, whose golf playing has to take into account the early habits of baseball and other American juvenile sports. The Mehlhorn swing is the golf swing perfect, and his simplicity of action is so easily discernible to the onlooker that seeing him in action constitutes one of the best of golf lessons.

PETES CAN PUT THEMSELVES ON THE TOP SHELF

A Win Over Oshawa Tomorrow Leaves Them Tied for First.

BATTLE EXPECTED

Dainty Has Been Saved Up for Petes' Benefit Tomorrow.

The biggest crowd of the season will be at Riverside Park tomorrow morning when Oshawa and Peterboro lock horns in a Central Ontario League fixture in which a win means much for either team.

Outside fans from all over the district will be here. The Motor City of course contributing a big bunch of rooters. The pennant bee is buzzing merrily in Oshawa and the enthusiasts up there can see nothing but the Reeves men for the honours.

The Petes are going nicely again now having won their last two starts and they are hopeful of making it three straight at the expense of Oshawa and finishing the first half of schedule with nobody in front of them.

It will be called at 10 o'clock sharp with Geo. Sullivan and Ken Colling officiating.

EXAMINER TO PLAY BANKERS THURSDAY

Leadership of Mercantile League at Stake in Next Game.

The Bankers and Examiner will meet Thursday night in what promises to be the best game of the Mercantile League. First place in the league is at stake so a great battle can be expected. If the Bankers turn in a win they will take first place in the league while if the Examiner outfit wins they will get first place.

Both outfits possess some smart players who are capable of turning in a good brand of ball. The game is called for 6.00 o'clock Thursday, and a goodly number of fans should be on hand to see the game.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

Flushed with pride in their achievement of having won five games in a row and thus climbing to the top of the Central Ontario League ladder, and with Duke Dainty all primed to work on the firing line, Manager Les Reeves' Oshawa crew will be here tomorrow morning to face the Petes in one of the most momentuous games of the season. The race is so close that a win for the Johnstonites would leave them tied for first place with Oshawa and likely with Kingston as well, while a defeat would drop them down into third position, as it is more than likely that the Ponies will beat Belleville tomorrow.

* * * * * * * * * *

With so much hinging on the result, both teams will be keyed up to the highest pitch, and the result should be a game that will keep the fans on their feet all the way. Geo. Sullivan of Kingston and Ken. Colling of Belleville will be the officials, and they will send the teams away sharp at 10 o'clock.

* * * * * * * * * *

There will be no game, exhibition or otherwise, tomorrow afternoon so far as the Petes are concerned, although if the weather conditions prevented the Oshawa-Peterboro game taking place in the morning it is likely that it will be played in the afternoon if possible.

* * * * * * * * * *

Fans are asked to remember that the Central Ontario League fixture tomorrow is a morning game, weather permitting, with the start scheduled for 10 o'clock sharp.

* * * * * * * * *

If Al. Heckman is sent to the mound for the Petes tomorrow it will be his first start of the season on the home grounds and his first appearance in the box since June 10th. Heck has victories over Belleville and Oshawa to his credit this season and a loss at the hands of Kingston, while Whitehouse has won two games each from Kingston and Belleville and has had a loss from each of these two teams. He has not been in action against Oshawa.

* * * * * * * * *

With tomorrow's games half of the Central Ontario League schedule will be completed, and the half-way house finds Oshawa, Kingston and Peterboro bunched, while Belleville is dropping away. In the dash down the stretch it promises to be a three-cornered race, with Belleville, although always dangerous and liable to spill the beans for somebody else, only having an outside chance to get up with the leaders.

* * * * * * * * *

The Kingston Ponies will be the attraction at Riverside Park again on Saturday, and indications point to as pretty a battle as last Saturday's tilt. The Ponies and Petes have broken even so far this season, each winning their two home games, so that a win for the Johnstonites Saturday will mean the edge on the season's campaign. Whitehouse and Cairns will undoubtedly be the opposing gunners in the week-end game.

DOMINION DAY DOUBLE-HEADER

Two Good Games Will be Played by City League Teams on Holiday.

FAST BASEBALL

The City League executive has arranged for Riverside Park for tomorrow afternoon, and a double header will be staged, with one juvenile and one junior game.

The juvenile game, which will open the double bill, will bring together the fast travelling Knights of Columbus and their close rivals, the Kiwanis team. The game will be a battle from the drop of the hat and the fans would be well advised to be there early. The game will be called at 2.00 o'clock and will go seven innings.

The Lakeviews and C.G.E. will meet in the junior encounter. After losing last night's game to the Hillcrests, the Ontario Champions can ill afford to let another slip. Twice this season the more experienced Electricians, with Jeff Hardill pitching, have beaten the made over Lakeviews, but the Champs are hopeful still and expect to win. The leaders are out to show that they can win, even after their star hurler has been drafted by the seniors. With the Central League fixture in the morning, three fiery contests will be staged for the fans.

The fans should remember that the City League is well represented on the Senior team, Whitehouse, Hardill, Helson, MacPherson, Legon, Wolfe, Hall and Ash were all taken from the City League teams in the last three years. A little encouragement by attending on the holiday afternoon will help the managers and backers of the league in their struggle to develop more players of senior calibre, a struggle that draws heavily on their time and money, and for which they receive all to little credit.

FIRST VICTORY FOR HILLCRESTS

Manager MacMahon's Boys Beat Lakeviews to Break Into Win Column.

SEE-SAW CONTEST

Hillcrests broke into the win column of the Junior City League at the expense of the Lakeviews, whom they defeated at Riverside Park last night by the score of 5-3. Good pitching on the part of Harold Ralph, who held the Lakeviews to three hits, was responsible for the victory of the East City crowd. They did not give their pitcher the support he deserved, but made up for their four errors by clouting out nine safe hits.

Three pitchers worked for the LeBarr crew and although they struck out 11 between them, they were no puzzle to the Hillcrests. Carl Wood was off to a good start when he twisted his ankle in the fourth and retired, leaving a lead of one run to "Shocky" Mein, who succeeded him. Although Mein retired two men on strikes in the fifth, he also allowed three hits and walked a man, sending in two runs. Donnelly suceeded him and allowed but one hit in two frames but struck a wild streak in the seventh, sending in one run.

Kearns and Clancy were the batting stars. Each made two hits in four attempts. Kearns earned his by his fleetness afoot, beating Scotty McLeish, who is no slow-poke, to the bag twice on slow rollers. Collins, Scully and Woods were the hitters for the Lakeviews, collecting one each. Woods was up only once.

A double header wil be played on Wednesday (Dominion Day) afternoon.

LOCK WORKS WIN IN MERCANTILE

GOOD PITCHING.

A very interesting battle was staged at Riverside Park, Saturday, after the Central League game, Johnnie Burke's All Stars from the Lock Works handing the Bankers the short end of a 7-2 score.

The husky Lock Fitters were full of pep and were out for blood. Donnelly turned in a wonderful exhibition of heaving, striking out fourteen of the Bankers. He had an air-tight infield behind him all the time.

Casey Masterson and Chuck Kennealey worked hard for the Bankers but had not much support behind them, there being many holes in the infield.

The line ups:

Standing Of League.

In the Juvenile League De Laval play Vets on Wednesday morning, July 1st, at King Edward Park, at 10 o'clock, in a friendly game.

PLAYERS' INIFORMATION.

Law 2 — Instruction to Players—Many players when the whistle sounds for the start, run inside the opponents' ten yards' circle or cross the half way line. This is wrong, as the game commences with the kick-off, not with the referee's signal.

Law 9. — Charging must not be penalized unless it is violent or dangerous. A player may be charged from behind when he is intentionally obstructing an opponent, whether he is facing his own goal or not, but the charging must under no circumstances be violent or dangerous. Even if your opponent is intentionally obstructing you, you have no right to charge him in a manner likely to do him injury. Let charging be of the good honest type.

New Ruling.

The playing field will have special markings at the penalty box, according to the latest revision in the soccer code, but which do not come into effect here regularly until next season. A semi-circle dotted line with a radius of 10 yards from the penalty spot will intersect the 18-yard line. This is to prevent "crowding" at penalty kicks, the players being required to stand outside the dotted line, and was brought into force to prevent hampering the man taking the free kick, which became quite a vogue in British soccer a year ago.

Next Monday evening the draw for the Turner cup will take place.

Owing to the game being not finished the full time in the Masseys vs. DeLaval game on May 16th, will be replayed at an early date.

THE MARKETS

ored at 20 5-8c per lb., and No. 1 white at 20 1-2c per lb., while eastern No. 1 white and colored sold at 20c to 20 1-4c per lb. The exports from the port of Montreal for the past week showed an increase of 27,929 boxes with the same week last year, while the total for the season to date have been 79,848 boxes larger than last year.

Fair amount of business continues to be done in baled hay owing to the improved demand for supplies for the number of export cattle that are being shipped from this port to Great Britain. But as the receipts are ample to meet all requirements the tone of the market remains steady with sales of No. 2 timothy hay at $14 per ton, No. 3 timothy at $11 to $12 per ton, and clover mixed hay at $10.50 to $11 per ton, F. O. b. cars here.

WILLS AND GREB FAVORED TO WIN

Expected to Beat Weinert and Walker at Polo Grounds.

NEW YORK, June 30. —(Canadian Press). —Harry Wills, giant Negro heavyweight, and Harry Greb world's middleweight champion were favorites to-day in the betting on the main bouts of 15 rounds at the Polo Grounds, Thursday night for the Italian Hospital fund.

Odds of 4 to 1 on Wills to defeat Charley Weinert, of Newark, N. Y., prevailed in spite of the fact that word had come from the New Jersey boxer's camp that he had closed strenous training in the best condition of his career.

Greb was an 8 to 5 choice over his challenger, Mickey Walker, world's welter-weight champion for a special six round bout. Jimmy Slattery, sensational Buffalo, N. Y. middleweight was a 5 to 2 selection over Dave Shade, California welterweight.

OLD COUNTRY CRICKET.

LONDON, June 30. — (Canadian Press).—County cricket championship games which concluded yesterday resulted as follows:

Gloucestershire defeated Glamorganshire by 66 runs; Gloucestershire 162 and 199 (Smith 59 and Dipper 62); Glamorganshire 112 and 183 (Riches 74).

Yorkshire defeated Surrey by ten wickets; Surrey 105 and 175 (Shepherd 65 not out); Yorkshire 233 in the first innings (Holmes 86) and in the second innings 49 without the loss of a wicket.

H. D. G. Leveson-Gower's eleven defeated Oxford by an innings and 47 runs; Oxford 56 and 182; Leveson-Gower's team 285 (Naumann 69 and Steven 66).

Hampshire beat Leicester by 335 runs, Hampshire making 205 (Brown 64, Bignall 50) and 303 (Newman 61, Brown 70, Tennyson 54); Leicester made 59 and 114.

STRIBLING WON.

Unpopular Verdict Given by Detroit Judges Against Gorman.

DETROIT, June 30.—(Canadian Press). — William L. ("Young") Stribling received the judge's decision over Bud Gorman in ten rounds here last night. Both fighters are light-heavyweights. The verdict was unpopular.

ARREST BOXER.

Order Issued For Mascart Alleged to be Jumping Fight Contract.

NEW YORK, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—An order for the arrest of Edouard Mascart, featherweight champion of France, was issued yesterday afternoon by Supreme Court Justice Benedict on the application of the promoters of the Coney Island Stadium, that Mascart planned to sail to-day for France in spite of the fact he is bound by a contract to fight Babe Herman of California at the stadium to-night.

TORONTO GOLFER'S SCORE WAS BEST

Stanley Thompson's Led the Field at Ottawa Monday.

ROYAL OTTAWA GOLF CLUB, Ottawa, Ont., June 30.—(Canadian Press).—Stanley Thompson of the Missisauga Golf Club, Toronto, with a score of 146 for the 36 holes of medal play in the qualifying round, yesterday headed the field of 95 players participating in the Canadian amateur golf championship, thirty of whom, with scores of 164 and better, commenced match play to-day in the elimination series.

The struggle for the qualifying medal resolved itself into a duel between Stanley Thompson and Lauren Upson of Delphaso, California, who was runner-up with 148. Thompson had 72 for the morning round which Upson led with 71, but in the afternoon Thompson got round in 74, while the United States entrant got away badly and took 77.

Max R. Marston, Philadelphia,1923 amateur champion of the United States, was third with 149. W. T. Thompson, brother of Frank, and a member of the same club, and Don Carrick of Scarboro, Toronto, tied for fourth place with 151. C. C. "Happy" Fraser, of Kanawaki, Montreal, had 152, and Fred. M. Lyon, the youthful player of Lambton, Toronto, was close on the heels of the veteran with 153.

Others who were successful in surviving the qualifying round were A. H. "Art" Ross, manager and coach of the Boston professional hockey team, 156; J. A. Cameron, Ottawa, and George S. Lyon, Lambton, of Toronto.

GOLF NEWS

The Following is the draw for the fourth round for the Stratton Trophy to be played on or before July 6th. This is medal play and in the event of a tie, a second 18 holes must be played.

Fred Green vs. Joseph Wearing.
Percy Bond vs. O. A. DeGraw.
F. C. Webber vs. Chas. Ackerman.
W. F. Huycke—Bye.

TUNNEY SIGNED.

CHICAGO, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight champion, was signed yesterday to engage in a ten-round contest at East Chicago on July 17, but his opponent has not been selected.

HAD BOILS ALL OVER HIM

There is only one way to get rid of boils and that is by going right to the seat of the trouble—the blood—as the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

cleanses the system and removes all the foul matter from the blood in a way that few medicines will do.

Mrs. Chas. Rankin, Bulyea, Sask., writes:—"A few years ago my husband had a terrible time with boils On one arm he had 16 between his elbow and wrist; five on the back of his neck, and several more on different parts of his body. He tried everything he could think of, but got no relief until he took Burdock Blood Bitters, and to his surprise it completely relieved him of his boils in a very short time."

LIBERAL PARTY IN NOVA SCOTIA LACKS LEADER

London Times Attributes Recent Defeat to Effect of Miners' Strike.

OTHER INFLUENCES.

Feeling of Resentment That Interests of Maritimes Were Neglected.

LONDON, June 30. — (Canadian Press Cable).—The Times attributes the Liberal defeat in the recent general election in Nova Scotia to the inability of the Cabinet of Premier E. H. Armstrong to cope with the Cape Breton strikes. The Liberal party, the Times says, is admittedly wanting in leadership since the days of Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. George H. Murray, but over and above all is the growing resentment of the whole province against what it regards as neglect of its interests by the rest of Canada.

"In many quarters recently," the Times continues, "there have been open threats of secession—not from the Empire, for nowhere in the Dominion is there firmer loyalty to the Imperial connection than along the eastern seaboard—but secession from the Dominion. Farther west in Canada it has been the fashion to treat these vague murmurs from the Maritimes with a certain amount of polite incredulity."

Noteing some interesting sidelights on the election, the Times declares that it is a remarkable thing that in the great democracies of the American continent Labor as a power in Parliament scarcely exists, its leaders apparently preferring to exert their influence through the medium of the trades unions which are growing less and less inclined to observe the political boundary between Canada and the United States.

Apropos of the possible effect of the Nova Scotia election on the plans for a Federal election, the Times says that all the contingencies which were supposed to effect the decision of Premier Mackenzie King have now been settled. The farmers have had a bounteous harvest and are presumably well satisfied with Providence and the present Dominion Premier. The Saskatchewan Liberals are safely back in power. The rout of the Nova Scotia Liberals is at least suggestive of a re-action in the East. "It does not, of course, follow that Nova Scotia would send a predominently conservative team to Ottawa, but there must be many Liberals in Eastern Canada who view the possibility of an early Dominion election with uneasiness, and they will find little consolation in the fact that as the Canadian Government which has lived out its full term has survived an appeal to the constituencies."

NO DELIVERY MADE ON DOMINION DAY

There will be two collections made from the street letter boxes, commencing at 8 a.m. and 9 p.m.

ALL SAINTS' CHOIR HELD ANNUAL PICNIC

Sporting Events Made Up Big Afternoon's Fun For Big Party.

The annual picnic of All Saints' choir will be long remembered, especially by the majority of the adults who made the trip. About sixty-five members and friends of the choir made the journey to Wallace's Point on Saturday afternoon, leaving shortly after half-past one and returning about nine o'clock. The contract for transporting the crowd was in the hands of Messrs. Cooney & Jopling, who lived up to their boast that they could move anything, providing a bus and a moving van for the choir. The heavy bass voices were, of course, put in the big van and caused an interruption in the journey, as it was necessary to stop at a corner grocery and get some boxes and put under the seats, which were sagging with the weight.

On arrival at the point a yelling mob of choir boys surrounded the van. Being unoppressed by the duties and cares of business, they had been able to make the journey at high noon, and had already tested the fishing, swimming, amusement devices and refreshment booth before their elders appeared on the scene.

On the arrival of the main squadron, a baseball game was quickly started and the antics of such dignified persons as Choirmaster George Chandler and Stan. Willis brought forth much sarcastic comment from the more agile choir boys. George East, as umpire, proved to be as blind as the best of them, calling them according to no known code of rules.

After the heavy baskets had been deprived of their contents, which were laid out on the long table, the favorite call of a chorister's life was heard and no repetition was necessary.

When the eats had disappeared adjournment was made to a nearby field, where a good program of races was run off. The prize winners were:

Boys' race, handicap—Stanley Clark, Roy Hope.

Single ladies' race — Violet Young, Grace Copping.

Men's race, open—Stanley Willis, G. E. Chandler.

Consolation race—Bryan Roberts.

Ladies' tug-of-war — Heavyweights vs. Nevergiveups was won by the latter after a terrific struggle.

Running broad jump — Albert Lasenby.

Another softball game was played after the events, while certain members of the party risked their lives by taking active young choir boys out in a canoe. Between reaching for waterlilies and standing up to see if the party were breaking up, the lads made life miserable for their elders.

PRESENT CLOCK TO COGNAWAGA MAN

The Cognawaga Athletic Club of St. James' church met recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Davis, to congratulate their son, Dorsey L. Davis, upon his entering the sea of matrimony.

A splendid address was given by the superintendent, Wm. McLaren, in his usual humorous way, outlining the splendid work done by Dorsey, as organizer, and first president of the club, and recalled the many happy pastimes that the members had enjoyed together. He also spoke of the remarkable success achieved by the club, through consistent co-operation with each other

Kenneth Shadgett then made the presentation of a handsome mantle clock, while Mr. McLaren, after jovially warning the recipient of the many pitfalls of matrimonial life, expressed the hope that the clock would be a pleasant reminder of the many happy friendships in the club.

Although taken by surprise, the recipient made a suitable reply, thanking the speaker for his warnings as to his intended matrimonial ventures, and drawing the attention of the club to the never-to-be-forgotten memories of his association with them.

The gathering broke up with the usual good wishes, after singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

EBBER COMES BACK.

Beat Howard Mayberry Decisively on His Return to the Ring.

HAMILTON, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—Bobby Ebber returned to the ring here last night after an absence of seven months and punched his way to a victory over Howard Mayberry. At no stage of the journey was Mayberry in the picture, and the fans marvelled at Ebber's cleverness and willingness to mix things.

The former Hamilton idol started in the opening round to pile up a lead, and at the end of the fifth round Mayberry was a badly beaten boxer.

CHAUTAUQUA IS COMING TO CITY

Programmes to be Given Daily From July 31 to August 5.

FIVE DAYS.

The sparkling comedy, "Give and Take;" original musical production, 'The Shepherd's Dream;" the Great Laurant in magic and mystery extraordinary; lectures by such headliners as William Rainey Bennett and Dr. Hilton Ira Jones—these are among the exceptional attractions which will appear here at the big 1925 Dominion Redpath Chautauqua which opens Friday, July 31st, and continues for five days.

The Jogo-Slav Tamburica Orchestra, one of the best known and most distinctive musical organizations on the platform, will open the Chautauqua on the first afternoon with an outstanding program. Following a prelude concert by the Jogo-Slavs on the first night, Dr. Hilton Ira Jones, noted scientist and lecturer, will deliver a popular and informative lecture, "Science and the Future," illustrated with interesting platform demonstrations.

A novelty concert given on the second afternoon by the Faubel Entertainers will feature costumed sketches, character impersonations and instrumental numbers both classic and popular. At night, the Great Laurant and Company will appear in a lavishly staged, spectacular production of magic and illusions.

On the third afternoon Julian B. Arnold, distinguished traveler, author and savant, son of Sir Edwin Arnold, will deliver his fascinating, enthralling lecture, "Arabian Knights."

The great modern comedy success, "Give and Take," will be given on the third night by a cast of New York actors organized especially for the Dominion Redpath Chautauquas.

On the fourth afternoon the well known Chicago Lyric Singers will give a grand concert. Beautiful songs of Wales, sung in typical Welsh costumes, and gypsy airs rendered in Spanish gypsy garb, are special features of their offerings.

Following a prelude by this talented company at night, William Rainey Bennett, internationally known dramatic orator, will deliver his inspiring address, "Pathways to Power."

On the last afternoon, following a prelude by the Harp Ensemble Company, Everett Kemp, eminent reader-entertainer, will be heard in a great new program.

"The Shepherd's Dream," original musical production, is the feature number of a grand concert presented by the Harp Ensemble Company on the last night. This production is a charmingly portrayed idyll of Arcadia, produced with special costumes and scenery and enhanced by novel lighting effects. In addition, a concert program is given featuring the music of the harp. This is one of the most distinctly enjoyable numbers on the entire Chautauqua program.

Three unique entertainments for children, each to be presented on a different day, will be given in addition to the regular programs for adults. Mr. and Mrs. Faubel will give a unique musical and impersonative program. Julian B. Arnold will tell the children of many interesting lands in which he has travelled. Everett Kemp will delight with a specially arranged program of children's stories.

INDOOR PICNIC AT LAKEFIELD

Sunday School Class Was Driven Indoors by Wet Weather.

LAKEFIELD, June 30.—The M. M. M. class of the (Methodist) Union Sunday School arranged a picnec to be held on Friday afternoon at the Lakefield Park but owing to the dampness, the supper, to which the boys did full justice, was served in the basement of the church. Their very popular teacher, Miss Myrtle Payne was hostess and the boys spent a delightful evening. During the course of the after-supper entertainment, Master Ted Lenoard read an address and Master Sand Millage presented Master Howard Reddick with an Eversharp pencil as a menuento of the plesant relations, which existed among the members of the class. Howard, who leaves shortly for his new home in Bloomfield, Ontario assured his comrades that he would not forget them and would often recall with pleasure his residence in Lakefield.

Few Fans Turn Out

The baseball team has been doing good work, but the boys feel keenly the deplorable lack of local support and on Friday evening the Indian fans were almost two to every one who cheered on the Lakefield boys who put up a good game.

The games for the first half of the season are nearly over, and its not too late to turn over a new leaf. Support the home team and they will give you lots to cheer.

Church Patronal Festival

The festival of St. John the Baptist which occured on Wednesday last, June 24, was duly marked in the Sunday services of St. John the Baptist church. The sermons dealt with the life and message of the patron Saint of the church.

During the months of July and Augustthe Union churches will unite for service according to former custom. During the month of July the morning service will be held in the west side church (Presyterian) and the evening service in the erst while Methodist church.

In August this programme will be reversed.

The annual picnic of St. John's Parish will be held per Str. "Stoney Lake" on Tuesday and will include a trip round the lake with stops at Gilchrist's Bay, Crowe's Landing and Sandy Point.

The W.M.S. of the (Presbyterian) Union church are having an open meeting on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the school room of the west side Union church and have invited members of the other local missionary societies to join them for the afternoon.

Like one of the old-time favorite Bertha M. Clay stories is the plot of "Man and Maid," written, screened and supervised by Elinor Glyn, the well-known authoress. The keynote of the picture is established at once in its opening, when the portrait of the author is thrown on the screen. It is Elinor-Glynish from start to finish. Which doesn't mean that it isn't interesting, but it has the distinctively feminine touch of a woman author, and what appears to be suspiciously like feminine directing. Evidently Elinor Glyn had her finger in the pie all the way, and the result is a picture that is entertaining—and mushy.

An outstanding attribute of "Man and Maid" is the quality of the actors. Elinor Glyn, picking her cast, showed a great degree of discernment. Lew Cody, heretofore a villain of the screen, is the hero, and makes a good one; while Harriet Hammond, almost unknown to movie patrons, is an unusual blonde heroine. The supporting cast is equally good, with the likeable Alec Francis in the role of the friendly butler.

"Women do three things to a man: they elevate him, they degrade him, or they bore him to death," is a sapient introduction by Madame Glyn to the story of the rigid English girl, Alathea Bulteel, with whom the philandering hero, central figure in dozens of romantic adventures with sprightly French damsels, becomes enamored. As the typist of the novel on which Sir Nicholas Thormonde, the hero, is engaged, Alathea comes into contact with his many feminine admirers, and runs foul of Suzette, a vivacious favorite of the moment. However, the fickle fancy of the rich hero attaches itself firmly to the unbending firmness of the blonde heroine, and the conclusion is satisfactory, and quite in keeping with the trend of the whole picture.

A Mack Sennett comedy, "All Night Long," featuring Harry Langdon, is a clever bit of foolery and really very good. It has for a theme the romantic and war-like adventures of a rookie, and holds plenty of laughs in its unfolding.—Jeannette.

A wave of excitement recently agitated the busiest thoroughfare of London when a burly policeman held up the traffic to allow the passage of an aristocratic looking gentleman, immaculately tailored, wheeling the latest thing in expensive baby carriages, to which was attached a sheep which showed an obvious disinclination to cross the road.

Absorbed and quite unperturbed by the amazement caused by his unheralded arrival, the gentleman steered his charge to the opposite side walk, and by the time the crowd had recovered from its astonishment, had apparently vanished into thin air.

At the same moment two cameras which had been taking a record of this unusual scene from the inside of a covered motor lorry ceased to grind and George Fitzmaurice, famous Paramount producer, congratulated himself on having successfully secured a particularly effective and difficult "shot."

The episode showed Cyril Chadwick in his impersonation of 'Spoofy' in "Three Live Ghosts," a Paramount picture, which will be shown at the Capitol theatre next Thursday. Anna Q. Nilsson and Norman Kerry are the featured players.

AT THE ROYAL

TOP OF THE WORLD WELL LIKED AT THE ROYAL.

There is so much to be said for "The Top of the World," George Melfords' photoplay version of the widely read story by Ethel M. Dell, that the only way to prove it to your self is to see this Paramount picture. The audience last night at the Royal Theatre, where the film had its first local showing, was often thrilled, constantly interested and frequently amazed during the projection of this screen play.

"The Top of the World" is loaded with dramatic dynamite which explodes with a terrifying bang at the height of one of the most realistic an dexciting storms ever put into a motion picture. That devastating flood, sweeping down from the high mountain swashing away houses and swallowing up people, is by itself worth several times the price of admission.

Although the story revolves around the familiar "eternal triangle" theme it starts out along brand new lines develops several unique situations and after reaching a melodramatic climax winds up in eminently satisfactory fashion. The characters involved are on English girl, her childhood sweetheart and the latter's cousin. Most of the action occurs in South Africa, a locale admittedly chock-full of color and atmosphere.

Those who choose their film fare on the basis of dramatic strength of story, excellent characterization, pictorial beauty and able direction will find "The Top of the World" the embodiment of perfect screen entertainment.

One of the comedies, "Call a Cop," had the large audience in roars of laughter all through it. Neal Burns is the featured star, William Desmond in "The Riddle Rider," a new chapter play looks like a winner. It is crammed with thrilling action and has the added novelty of good comedy supplied by Hughie Mack, the 400 pound comedian. We consider this a well balanced programme worthy of your attention.

AT THE REGENT

"THE SNOB."

Monta Bell, Harry Rapf's directorial discovery, has hit his third successful film in "The Snob," the Metro-Goldwyn picture which opened last night at the Regent Theatre for an engagement of three days.

The story is that of a handsome, personable young snob, an instructor in a private academy, and a favorite lecturer at women's clubs.

The central character is admirably played by John Gilbert, as the young instructor. The "snob," anxious to advance himself by any means, makes ardent love to the daughter of the town's wealthiest man, although he is engaged to a country school teacher.

He becomes the teacher's husband in a death-bed marriage, and she, contrary to the doctor's prediction, recovers. The "snob's" treatment of her, his infidelity, and his attempts to release himself from the marriage in order to marry the wealthy woman, his fawning on those of greater wealth and position, and his arrogance to those below him, form the basis of the story.

The school teacher leaves him when she discovers his unfaithfulness, and he, learning that she is really a wealthy woman, begs her to come back.

"The Snob" was adapted and directed by Monta Bell, and was presented by Louis B. Mayer.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

Jesus said, "Other sheep I have which are not of this fold; them also I must lead and they shall hear my voice; and they shall be one flock, one shepherd." John 10:16. "Sheep" is a pastoral word, meaning followers of Jesus, and "Shepherd" meaning Jesus. These sheep have characteristics of their own. THEY hear the voice of Jesus, recognize that voice, obey the voice; and are led out by Jesus. He gives unto them eternal life, and they shall never perish, and none can take them out of his possession. John 10:28. The "sheep" of this age, and the "sheep" of the age to come, will both have the same characteristics, and they shall be one flock, and have one Shepherd. The "sheep" of this age are but a little flock; they are the first fruits of the great harvest to come. The "sheep" of the age to come, shall be a great multitude, which no man can number, out of every nation, and of all tribes, peoples and tongues. The great Shepherd shall guide them unto waters of life, and God shall wipe away every tear from their eyes. Rev. 7. 9, 16, 17. This countless multitude (the other "sheep") have not as yet a knowledge of the truth, awaiting the glad day of the manifestation of the little flock.—M. T. Butcher.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 30.—A six and three-quarter-pound boy was born to Mrs. Charlie Chaplin on Sunday morning at the Chaplin's Beverley Hills home.

Dr. James F. Holleran, who brought Lita Grey Chaplin, herself, into the world seventeen year ago, was the attending physician. He said the baby was a fine physical specimen, although artificial respiration had to be used for a brief time. He added that Mrs. Chaplin was "doing well."

The couple were married Nov. 25, 1924, in Empalme, a suburb of Guaymas, Mexico, by a Mexican Justice of the Peace. At the time Lita was 16 years old and presented the position of Charlie's motion picture lady although the role was withdrawn from her immediately after the ceremony.

Toronto Report Says King Government Will Make Appointment If Returned.

"CUT AND DRIED."

TORONTO, June 30.—(Canadian Press.)—A Toronto report says: "Information came to Queen's Park to-day that if the Government of Hon. W. L. M. King is returned to Ottawa at the next general election and is in power when the term of the Hon. Harry Cockshutt, as Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, expires, a year from next September, Hon. P. C. Larkin, at present High Commissioner in London, will be appointed to the gubernatorial position in Ontario."

The report intimates that Mr. Larkin has had sufficient of his overseas post and would welcome a return to his former business and social activities in Ontario. "Sufficient is known in Queen's Park," the report says, "to warrant the belief that Mr. Larkin's appointment is "cut and dried" as far as the contingencies of elections will permit.

'MELON' FOR EMPLOYEES.

Eastman Company Will Share Nearly $13,000,000.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 30.—The Eastman Kodak Company on Wednesday will pay its fourteenth annual, and its largest wage dividend to employees, the distribution this year amounting to $2,806,850.86. Since the beginning of the wage dividends in 1912 the total distribution to employees has amounted to $14,981,584.35.

The wage dividends are based upon the dividends paid to the common shareholders in the company and upon the total wage of the employee during the past five years of his employment by the company. Every employee who has been with the company five years or more receives as his wage dividend a little more than nine weeks extra pay. Those who have been with the company less than five years receive a proportionately smaller dividend.

Since 1912 the Kodak Company employees have benefited from the wage dividends, from George Eastman's personal gift of stock, from the treasury stock sold by the company to the employees at a fraction of its market value, and from the dividends paid on these stocks to the extent of $31,154,990. Mr. Eastman's personal gift included in the above amounts at the present market value of the stock to $8,578,297.

Shares have actually been issued to 8,480 of the employees, while thousands more of the newer employees will become shareholders as their temporary certificates mature, for there are still 79,644 shares in process of distribution.

TIMELY TIPS ON OUTDOOR LIFE

By Morris Ackerman

When packing through the bush for long distances keep the load down. Avoid packs of more than 35 or 40 pounds. Thirty or 25 pounds is easier.

Travel slowly. Two short steps is better than one long one. Go over your packsack carefully. Cut out everything you don't absolutely need.

Make both shoulders carry the load. Keep the load out of the small of your back. Arrange so chest and arms do not bind.

When you get lost in the woods find a stream and follow it down. Eventually the stream will bring you to a habitation. If blazing a trail be sure you can mark your last blaze before making a new one. Make blaze shoulder high and easily seen. Beware of old trails. They wind around aimlessly and will confuse even those who know them.

Only Profit In Operating Gas Plant. Says Mr. Hall. Comes Through the Charging Of Exhorbitant Rate: Loss On Street Railway In 5 Years Is $130,450.52

The Hydro Electric Power Commission suggest that the City Council ought to, not only buy out the Street Railway, which during five years has shown a loss of $130,450.52, but also to buy out the local Gas plant as well, which in the past has shown a loss but is now showing a slight profit in the face of the exorbitant rate of $2.15 per 1000 cu. ft.

I suppose the reason is that the Commission desires to deal exclusively in the monopoly of the sale of their own peculiar brand of "Gas," viz. the sale of "power at cost."

Losses on Gas Plant 31st October, 1921.

According to the Gregory Commission, the Ontario Government have invested in Gas Plants located at Cobourg, Napanee, Oshawa and Peterborough the sum of $708,323.52.

The losses from the operation of these gas plants up to the year ending the 31st October, 1922 amounted in all to $108,430.62.

Made up as follows:

1 year, 8 months ending October, 31, 1917	$31,730.67
Fiscal year ending October, 31, 1918	$26,847.27
Fiscal year ending October, 31, 1919	$23,879.41
Fiscal year ending October, 31, 1920	$13,562.15
Fiscal year ending October, 31, 1921	$8,645.51
Fiscal year ending October, 31, 1922	$3,756.61
Total loss to October 31, 1922	$108,430.62

The lowering of deficit has been mainly due to increased rates and consumption. The price of Gas to consumers has been increased by the Ontario Government almost 100 per cent since the purchase by the Government.

Let it be noted that the price of Gas under the management of Hydro Electric Power Commission has been increased almost 100 per cent as compared with the rate under private ownership.

Up to the 31st October, 1921, the

Cobourg Gas Works made a loss of	$35,385.75
Napanee Gas Works made a loss of	$26,787.83
Oshawa Gas Works made a loss of	$35,912.29
Peterborough Gas Works made a loss of	$6,588.10

The Gas plant at Napanee was closed down in 1920.

The Loss of $6,588.10 on the operation of the Peterborough Gas Works represent interests on an investment of $131,776.20 at 5% per annum.

The loss of $34,000 per year on the operation of the Street Railway represents interest on an investment of $680,000 at 5 per annum.

These are two beautiful "Gold Bricks" that the Hydro Commission desire to present to the tax payers of the City of Peterborough. What wrong has the taxpayers of Peterborough done to the Hydro Commission that it would even suggest to His Worship Mayor Turner and his Committee that this City take over, issue debentures, borrow money and increase its annual tax bills to relieve this Province from these losing enterprises?

The only wrong, that many of our citizens, has done the Hydro Commission has been to shut their eyes, open their mouths and swallow anything and everything—hook, line, sinker and rod — Hydro has had to offer them in the past.

....In fact many of our citizens have wronged themselves by falling down and worshipping this strange and mysterious god, that is prepared to "loan" to this city one of its high priests to teach the city how to buy and run street railways and gas plants at a loss.

It is high time our taxpayers should heed the well known warning "stop, look and listen," when they approach the Street Railway or turn on the gas.

Many worshippers will not heed this warning, because they are obsessed by the heliotropic charms of this strange and mysterious god, to which I have so reverently alluded.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A HOT COMPRESS AIDS AN INFLAMED EYE

Every pain has been described as the "worst pain in the world." The particular pain you happen to have is about as bad as any you could possibly have! Isn't that the way you feel about it?

A few days ago, I saw a lady who had an inflamed eye. She was walking the floor in agony. She was sure she was about to die from the pain.

You can see why a diseased eye hurts as it does. The eye is so delicate in its tissues, the nerves are so tender and the blood vessels so numerous, that a slight accident, a cold, or some disease may result in serious inflammation of the eye.

Some eye conditions which look dreadful are not at all painful. Once in a while there is seen an eye red as a ripe tomato. This may be due to a leakage of a few drops of blood into the outer layers of the eye ball. Then it spreads out, just as water does between two panes of glass placed together. Such an eye looks bad enough, but pain is entirely absent.

After riding in the wind or dust, or after exposure to the sun, the eyeballs may be very red. There may be slight burning or smarting, but really no pain, as we understand the word.

In short, the outer tissues of the eye may be considerably involved, without producing any disturbance in the normal feeling of the organ. But this is not true of troubles which attack the interior of the eye.

For instance, iritis may be an extremely painful ailment. This is an inflammation of the colored part of the eye, the iris, made up largely of muscle tissue.

You know what a disagreeable experience it is to have muscular rheumatism. The affected part aches and throbs like a toothache. Well, iritis is, in a sense, muscular rheumatism of the eye. That is why it hurts as it does.

Another painful eye disturbance is called glaucoma. The eyeball becomes hard and rigid. This is due to an increase in the fluid contents of the globe.

As the tension increases, the sentsitve nerves are pressed upon more and more. In the same ratio, the pain increases until it becomes unbearable. The eye feels as if it would burst.

Until the doctor comes, apply hot water compresses. Dip a towel in water, hot as can be borne. Apply this over the eye and that side of the face. Over this, place a dry towel. Change the compress every few minutes.

Sometimes cold compresses are more acceptable. Bathing the eye frequently with boracic acid solution will help.

PLAY AT APSLEY A GREAT SUCCESS

"An Irish Rose" Succeeded Despite Handicap of Small Stage.

APSLEY, June 30.—The play "An Irish Rose" was performed under the auspices of the United Church Apsley in the Orange Hall on Friday and was a decided success, the hall being crowded to the doors. The performers were handicapped by the cramped quarters which prevented them doing full justice to their ability, the limited stage space not allowing much in the line of scenery and action, but despite these drawbacks, presentation was thoroughly enjoyed and showed careful preparation, With one or two exceptions the parts were letter perfect and the prompter had little to do. Door receipts amounted to about thirty dollars. After the play a dance was held in the Town Hall.

Rose—Creigan—Miss Hunter
Agnes Barrilon—Mrs. W. Lean.
Peggy Burke—Miss Lula Knox.
Ann Mary—Mrs. Joe Tucker.

FINANCIAL NEWS.

Steady Rise In Prices On New York Exchange

NEW YORK, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—Stock prices forged steadily ahead during the morning. Bear traders, taking advantage of the disappointment caused by the failure of the American Canadian directors to authorize the long-awaited split-up, endeavored to force another reaction but their efforts were futile. Marking up of the renewal rate on call money to five per cent. also failed to stem the rising tide of prices, most traders apparently being convinced that the high call rates were only temporary, while pools were apparently fortified with lower rate time loans. Food and leather stocks were signalled out for special attention before noon. United Fruit, Central Leather Preferred, General Baking and National Biscuit selling 3 to 4 points above yesterday's closing quotations before noon. The rails continued to lag behind the industrials, although Omaha Common was bid up 3¼ points and an active demand developed for St. Paul issues. Newport News and Hampton Railway Preferred soared six points to a record top at 105, and United Cigar Stores moved up 3 to a new maximum at 95.

Renewed Fear Of Rust Damage Boosts Prices

CHICAGO, June 30.—(Canadian Press.)—Wheat scored decided upturns in price to-day during the early dealings. To a considerable extent buyers appeared to be acting on an opinion that rallies were to be looked for after recent severe declines. Indications of warmer weather in the northwest, likely to renew the fears of damage from black rust, tended also to lift values. The opening was unchanged to 2c. higher, July 145 1-2 and Sept. 142 1-2 to 144, was followed by arise to 146 for July and 144 1-4 for Sept.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat strength. Opening unchanged to 7-8 higher, July 98 3-4 to 99 1-4 and Sept. 100 3-8 to 101 1-4. Corn advanced to 100 1-4, July, July, and 102 1-4 Sept.

Oats started at 1-8c. off to 7-8c. up. Sept. 45 1-4 to 45 5-8 and later continued firm.

Provisions were responsive to the upward tendency of hog values and of grain.

Trading Active In Mines, With 107,338 Shares Sold

TORONTO, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—With transactions totalling 107,338 shares, trading on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day was fairly active. Hattie Preferred was fractionally lower at 10 7-8, while Dome was weak at 14.25, sixty cents lower than yesterday.

McKinley Darragh opened strong and advanced 2¼ points to 29½, while Mining Corporation advanced one point to 272. Castle Trethewey advanced a half to 85.

Traction Issues Active In Toronto This Morning

TORONTO, June 30 — Canadian Press. — Activity developed in the traction issues on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning and the market as a whole benefitted by strength displayed by these securities. Winnipeg Electric, with a turnover of more than twelve hundred shares, dominated the market and advanced during the session 2¼ points to 49 1-4, from which it eased off to 48½ at noon, closing at a net advance of 1½. Twin City gained two points, closing at 68 1-2, and British Columbia Fishing was in demand, and gained 3-4 at 42. Atlantic Sugar lost some of its advance of yesterday when it closed at noon at 30 7-8, a drop of 3-8.

PICNIC DREW LARGE CROWD DOWN RIVER

George Street Sunday School Had Splendid Day's Outing.

The annual excursion of the George street Sunday school was held yesterday on the steamer Stoney Lake to Gores Landing where dinner was served, with a trip later to Wallace's Point for supper and a programme of sports and races. The boat was packed with a jolly crowd who appeared to be thoroughly enjoying their outing. A booth on the boat provided refreshments; a sing song was held on the trip back, and the Sunday school orchestra supplied excellent music.

Several games of soft ball were played and a programme of sports and races run off, under supervision of Messrs. Trevor Miller and F. Ash Prizes were presented by the Superintendent, Mr George Robertson. Winners of the various events were as follows:

Little tots' race, Rosamond Burns. Boys of 5, 6 and 7 years, G. Gunsolus. Boys of 8, 9 and 10 years, J. Mark and R. Howland. Boys of 11, 12 and 13 years, T. Stainburn and A. Lord. Boys of 14 years and over, Lee and Kingdon.

STYMIE GAVE HOLE TO F. THOMPSON

Fraser Chipped Opponent's Ball in While Playing in Championship.

ROYAL OTTAWA GOLF CLUB, Ottawa, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—In the feature match of the first round of the Canadian amateur golf championship here to-day, C. C. "Happy" Fraser, former champion, of Kanawki, Montreal, was two up on Frank Thompson, Mississauga, Toronto, the defending champion, at the end of the first eighteen holes of their 36-hole match. Both played average golf, the feature occurring on the fourteenth, where, with Fraser stymied, the latter chipped Thompson's ball into the cup, giving Thompson the hole.

SAYS CANNOT APPEAL

TORONTO, June 30 (Canadian Press)—A Toronto report quotes Edward Bayley, K.C., Deputy Attorney General for Ontario, as saying that the Province could make no appeal aaginst the decision of the appellate Court of Ontario which set aside the convictions of R. P. Gough, Vice President of the Home Bank, and four directors of the Bank. "The fact that the judgment quashing the convictions was not unanimous does not make any difference," Mr. Bayly said. The report states that Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney General, when questioned, said he had as yet made no decision and referred the query to Mr. Bayly.

PROPOSAL BY HAIG FOR UNION OF CANADIAN VETERANS IS ALREADY ACCEPTED BY FOUR ASSOCIATIONS

Representatives of Other Bodies Will Carry Plan to Their Members.

G.W.V.A. APPROVES

Unity Convention to be Called in Few Months—Trustees Appointed.

OTTAWA, July 2.—(Canadian Press).—Four veterans' associations in Canada already have pledged themselves to the establishment of an united organization, as a result of a series of conferences held since the arrival of Field Marshal Earl Haig in Ottawa. Representatives of several other national and local bodies have pledged themselves to carry the proposal for a complete union to their memberships and obtain an expression as soon as possible.

In a statement Lieut.-General Sir Richard Turner, V.C., Dominion President of the G.W.V.A., who had acted as chairman of the conferences, presented a survey of the results to date. The statement follows:

"Organizations that have been pledged to union of all veterans in Canada include the Great War Veterans' Association, the Canadian Legion, the Tuberculous Veterans' Association, and the Naval Veterans of Toronto. These groups will continue to function as at present until the unity convention can be assembled.

"The calling of this convention probably will be delayed for a few months, as other associations, such as the Army and Navy Veterans', the Imperial Veterans in Canada, the Veterans' Civil Service Guild, the Grand Army of the United Veterans, etc., will be holding conventions during the course of the next two or three months.

Haig's Basis Of Union.

"In the meantime the following 'outline regarding unity' has been given over his signature by Field Marshal Earl Haig:—

1. All organizations at their own conventions should approve the principle of unity and agree to wind up their organizations upon the establishment of the National Association.

2. A unity committee should be set up representing all organizations national in character.

3. This unity committee will appoint a pro-tem chairman and secretary, and draft a constitution.

4. Regimental associations can be affiliated.

5. The united organization should be non-political, non-partisan and non-sectarian.

"Local veterans' clubs not affiliated with any national body will be received into the united organization upon application.

Temporary Trustees.

"At the last conference of the representatives of the various organizations on June 30 in the Chateau Laurier it was decided to appoint trustees to function during the transition period. Several names were approved and the full personnel of the board will be announced in a few days."

Field Marshall Haig has requested General Turner to act as his interview trustee.

The association represented at the conference included the Army and Navy Veterans, Imperial Veterans, Great War Veterans' Association, Amputations' Association, Tuberculous Veterans 'Association, Canadian Legion, Grand Army of United Veterans, Veterans Civil Service Guild, Canadian Workers Federation of Returned Soldiers and Sailors, Canadian National Veterans' Guild and Naval Veterans of Toronto.

13,000 IN WHEAT POOL

Objective of Manitoba Growers is About 15,000.

SASKATOON, Sask., July 2.—Thirteen thousand members have been secured to date out of an objective of 15,000 by the Manitoba wheat pool. This represents an increase of nearly 87 per cent. over membership for the 1924 wheat pool. It is estimated that 35 per cent. of the indebtedness outstanding at the end of 1923 has been liquidated to date, this estimate, based on information obtained from selling band and loan company officials, including arrears in interest as well as capital investment.

FREE TRADE WAS TROUBLE CAUSE

British Policy All Right While Competition Could Be Met, Says Bush.

SEES NO SOLUTION.

LONDON, July 2. — (Special by Wireless Press).—"I see no solution right for Great Britain's economic ills," said Irving T. Bush, who is here for the unveiling Saturday of a sculpture group for Bush House, representing Anglo-American friendship. "It seems to me" the American shipping man said, "that all European troubles have been the result of policy and specifically in the British case her difficulties result from her having chosen to be a free trade country. But being a successful free trade country means that in buying her food abroad, she must be able to sell her goods abroad as cheaply as do other nations.

"Free trade was all right for England so long as she could meet competition, but continental countries have come through a serious crisis as a result that the Germans in particular are willing to work for longer hours at less pay than the British.

"Britain too has become an export country with cheap labor, and the British, depending on foreign markets, are suffering from unwillingness to accept the same conditions as their competitors have. If British let their farms run down they sent money out of the country for food which does not return to it used to, by the sale of British manufactures.

"I must think protection would be a solution. But here comparison with American experience does not apply. We applied protection to industries which needed it and to secure ourselves of our own markets.

"On the whole, British industries do need protection, excepting those competing with highly-organized production.

"Only other protection which I think would save the British would be protection for their farmers. It is the state of British agriculture which needs to be raised. At present when so many are unemployed it is difficult to make ends meet for British workers, it would be difficult to get a tax on food stuffs.

"Protection on reciprocity basis is a half-way solution, but the Dominions and Colonies are not willing to pay too much for British goods when they can buy more cheaply elsewhere."

Word "Colonial" Resented By Australian Delegate

OTTAWA, July 2 (Canadian Press).—A casual use of the word "colonial" at the conference of the British Empire Service League yesterday brought a sharp protest from Hon. James Cornell, of Australia. The word, he said, had in Australia an unpleasant significance, and was used in reference to the "old bad days," when men were sent from Britain to Australia for their country's good. The delegate who spoke of colonials immediately withdrew the word and, amid general laughter, said he fully appreciated "the refining influence of the children" since those bad old days.

NEGOTIATIONS TO SETTLE DETAILS OF CONFERENCE

Meeting Saturday Will Arrange For Conference on Shanghai Situation.

ATTACK HOTELS.

Rioters at Swatoo Were Dispersed By Crew of British Ship.

PEKING, July 2. — United Press.—Chinese and Foreign negotiators, concerned with the Shanghai situation will meet informally Saturday to arrange preliminary details for a formal conference to be held later.

The wide divergence of view points as to the basis for the negotiators renders the situation difficult.

On the one hand the Chinese desire to discuss immediately the most fundamental problems, while the powers intend to discuss only the Shanghai May 30 episode. The powers representatives believe that a readjustment of regulations concerning the international settlement at Shanghai, together with a revision of treaties such as the Chinese desire must wait upon subsequent action by negotiators with wider authority than the local envoys possess.

The original conference for settlement of the Shanghai strike and riot situation, dissolved after the Chinese presented their so-called thirteen demands. They wanted discussed at first only three demands but had the remainder in reserve. These would have brought the conference into the broader realms of international policies and politics, whereas the foreign representatives desired, as they still do, to keep the Shanghai situation on the basis of a local affair.

China wants extra-territoriality abolished and her sovereignity also strengthened.

With the United States interested in obtaining a real international conference over the Chinese problem it is conceivable that the Chinese will not press too strongly for immediate adjustment of the situation through the Peking negotiations.

Riots at Swatow.

HONG KONG, July 2. — United States. — Following attempts to board British vessels, a Chinese mob began an attack upon foreign hotels at Swatow. The landing of an armed party from the British war ship Bluebell served to quiet the mob, which dispersed later. The naval forces were then withdrawn.

Swatow, is a treaty port northeast of Hong Kong. The British council member Holyoak, has published a letter saying that if American members of the Canton College staff still adhere to their views concerning the Shamen shooting—they recently held the foreigners in the colony would be responsible—the least they can do is to remove themselves from the colony of the powers whose action they persist in describing as wanton brutality.

CITY'S RIGHT TO INVESTIGATE SERVANTS' MALADMINISTRATION REFUSED BY COURT OF APPEAL

Says R. R. Hall, K.C., in Commenting on Judgment in Peterborough's Request For Inquiry Into Campbell Milling Company Power Mystery.

DECISION GOES BEYOND THIS CASE TO AFFECT MANY OTHER COMMISSIONS

Counsel Says City May Authorize a Suit For Power Said to Have Been Used and Not Paid For—The Law Should Be Amended.

The reasons for the judgment of the Court of Appeal in Campbell Flour Mills Company, Limited, against the City are set out in this issue, wherein it will appear that the Court consisting of Mulock, C.J.O.; Magee, Hodgins, Ferguson, and Smith J.J.A. confirmed the judgment of Hon. Mr. Justice Middleton prohibiting the City Council from having an enquiry, under oath, into an alleged loss of upwards of $10,000.00 in the sale of power by the Local Utilities Commission to the Campbell Flour Mills Co.

The Court does not decide that the City has no right to recover from the Campbell Milling Co. what it is entitled to, but it does decide that no city in the Province of Ontario has any right to enquire into the maladministration or breaches of duty of its trusted servants when they are dignified by the lofty titles of Utilities Commission Board of Education, School Board, Board of Health, Transporation Commission, Gas Commission, "Hot Air" Commission, etc., etc. and this solemn declaration of the law is made notwithstanding the fact that waste and extravagance, which is not criminal, may be made by these corporate bodies without any opportunity by the City Council to have an enquiry made into the facts under oath by a County Judge who is familiar with legal procedure and the admissability of relevant evidence.

Let us examine how and in what manner this decision affects this city. This city has invested in water works $1,074,660.00, and yet the City Council, under this decision, has no right to have any enquiry under oath if graft, waste and extravagance existed. This city has outstanding liabilities in debentures alone of $430,000.00 in connection with electric power distribution and yet under this decision the city council has no right to have an enquiry under oath, if graft, waste and extravagance existed. Last year the Board of Education spent $230,000.00, and yet under this decision the city council has no right to have an enquiry under oath if graft, waste and extravagance existed. Other instances can be given, but enough is given to show that the law as it stands to-day and so declared by the Court of Appeal, should be changed to meet modern conditions.

The city council should have the power in the interest of taxpayers to keep a watchful eye over the public business of the municipality and to initiate an enquiry whenever grave suspicions of neglect of public duty or wrong-doing arise. The city council should be something more than mere tax collectors for independent corporate bodies to waste or expend public moneys at their own sweet will and pleasure.

The suggestion will meet the approval of all municipalities that Section 248 of the Muncipal Act should be amended to extend the right of the municipal council to initiate enquiries under oath into the taxpayers' public business, no matter what little kingdom may be set up within it, and which may be presided over by little Nebuchadnezzars who might be more profitably engaged in eating grass in pastures green than wasting public money or neglecting public duty.

In the Campbell Milling case, the City of Peterborough under the decision of the Court of Appeal is not without a remedy. The council may authorize the Corporation of the City of Peterbrough to sue the company for the power that has been used by them and not paid for. The sum of $10,000.00 or more is at stake. The City has a sworn statement of a witness who knows the facts and ample evidence is available to support the city's claim.

Fort MacLeod, Alberta, Was Captured Wednesday By Thousands of Indians Who Surprised Citizens

MacLEOD, Alta., July 2 (Canadian Press).—Fort MacLeod is again in the hands of Indians. Two thousand warriors and squaws, befeathered and painted, stole out of the wigwams at an early hour Wednesday morning and before the residents of MacLeod had awakened to what was happening Indians were in possession of the town without a shot being fired. Bloods, whose reservation is close to MacLeod joined with Blackfeet, Stonies and Sarces, while their red brothers from across the line sent a contingent which was made up of South Peigens and Sioux. Although children sought shelter of their homes as the Indians, yelling lustily, galloped their war ponies up Main Street, there was nothing really startling about the invasion, for the Indians were merely gathering to take part in the first Indian conference and the All-Indian celebration ever held in the West since the memorable treaty with the Great White Mother was signed in 1877. The morning was turned over to a big Indian pageant, while during the afternoon residents of the town were treated to an All-Indian stampede.

Around The City.

At the police court this morning, before Magistrate O. A. Langley, Edward Howard and Arthur King were remanded until Wednesday of next week on a charge of having broken into at night a house at 316 Dublin street.

Two other men were fined $10 and costs for being intoxicated—a condition resulting from beverages they had received at a party in the house of a friend.

A motor trip and some drinks of home brew purchased from a bootlegger on the Norwood road, resulted in the appearance at court of two local men. One was fined $25; the other, the owner of the car, was fined $100, and was also sentenced to 15 days imprisonment for driving the car while in a state of intoxication.

Many Furnaces Rekindled In North Ontario Homes

NORTH BAY, Ont., July 2—Cold breezes and overcast skies rather spoiled the holiday in Northern Ontario. Occasional showers interfered at times but practicaly all the sports programs were run off with slight delays. North Bay celebrated with a baseball tournament, Sturgeon Falls with horseraces, Callander with huge picnic and sports carnival, Timmins with rodeo, South Porcupine with Northern Ontario Firemen's Association Sports, and New Liskeard with baseball and other events. The weather was so chilly last night that in many homes furnaces have been lighted.

SANTA BARBARA BRINGS BEAUTY FROM WRECKAGE

STREETS CLEARED.

Debris Removed and Dangerous Ruins All Demolished.

SANTA BARBARA, July 2.—(Canadian Press).—Santa Barbara business men will reconstruct the earthquake torn area of the city along the lines of Spanish architecture, according to a decision reached while the city was recovering to-day from the effects of the staggering blow of Monday.

In restoring the city in Spanish architecture, the business men will follow the recommendations of the Santa Barbara Art Society.

Practically all of the dangerous overhanging walls were demolished by firemen yesterday and during the night trucks hauled the debris away and cleared the section until there was little left to-day of the wreckage of any character save only the site of the San Marcos building and in the park surrounding the Hotel Arlington.

Housing Company Fails: Built 217 Verdun Houses

MONTREAL, July 2.—A petition for liquidation of the Metropolitan Housing Company, which since 1922 has been actively engaged in building residences in Lachine, Verdun, St. Lambert and Laprairie, was granted Tuesday by Mr. Justice Coderre on application of two creditors, and provisional liquidators were appointed. The company's liabilities, it was stated, total approximately $1,000,000, including subsidies amounting to $800,000 received from the municipalities of Lachine, Verdun, St. Lambert and Laprairie. The company built 217 houses.

TIME NOT RIPE TO TALK RIGHTS

Britain Assures U. S. That She Will Be Ready to Attend Conference.

SITUATION UNCLEAR.

LONDON, July 2. — (Canadian Press).—Feeling in official circles here with regard to suggestions from the United States for consideration of extra territorial rights in China is that the time is scarcely ripe to take up that question in view of the fact that the Chinese "government" is virtually non-existent at present. It is pointed out by officials, however, that Great Britain, as well as other signators of the Washington agreement, will be eager and willing to attend a conference to discuss the subject but not until the present disturbed situation in China is cleared.

ENTERTAINMENT AT PROTESTANT HOME

Female Voice Choir Members Gave Concert For Old People.

Several members of the Female Voice Choir entertained the old folks at the Peterboro Protestant Home on Tuesday, when the following programme was rendered by the visitors, Piano selection, Miss L. Miss Margaret Flowers kindly acted as accompanist for the occasion. The programme was in charge of Mrs. R. Bugg. Members of the choir present were Mrs. McKinley and the Misses Perkins, Kitchen, Murray, Chatten, Geory.

The choir was thanked warmly by Miss Harrison, who extended an invitation to them to come again.

Arctic's Adventures Start Before Leaving Harbor

QUEBEC, July 2.—(Canadian Press).—The exploration ship Arctic, under the command of the veteran navigator, Captain Bernier, sailed for northern waters this morning. The Arctic was to have sailed on Tuesday, but was held up by a defect in her dynamos and the illness of one of her engineers.

The Arctic had a narrow escape when the attempt was made to get away and her dynamos gave out. She drifted helpless down the river and side-swiped the Government hydrographic boat Detector. The latter lost part of her rail, while the Arctic's whale boat was crushed.

Advises Canadians to Lay in Stock of Coal Now for Winter.

WAGE DISPUTE

Miners Threaten Strike if Wages Are Cut Sept. 1 by Operators.

OTTAWA, July 2.—(Canadian Press).—Grave possibilities of an industrial struggle in the anthracite regions of the United States, upon the termination of the present wage agreement on September 1, were indicated by the latest reports received from these fields, stated Dr. Charles Camsell, chairman of the Dominion Fuel Board, yesterday. Householders, he declared, insofar as was humanly possible, should, therefore, obtain at once supplies of whatever kind of domestic fuel they intend to use during the fall and winter months.

Dr. Camsell pointed out that, even in normal conditions, transportation facilities were strained to the limit in the fall and winter to handle the peak loads, which occur at that time; and, if trouble developed in the American anthracite coal fields during the coming fall, we would probably be confronted again with the necessity of begging for small amounts of any kind of fuel at any price from our coal dealers.

Non-Union Competition.

He also drew attention to reports from many of the coal operators to the effect that under the present wages in the unionized fields of the United States, they could not compete with the non-union fields, and that either organized labor would have to accept wage reductions or another gigantic struggle would result.

Dr. Camsell remarked that a great many domestic consumers in Canada had turned from American anthracite to British anthracite, coke and low volatile coals during the past year, with the result that importations of American anthracite had decreased by nearly a million tons.

Will Resist Wage Cut.

SERIOUS CHARGES AGAINST B. E. STEEL

United Mine Workers Advocate Disruption of British Empire Steel Corporation.

SYDNEY, N. S., July 2. — Canadian Press. — Resolutions passed by the Caledonia local and endorsed by Victory local of the United Mine Workers, both in Southern Cape Breton zone, asks the Federal government to "Take steps to end the existence of the British Empire Steel Corporation and make such arrangements that the miners of Nova Scotia will be allowed to earn a living in the industry in which they are engaged."

The resolution which was given to the press, and of which a copy has been sent to the Prime Minister, charges the corporation since its inception with enforcing wage reductions by preparing ground with lost of the enforced idle time, and adds: "When such reductions resulted in strikes, the British Empire Steel Corporation was able to secure assistance of military forces to intimidate the strikers and enable it to put its wage cuts into effect."

End Catarrh Germs In Three Minutes

Chronic catarrh, no matter how bad, and cases of bronchial asthma now yield instantly to the amazing discovery of a French scientist. This drugless method called Lavex eliminates the germs in three minutes, yet is positively harmless to the most delicate tissues. Your head and lungs are cleared like magic. Sufferers are relieved in a single night.

To prove it and to introduce Lavex to ten thousand sufferers in one month, I offer to send a treatment, free and postpaid, to any one who will write for it. No obligation. No cost. If it banishes your Catarrh you can repay the favor by telling your friends—if not, the loss is mine. No matter what you have tried, just send me your name and address for this generous free treatment and prove that you can be rid of catarrh.

GIFT TO PASTOR AT BAILIEBORO

Rev. R. M. Patterson Leaving Fraserville Circuit for Janetville.

FAREWELL SERMON

BAILIEBORO, July 2. — On Saturday evening about one hundred members of the Bailieboro United Church, formerly one of the Methodist churches of the Fraserville circuit, met at the church for the purpose of presenting the pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. R. M. Patterson, the former with a beautiful auto robe, and Mrs. Patterson with a lovely ever ready lamp. The presentations were made by Messrs Gerald Dawson and Frank Dawson, and an appropriate address was read by Miss May Earle. The address was as follows:

Rev. R. M. and Mrs. Patterson, Fraserville.

Dear Friends: We, your friends at Bailieboro appointment desire, before the pleasant relations that have existed between us for four years, come to an end, to give some expression of our esteem for you and our mistress of the parsonage.

Mr. Patterson by his ministrations on the Sabbath, and as pastor going in and out among us, has greatly endeared himself to us all, while Mrs. Patterson, by her kindly, courteous friendliness, has won the love of young and old. Mr. Patterson's faithfulness to the Epworth League has been especially appreciated.

We will be pleased to have you accept these gifts as tokens of the love you leave behind you.

May your next pastoral term be as faithful and enjoyable as this one has been.

Signed on behalf of your friends of Bailieboro.

Mr. Patterson made a suitable reply, stating how much pleasure he had taken in his work on this appointment, and of the interest he had always taken in the Young People's Epworth League and the choir. He also stated that he had always felt at home behind the pulpits of the Fraserville circuit.

Mr. Patterson thanked the congregation on behalf of his wife for the beautiful gifts and stated that when they were settled down at Jannetville, enjoying the radiant rays of the light, and when they were out driving and nejoying the comforts of the auto robe their minds would often wander back to the people of Bailieboro.

Mr. John Porter made a splendid chairman and expressed briefly the regrets of the people in losing their highly esteemed pastor and his wife, but what is our loss will be others gain. At the conclusion of the presentation the crowd adjourned to Mr Bateson's Hall, where a beautiful lunch was served, consisting of cake, sandwiches and lemonade.

Among those from outside this appointment who were present at the presentation were Mr. and Mrs. George Nurse and family, members of the Bensfort appointment.

Farewell Sermon.

On Sunday, Rev. R. M. Patterson preached his farewell sermons in the three churches on the Fraserville Circuit. At the service at Bailieboro in the evening the church was crowded to the doors to hear the farewell message that the highly esteemed pastor had to deliver. The large congregation consisted not only of the members of the Bailieboro church but also of the membe of the Anglican church and many outsiders. During the four years that Mr. Patterson has been a pastor here he has gained numerous warm friends not only from among members of his own church but also from members of the other churches, and it is indeed realized by all how much Mr. and Mrs. Patterson will be missed as pastor of this congregation, as well as in general young people's work in the church, and as leader in the choir.

During his farewell sermon, which was taken from St. Paul's letter to the Philippians, 3rd chapter, and the 1st verse: "Finally my brethren rejoice in the Lord," the pastor referred very beautifully that well known favorite solo "In the Garden."

His successor, Rev. Mr. Foley, B.A. B.D., will arrive at the parsonage this week, and be ready to conduct the next Sunday's services.

Rev. Patterson announced from the pulpit that a large number of membership certificates had been handed to him from ex-members of the former Presbyterian church, expressing their desire to become members of the United Churches, some for each of the three United Churches on this appointment, and he stated that this would be one of he first things that the new pastor would do—to preach an introductory service to all of the new members who desired to join the new United Church.

REV. CANON ALLEN CELEBRATES HALF CENTURY IN THE MINISTRY

GIFT FROM PEOPLE

MILLBROOK, July 2.—An important gathering, representative of the entire parish of Millbrook and Cavan, was held in the Sunday School Hall of St. Thomas' Church on Saturday evening, the occasion being in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the ordination of the rector, Rev. Canon Allen, M.A.

Right Reverend J. F. Sweeney, Bishop of Toronto, was among the guests, and spoke briefly, referring to the fact that Canon Allen has been forty-one years rector of the parish, and during that time the many and varied duties relative to his position have been faithfully performed.

While not suffering any of the spiritual interests of his people to go without due attention, the properties in connection with their three churches have been freed of debt, and otherwise considerably improved.

Only Three Rectors.

The somewhat unique distinction of leaving had only three rectors in a history of over one hundred years, belongs to the parish of Millbrook and Cavan.

The late Venerable Archdeacon Allen, father of the present rector, who celebrated his diamond jubilee during his term of service, succeeded Rev. David Armour, who was the first rector. Rev. Mr. Armour followed the Rev. John Thompson, a Church of England missionary, who was the first clergyman to labor in this parish.

Rev. William Cartwright Allen, after his graduation travelled in Europe and Palestine for a time, and served for two years as curate in the parish of Sheuley, England. During that time his marriage to Dr. Linnicar's daughter, Miss Mary Linnicar, took place. Upon his return to Canada he became assistant to his father, and after the latter's death succeeded him as rector of the home parish.

His Wife's Assistance.

The help which Mrs. Allen has given her husband, often involving long drives when neither roads nor weather were favorable, with hours of strenuous training, as the interests of the large parish were faithfully served, before the return home could be made; was mentioned more than once during the evening, reference being always of the most appreciative character.

Address and Purse.

At a pre-arranged time in the programme a purse, containing two hundred and fifty dollars in gold, was presented to Rev. Canon Allen, A. J. Fallis, M.P.P., reading the following address:

The Reverend William Cartwright Allen, M.A., Canon of St. Alban's Cathedral and Rector of Cavan.

Sir,—To-night we have a pleasant duty to perform. It is one that gives us, as members of the Parish of Cavan great pleasure. We are here to-night, sir, to do honor to you on this the fiftieth anniversary of your ordination to the sacred ministry of the Church. For fifty years you have been a faithful minister of both Word and Sacrament. For half a century you have labored in that labor of love in obedience to our Lord's last command to preach the Gospel unto every creature. Sir, it is our earnest prayer, that for many years you may be spared, if it is God's will, to continue this work which has so prospered under your guidance. It is always best when commencing a work to start at the beginning, and, in paying tribute to you to-night, we must not forget to pay tribute to your father and mother. Your father, the Archdeacon, was a most valued member of the community as well as a faithful son of the church, and we are sure nothing would please him better than to know that the work of the parish is being so ably handled by his son. Your mother too, sir, lingers in our memory. We remember her as a most devoted wife and parent. Your father baptized most of the now grey-haired members of this parish, and from you, sir, most of us received our instruction for confirmation. You have united many in the holy bonds of matrimony and sent us out in our new life with your blessing. You have stood by the graves of our fathers and dear ones who have gone before, and performed for them the last rites of the Church. You have been a faithful minister in every way. Your words of cheer and comfort have brought contentment to countless beds of sickness. Your quiet and inoffensive admonitions have brought many stray sheep back to the fold. Your ready wit has graced our social gatherings, and your good judgment has piloted the parish over choppy seas of finance. The coldest days of winter have never kept you from visiting the sick, to minister to the dying or to take the service of the church. We appreciate, sir, the long drives through snow and rain that you have so willingly undertaken as part of your duties during your ministry of forty-one years amongst us. Your own life has always taken second place when the interests of the parish were to be considered. Your life has been one of continual sacrifice. Nothing has come between you and your ministerial duties, and even during those dark days of the war, when you were in sadness over the death of your own dear boy, you carried on. We feel honored in having you for our rector. We know you to be a man of great academic attainment and we know, sir, that you have been offered many better livings than the parish of Cavan, but yet you have remained with us. During your ministry all the churches of the parish have been duly consecrated, pipe organs installed in three of them, a new chancel built at St. John's and a new mortuary chapel installed in one of the cemeteries. At the present time the parish is free of all debt on buildings, due, in no small way, sir, to our efforts. No wonder then in 1919 the Lord Bishop of the Diocese honored you with a canonry in St. Alban's Cathedral in recognition of your faithful ministry. We have spoken of both your spiritual and parochial ministrations but there is one more word to be said. We cannot honor you without also paying tribute to your wife. Ever since she arrived in Millbrook on January 6, 1884, as your bride, she has been your constant companion and helper. She has been active in every parish organization, and through her faithful work in our choirs, much beauty and dignity has been added to our church services. She has been always ready to lend a helping hand to the young people of the parish and her faithful training in dialogue and drill has assured the success of our entertainments and social gatherings.

Much more might be said, sir, but words never really express the esteem and regard which we have in our hearts for you. On behalf of the members of this parish of Cavan I ask you to accept this slight token, with our heartiest congratulations, on this the jubilee of your ordination to the ministry of the Church of England.

May God bless you!

Affected By Gift.

The Rector, whose health has been a cause for anxiety for some time past, was deeply moved by the expression, both in word and deed, of the love and esteem of his people, and his reply gave evidence of the emotion felt.

Special services were held through out the parish on Sunday, Bishop Sweeney preaching each time. At St. John's Church, Ida, at 10.30 a.m., the text was taken from 2nd Timothy iii., 17: "That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

The afternoon service was at Christ Church, Bailieboro, and in the evening at St. Thomas' Church, Millbrook, the Bishop delivering an eloquent sermon from Ephesians iv., 12: "For the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ."

Large congregations were present on each occasion, and the churches were beautifully decorated with the flowers belonging to the season for each service. Special music was also provided, Mrs. (Dr.) D. C. King, of Peterboro, being the soloist at the evening worship.

RAIN DIDN'T SPOIL BETHANY SOCIAL

Sun Soon Dried Up Lawn and Good Sum Was Realized.

A very successful lawn Social was held on Friday evening on the spacious lawn of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Brown. The weather looked very doubtful and just as the tables were all set, down came a heavy shower of rain. However, the weather man reconsidered and in a short while the heavy clouds cleared away and the sun shone and dried up the lawn and chairs The league game between Millbrook and Bethany was called off and everybody rushed for supper. The tables were filled till almost dark, after which the Bethany Band gave several selections of music. The programme opened by solos from Percy Preston which were very much enjoyed by all present. Miss Alice Ryley kindly acted as accompanist for the evening. There the play entitled, "Turning the Trick" was put by the Ebenezer Dramatic Club, consisting of the followin:

Miss Haseman, Miss Lizzie Haseman, Miss Sexsmith, Miss Mary Sharp, Miss Edna Bradburn, Mr. Melville Morton, Mr. Al. Hillier, Mr John White, Mr. Moncrief, Mr. Thomas Sexsmith, Mr. Dave Sexsmith.

It might be said that for home talent this play was excellent and very funny. Every one deserves credit for the way their parts were taken. At the conclusion of the programme "God Save the King" was sung. The proceeds of the evening amounted to $125.

Rev. and Mrs. Neville of Peterboro were guests at the garden party.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Potts of Manvers and several others from Manvers to Millbrok and Janetville were attendants.

ANTHRACITE AIDS SOFT COAL MINES

Assessment Will Be Held in Reserve Pending a Bituminous Mine Strike.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 2 (Canadian Press)—Aroused by the alleged conspiracy of railroads and bituminous coal operators to wreck the United Mine Workers, as related by International President John L. Lewis, the tri-district anthracite convention yesterday empowered executive boards of three districts to levy an assessment of $200,000 on hard coal workers for aid to hard pressed bituminous miners, the extra assessment, it is understood, will be held in reserve, if the situation develops to a point where international union officials take action to call a general strike of bituminous miners.

ODDFELLOWS WENT TO DIVINE SERVICE

After Hearing Eloquent Sermon They Decorated Graves of Brethren.

MADOC, July 2.—Madoc Lodge I.O.O.F. No. 179 and Oakdale Rebekah Lodge No. 138 attended divine service at St. John's church Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. The form of evening service was used, with special Psalms 41 and 133. They hymns chosen were, "O Worship the King", "Soldiers of the Cross, Arise!" "My God, I Thank Thee" and "Through the Night of Doubt and Sorrow," Rev. Mr. Strother preached a very impressive and helpful sermon from St. Luke X, 36-37, "Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among the thieves? And he said, He that showed mercy on him. Then said Jesus unto him, Go, and do thou likewise." The speaker reviewed the story of the Parable, and emphasized the fact that the reason these men had refused to help the injured man was their lack of love.

Men do not want to show kindness in deeds, for witness the fraternal organizations whose motto is the parable of the Good Samaritan, who try by their actions to help the sick, uplift the sorrowful and aid the poor, as does the local Lodge I.O.O.F.

At the close of the service the members of the I.O.O.F. walked to the cemetery to decorate the graves of the deceased brethren. About one hundred bouquets of beautiful flowers were carried there in rememberance of those who had gone to the Promised Land. Visiting brethren from Belleville, Stirling and other centres were present at this Decoration Day Service.

Cheese Board Met.

The Cheese Board met in Madoc on Saturday. The price of cheese was 19 15-16, which is 4 cents higher than this time last year. It is encouraging to the farmers to have this rise in price while the milk is heavy. Last year the price rose when the herds were going dry.

School Closed.

The Public School closed on Friday afternoon. A large number of candidates wrote on the Entrance examinations this year, requiring three residing officers.

ASSISTANCE OF WOMEN OFFERED FOR TOWN HALL

Women's Institute of Roseneath to Help Council and Fair Board.

MEETING JULY 15

Project Will be Discussed by Representatives of the Three Bodies.

ROSENEATH, June 30.— The regular meeting of the Alnwick township council for the month of June was held on Saturday afternoon in the toyn hall, Roseneath. There were present Reeve Mouncey and Councillors Parker, Braithwaite, Brown and Timlin.

The treasurer was authorized to borrow $500.

Mr. E. T. Shearer interviewed the council in regard to having some gravel put on the road near his place. He said that the pathmaster had promised him gravel but had failed to do so, and that that piece of road was badly in need of it. On motion of Councillors Parker and Brown, Councillor Braithwaite was appointed a committee to interview the pathmaster, Mr. N. D. Timlin and instruct him to gravel the said piece of road.

Mr. S. A. Tucker was given the contract of making the tile for the season of 1925.

Councillor Timlin was appointed a committee to purchase the cement and have it put on the ground for the making by resolution of Reeve Mouncey and Councillor Parker.

Messrs. John Murphy and Walter Mason waited upon the Council on behalf of the property owners on the north side of their street, asking for a sidewalk from Mr. Murphy's store east to Mr. John Curtis' residence. They were told that due consideration would be given their request but no definite action was taken at this meeting.

Women Offer Help.

The President of the local Women's Institute, Mrs. Jos. A. Brown, also Mrs. F. Nichols, were present in the interest of the W. I. work. Mrs. Nichol presented their request, stating that they were there on behalf of the Women's Institute to offer their assistance both in money and time to help the Council and Agricultural Society build a new hall if arrangements could be made satisfactory to both these organizations. She said that the members of the Institute were prepared to help finance the scheme in any possible way as well as to make a personal canvas of the township for subscriptions. This delegation was received very cordially by the council and after consulting with the rest of the council Reeve Mouncey appointed Wednesday evening, July 15th, as a time when the representatives from the three organizations could meet and discuss their plans. This is a big undertaking for the Institute and a long felt want; therefore, it should receive the hearty co-operation of all the ratepayers.

Accounts Passed.

The treasurer was authorized to pay the following accounts: S. A. Tucker, work on boundary, $5.00; S. A. Tucker, per bill, 75c.; John Nichol, work on bridge, $10.50; W. R. Coyle, assessing Indian tenants, $5.00; James Lamey, work on road and gravel, $15.50; Joseph Dunnett, gravelling, $29.60; H. McCracken, gravelling, $65.25; Geo. Sherwin, work on boundary, $4.50; Rich. McCracken, gravelling and culvert, $16.00; H. McCracken, gravel, $21.10; C. Linton, grading, $63.00; C. Linton, work on road, $14.20; Geo. Cook, gravel, $3.80; John Elder, work on road, $63.35; P. Parker, work on road and gravelling, $101.75; B. Radley, gravelling, $50.50; C. W. Varcoe, grading, $14.50; N. D. Timlin, work on road, $5.80; N. D. Timlin, statute labor, $3.20; E. George, statute labor, $6.40; Andrew Brown, statute labor, $3.20; J. T. Drope, work on road, $7.00; H. Comego, gravel, $7.50; Wm. Houghtailing, ravel, $2.50.

NORTH MONAGHAN COUNCIL MEETING

The North Monaghan Council held a special meeting at the Court-House on Saturday afternoon, all the members being present, with Reeve Rye in the chair.

Mr. George Whitfield and Mr. William Whitfield were present, in regard to the opening of culverts on the Ninth Concession. Mr. Ira Huggins was present, and said he was desirous of purchasing Lot 13, Plan 46, the deed of which is now held by the township, for arrears of taxes.

A motion was passed that the matter of the sale of Lot 13, Plan 46, be referred to Mr. E. A. Peck for legal advice, and that the Reeve and Clerk be a committee with full power to act in regard to the sale of this lot.

Mr. George Patton, township roads superintendent, was present, and said he wished the Council would give him some advice as to whether the road work should be done. He said he wished to act immediately, as the crusher and road gang were busy at the present time. He called the Council's attention to the fact that a new culvert was required on the 9th Concession, and also on the quarter line in the 10th Concession. A resolution was passed, that the Clerk order an 18-inch steel culvert, 20 feet long, for the 9th Concession, and a 15-inch steel culvert, 18 feet long, for the quarter line.

The following scale of wages was set for the current year: Road foreman, 30 cents an hour, or $3 a day; men, 25 cents an hour, or $2.50 a day; of teams, 50 cents an hour, or $5 a day.

A resolution was passed, that the township roads superintendent be authorized to distribute the money as nearly as possible in accordance with the debit and credit balances of the standing of the various road divisions at the time of the change from the old road division system to the new system of general levy.

A resolution was passed, that the treasurer abolish the old road division system of accounting, and that a general township road account be opened up in place thereof. The Clerk was ordered to place an order for two slush scrapers.

Mr. John Whitfield was present, in regard to collection of poll tax. A resolution was passed, that the tax collector and the assessor interview Mr. Peck in regard to the legal technicalities surrounding the collection of poll tax.

The Clerk was instructed to write Mr. Dummitt, New Romaine Street, and to notify him to remove his fence from the lane at the rear of his property.

By-law No. 869 was introduced and read, and finally passed, appointing William B. Anderson as sanitary inspector and school attendance officer.

By-law No. 870 was also regularly read, and finally passed, appointing the township roads superintendent as inspector under authority of the Noxious Weed Act.

The meeting then adjourned.

CURES CATARACTS RESTORING SIGHT

A Doctor in Los Angeles Tells Clinic Kow Operation May Be Performed.

TORONTO, July 2. — (Canadian Press).—The restoration of sight to eyes growing dim from cataract, without a radical operation, has come to be an every-day affair, according to Dr. T. J. Ruddy, of Los Angeles, who examined a number of eye cases in a clinic which opened the annual meeting of the American Osteopathic Society of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology here yesterday.

The doctor, who was president of the society in 1917-18, says that every cataract case, if taken in its earliest stages, can be cured by his method, which consists of a preliminary finger treatment for softening the cataract and then drawing it out with an instrument of his own invention, called an oculovac.

That a large percentage of deafness is due to incorrect methods of blowing the nose, was emphasized by Dr. James D. Edwards, of St. Louis.

Dr. Edwards declared that when the nose was squeezed and blown violently, mucus was forced into the eustachian tubes, which lead from the throat back into the ear, thus causing what is known as "pocket-handkerchief deafness."

EXPORTING MORE IMPORTING LESS

Canada's Favorable Trade Balance is Away Up—Year Ending May.

OTTAWA, July 2.—For the twelve months ended with May, Canada's exports show a slight increase over the previous twelve months, while the imports are substantially lower. The figures are: Exports (Canadian goods and products) 1923—$958,844,577; 1924, $1,069,925,880; 1925, $1,072,301,848. Imports—1923, $841,209,002; 1924, $873,151,752; 1925, $799,700,249.

On this basis (without including foreign goods exported from Canada) the favorable trade balance has grown from $117,635,575 in the twelve months ended with May of 1923 to $196,774,128 in the corresponding period of 1923-24, and then to $272,601,599 in 1924-5.

SWINGS, SLIDES AND EVERYTHING FOR CHILDREN AT CAMPBELLFORD

Playground on East Side of River Delights Little Folk.

ANONYMOUS DONOR

CAMPBELLFORD, July 2. — The last of the equipment has been placed in position on the children's playground, and is being patronized to the limit, day and night, by the appreciative and delighted little people. The complete outfit consists of three ordinary swings, a giant stride or circle swing, a revolving see-saw, and a 16-foot slide.

Some residents of the west end have complained that the council has shown favouritism in spending public money to fit out a playground for the benefit of the east side. A play ground on the west side of the river, however, would have been provided, had not the Militia Department refused to allow the use of the only free site available

Not over half the equipment for the playground now in commission has been purchased by the town. The slide and revolving see-saw has been donated by a public-spirited but modest individual who believes that charity in business should wear a mask, and who asks that his name be withheld. And he is member of the town council at that. When this citizen decided to do something for the rising generation he did not call a public meeting so that his scheme escaped the fate of being smothered under a flood of eloquence. He said nothing to anybody but simply went out and did things.

The three ordinary swings were so well patronized by the children that in three days the eyebolts had been worn down to a dangerous thinness, and the material had to be replaced by something stronger.

Extending Power Lines.

The Water and Light Commission's employees are building a line into the town's gravel pit in order to furnish electricity for a 30-horse power motor which will be used to drive the new rock crusher.

The Commission is unusually busy at present and this explains why branches that were interfering with the transmission lines were cut from the shade trees are still lying on the streets. This work was so necessary that Engineer Scott lent a hand and climbing the trees helped to top away the branches.

H. C. McIlwraith, Belleville, who spent two weeks here relieving Supt. Ironsides of the Hydro plants at Dams 10 and 11, while the latter official was on his holidays, has returned home. Before leaving town, Mr. McIlwraith while fishing at Dam 11 landed a pickerel that weighed six and a half pounds. This is the largest fish of that kind reported taken this season, but the most expert local anglers have yet to send in their returns.

Sporting Spirit Grows.

There was an animated scene at the Fair Grounds the other evening when two soft ball games, a practice game of lacrosse, and a hardball contest, were all in progress at the same time. Sometimes the balls were thrown into alien territory and at other times the players from the various teams were so comingled that it was impossible to tell to which team they belonged.

Even the men of mature years are becoming infected with the sporting spirit. Fred M. Dinwoodie, aged 85, who in his youth was one of the best cricketers of that day, as T. S. Tait of town, and Sam Ray of Peterboro, who were his contemporaries, can testify, has taken up pool as a pastime and shows so much skill that some of the best local players have gone down before him.

The Largest Majority.

According to the official returns of the recent election in Saskatchewan, the largest majority scored by any candidate was that given Ben. F. McGregor, of Vangard, who defeated his Conservative opponent in the constituency of Gravelbourg, by a majority of 1977 votes. This successful candidate is a nephew of Alex. McGregor of Campbellford. He is 35 years old and for the past ten years has been reeve of his municipality.

Personals.

A. J. Wood, who recently was transferred from here to Lindsay by the insurance company for which he works spent the week end with his family, who still reside here.

Mrs. L. Spry, who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Patterson, Raglan Street, has returned to her home in Peterboro.

WEDDING BELLS.

GOHEEN — CAIRNS.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 2. — A quiet wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mrs. J. W. Cairns, on Tuesday, June 30th, when her eldest daughter, Charlotte Helen, was united in marriage to Mr. Raymond W. Goheen, B. A., of Ross Mount, Ont. The Rev. E. D. Ford performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride was prettily gowned in canary crepe-de-chine, and carried a sheaf of Ophelia roses. Her travelling dress was of brown Bengaline with hat to match.

After luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Goheen left by motor for Lake Simcoe. They will reside in Niagara Falls, Ont.

OBITUARY.

MARGARET ELLEN O'CONNOR

CAMPBELLFORD, July 2.—The esteem in which the late Margaret Ellen O'Connor and her family are held in the community in which they have resided so long, was shown by the large attendance ath her funeral on Monday morning to St. Mary's church, where requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Phelan, assisted by Rev. Father O'Sullivan of Wooler, who conducted the services at the grave. "Blessed is the servant, whom the Lord when He cometh, findeth watching," was the text of the funeral discourse.

The call, the speaker said, had come to the deceased, but all her life she had been making preparations for that call. When she was a student at the Campbellford High School and at all other times, she had tried to do her duty.

Rev. Father Phelan asked the congregation when they prayed for the repose of the soul of the deceased not to forget to pray that strength be given the sorrowing family to bear their trial.

The Friends' Appreciation.

(Contributed.)

On Friday, June 26, cold Death again invaded our community and took from us a beautiful young girl, Margaret, daughter of the late P. J. O'Connor and Ellen O'Connor of Seymour West. A thrill of sorrow chilled each heart as this sad news was hastily wired from house to house. Margaret O'Connor will be seen no more on earth! Her loving spirit has gone "home" to rest.

Her's was a life appealingly simple. There are few events to enumerate, and yet how full must have been the golden record in the great Book of Life when opened by the Angel of the Resurrection.

Born in Seymour West, nineteen years ago she first received her education in St. Joseph's Separate School and Campbellford High School; she graduated from the latter institution in 1924 having obtained, very creditably, her first class teacher's certificate. An earnest student and a loyal friend, she endeared herself to all; ever ready to lend a helping hand to her classmates, doing the kind little acts that others left undone—she bestowed upon everybody her bright smile and cheered many a lonely heart. It is not, therefore, for her ability and her intellectual gifts alone that Margaret will be remembered, but for her cheery disposition and warmness of heart, her unaffected piety and her child-like sweetness. Young and full of hope she entered, last September, Toronto Normal School, where she continued her studies until two weeks ago, when ill-health forced her to relinquish her almost completed task. Again, her work was most successful; her vigilance and promptness in everything that pertained to school and pupils, her deep religious fervour, signalized her as a successful teacher. A pure and noble character, a girl of sterling worth, a lovely type of young womanhood who practised the beautiful virtues that were early instilled into her youthful mind by kind and loving parents—Margaret will not soon be forgotten.

The many spiritual and floral gifts, the largely attended funeral and the messages of sympathy from far and near were tangible evidence of the esteem of a whole host of friends, both young and old.

The funeral was held from the family residence on Monday morning at 9.30, and proceeded to St. Mary's Church, Campbellford, where Requiem High Mass was sung by Father Phelan; interment was made in St. Mary's Cemetery, Father Phelan assisted by Father Sullivan ofWooler, performing the last rites at the grave.

Our sympathy goes out to the grief stricken family to whom she was a dutiful daughter and a loving sister:

"God reaps from every loss a gain
And darkness here is light above."

MRS. A. L. ALLEN

HAVELOCK, July 2.—The following is from a daily paper in Armstrong, Iowa. Mrs. Allen was an old resident of Havelock and has a brother in Peterboro as well as a large circle of friends in this district.

"Mrs. A. L. Allen died Sunday evening, June 7th, at her home here after an illness of several weeks. She had been in ill health for several years but had failed more rapidly the past six months. She had been confined to her bed for six weeks prior to her death and all that medical aid and loving care could do proved useless. Her husband and children were all with her during her sickness and death, and they all did everything in their power to alleviate her suffering and restore her to health. Her daughter Miss Jessie, who graduates this month from nurses' training, came home several weeks ago and has been with her mother constantly. Her sister, Mrs. Barker, was aso with her the last three weeks of her sickness.

"Hannah Jane Harrison, daughter of William and Ann Harrison was born in Peterboro county, Ontario, Canada, June 1st, 1865 and died at Armstrong, Ia., June 7th, 1925, aged 60 years 6 days. She was the youngest of 13 children.

"At the age of 22 years she was united in marriage to Wm. F. Brown of Havelock, Ontario, Canada, where she resided till his death in November, 1893. Four children were born to this union, two dying in infancy. The two remaining are Mrs. C. J. Houseman of Armstrong and Wm. F. Brown of Fenton, Ia.

"In 1897 she came to Iowa with her brother John. On February 28th, 1902 she was united in marriage to Alex L. Allen at Reinbeck, Ia. To this union were born two daughters, Jessie and Laura. They resided on a farm near Reinbeck till the spring of 1908, when they came to Emmet County and purchased a farm just south of Armstrong. In the spring of 1922 they rented their farm and moved to town and resided till the time of her death.

"Mrs. Allen was a most devoted wife and mother, always thinking and planning comforts for others. She was a devoted christian and died in the faith she had believed in from early girlhood.

"She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband and four children, Mrs. C. J. Houseman, Armstrong, Ia.; Wm. F. Brown, Fenton, Ia.; Jessie Allen, Hampton, Ia.; Laura at home and four grandchildren; also three brothers and one sister, Robert J. Harrison of Barrytown, Mich; Thomas J. Harrison of Peterboro, Ontario, Canada; Joseph M. Harrison of Havelock, Ontario, Canada; and Mrs. J. C. Barker of Grundy Center, Ia.

"Neath our eyes she faded slowly,
Growing day by day more frail,
Bearing sweetly all her suffering,
Till her saviour called her home."

FUEL CONTROLLER

fields, John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers of America, addressing the tri-district convention here yesterday, declared that the miners would vigorously resist any attempt at a wage reduction in the forthcoming negotiations, and that they would stand for full recognition of the union with the "check-off" of union dues.

He accused the anthracite operators of raising a fund of $500,000 for a gigantic publicity campaign in an attempt to create the impression that high retail prices for anthracite coal were the result of high wages.

Attacking published reports that 10,000,000 tons of anthracite are in storage and will be available for a two months' supply if a suspension occurs on Sept. 1, Mr. Lewis asserted that only 10 per cent. of this amount represented domestic size, suitable for furnaces and stoves, the remainder consisting of steam sizes and slack, which compete with the bituminous products.

Industry's Annual Death Toll.

In beginning his address yesterday Mr. Lewis said he wondered why the American people and the press failed to recognize that the anthracite industry was the most hazardous in the land, in which the miners paid a terrible toll of blood and life and limb in order that the public might have its precious fuel. Quoting figures of the Pennsylvania Department of Labor, he said that of the 158,000 mine workers in the anthracite fields 500 were killed and between 22,000 and 25,000 injured annually.

"It is a most terrible record of human suffering and misery," he added. "It means that within 6 1-2 or 7 years every man in the industry will be killed or maimed. It is a most terrible record and one deserving of consideration from the operators and the American people, for whom the sacrifices are made. Yet when the miners, through their organization, voice their hopes and ideals, they are denounced by the great newspapers of the land and by more or less selfish operators and the consuming public.

"Only to-day Delegate Joyce from District 9 was compelled to return home because his 21-year-old son died of a broken back suffered in the mines. Let the great metropolitan papers analyze the situation in the bosom of that family. Let them understand that 500 times a year that same situation is faced in mimers' homes, that every year 25,000 men are carried out on stretchers from the great limb-crushing collieries. If they do, they will have a greater conception of the efforts of our great industry to secure proper compensation for services rendered and hazards borne.

"I notice in reading the daily newspaper that great interest is being manifested in the impending negotiations. On behalf of our organization I wish to say to the anthracite consuming public that there is no intent or desire on our part to unduly disturb the domestic tranquillity or to interrupt the supply of this important product. Our officers approach the negotiations with the sincere desire that the differences may be adjusted without the necessity of a suspension. We desire to point out, however, that under no circumstances can our organization be held responsible for the improper policies or improper demands of the anthracite operators.

"It is apparent now that the operators are prepared to launch a tremendous publicity campaign to create the impression that the mine workers are overpaid and that high wages are responsible for coal prices in the retail market of the East.

"It has been demonstrated by the United States Coal Commission and other agencies that wages are not responsible for retail prices paid in New England and on the Atlantic seaboard. The spread between mine cost and delivery cost is so great that it has never yet been properly explained to the American public, and it ill behooves the anthracite operators to tell the American people that wages must come down so the public can get a cheaper commodity."

STITCHES IN HEART WOMAN MAY LIVE

Skilled Surgery Closes Knife Wound Said to be Self Inflicted.

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 2 — (Canadian Press). — With three stitches in her heart, which were placed there in one of the most delicate surgical operations on record, to close a knife wound, Mrs. Jennie Widmar, aged 52 years, of Avella, is convalescing in Washington Hospital here with her chances for recovery favorable.

Brought to hospital here on Sunday morning so weak from loss of blood that death seemed imminent, the operation was performed in the emergency room of the hospital.

Mrs. Widmar is said to have inflicted the wound in an attempt to commit suicide, using a pen knife.

TRUCK WRECKED.

W. Beatty Avoids Crash, But Runs in Ditch—Disaster.

Yesterday afternoon W. Beatty was driving a milk truck loaded with empty cans, when another car belonging to J. Jopling, swung out into the road from the latter's residence. Fearful of a collision, Mr. Beatty immediately swerved down a side road, but was unable to avoid the ditch. The car was overturned and completely wrecked. Fortunately Mr. Beatty escaped with only minor injuries.

AFTER DOMINION DAY.

With today Canada launches out into a new year in her national history.

It is possible that other years have commenced under more encouraging auspices, under more smiling skies and with smoother weather in sight so far as the national prosperity was concerned, and yet the morning after Dominion Day should not find Canadians despondent.

There is no reason to worry about the future of this country.

This wonderful Dominion, so rich in natural resources, possessing the finest wheat lands in the world, containing within its borders some of the richest mineral deposits on the face of the globe, with unlimited water power, huge timber reserves, immense resources of furs and fisheries, and a patriotic and law-abiding people, is bound to prosper.

There are problems to solve, that is true—but they will be solved.

There are difficulties to overcome—but they will be conquered.

There is need of a better understanding of each other's difficulties by the people of the various sections of Canada—but that better feeling will come.

There is need of more people to develop our resources and supply markets for our manufacturers and patrons for our railways—and more people will come when we are ready for them.

Let Canadians have confidence in themselves and in their country—and Canada cannot be kept from climbing.

THE ROTARY CARNIVAL.

A speaker at a Rotary Club luncheon not long ago pointed out that Rotary was a public servant and not a public paymaster, and that statement is of interest in connection with the Carnival of the Peterboro Rotary Club on July 16th.

Rotary in Peterboro has accomplished a good deal in its comparatively short term of existence.

It has taken care of crippled children and the under-privileged boy; it has established one of the finest permanent camps of its kind in the Province for the benefit of youngsters who under ordinary circumstances would be shut off from the pleasure and the health-giving properties of a holiday out-of-doors; it has assisted many worthy objects.

To a considerable extent the Rotary Club has been what the speaker quoted above declared that it wasn't, i.e., a public paymaster.

That is, the members of the organization have never hesitated to go down into their own pockets to finance these splendid efforts.

It is not fair that they should have to carry the whole burden.

In view of the services rendered by Rotary, it should be considered the duty of the community to put a shoulder to the wheel, and the Carnival supplies the opportunity.

Rotary asks for the co-operation of the citizens generally in making it a huge success, with plenty of fun for everybody and a substantial surplus to assist in Rotary activities during the year.

WHY STANDARD ACCOUNTING.

The advantage of a standard form of government accounting, as advocated by the Citizens' Research Institute, is that it would make it possible for anyone anywhere in Canada to ascertain the total expenditure on any function and any object of expenditure, not only at any given time, but for a term of years.

Information usually stimulates interest and invites inquiry, and surely there never was a time in Canada when an investment of citizen interest and inquiry would pay such large dividends.

It would not be necessary to tear up the present administrative organization, but the standardization of accounting and reporting would naturally tend to a standardization of functional grouping of bureaus and departments—a reform that could not fail to be of benefit.

The Institute puts some pertinent questions. Does any one really believe that

1. If as much energy were spent in reducing the cost of Civil Service as in showing why it cannot be reduced;
2. If people were as energetic in advising governments not to make an unnecessary expenditure in their localities as in urging governments to make necessary expenditures;
3. If only consideration of efficiency determined the amount and character of public purchases;
4. If the word "uncontrollable" were a less prominent feature of public discussion;
5. If full advantage were taken of the possibility of co-operation in standardizing accounting and reporting and in establishing co-ordination of methods of taxation and in tax collection; that the cost of government in Canada could not be greatly decreased without any loss in essential public service?

What do readers of the Examiner think?

BRITISH LABOR AND PREFERENCES.

Perhaps the most interesting of contemporary political controversies is the conflict inside the British Labor party on the question of fiscal policy and its implications are of profound interest to Canada. It is not an entirely new development as when policies of post-war reconstruction were being discussed about 1919 some important Labor leaders like Mr. John Hodge openly ranged themselves on the side of protectionism. It happened, however, that the majority of the politicians who assumed command of the Labor party after the great advance of its fortunes in the election of 1922 were ex-Liberals and therefore imbued with a hereditary predilection for the Cobdenite faith; Mr. Ramsay MacDonald showed signs of open-mindedness on the subject, but Mr. Philip Snowden, Mr. Arthur Henderson, Mr. Clynes and others were orthodox and even bigoted Free Traders and carried the great majority of the party with them. But at various conferences of the party there were murmurings of dissent and signs of a disposition, particularly among the extremist element from Clydeside who, whatever their faults, are not lacking in political acumen, to question the thesis that Cobdenism was either the last word in economic doctrine or particularly suitable to the conditions of post-war Britain.

Mr. Snowden's Budget of 1924 represented the triumph of the orthodox Free Trade wing of the Labor party, but some Labor members had the courage to vote against the resolutions condemning the Imperial Preference schemes of the Baldwin Government which Mr. Snowden submitted to the unfettered decision of Parliament. Then came the election of last fall and the return of Labor to the Opposition benches. Shortly afterwards Mr. John Wheatley, the leader of the Clydeside group, caused great sorrow in the bosom of the Manchester Guardian by a series of articles in which he examined from a critical standpoint the merits of the Free Trade system and pointed out the difficulty of reconciling an open door for free imports with the nationalization of British industries. Now the controversy has emerged in the open limelight in connection with the Imperial Preference resolutions which Mr. Winston Churchill embodied in his Budget. A full-dress meeting of the parliamentary party was held to discuss the problem and so strong was the minority favorable to the resolutions that it was agreed to give members a free hand to vote according to their beliefs. When the main division on the question was taken, it was found that no less than 34 Laborites had gone into the same lobby as the Conservatives in favor of Imperial Preference. This group, which contains some of the ablest minds of the party, has no objection on principle to Imperial Preference, but is ready to treat each case on its merits.

However, the cleavage of opinion goes deeper than the issue of Imperial Preference, which is merely an offshoot of British fiscal policy. The New Statesman which is the organ of the intellectuals of the Labor party and is peculiarly under the influence of Mr. Sidney Webb, publishes in its issue of June 13 a most significant editorial entitled "The Need to Face Facts" in which it calls with uncquivocal voice for a complete break with the whole recent tradition of British economic policy. It begins with a careful examination of the present economic situation of Britain and finds increasing grounds for disquietude in the facts that during the previous week the number of unemployed had increased by 60,000 and that there were almost daily announcements of fresh enterprises closing down in the industrial districts. It complains that Mr. Baldwin has done nothing but make pleasant speeches and that his Government wavers "between gentle resignation and unfounded optimism." Thereafter it proceeds to discuss the policy required for the country's salvation in these terms:

"We must aim at a new balance. But this means planning for a long time ahead, expending capital sums for a delayed return and controlling in ways hitherto regarded as contrary to the "free trade" principles of economics the flow of capital and labor into different enterprises and the inflow and outflow of commodities of primary concern. Mr. Baldwin and his friends half realize this and proclaim the necessity for a tariff which they dare not introduce save by doses so small as to be obviously quite ineffective.... We do not believe in the Conservative remedy of tariffs, but we would sooner see a full-blooded tariff policy in operation than a continuance of the present do-nothing attitude. For a tariff is at least an instrument, though a clumsy and dangerous instrument of economic regulation. And we are convinced that without systematic planning and regulation nothing can be done. Obviously the change involved is in either case fundamental. Either Tories or Labor if they were to carry out the policy in which they believe, would make a radical break with the whole tradition of British economic policy for a century past. But can the problem of unemployment which is also the problem of national production and national prosperity, be tackled without such a break? Reluctantly we have been forced to believe that it cannot and to judge all Governments, Conservative or Labor, by the courage with which they are prepared to face this one fundamental issue of domestic policy."

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

People who complain about Ontario's climate will admit that it is at least out of the earthquake belt.

A citizen suggests that it is just as well the bears have been removed from Nicholls Oval. There were people, he said, who went and looked at them on Sunday.

Field Marshal Haig has been re-elected President of the British Empire Service League. It is not the first time that Sir Douglas has been the right man in the right place.

Judging by the number of Ohio license plates seen on the streets, this district must be pretty well known to the people of Cleveland.

The Bench being divided, says the Globe, as the degree of a bank director's responsibility, the establishment of a Government audit is more than ever a security for the public.

The general impression of June, 1925, will be that somehow or other the month got twisted around, the hot weather coming at the wrong end.

It is estimated that the members of the House of Commons during the session just closed filled 4,756 pages of Hansard with their speeches. Some efficiency expert will please estimate the economic waste represented by this flood of words.

Great Britain seems to be better able to produce golf champions than to hold them. Jim Barnes, who won the British open championship for the United States, is a Briton by birth.

The Nova Scotia election result has been blamed on almost everything except the Ku Klux Klan.

APPRECIATION OF REV. MR. REDDICK

Board of Lakefield Church Eulogize Departing Pastor.

LAKEFIELD, June 30.—At a meeting held on Friday evening of the Official Board of the (Methodist) United Church, the following address was presented to Rev. C. S. Reddick, who, after three years pastorate in Lakefield, leaves very shortly for his new charge at Bloomfield.

The following is the address:

"Dear Mr. Reddick,—We, the Official Board of this church, have come together to express to you our deep feeling of regret at your coming departure. During your three years ministry among us we have had ample opportunity of observing you as a man as well as our pastor and do, without exception, pay a mighty tribute to you for your unfailing zeal and industry, your faithfulness and integrity and organizing ability. We unite in hoping that your sterling worth may ever be appreciated as it has been here. Our prayer will be that you and your wife and family may be very, very happy in your new home and that God will reward you in good measure for your great work and excellent record in His cause.

"Believe us to be your very sincere well-wishers.

"Signed on behalf of the Lakefield (Methodist) United Church.

"A. E. HIGGINS,
"Recording Steward."

Presentation by Ladies.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the (Methodist) United Church held a special meeting on Friday afternoon in the basement of the church at which more than fifty ladies were present. After the opening exercises the following excellent program was rendered:

Solo—Mrs. Burrows.
Reading—Miss Lottie Jones.
Solo—Mrs. J. R. Hull.
Reading—Mrs. J. H. Sherin.
Solo—Mrs. Wm. Millage.

Mrs. Walter Hamblin then read the following address and Mrs. W. A. Nixon presented Mrs. Reddick with a handsome pair of brass jardiniers:

"Dear Mrs. Reddick,—We, your friends of the Ladies' Aid, have learned with regret that you are about to sever your connection with us. In our association with you we had a splendid opportunity to appreciate your many good qualities. You have been a very faithful and efficient member of the Ladies' Aid. We hope that your many personal friendships, gained during your stay among us, will ever remain to you a pleasant memory. Our fondest wish is, that this friendly relationship may ever exist.

"We ask you to accept the accompanying gifts as concrete proof of our feelings toward you. We trust that you will value them not for their own worth but because they symbolize the pleasant relationship between you and ourselves and because they are accompanied by our heartiest good wishes.

"Signed on behalf of your friends of the Ladies' Aid—Mrs. Nugent, Vice-President; Mrs. W. Hamblin, Secretary; Mrs. S. S. Spence, Treasurer."

Mrs. Reddick, although surprised and much touched by the tribute paid her, made a very graceful reply.

Ice cream and cake were served and a social hour was spent and much enjoyed by all present.

Gift to Miss Braden.

Miss Edna Braden, who for several years has been Secretary and pianist of the Lakefield Presbyterian Sunday School, was presented on behalf of the officers and teachers of the Sunday School with a handsome walnut sewing cabinet, together with an address. Mrs. J. M. Simpson made the presentation and was assisted by Miss Mina Young. Miss Braden's marriage takes place on Saturday, and the address expressed the good wishes of her many friends among the workers in the school.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 1.— (Canadian Press.) — Wheat tumbled down more than 5c. a bushel in price during the late trading to-day. Aggressive selling from houses with Eastern connections was a factor, and so too was absence of black rust damage. Together with estimates that the total 1925 domestic yield of wheat would be six million bushels in excess of government June 1 figures. The wheat market closed unsteady, 2 1-2c. to 5c. net lower, July 143 1-2 to 143 5-8 and Sept. 139 3-8 to 140. Corn finished 1 5-8 to 3 3-8c. down, oats 7-8 to 1 1-8c. off, and provisions 12 to 17c. higher.

Late reports both from the United States and Canadian Northwest showed that fears of black rust damage were yet unwarranted by any actual injury worth notice. Speculative sellers were quick to press their advantage and with export demand small, the market finished at almost the day's bottom figures.

YOUNG FOLK GIVE CONCERT AT DOURO

S. S. 12, Otonabee, Had Charge of Very Pleasant Programme.

The programme rendered at the DouroRe-Union on its first evening was provided by a group of young people from S. S. No. 12, Otonabee, whose excellent work was much appreciated by their audience.

June 20, 1925.

Dear Teacher:

At this stage of our school year, we whose names are below, wish to express in some little way, at least, our love for you and our appreciation of your earnest endeavours during the year that is gone, to help us in our studies and fit us for the future.

We would ask you therefore to accept with our love this little token of our esteem and are pleased that you are going to be with us again this coming year.

Wishing you also a pleasant and prosperous holiday time, we are your loving pupils.

A THOUGHT.

A LAUGH.

A laugh is just like sunshine,
It freshens all the day,
It tips the peaks of life with light
And drives the clouds away;
And the thing that goes the farthest
Toward making life worth while,
That costs the least and does the most,
Is just a friendly smile.

MORE THAN 100 TEACHERS APPLY FOR STIRLING SCHOOL POSITIONS

$100 FOR POOL

STIRLING, June 29.— The township executive of the Sunday School Association completed their group conferences which they have been holding, with the one held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church here. The Sunday schools invited to this conference were St. Andrew's Presbyterian, St. John's Anglican, Stirling United, Mt. Pleasant United and Carmel United. Eight members of the executive were present and two were represented by proxy.

The secretary of the Association explained the international standard of a Sunday school in a careful manner, and using a chart of the various schools of the association, he told those present in a very interesting and able manner how they might improve the standing of their school and thus be nearer to the 100 p.c. mark only one school in the association had reached that, viz., Springbrook.

The Wellman's Women's Institute visited Stirling W. I. at a special meeting last week. Miss Iva Langton, of Waterdown, one of the Departmental speakers, gave a very interesting address on "The Institute as a Factor in a Community."

Mrs. Todd of Wellinasis, gave an amusing reading and Mrs. J. G. Butler, of Stirling, sang. Both numbers were much appreciated. The Stirling Institute served lunch and a pleasant social time was enjoyed by all.

At the auction sale of the Joyce property on Thursday the vacant lot on Front street was sold to Clifford Reid, but the house and lot on Wright street was not sold as the reserve bid was too high for those present.

Many Teachers Apply.

For the two vacancies in the teaching staff of the schools here over 100 applications have been received which shows there is no dearth of teachers either for High or Public schools.

The tag day and concert for the benefit of the swimming pool realized about $100.

The cheese factories are working to a greater capacity than other years, as the pasture was never better, some producing a great flow of milk and the price of cheese advancing each succeeding week. On Saturday the price obtained was a trifle over 20c. The Stirling creamery is also busy getting a good supply of cream from their different routes.

Personal Notes.

Dr. Dafoe of Madoc, accompanied Mr. Marcellus, who was presiding examiner at the Entrance exams here, and spent the day calling on former acquaintances, one day last week.

Miss Helen Bailey was successful in passing her junior examinations in the Conservatory of Music.

Over a hundred children are being trained to take part in "The Girl in Red."

Mr. David McCook, of Campbellford, was in town on business recently.

Miss Nellie Tulloch is the guest of her aunt in Oshawa.

Mr. Edgar Matthews, who has just completed his course at Peterborough Normal school, has secured a school near Consecon, Prince Edward county.

Father Corrigan has returned to his parish, much improved in health.

Miss Myrtle McMullen, who spent several weeks in Kingston Hospital, has returned home in improved health.

Dr. Zurich was seriously sick of heart trouble last week.

Miss Freda Matthews, who was teaching at Bonar Law, has secured the school on the 4th line of Rawdon.

Mr. Harry Cosby, of Belleville, spent the week end with his mother.

Mr. Murray McGee, of North Bay Normal school, is home for his holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Thane and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace, of Burnbrae, attended the evening service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church here on Sunday.

Rev. C. W. Barrett, of the United church here, exchanged pulpits with Rev. James Beckel of Castleton on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Spry and Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Sine motored to Madoc on Sunday afternoon and attended the annual decoration services of the I.O.O.F. there.

Mrs. Simpson and Cathie returned with Rev. Mr. Simpson to their home here, having spent the past nine months in Brooklin, Ont.

MUSICAL TASTE

Demand for Music of Better Class is Steadily Increasing.

Gramaphone music of the better type is in increasing demand—although there will always be a large public for light and frivolous music. A vote taken in the United States recently showed that 80 per cent. of the voters, who had been listening to wireless concerts, preferred 'good' music, and 20 per cent. preferred 'jazz'. A few months ago, votes received showed 80 per cent. preferring 'jazz' and 20 per cent. desirous of 'good' music. A similar rise in the standard of musical taste is visible in the world of gramaphone music—and the gramaphone itself is largely responsible for it.

SANTA BARBARA STREET SWEEPER STAYED AT JOB

WHILE WALLS FELL

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., July 2 —Ole Hanson, former Mayor of Seattle, now a resident here, gave this description of the quake:

"It was about 6:44 a.m. The air was sultry. Everything was very quiet. I noticed as I lay on my bed that quite a large wave dashed against the beach. The ground seemed to raise up with a crunch as if a million dogs crunching a bone. I leaped out of bed and the floor seemed to rise up and hit me. I stepped again and it seemed as though I could not reach the floor.

Runs for Open

"Like all animals except the horse in time of trouble, I dashed for the open air and began to bang on the neighboring bungalows to rouse the occupants and get them in the open park.

"Then I heard an explosion like a great crash and saw the walls of a power plant, a block away, fall. Then a bright blue flame, such as we use in movies at night, lit up the heavens and flashed out.

"Right behind me I heard a rending. Two blocks away I saw the walls of the new California hotel sway over, gradually, and collapse, leaving the occupants lying safety in some covered and some uncovered.

"They all escaped.

"The ground rolled like a slight sea, hitting a canoe. There was no excitement. Despite crash after crash from the business district, the men sweeping the streets on the waterfront never quit sweeping. He calmly and swept.

"We built a fire. The gas was off, so the bonfire sufficed. We had coffee. We ate our breakfast. We The damage on State street is great. A mile on both sides practically destroyed. VETERANS DEFER DECISION ON MOTION TO CONSCRIPT WEALTH

Resolution Referred to Constituent Bodies—Discussed at Next Conference.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

OTTAWA, July 2.—(By Canadian Press).—The resolution put forward by the Canadian delegates at the British Empire Service League conference commending the principle of the conscription in the event of war, "of properties equally with persons, lives and liberties of all citizens" was submitted to the constituted bodies on discussion and report yesterday.

The resolution which was moved by Captain I. A. MacKenzie for Canada, met with the approval of Andrew Young, M.P. on behalf of Scotland, Sir Andrew Russell, of New Zealand and Hon. James Cornell of Australia, Capt. W. P. Walker of the Irish Free Sttae, moved an amendment to have the question referred back to the constituent bodies of the League and presented for discussion at the next conference. The amendment was accepted by the Canadian deelgates and the resolution as amended carried.

Captain MacKenzie, in introducing the resolution, said that the League had not done all it might in the sacred interests of peace. The resolution as presented had been adopted by Canadian veteran organizations, and the American Legion. It was, he said, a guarantee of peace and in any event a guarantee against the inequalities of sacrifice of the last war.

Remembrance Day.

A recommendation that November 11, be set aside as Remembrance Day throughout the Empire except in such Dominions were other arrangements have been made, was passed by the British Empire Service League yesterday.

Commander Paget-Hett of the British Legion in proposing the resolution said that memorials of bronze and stone were not enough. He gave instances of the success of the Legion in the sale of poppies on Remembrance Day for the relief of distressed ex-service men. In four years nearly one million pounds had been secured for relief purposes by the sale of poppies.

Field Marshal Haig in the course of the discussion paid a tribute to the overseas sections of the Empire which had contributed generously to the relief work in Great Britan through the poppy fund.

Captain MacKenzie, speaking for Canada, outlined the methods used in the manufacture and sale of poppies in Canada and added that the Canadian Government had promised to have November 11, set aside as Remembrance Day. The Australian and New Zealand delegates pointed out that April 25 was Anzac Day in those Dominions and that services of the Remembrance Day character were held at that time.

ACCIDENTS AT BARN RAISING

Two Men Struck by Falling Beams on Head and Leg.

OWNER INJURED

OMEMEE, July 2.— After a postponement from last Thursday owing to rain, ideal weather prevailed on Monday for the barn-raising of the farm of Roy Howden, who resides about four miles south east of Omemee. This new structure is under the supervision of the Morden Brothers of Mount Pleasant and when completed will be 90 feet long by 40 feet wide. It is being erected so that at any future time all modern equipment and a water system may be installed, the power coming from the windmill outside. There were between seventy and eighty present on Monday and while many raisings have passed without a sad note yet many more have been the accidents related at such a task. This was one of the latter. While not very serious were the two which happened, yet they marred the progress of the raising for a short time.

Mr. Alonzo Moncrief received a blow on the head by a girth which slipped when the bent was being erected, owing to the opposite end not having been pinned when put in place. He was unconscious for a few minutes but was quickly conveyed to the doctor, who after a thorough examination could find no serious effects.

A falling timber struck Mr. Wilbert Irwin, who was sitting on a beam, and strained the muscles of his leg so that he was incapacitated for the remainder of the afternoon.

Added to these minor injuries is the sad accident which befell the owner, Roy Howden, on Friday morning. While feeding the pigs and having a pail of feed in each hand, a pig upset him to the ground where he struck his right leg on a root of an apple-tree causing a slanting break of an inward bone in his leg about four inches above the ankle. The broken bone was set by Dr. G. N. Earle and the patient is resting as well as can be expected under such trying difficulities, this busy season of the year comes pretty hard and trying on a farmer to be content in bed.

Supper was served on the verandah by Mrs. Howden assisted by many ladies and owing to the delay caused by the delay of the train did justice to the good things provided.

Mr. James Carrol, who lives just north of Downeyville, met with a very serious accident on Friday afternoon when he was kicked by a horse. after he had placed a bandage on the animal's hip. Dr. G. N. Earle was quickly summoned and found that one lung had been punctured.

PAYS TO ADVERTISE

CARD OF RACES AT WARKWORTH ON WED., JULY 29

Field Day Planned by Percy Township Agricultural Society.

RACES FEATURE

Committees Appointed to Arrange Programme and Details.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

WARKWORTH, July 2. — The Percy Township Agricultural Society will hold a field day on July 29th on the Fair grounds at Warkworth, that date having been selected at a meeting of the directors held in Community Hall Tuesday evening. The date is subject to change in the improbable event of it being found that it conflicts with that of some similar function anywhere in the district.

The large attendance of directors was the best evidence of the interest that is being taken in this event the following being a list of those present:

President, George Poole, Secretary Bert Armstrong, W. A. Kelly, H. L. Walker, F. H. Moore, George Hutchinson, H. V. Shinkle, Elmer Oliver, Freeman White, W. E. Herminston, Harry Aylesworth, James A. Armstrong, W. H. Nelson, W. S. Nelson, Henry Watters, W. J. Ross and J. Sherwin.

Wilbert S. Nelson reported that the majority of horse owners in the district would be taking their trotters and pacers to the races in Eastern Ontario and in Quebec early in August. Horse races have always been a leading feature at field day or Fairs in Warkworth and in order to draw a good string of racers it was decided to hold the entertainment the last week in July, the 29th being selected on motion of H. L. Walker and W. H. Nelson.

The Softball Craze.

Warkworth, too, seems to have become infected with the softball craze that is spreading like an epidemic over the entire district. There is no hard ball team in the village now but the milder variety of the game is being played on every vacant lot and it is likely it will be the favorite on the field day programme.

Committees Appointed.

The following committees were appointed to arrange the details.

Horse races— (The same as for the Fall Fair)—J. F. Freure, H. Aylesworth, E. Oliver, W. S. Nelson and H. Skinkle.

Advertising—J. L. Phillips, F. H. Moore, W. E. Hermiston, H. L. Walker and Secretary Armstrong.

Sports—H. L. Walker, J. F. Freure, Secretary Armstrong, Fred H. Moore and James A. Armstrong.

These committees will report at a meeting of the Board to be held next Tuesday.

Water Supply Wanted.

H. L. Walker brought up the question of digging a well on the grounds so as to have an adequate supply of water convenient not only for use at the Fairs and on field days, but for flooding the skating rink during the winter months. At present it costs $40 to flood the rink the first time and $15 a week for the balance of the season.

A well can be drilled at a cost of $3 a foot, the contractor to furnish the casing. It was decided, however, that it would be necessary to dig down 18 or 20 feet so as to provide a reservoir to hold a supply of water. It was estimtaed that such a reservoir could be dug and stoned at a cost of $2.00 a foot.

This question, to which no opposition was offered, all the directors being apparently of the opinion that the well was needed, was deferred for future consideration.

Clare, assisted by Revs. White and Sexsmith. The choir gave special music. Interment was made in Mount Nebo cemetery.

The school trustees have been successful in securing Mr. Collins, a teacher of a number of years experience, as principal of the Continuation School.

Miss Taft and Miss Topper, teachers in the Public School, left for their homes on Saturday morning.

WEDDING BELLS

NORVAL—HAIG.

HAVELOCK, June 30. — The United Church, Havelock, beautifully decorated with orange blossoms, orchids and ferns was at noon on Saturday the scene of a very pretty wedding when Gladys Adelaide, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Haig became the bride of Dr. Thomas Howard Norval, of Norwood, son of the late Mr. T. Norval and Mrs. Norval of Brampton. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. O. Seymour, assisted by Rev. Mr. Rogers, of the United Church, Norwood. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Mrs. R. Campney and looked charming in a smart bridal creation of white georgette with silver trimming. Her bridal veil was in Spanish headdress effect with cornet of pearls, and her bouquet was a generous shower of Ophelia roses and lily of the valley.

Mrs. Robert Barker of Toronto, as matron of honor, wore a striking frock of orchid georgette with hat to match. Very charming were the four bridesmaids, Miss Deborah Joyner of Toronto and Miss Norma Haig, of town, cousins of the bride, Miss Verna Telford, of Toronto, Miss Ollie Haig, sister of the bride. They wore smart frocks of white, rose, Nile green and poudre blue georgette respectively, with hats to match and carried shower bouquets of Columbia roses. Little Margaret Brethen, of Norwood, made a winsom train bearer in yellow organdie.

The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Wilburt Norval, of Toronto, while Dr. G. Greig, of Detroit, Mich., Dr. Russell Williams, of Glen Island, Mr. Loudon Butters and Mr. Gordon Butters, of Toronto, acted as ushers. During the signing of the register Mrs. (Rev.) J. Glover, of Cambray, sang "Until," and as the bridal couple were leaving the church the choir sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden."

The groom's gift to the bride was a piano, to the bridesmaids silver bracelets, to the best man and ushers Masonic cuff links and to the train bearer a locket.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mathison street, when Mr. and Mrs. Haig and Mrs. T. Norvall received with the bridal party. Mrs. Haig wore a smart gown of black satin and Mrs. Norval Sr., was becomingly attired in black brocaded satin. After the reception the wedding dinner was served in the town hall, which was artistically decorated in pink and white. Later the happy couple left on the afternoon train on a honeymoon trip to Glen Island, the bride travelling in a blonde coat with Angora trimmed hat to match and rosewood satin gown. On their return Dr. and Mrs. Norval will reside in Norwood.

The out-of-town guests were: Mrs. T. Norval, Miss Crawford, Mrs. (Dr.) Peaker, Mr. Douglas McClelland, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Crawford of Brampton; Dr. G. Greig, Detroit, Mich.; Dr. Russell Williams, Glen Island; Mr. Wesley Hart, Mrs. Nell. Hart, Mr. Loudon Butters, Mr. Gordon Butters, Miss Deborah Joyner, Mrs. Robt. Barker and daughter, Betty, Mrs. Thomas Butters, Mr. Wilburt Norval, Miss Verna Telford, Mr. and Mrs. Firman Haig, Mr. Martin McKenzie, Dr. and Mrs. J. Russell and Mr. and Mrs. R. Bonny, of Toronto; Mrs. M. Riley, of Kingston; Mr. Wm. Wentt, Mr. and Mrs. A. Brethen, Rev. and Mrs. Rodgers of Norwood; Rev. and Mrs. J. Glover, of Cambray; Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Flynn, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Carter of Smith Falls; Mr. and Mrs. J. Howley, of London.

HONOR MEMORY OF CHAMPLAIN IN GREAT PAGEANT

First Coming of White Men to Orillia Shown With Great Realism.

UNVEIL MONUMENT

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux Sees Augury in Celebration of Two Provinces.

ORILLIA, July 2. — (Canadian Press).—Champlain came back to Cahiague yesterday, and in his coming still further cemented the bonne entente between French and English common heritors of the land he explored and co-partners in the nation he fathered.

Sculptored in enduring bronze he stands, a heroic figure, looking out towards the narrows of Lake Couchiching, through which, 310 years ago, he led the first punitive expedition against the hated Iroquois.

A distinguished son of Canada — Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux — unveiled the memorial. The leaders of the people who had conquered the new France he founded spoke the warm appreciation of the nation for the dauntless discoverer and common benefactor and descendants of his early allies—the Hurons and Algonquins—stood with stolid faces honoring in memory the man their forefathers honored in life.

And while 10,000 new Canadians grouped themselves about the monument on the wooded shores of Couchiching there was enacted in all the like-like realism of historical pageant, a scene which stirred the dusky denizens of the forest on August 17, 1615, when the first white man penetrated to the remote fastness of Huronia.

More than 200, savage redskins—the warriors lazily gambling, the squaws busy tanning skins, repairing canoes and grinding corn—were startled by the sudden appearance around the point of a flotilla of war canoes. On they came, while the inhabitants of Cahiague crouched in eager watching, and then from the leading canoe was unfurled the blue standard and royal banners of France.

Champlain landed, and the air was pierced with the shrill, high clamor of rejoicing. While the warriors forgot stolid habits of a life-time in the enthusiasm of welcoming the man who was to deliver them from the Iroquois, wondering squaws eyed askance this visitor from the unknown and his escort of gaily garbed Frenchmen.

Mr. Lemieux drew from the celebration hopeful auguries for the future. The spectacle of Ontario erecting a monument to a Frenchman, of two old provinces joining in commemorating the common tercentenary should be an inspiration to the rising generation, he said.

"And let us resolve that in this country, made immortal by the journey of Champlain, and also by the martyrdom of the Jesuit Fathers, three hundred years ago, every man shall remain free to worship God according to the dictates of his conscience, and to speak freely the language of his forefathers.

"It would be idle for me to describe the career of Champlain. The Panama Canal, of which he dreamt, has now become reality. Some day not too far distant, I hope the Canadian Government may build a Georgian Bay canal, following the same route as that surveyed by Champlain three centuries ago.

"The dream of a pathway to the mysterious Orient has long ago been fulfilled. Four days' travel on a Transcontinental railway can carry one to the Pacific, and the wealth of Asia is within his grasp.

"A divine Providence has willed it that the descendants of France and England should live side by side over the vast territory explored by Champlain and evangelized by Lalemant Brebeuf, Jogues, Dollier De Casson and others.

"The fortunes of war made of Britain the dominating power in Canada. French and English have their respective qualities and failings, but it is no vain boast to say that they belong to the most liberal and enlightened nations in the world, two nations which, from time immemorate, have been at the vanguard of civilization. No one among my English-speaking friends here would deny to France the respect and admiration to which she is entitled. All recognized the brilliance of her literature, the unequalled gift she has for diffusion of ideas and ideals, the stimulus she has given to intellectual activity and the power she has shown of developing and refining taste.

"And I, a descendent of France, am proud to proclaim how old England has spread civilization with unequalled speed and unsurpassed energy over the vast spaces of this continent. Ontario and Quebec joined hands at the banquet. It was Ontario that made the courteous gesture. In Orillia, where the French tongue has seldom been heard in the 300 odd years since Champlain's departure, the toast to the sister province of Quebec was proposed and responded in the language of Champlain.

Sir William Mulock delighted the French-Canadian present, and also delighted the audience, by suddenly switching to the tongue of Quebec.

Mr. Justice E. Fabre, Surveyer, expressed his appreciation of the unlooked-for compliment to his province.

MONUMENT TO CHAMPLAIN

The monument to Samuel de Champlain was unveiled at Orillia, Ontario, on Dominion Day by the Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Speaker of the House of Commons.

The monument, which has been under way for 12 years, was intended to mark the 300th anniversary of the advent into Ontario of the white race, in 1915, but the war interfered.

It is erected at Orillia because that town is near the site of Cahiague, the Huron capital in 1615, at which Champlain made his headquarters for nine months.

Height of monument, 30 feet; weight, over 110 tons; weight of bronze, 9 1-2 tons; height of main figure, 12 feet; height of side groups, 11 feet. The pedestal and steps are of Benedict stone.

One group represents the bringing of Christianity to the Indians —an object ever near the heart of Champlain. Father Le Caron, a Recollet priest, opened a mission among the Hurons in the same summer that Champlain visited the Huron country.

In the other side group a coureur-de-bois, trading beads with Indians for furs, is portrayed. In Champlain's plans for his colony, the fur trade occupied a prominent place. The figures of the Indians have excited great admiration. They are much larger than life size.

REV. W. H. YOUNG LEAVES CHURCH AFTER 5 YEARS

Ministers of City and Members of Congregation Join in Farewell.

A PRESENTATION

S. R. Armstrong Presides at Impressive Gathering to Honor Pastor.

Presentations of a club bag and travelling trunk along with an address of appreciation were made to Rev. W. Harold Young and Mrs. Young in the hall of George Street United Church on Tuesday night. A special presentation and address was also tended Mrs. Young on behalf of the Ladies' Aid.

S. R. Armstrong, the chairman of the meeting read a letter from Rev. J. W. Gordon, in which the minister of St. Andrews' United Church expressed regret at his inability through absence from the city to join with the people of George Street in doing honor to Mr. Young. Mr. Gordon eulogized Mr. Young, as a friend, a preacher and a Christian gentleman and extended his best wishes for the future happiness and prosperity of Mr. and Mrs. Young.

Rev. A. J. Langford.

Rev. A. J. Langford, pastor of Trinity United Church, who was called upon to speak immediately on entering the hall, said he felt somewhat in need of a faculty possessed to an unusual degree by Mr. Young —that of saying the right word to express himself. Mr. Young had the right word for every experience, incident and circumstance. Mr. Young, he said, had always proved himself to be a good mixer. He was also a fairly good theologian. The speaker was not sure that Mr. Young was a fundamentalist, but he had never felt himself compelled to bring any charges of heresy against Mr. Young. Mr. Young was a scholar, a student, a preacher and an orator, and he had left a permanent impression on the City of Peterborough. The speaker was sure Mr. Young would make his mark in the larger field to which he was going.

Rev. J. D. Richardson.

So many beautiful and true things had been said of Mr. Young during the last few weeks, said Rev. J. D. Richardson, of St. James United Church, that there had been very little left to say. Mr. Young deserved all the praise; he was worthy of all the nice things that had been said of him. A man, he said, might be big in a small city but be quite eclipsed in the large city, but he predicted for Mr. Young a splendid career in the City of Toronto. One special advantage that Mr. Young enjoyed was the fact of his youth. In these days, the demand for youth was insistent, particularly in the ministry. He would like also to pay tribute to Mrs. Young. She had filled her position with ability and geniality and had proved a fitting helpmate to her husband.

Rev. R. Bamforth.

Rev. R. Bamforth, who has lately resigned Mark Street Church to retire from the ministry, said he had to thank God for many things, one of which was friendship. That friendship, he believed, without a shadow of doubt, he found in Mr. and Mrs. Young. He was glad to be in such a gathering, for it enabled him to thank God for men of ability who stood at the open door of the world, and saw things as they were and as they ought to be, and were willing to take off their coats in the effort to bring about that which ought to be. Thank God, he said, for the man who cares for what God thinks of him, for the man who turns his abilities turns his abilities to the channel to the channel that counts, and consecrates his talents to the uplifting of humanity.

Rev. N. McLeod.

Rev. Dr. Blagrave, as successor to Rev. Harold Young in the presidency of the ePterborough Ministerial Association, intended to be present, and wish Mr. Young God-speed on behalf of the Association, but was prevented from attending, and sent as a substitute Rev. Norman McLeod, minister of Park Street Baptist Church, and secretary of the Ministerial Association. Mr. McLeod spoke of the high opinion he had formed of Mr. Young during a comparatively brief acquaintance. Punning on the departing minister's name, he said that no matter how old the George Street pastor became, he would always remain Young. On behalf of the Ministerial Association and on behalf of the Park Street and Murray Street Baptist Churuches he tendered Mr. and Mrs. Young best wishes for the future.

At this stage, Mr. Armstrong announced that a little drama was the next item on the programme. The drama consisted of the reading of the address to Mr. and Mrs. Young and the withdrawal of a screen behind which had been concealed the gifts of the congregation.

Rev. W. Harold Young.

Mr. Young in responding said, more than words could tell, he was touched by the gifts and by the thoughts that lay behind them. He wished he was worthy of all the things had had been said of him. Mrs. Young was well worthy of all that had been said of her. No praise could be too high for her. Indeed, Mrs. Young represented nine and nine-tenths and he himself was the remaining tenth. He had wondered of late if it was really he of whom so many kind things had been said. His heart was simply overflowing with gratitude and affection for the many friendships he had made in the city during his five years' stay. He hoped the circle of life would bring them back together again and he begged them always to remember, as he remembered, that they were not going very far away.

The future of the Church was doubtful, but there was no doubt as to the future of George Street Church. With so much of loyalty, of earnestness and steadfastness in the church, George Street could not be other than a great church. These qualities were supreme in George Street. He had had ample proof of that during the last five years. There had been many things within and without the church that had combined to make his years in Peterborough happy and prosperous. He wished to refer specially to one factor outside the church—to The Peterborough Examiner, which had been a never-failing support and encouragement throughout his ministry. To the men and women of The Examiner, he wanted publicly to say "Thank you." To the people of the church, he wanted to say "Thank you." He had the same feeling as was possessed by other men who had been honored by being called to serve George Street Church—a feeling of gratitude at having enjoyed a privilege. Mr. Todd, their new minister, would probably be here before the end of the week. He did not know Mr. Todd, but from what he had heard of him, he was sure that the Settlement Committee had been divinely guided in recommending Mr. Todd to the people of George Street Church. He hoped the church members would extend to their new minister the love and loyalty they had shown towards him and Mrs. Young. He was no longer their pastor, he did not expect ever again to stand in the same relationship to them, but he was not through with the love of the people. He hoped they would still let him and his wife be friends to every person in George Street. He thanked the people who had presented those gifts, and thanked all who had said so many kind things, and he thanked the church for the wonderful support and gladness of the past five years.

Mrs. Young spoke a few words of thanks, rendered almost inaudible by her emotion.

During the evening, Miss Murray sang two beautiful solos, and Mr. Arnold Spencer rendered two selections on the violin.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Young bade goodbye individually to the members of the church.

Man Bit His Dog and Got His Name in News

PITTSBURGH, July 2. — Eager to break into th news, Frank Kigger, 55, adopted the way immortalized by the late Charles A. Dana, who said:

'If a dog bites a man, that's not news. But is a man bites a dog, that's news."

Kigger bit his dog.

Having, the police say, indulged rather freely in moonshine, Kigger got down on all fours and began to emit barks and growls that elicited the mild interest of Buzz, his brindle bulldog. But when his master seized him by the back with his teeth and began to shake him, Buzz thought the joke had gone too far and retaliated by biting Kigger on the head and hands.

Kigger was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital, where fifteen stiches were required to close the wound in his scalp and ten on his hands. The police decided that Buzz had acted in self-defense and placed no restriction on his freedom.

PRESENTATIONS TO DEPARTING FRIENDS

Mrs. D. R. Clare and Daughters Received Work Basket and Rings.

MARMORA, July 2.—At the conclusion of Sunday School at the United Church on Sunday morning, the scholars of the Cheerful Workers Class presented their teacher, Mrs. D. R. Clare with a beautiful wicker sewing stand and half a dozen of fine quality china cups and saucers. Misses Margaret and Florence received rings.

The following address was read by Miss Hazel Williams:

Dears Mrs. Clare:

We are taking this, your last Sunday with us, as an opportunity to express our appreciation of our work and interest in our class. During the time you have been our teacher, you have impressed your willing personality on us, you have taken a wonderful interest in our class both on Sundays and mid-week activities and we will not forget it.

We ask you to accept this work basket as a token of thanks from your pupils and we also ask Florence and Margaret to accept these rings for their faithfulness to their class.

Signed on behalf of The Cheerful Workers Class.

The Busy Bee Class also presented Miss Ida Clare with an address and ring.

Farewell Sermon.

Rev. D. R. Clare delivered his farewell sermons on the Marmora circuit last Sunday. At the evening service at Marmora United Church, there was a large congregation to take farewell of the pastor. During his three years pastorate with the hearty and tactful co-operation of Mrs. Clare the Sunday School and Young People's League have flourished. The pastor has also at length been able to see the innovation of a robed choir. The service on Sunday evening was destined to be very impressive. The sermon was based on "Christ loved the church and gave himself for it," etc., Eph. 5, 25, 26, 27, and arrested the attention of all present by its earnest delivery. Mrs. F. Wells and Mrs. Shortt rendered "Face to Face," as a duet.

Rev. D. R. Clare and family will be moving at the end of this week to their new sphere of labour, Welcome.

Orange Church Parade.

The officers and brethren of Springbrook L.O.L. 442 with visiting brethern from West Huntingdon, Tanner and Marmora Lodges paraded to Springbrook United Church on Sunday afternoon when in addition to a forcible address from Bro. Rev. D. R. Clare on Micah 6-8, the congregation received their departing Pastor's valedictory message. The choir effectively rendered the anthem "Trust ye in the Lord for ever." The church was filled to utmost capacity.

Good Lectures.

Deloro Women's Institute in receiving a visit from Iva M. Langton, lecturer, on Friday last, were favored with hearing an admirable address on the topic, 'The Institute as a factor in the community." Miss Langton also addressed the Junior Women's Institute on "Programme Planning" and furnished ideas for Junior Institute work.

Mrs. William Williams rendered two vocal solos most effectively and Mrs. Ross Hunter at the piano, gave of her best. At the close of the meeting, afternoon tea was served after which a social half hour was spent by the members.

Presentation at Cordova.

On Friday evening a representative gathering, to the number of 110, from all the appointments of the Cordova circuit met at the parsonage for a farewell evening with Rev. and Mrs. Herrington, before their departure for Warsaw. During the evening, they were presented with a purse containing $114, as a token of respect and appreciation of their work.

Miss Shea, who has taught for the past two years at Delora, left for her home in Stirling on Friday.

TRANSFERRED ORGANS DO NOT FUNCTION

Three or four years ago a Western surgeon wrote a letter, scolding me because I had ridiculed the claims of enthusiasts over the "gland cures." From the first I have warned against the extravagant claims of cure, with this and that gland operation or treatment.

A few weeks ago I read a report of the proceedings of the Washington Congress of American Physicians and Surgeons. Skepticism of the value of "gland medicines" was voiced by several speakers. The account I saw said, "The public has been 'humbugged' with impossible claims concerning transplantation of monkey and other glands. That was the testimony of the distinguished president of the Congress and others.

It is safe to assume that every announcement of a "discovery" of a cure for some disease or candition, previously considered incurable, is a fake. It may possess elements of truth, but some investigation is very likely to reveal that the startling claims are unfounded.

The fallacy of the gland transplantation theory is not difficult to point out. It is easy to transplant parts of one person or of one animal to another, but an organ transplanted in this way will not function. It may live as tissue, but it does not live as a vital, active and functioning organ.

It was on this ground that I took a stand against the theory of gland transplantation. The gland substance or the secretions of the various ductless glands, may be valuable, and doubtless are valuable in a remedial way, but the value of such remedies is temporary, just as is the value of any other drug or remedy.

There is no short cut to health. Degenerative and long standing diseases are due to things so fundamental that it is absurd to think their damaging effects can be overcome by the miracle of some magic remedy. Nothing poured out of a bottle or shot into you by one simple injection, is going to overcome defects and disabilities, founded on years of wrong living.

These theories of rejuvenation and regeneration make splendid themes for modern day novels, but they are not scientific enough to hold the interest of the medical world. It is just as well to let the public realize that the hope held out by the advocates of gland transplantation is a vain prospect.

The way to live to be a hundred and to be effective at a hundred, is to begin right living in childhood. By applying the simple rules of hygiene through youth and middle age, there is every hope that old age will be deferred. Years and usefulness will be added to the life. That is the way to live. Don't trust to spectacular methods because they are more then likely to fail.

Study and practice the rules of simple living. Then you may hope for a long, happy career.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

MRS. C. Q.—Is there anything that will remove fatty tumors without having them cut out?

A.—A growth of any kind should have the personal attention of a doctor.

G. S. Q.—Will exercise reduce the arms?

A.—Yes, swinging Indian clubs or using dumbbells, etc., should all help to reduce fat arms. Systematic massage might also be helpful.

Catalpa Trees.

On these warm days the grass beneath the catalpa trees is white as with snow—only the snow in this case is made of the scattered fallen flowers. The great clusters of snowy bloom, the huge broad leaves, and the long, green seedpods that come later, all give this tree something of a tropical aspect, and make it seem a trifle out of place among the soberer elms and oaks and maples. And in a sense it is, too, for though it is a native species, its kin, like the trumpet creeper and the bignonia or cross-vine, are tropical or sub-tropical in origin.

Its long, slender seed-pods, after they ripen and turn brown and dry, are familiar to boys as "Indian cigars" or "smoking beans;" and indeed the tree often bears one of these names itself. Both the pods and the bark are listed as having medicinal properties, though they are little used.

Besides its great beauty as an ornamental, the catalpa has great usefulness as a fence-post producer. That is, if one gets the right kind. There are two principal species of catalpa. One, the hardy catalpa, grows rapidly and yields small timbers that last well and do not split. The other, the soft catalpa, grows even more rapidly, but often splits even while it grows, and rots.

The new skirts often have one inverted pleat in the front and one on each side of the front to add ease in walking.

MAGNIFICENT WORK IS BEING DONE BY PETERBORO ROTARY FOR CITY'S CRIPPLED CHILDREN

Grateful Mother Writes to Thank Club For Help Given Her Crippled Son.

HISTORY OF CASES.

Human Reasons Why Rotary Carnival Should Be Supported by Community.

250 Euclid Avenue,
Peterboro, June 29, 1925.

Secretary Rotary Club.

Sir,—On behalf of my husband and myself would you be so good as to thank the members of the Rotary Club for their kindness in helping us with our little son. Without this help we could not have had done what the Sick Children's Hospital has done.

Dr. Harris says Freddie is wonderfully improved and as the gymnasium is closed for the summer months he does not want us to come up again until the end of September. I am sure we are very grateful to all the members and wishing them every success in their great work.

I remain, yours truly,
Annie Simmons

The above letter calls attention to a branch of the Rotary Club's activity that is in itself a very potent reason why the carnival on July 16th should receive the enthusiastic support of the whole community, the work done for crippled children.

The Examiner promised the other day to give in further detail a review of what the Peterboro Rotary Club has accomplished along this line.

In the first place it should be understood that a canvass of the city was made by the Rotary-Annes with a view to locating crippled children in need of help.

As a result 65 names were handed in to the Rotary Club and of these about 25 were examined by the crippled children's committee as being in the class of children that the Rotary Club planned to help.

About 15 children were selected as being amenable to treatment and these were reviewed by Dr. D. E. Robertson, the assistant surgeon of the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto.

Practically all the cases brought before Dr. Robertson were found to be in need of treatment. Some required splints. Some required operative treatment which could be done at home; others were in need of operative treatment in Toronto. Some others required supervision and instruction at the Sick Children's Hospital and the Rotary Club planned accordingly:

The cases were as follows:
Spinal curvatures—two cases.
Infantile paralysis with deformity—four cases.
Club foot—four cases.
Tuberculosis hip—one case
Stiff knees, bent—one case.
Webbed fingers—one case.
Extra toe—one case.
Hair lip—one case.
Bow leg—one case.
Total 16 cases.

Of these there were sent to Toronto one child suffering from club feet and two with infantile paralysis for operations. a case of spinal curature for training exercises and two for celluloid jackets, a child with bow leg for operation, another with hare lip for operation, and a youngster with stiff knees for straughtening, a total of 8 cases.

The cases treated at home were as follows:
Club feet—3 cases.
Infantile paraysis, fitted with splints—2 cases.
Webbed fingers—One case.
Extra toe—One case.
Tuberculous hip—One case.

Of the results of the treatment the following report is eloquent.

Treatment Completed and Results Satisfactory.

Webber finger—One.
Extra toe—One.
Infantile paralysis with operation—Two.
Infantile parallysis with splints—Two.
Club foot operation—One.
Stiff Bent Knees—One.

Still Receiving Treatment.

Spinal curvature at intervals at Toronto—Two.
Club feet at home—Two.
Tuberculous hip at home—One.

This is wonderful work and on the strength of it alone the Rotary Club would be justified in claiming community support for its carnival two weeks from to-day.

The boys and girls are now selling tickets. Citizens generally should be ready when they are called on to support this humanitarian work.

RAISED THE FLAG.

Greene Music Co. Employees at Manager's Cottage for the Occasion.

On Wednesday morning the staff of the J. M. Greene Music Company, loaded themselves into autos, and wended their way north to the eastern shore of Stoney Lake, where boats waited to take them to the cottage of Mr. Greene, two miles across the water. A little round about to call at Mount Julian and pick up the lady manager of the Edison Department, who was holidaying there, added several miles to the water trip, and considerable to the pleasure of the day. Soon after arriving at their destination, Mr Greene issued a call to the fine open air, netting enclosed dining room, where a sumptuous spread was ready to satisfy a bunch of wonderful Stoney Lake appetites. This pleasant duty over, the tendency to scatter to fishing grounds, boats, swimming pool, quoit grounds and other attractions, was with some difficulty curbed, when Mr. Greene invited all hands to the base of his newly erected flag pole, which rises 47 ft. above the highest point of rock on the place, where he addressed the assembled employees, their wives and friends, in a happy vein. He gave a brief resume of operations from the first start of getting the summer home to the present state of completion, recounting some of the humorous events that took place while the work of building was going on, including the unexpected and quite unintentional dives into the lake by one of the workers. His talk led up to the present occasion, the raising of the flag, a magnificent Union Jack, the gift of the employees last Christmas, which he wanted all to witness and share in the pleasure it gave him to see it wave over his island home.

Mr. Sills, who has been with the company for many years, was asked to use his ability as a choir conductor to lead the singing of "We'll never let the Old Flag Fall," which was then hoisted to its lofty eminence by the youngest little girl of the crowd. As it reached the top, the words of "The Maple Leaf Forever," and "God Save the King," were sung. Mr. Leader made a short speech. A vote of thanks to the host and hostess was moved and seconded and the ceremonies ended with singing "For they are Jolly Good Fellows."

CORDOVA PEOPLE IN PRESENTATION

Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Herrington Were Given Purse When Leaving.

On the evening of June 26th over a hundred friends from the different appointments of the Cordova and Belmont Mission gathered at the parsonage at Cordova, and presented Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Herrington and Lucille with a purse containing the sum of one hundred and fourteen dollars.

Mrs. James H. Toms presented the gift, and Miss Minnie Pollock read the following address:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Herrington and Lucille,—Having learned with sincere and deep regret of your departure from our midst, we, a number of your friends of Cordova Circuit, have assembled here to-night to spend a social evening, and bid you God-speed to your new home in Warsaw.

We take this opportunity to express to you our very high esteem for you and your family, also our appreciation of your many kindnesses rendered to us all as friends.

Your home has ever been a centre of hospitality. In cases of need or sickness, you have always been ready to offer every assistance.

I am sure I am only expressing the sentiment of every one present in saying you will be very much missed in our community and that we have found in you every quality of a true Christian.

You, Mr. Herrington, have worked with unceasing effort in one of the hardest and largest circuits in the district. You have always devoted your best thought and attention towards improving conditions, both in church and social life, and there is general regret that circumstances compelled you to be removed from our midst.

Your faithful helpmate has given her services in freely officiating as choir leader, and also her work in the Sunday School.

There is an old saying, "We never miss the water till the well runs dry," and we feel that we shall miss you people when you are gone. We know that you aren ot going very far from us, and hope to see you frequently in our homes, where there will always be a warm welcome for you. We sincerely hope that the good seed, which you have abundantly sown, shall bring forth many fold.

We wish you all success in your new appointment, and we ask that we may be remembered in your prayers.

Please accept this small purse as a slight memento of the appreciation in which you are held.

Signed on behalf of Cordova and Belmont Mission.

Mr. Herrington replied in well-chosen words, revealing once more his true Christian spirit and noble character.

After a very bountiful and enjoyable luncheon, the different guests departed, amid farewells of goodwill from the minister and his wife.

TRENT RIVER NEWS.

TRENT RIVER, July 3.—School is closed, and Miss Lila Engisch has returned to her home at Norwood.

Mrs. John Armstrong and daughters, of Havelock, are at their cottage.

Mrs. Mitchell and little Granddaughter, Marion, arrived Saturday from Toronto to spend the summer at "Raeden."

Mrs. Joe Knox and daughter, Dorothy of Peterborough, spent over Sunday at "Bon Alexander."

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor and family and Mr. and Mrs. Scully and family, and Mrs. Scully, Sr., of Toronto, are at their cottage for the holidays.

Miss Marie Davey has a wonderful showing of roses of many varieties in her garden.

Miss Mabell Inkster spent the week-end with friends in Trenton.

Blue-jay is the efficient way to rout a corn. It leaves nothing to your guess-work. You do not have to decide how much or how little to put on. Each plaster is a complete standardized treatment, with just the right amount of the magic medication to end the corn. Simply put on the plaster—it does the rest.

Could you confess a Corn —without embarrassment?

There isn't anything unnatural in one's desire to hide a corn. A corn is unsightly. One feels instinctively that it is not a possession a well-bred woman should have.... A dainty woman will not tolerate a corn. She is careful of her feet as of her face. She feels that it is unpardonable to neglect those parts of her body which are usually unseen. . . . Anyone may acquire a corn. . . . But it is bad form to keep one: Especially when Science has provided the way to get rid of it so swiftly, surely and pleasantly. 45,000 druggists have Blue-jay.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burto

THE STORY SO FAR

GLORIA GORDON, beautiful flapper, marries DICK GREGORY, a struggling lawyer. Her idea of marriage is fun and fine clothes . . . but no work or children.

She refuses to work and hires a houtsmaid. But Dick has to let the maid go for Gloria has swamped him with debts.

She becomes infatuated with STANLEY WAYBURN, an out-of-work actor, and follows him to New York. But he spurns her. Then she tries to get a job as a chorus girl and fails. Discouraged, she comes home to Dick. He takes her back, but not as his wife.

Gloria begins to suspect that he is in love with his secretary, SUSAN BRIGGS. And the breach between husband and wife widens daily. Gloria discovers that Miss Briggs is in love with Dick. She orders him to discharge his secretary, and when he refuses, leaves him.

Dick sends her $50 weekly, but she returns it to him and gets a job as stenographer for ULYSSES X. FORgan, a wealthy real-estate operator. But Forgan makes love to her, and she gives up her position.

Gloria's family, headed by AUNT DORCAS, decide to have a counsel to settle her tangled affairs for her. Not knowing this, Gloria goes with her father and mother to Aunt Dorcas' house for Sunday dinner.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

Dick walked slowly into the hall. He picked up the telephone and gave the familiar number of the Gordon home. He could hear Central ringing it. . . .

Then, resolutely, he snapped the receiver back on its hook, and set the little instrument down on the table.

He stood there looking at it. With his hand raised to his lips, he pressed Gloria's handkerchief hard against them . . . That bit of cambric seemed to hold some of the fragrance of her in its scented folds. Her hair had smelled of mimosa flowers. . . .

Dick put out his hand again for the telephone. But suddenly, he snatched it back, as if the little black instrument had been flame.

There was subdued panic in the speed with which he snapped off the lights and left the house. He flung himself into the little blue car, and backed it down the driveway. . . .

"If I'd stayed a minute longer, I'd have called her up . . . told her to come!" he said, disgustedly to himself, as the car rolled along the road.

He took out his watch and looked at it. Ten o'clock! . . . Too early to go to bed on a moonlit night like this.

He drove aimlessly around the dark streets where the trees made black shadows along the sides . . . every street a Lover's Lane tonight! The same moon that had looked down on the lovers of Babylon and Nineveh looked down on the couples that were abroad tonight . . . the immortal Two, a Man and a Girl.

And then, almost without surprise, Dick found himself turning into the street where Gloria lived. He seemed to have known all along that this was where he was going. . . .

He passed the house, with his eyes straight ahead of him. But halfway down the street, he turned in his seat and looked back at the gray, blurred outlines of it. There was a light in the window of Gloria's room. . . .

The blue car slowed down and almost stopped. Its brakes screamed in the stillness of the street.

Then, suddenly, it shot forward in salient flight. Its tail-light winked like a small, evil eye as it turned the corner.

Not knowing whose car it was, Gloria heard it as she stood before her dresser, getting ready for bed.

She looked at herself in the mirror . . . What was the good of all her beauty, she wondered, when Dick wasn't there to see it?

Her hair might just as well be drab instead of red gold in all its deep waves. And her mouth . . . why should it be shaped for kisses, when he had grown tired of kissing her? . . . Gloria turned away her head, so that she couldn't see her reflection.

She put up her hand, and turned out the light, with a vicious little movement. Then she lay down on the bed, and tried to sleep. . . . It was past midnight, before she finally dropped off.

The next morning dawned to the sound of slow dropping rain on the leaves outside her window.

She ran downstairs, through the early Sunday morning hush of the house, and brought in the newspaper. The "Help Wanted" columns . . . they were what she wanted.

She went quickly through them, and marked two or three that looked promising. She'd go downtown first thing in the morning, and find something to do. . . . That was the thing, to keep busy! To keep from thinking!

When she heard her mother moving around in the kitchen, she dressed and hurried downstairs to help her.

"We won't have much for breakfast . . . just some berries and toast and coffee, I thought," Mrs. Gordon said. "Your Aunt Dorcas always has such big dinners that we'll all be sick, if we eat too much, now. . . ."

With a shudder, Gloria remembered that they were going to Aunt Dorcas' house for dinner!

At one o'clock they went. Aunt Dorcas, flushed and beaming, welcomed them with her best manner as Head of the House, Uncle Henry, small and silent, stood behind her.

And as Head of the House, Aunt Dorcas took her place behind the platter of stuffed, roasted veal at the dinner table. Aunt Dorcas always carved, just as she always drove the family car.

Cousin Lulu and her young husband, George, were there, too. The New Baby, they explained, was taking her nap upstairs on Aunt Dorcas' bed.

"What are you going to name her?" Gloria asked innocently.

Lulu and Aunt Dorcas turned reproachful eyes upon her.

"We're going to name her Dorcas, of course," Lulu said. "Why, she's the living image of Mother . . . hair and eyes, and all"

Once more Aunt Dorcas beamed. Even The Baby had deferred to her as Head of the House. And all was well.

Gloria was afraid of Aunt Dorcas. "I do hope she doesn't get started on me and Dick, again," she said prayerfully to herself, as she ate the hot cherry pie that followed the meal.

But she soon found out that what The Family had rally come together for, was a counsel. Aunt Dorcas, with her finest military air, took the floor the minute they were all settled in the living room.

"Your mother tells me you've gone back to work, Gloria," she began severely. "What's the meaning of that?"

Gloria drew in her breath. "Why shouldn't I work, Aunt?" she asked. "I'm used to working."

"Doesn't this young Gregory intend to give you a red cent?" Aunt Dorcas went on with her investigation.

"He's sent me money . . . but I gave it back to him. I didn't want it," Gloria answered in a low tone. She could feel the blood rising to her cheeks.

Aunt Dorcas looked at her with disgust. "Well, you are easy!" she exclaimed, "to let a man treat you the way Dick Gregory has . . . And then to let him go scot-free without giving you any money at all! You are a ninny!"

Gloria said nothing.

"What are you going to do about it?" her aunt prodded her. "Don't you realize that it's no more than right that you should take his money. You're his wife!"

"Yes, and if Gloria divorces Dick she ought to get good fat alimony!" Cousin Lulu broke in shrilly. "She's a fool not to start suit tomorrow!"

Gloria felt her mother's tender, wounded eyes pass over her. She heard her voice, soft and low after Aunt Dorcas' strident tones.

"No, there won't be any divorce," that soft voice said. "Such a thing as divorce has never been in this family. . . . There isn't anything for Gloria to do that I can see. . . ."

"There are several things she can do!" declared Aunt Dorcas. She was like a lawyer giving an opinion. "She can sue young Gregory for alimony. Or she can go back to him, if she wants to."

She stopped suddenly. Gloria had risen, and she stood facing them with fiery cheeks and eyes that were too bright.

"Haven't I told you before that that's the one thing I won't do!" she cried out. "I've been on my knees to Dick to take me back . . . you must know! And he won't take me back! He's sick and tired of me! Don't I know. . . ."

Aunt Gregory nodded her large blond head. "Then there's more to this affair of yours than anybody knows," she remarked tartly. "People don't separate unless one of 'em is in love with somebody else. . . ."

She studied Gloria with her prominent blue eyes, as if she could read her thoughts if only she looked at her long enough.

The girl knew she couldn't bear to be in the room a moment longer. It was none of her aunt's business whether she took money from Dick or earned it typewriting!

And it certainly was nobody's affair whether she lived with Dick, but his and hers. . . .

She looked from her aunt to her cousin Lulu with hostile eyes. "They don't want to help me, anyway," she told herself the brutal truth. "They just want to find out all my business . . . so they can talk me over afterward!"

She turned swiftly toward the wide doorway that led out into the hall of the house. "I've got to go," she said wildly. "I promised May Seymour I'd go for a walk with her."

It wasn't until she was out on the sidewalk that she realized that May Seymour wasn't in town . . . probably never would be in town again!

"Oh, well, what if they do know that I fibbed to them?" she thought, furiously. "People who pry into everyone's business don't deserve the truth. . . ."

But she hated herself for lying.

She walked slowly away from the house where The Family were still holding their counsel. She imagined her Aunt Dorcas' rich voice saying: 'Well, Gloria's having what old Aunt Fanny used to call the 'high strikes'! She's always so excitable. Can't talk over anything calmly!"

Glad of her escape, and soothed by her long walk in the sunshine, Gloria turned into Central park.

With her eyes on the ground, she walked on through the intense midsummer heat. At last she found an empty bench under a tree, and sank down upon it, exhausted. She closed her eyes. . . .

She dreamed that she was in the hall of her own house. . . her house and Dick's . . . and that he was there with her.

But between them, there seemed to be a high wall of fog.

And in her dream, Gloria was trying to pull the wall down, while Dick watched her . . . gravely, just as he might have stood, looking at her, had the dream been life, itself.

The sense of his nearness was so real to Gloria that when she wakened and opened her eyes, suddenly, she wasn't startled by the man who stood beside her bench. It was Dick, himself!

"You!" Gloria said to him, thickly. "I was just dreaming about you. . . . I guess I was asleep."

"You guess you were? You know you were!" Dick answered. "If I'd been a thief I could have got away with this." He handed her her little bead bag which had dropped to the ground.

"I suppose it's full of your week's wages," he added, dropping down onto the bench, beside her. "Or, didn't you get a job? Were you just bluffing me when you said you were going back to work?"

TIMELY TIPS ON OUTDOOR LIFE

By Morris Ackerman

If you are going big game hunting this fall leave the heavy pistol or revolver at home.

I have hunted much and far and have never yet seen the need of a side-arm. If a wounded bear or moose should charge you—and your rifle don't work for any reason—run!

When hunting moose, elk, deer, bear or any other big game, you'll find the going plenty hard with one fire-arm. You won't want to be handicapped with the weight of a "gat," hoslter and strap.

MY EUROPEAN EXCURSIONS

By Rhoda Robert Fabre

IN THE LAND OF THE CLASSICS.

Modern Athens as a city is not old, most of its buildings are scarce fifty years old, and everywhere you can see the modern improvements of electric lights and street cars and fine hotels. But the ancient names remain as you note in passing up Hermes Street and Xenophon Street. There is also a Byron Street to keep fresh a romantic and noble memory. Some things are unique and quaint. Bread is sold by the ring and you can carry home so many loaves as amulets; figs are sold on a grass string, and goats are milked at your door in Greece. Your barber's name is Themistocles and your shoeshiner is Alcibiades. With such classic reminders in such a land it is easy to saunter back over the years to the glory that was Greece and the city a thousand years older than the first Christian.

GOUDA OF "THE CLOISTER AND THE HEARTH"

Gouda on the Yssel in Holland has interests quite out of proportion to its size. Encircled with fine old trees, I walked into the town recently to cross several canals to the market place, near which is the Groote Kerk of St. John, to see it for a reason my Baedeker fails to mention. It was here that Gerard and Margaret of Charles Reade's "Cloister and the Hearth" worshipped, and near here that Gerard, father of Erasmus was born. Gouda today has given its name to the famous flat round cheeses that sell all over the world, even as earlier it named the old Dutch churchwardens pipes, the "Goudsche pijpen," which once flourishing industry seems to have given way to the Gouda ware potteries that provide so many wedding presents.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

DOTTY DISCOVERS A QUEER LITTLE MAMA AND DADDY MORSIE

Dotty stood perfectly still and watched the tiny reddish brown creatures scooting among the leaves of the tree a long time.

"Well, that's the funniest thing I've ever seen," she mused out loud. A voice behind her startled Dotty, and she turned around to see Squeedee, the wee elfin from Joyland, looking from her to the tree.

"Hello, there, Dotty!" he cried. "Why in the world are you gazing at that tree so intently?"

"Say, Squeedee," Dotty replied, "don't you see those little reddish brown creatures running in and out he green leaves?"

"Well, well!" exclaimed Squeedee, when he caught a glimpse of the little fellows, "if it isn't Mama and Daddy Rufus Tree Mousie. Hello there, folks; I'm mighty glad to see you!" he called. "May Dotty and I come up for a chat?"

"I'll say you can," squeaked the largest of the mice. "Come right on up, Squeedee. Glad to see you."

Squeedee and Dotty lost no time in getting up among the leaves, where two of the dear little mice greeted them.

They were just about the same size and shape of the gray mice that made their home in Dotty's Daddy's barn. They both wore little reddish brown suits, and their tails were much longer than Mama and Daddy Gray Mousie.

"I'm certainly glad to meet you, Mama and Daddy Rufus Tree Mousie,"

"Come, Peek Into Malba's Nest!"

Dotty said, shaking both their little paws. "I never knew before a mouse could live in a tree."

"Indeed," squeaked Daddy Rufus Tree Mousie, "we like it better than any place on earth. Come peek into Mama's nest." He led Squeedee and Dotty up about sixty feet from the ground. There, right up against the trunk of the tree, where several branches met, was a cozy little nest, as clever as could be, and in among the bits of leaves and grasses lay five wee little baby mice.

"Now," chuckled Daddy Rufus Tree Mousie, "come peek at my nest." He ran almost to the very end of the branch, and there, on the tip end, where he could get a full view of the country from among the green leaves, Daddy Rufus Tree Mousie had his nest all by himself. "One nest is too small to hold all of us, so we have separate rooms, he stated.

"And do you travel from tree to tree?" asked Dotty.

"Sure, when he wants to," laughed Squeedee. "That is, when the branches lap."

"I can," squeaked Daddy Rufus Tree Mousie, "but I don't do it very often. The tree we live in is so very large it keeps me busy taking care of it. You see, Mama Rufus Tree Mousie's nest has quite a number of rooms connecting the large one, and it takes a lot of time keeping them cleaned up. This house was built by Danny Squirrel last year. He didn't want to use it this year, so Mama and I took it. A big house keeps one busy."

"That just reminds me," said Dotty, taking Squeedee's hand. "I must hurry home and help Mama." So, bidding her new friends good-by, she hurried back to the house after thanking Squeedee for her lovely chat.

He's a fuzzy little fellow with a coat of brown and yellow, and he looks, for all he's worth, just like a tramp.

'Twas the little folks who found him. To a back-yard stake they bound him. Now we all have learned to love the little scamp.

Romp and play is what his game is. No one knows just what his name is. We have called him Pete and Trix and Jim and Toot. But just name him what you can, sir, and you'll find he'll always answer, 'cause he's friendly, is this funny little scroot.

Matters not where you may find him, all the kids are right behind him, for they follow Mister Purp the live long day. True, he must have been a rover, for he'll eat what food's left over, and he's always glad to get what comes his way.

Pedigree? Perhaps a high one. Then again, he's likely shy one, for we really ne'er will know from where he came. What's the diff'rence if he's trampish, when he's cute and always scampish, and a mighty lovin' puppy just the same?

Three-Minute Journeys

By Temple Manning

WHERE TATTOOING IS THE TEST OF MANHOOD

The islands of the South Seas are rapidly losing their distinction in many respects as they succumb more and more completely each year to the civilization of white men. Many of their customs are falling into disuse and some of their prettiest festivals are being abandoned.

There Can Be No Relenting.

But such of their customs as remain are picturesque and most attractive. The South Sea Islanders have an inimitable knowledge of the art of living. They know how to extract joy from the trifles of the passing moment. Every phase of Nature has a fascination for them. The beauty of the moon, the soft sighing of the breeze, the roll and boom of the ocean are suffiient to make them feel completely happy.

The little boys of the South Seas grow up in an ideal state of freedom and joy. They can climb the smooth limbs of the tallest palm trees. Reaching the top, perhaps fifty feet in the air, they will cling to the branch with one hand, while with the other they shake loose the cocoanuts.

They learn to swim and fish and run and dive. They grow to perfect development and reach their manhood looking like young Greek gods.

It is when they reach the full development of their muscular power, that they must undergo the test of their courage. By this test they are marked as brave and worthy or as cowardly and unworthy of any honor.

The great day of the Samoan youth's life is that on which his tatooing begins. This is his initiation into manhood. He has been feasted and fatted for weeks. All the village joins in the merry-making. And then for six long weeks, the lad, of perhaps eighteen years, will lie on the floor of his hut while the tattooer relentlessly pricks out the intricate design that will cover him from above the waist to below the knee.

The pigments are mixed with suitable incantations to drive out the spirit of pain.

The village tattooer, who has practiced his vocation for many a long year, prepares his needles and goes about his task without heeding the look of anguish that comes into the eyes of his victim. For this is a task that must be done and there can be no relenting.

The youth will not whimper or moan. He will close his eyes when the pain becomes unbearable but he must show that he is a man and that he is strong by his ability to endure the pain. And at the end of the six weeks, he will arise decorated with the emblem of his courage.

MANY PICNICS IN APSLEY DISTRICT

Fine Weather Favored First One, Held by Lasswade Methodists.

APSLEY, June 30.—The first picnic of the season was held under the auspices of Grace Methodist Church, Lasswade, on the picnic grounds in Methuen, on Tuesday and favored with fine weather was a gratifying success. Dinner and supper were served under the shade trees, both meals being well patronized. The afternoon was devoted to sports, a number of races being run off, and a football match between Lasswade and Purdeyville created lots of excitement. Rev. J. W. Ogden acted as referee and the match resulted in a win for Lasswade, the final score being 6 to 2.

A sum of about $40 will be netted from the day's outing.

Jubilee Picnic.

Preparations are under way for the Jubilee Picnic of the Anglican Mission of Apsley. This event will take the form of a regatta and picnic with a bazaar and will be held on the shore of Loon Lake, on Mr. P. Tanner's grounds. The day fixed is Wednesday, July 15, by which time most of the tourists will have arrived at the lake.

July 1st is the day fixed for the Methodist Church picnic here which will be held on the parsonage grounds. Dinner and supper will be served and sports indulged in in the afternoon. In the evening a play "Safety First", will be presented under the auspices of St. George's A.Y.P.A. in the Parish Hall.

Wrote Examinations.

No less than eighteen pupils have been writing for their High School entrance this week in the school here, being a record number for this district. Mr. Currie of Norwood was the presiding examiner. Extra accomodation had to be provided for the pupils by the trustees.

If you lose or find anything put a small ad. in the Examiner. They bring results.

We spoke, a few days ago, about the chimney swift, or chimney swallow, as it is sometimes called, in error.

This bird has been a puzzle for years, and was for a long time considered a lucky sign by folks who believe in black art, for this is a sooty bird.

The swift lived in crevices in cliffs and in hollow trees in the past, but ages of association with us, has made the bird change its habits and use the chimneys which we use but little in the summer. I have seen a swift family reared in a chimney, with the fire going, but the chimney was a big open fireplace chimney with plenty of room in it for ten times the amount of smoke made by the wood fire in summer. I noticed that the smoke went up the chimney in a narrow channel at one side of the hole, following the wall, and leaving less smoky air elsewhere in the flue. The swifts made a neat on the less smoky side and seemed to be thriving there, but we let the fire go out while they were there.

That was a wood fire. It was a small fire and a big chimney. If the chimney flue had been smaller, or had the fire been gas, oil, or coal, it would have killed the birds.

Once I watched a swift make a nest in an old shed in a dark corner, on the rough boards of the wall.

The bird would swing its head about in a manner somewhat like a painter swinging a big brush of thick paint, depositing the thick gluey saliva, with which it makes its nest. I have spoken with people who have claimed that they saw the swifts flying against small dead twigs at the ends of branches, snapping them off and taking them to the nest, to be covered with glue and stuck in place. The nest is made of saliva glue and little sticks. If you cup your palm and hold it against the wall, it will be shaped like a chimney swift nest. It won't hold the young very long, so they hang on to the wall with their feet, stick their sharp tail feathers into the wall and sit down on them and hang on.

YOUR GARDEN

SIMPLE TREE CARE.

The shade trees on the lawn or on the boundaries of the property deserve a little extra care and protection (more than they often get) and their lives will be greatly prolonged.

In the first place they should be kept free from mechanical injury, which is liable to open up possibilities for disease and insect attack. Abrasions which strip off the bark, made by the bumping of the lawn mower, carelessness of any kind, gnawing of a horse, the driving of nails or tacks, all may result in rot entering and finally destroying the tree. All such wounds should be attended to immediately. Wire fences or iron railings nailed to trees or placed against them eventually cause trouble. These should always be fastened to a wooden cleat to keep them away from the tree.

Insect injury is difficult to control and the subject requires a separate article. Certain borers, however, can be destroyed by inserting a wire into the tunnels. Their presence is made known by the depositing of sawdust at the opening of the boring or on the ground at the base of the tree.

All the accumulating twigs, leaves, birds' nests, etc., in the crotches of trees should be removed as they will hold moisture which again will have a tendency to start rot in the tree and afford an easy entrance for insects and disease.

For general appearances as well as the health of the tree, all dead wood should be kept cut out. These limbs should be cut close to the trunk or larger limb as described in a previous article. Avoid stubs of any kind as they will not heal over and when they rot are a sure source of insect injury and disease infection for the whole tree.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

FRIDAY, JULY 3[

An active and probably eventful day is forecast for this day's stellar rulership. Initiative should be strong and the mind alert and sagacious, stimulating to new and bold adventures—which should prove fairly successful but should have sufficient financial backing to offset a weak position of Jupiter. The Saturn transit, however, may fortify industry, perseverance and application. In the realm of heart and home, affairs should flourish and bring pleasure. The Venus sway promises happy holiday preparations.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a lively and eventful year, in which the energies should be directed to new ventures, the mind should be keen, and industry and perseverance may be rewarded. But be not too bold with finances. Heart and home affairs should bring happiness. A child born on this day may be keen and original mentally, energetic, resourceful, enterprising and well-liked. It should, however, be conservative with its funds.

Brave Little Lamps! How can they be expected to receive any notice or admiration when they are so completely eclipsed by the wondrous beams from Milady's eyes? The sun, the moon, the stars—none so bright as her eyes when Dan Cupid marks her for his own. They're all out-rivalled by the eyes that so clearly show the beautiful soul and perfect happiness of one who loves. Rivals? Of course not, because, you see, lamps have no soul nor can they ever know Love.

HOME TOWN RECIPE.

The consumption of bran is recommended as being beneficial to everyone. Here is a recipe for bran muffins, from Mrs. C. H. Fulford, 297 Elias avenue:

1-2 cup bran
1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 cup sugar
3 tablespoons melted butter
1 cup sweet milk
1 egg
1 tablespoon molasses
1 cup stoned dates
1-2 cup walnuts

Method: Mix dry ingredients. Add dates, nuts and butter, then add beaten egg and milk. Mix and drop into muffin tins.

IN THE KITCHEN

SOME COLD DISHES FOR HOT DAYS

Cold meat dishes are always acceptable in warm weather. The usual "cold cuts" served with vegetable salads are too well known to need description, maybe, yet it might not be amiss to say that only the best meats and choice cuts will prove satisfactory to cut down cold. The meats must also be correctly cooked, done to a turn, but not overdone, so that they crumble in the carving. Do not have too much on hand at one time, so that it will spoil before it can be eaten. Some of the made dishes, including the jellied and molded meats and the game pies, will be found excellent for cold service.

Jellied Veal.

Buy a two-pound knuckle of veal, wash and cut it in three pieces, and put on to cook in water to cover. Cook until the meat leaves the bones, lift it and chop it fine. Strain the liquor, reheat, and add the fine meat and cook down, adding pepper, salt, juice of a large onion, and cook until it is cooked down almost dry, watching it carefully. Then add the strained juice of a large lemon and turn into a decorated mold, and let stand until set and cold. Unmold on a pretty dish and garnish with stuffed olives, lemon quarters, parsley and deviled eggs. Serve cut down in slices.

Chicken Roll.

Select a young, tender, frying chicken. Have the sinews drawn from the legs, clean, wash, then bone it in the simplest way by starting at the backbone. When boned, spread with a savory stuffing, fold in legs, wings and neck, and roll, tying securely. Meantime throw bones into a quart of water, adding parsley, celery, a diced potatoe and a diced carrot, a sliced onion, a tiny slice of garlic and a half bay leaf. Cook gently for an hour, then strain. Season and thicken this gravy with browned flour. Place the chicken roll in a small covered roasting pan, dust with pepper and salt and brush over with soft butter. Roast until tender, then cool. Serve the gravy hot with mashed potato. When cold, slice the roll and garnish it attractively.

TODAY'S FASHION

This Blue Flannel Frock Is Worn With a Voile Blouse.

The suspender dress, of the type worn above, may well be made of flannel for Summer wear, when it allows for such coolness as the model depicted.

The flannel is of Dutch blue shade, and the blouse which allows the frock to be so cool is of sheer white voile. The collar and cuffs are embroidered in gay colors.

This style is as good for grown-ups as it is for the girl in her teens, or the very small miss who has not yet reached her teens.

SECRETS OF CHARM

THE PROPER REST FOR BEAUTY

Do you often feel tired and overworked, whether you are really overworked or not? Do you feel that your beauty suffers because your nerves are a bit ragged and because your days are so busy that you do not have much time to stop and really relax?

I mention these particular ailments because they are rather common ones among women who live in this busy age, and especially among women who go out to business every day and find that the continual strain seems to tell upon them.

Now, there are many of us who cannot afford the time or money for a real rest. But it is comforting to know that very few of us need an absolute rest in order to recuperate. We need only the daily application of commonsense in our living, and I am going to outline some excellent simple rules to go by. These are rules given out by a doctor who advises many ailing patients.

First of all, fresh air and sunlight are essentials. You must manage to get a certain amount of each every day. If you take your exercise out in the open this will be managed rather easily. The exercise will keep you in the fresh air and sunlight, and because of the activity you will breathe in large amounts of the pure air which surrounds you. I advise brisk walking as the best simple exercise within the reach of practically all. Indoor gymnasium is also good, but an important thing about your exercise is to enjoy it. Choose between walking or gymnastics as your regular daily exercise, but be sure to go through whichever you choose as something that you enjoy doing and not something which bores you.

At least eight hours of sleep is very necessary, and some women seem to find nine hours sleep better still. You must avoid excessive strain, both of the mental and physical variety if you are to overcome habits of nervousness. Try to do your work easily and well. Do not worry over it, and do not accept your pleasure too hard either. If you are of the temperament which throws you heartily into whatever you do, whether work or play, avoid strenuous play until you feel perfectly fit physically.

As to food, there are very few things which you need to avoid carefully, except that I do advise you to favor simple foods and forego heavy ones that may be hard to digest. It is also good to avoid pastry and pies and to favor such desserts as custards, egg-and-milk, rice and apple puddings, baked apples, stewed fruits, ice creams and sweet fresh fruits. Most of us are better off without acid fruits, and pineapple, for instance, is very acid. Cucumbers are also rather acid. Most meats may be taken, but it is well to avoid very salty meats. Do not take large quantities of salt with your foods, either. It is also well to forego salt fish.

These are very simple rules which anyone should be able to abide by. Remember that fresh air and sunlight are essential to beauty and that eight hours sleep is very necessary.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

I am a girl in my twenties and am in love with a young man of my age. He tells me he loves me.

How can I find out if he really does?

M. D.

M. D.: There is really nothing you can do to ascertain the sincerity of your friend's affection for you, my dear. Continue your friendship with him, but do not neglect your other interests. Above all, do not brood over the little problems of love which come your way.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I just want to know that if the young man who's constantly calling me up and writing me letters loves me or is fooling. He tells all his friends he is in love with me only he can't get up a bit of courage to come and tell me.

Please tell me what to do.

FRENCYH.

FRENCHY: If this young man were not interested in you he would not write or telephone you, my dear. I suggest that you accept his invitations, be cordial and gracious towards him and thus give him an opportunity to cultivate your friendship. This is the only way in which he "can get up a bit of courage!"

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

L-O-B-A- MEMBERS ENJOYED PICNIC

Eastern Star Lodge Held a Successful Social in Jackson Park.

MEETING AFTER.

A very enjoyable picnic was held in Jackson Park yesterday afternoon when about forty of the friends and members of the Eastern Star L.O.B.A. Lodge No. 525 met together at three o'clock. A game of baseball was then engaged in, being a very close run between the ladies and gents. Supper was then served at 5.30, which was very much enjoyed by all. A vote of thanks was given to the committee in charge, being Rep. Mistress Sister E. Brown, Sister Davis and Sister F. Brown and Brother Berturn for serving supper and also to Brother Berturn for taking charge of the afternoon sports.

At 7.30 the members of Eastern Star Lodge left for the lodge room to attend their meeting. Among those who attended lodge was brother Geo. McCullough, who gave a very interesting address and whose presence at the meeting was much enjoyed.

Let's Talk It Over

I'm a good-natured woman. I answer a lotta fool questions every day. I suppose I am getting paid for answering fool questions, but there's one particular question that I'm weary of. I'm getting so I want to bite the postman on the ear when he hands me twenty-seven letters asking WHERE ARE THE GOOD MEN and twenty-eight asking WHERE ARE THE GOOD WOMEN. It goes without saying there ARE good women—nice girls—pretty girls—girls who can cook—girls who would make good wives. Every last Harold who writes and asks for a road map to treasure admits that much. He says he knows that somewhere there is a girl for him. He wants me to take him by the hand and lead him to her. WHY, WHY, WHY should Harold expect to have a nice girl handed to him, charges prepaid, when he knows well that everything else in life has to be DUG FOR?

When Harold's grandpa sold the cow and mortgaged the corn patch to invest in supplies and strike out for California in '49, he did it because he hoped to find a gold mine. He didn't expect anyone to stake the thing out and hold it for him until he got there. He knew he'd have to hustle, and he knew that if it was a good mine it was worth it. And he took a chance.

Well, that's my advice to Harold. "Go thou and do likewise"—I have no fair young ladies tucked up my sleeve. No young lady who's worth having is sitting pretty, waiting for Harold to come and pick her off the family tree. She's hanging out the family wash in the back yard or plugging a typewriter downtown or playing tennis in the nearest court. She's living a normal, busy, loving life, and if Harold does the same he'll probably meet her in the pursuit of his work or play.

NEWS FRASERVILLE

FRASERVILLE, June 30.—Rev. R. M. Patterson who has been the Pastor on the South Monaghan Circuit for the past four years, will preach his farewell sermons on the circuit on Sunday, the 28th June, before leaving for his new field of labor at Janetville. Rev. Mr. Foley will succeed him at Fraserville.

Rev. Robt. Findlay after attending Conference in Toronto, visited his sisters here, Mrs. J. E. Clarke and Mrs. Fred Clarke; he left on Friday for his new field of labor at Clive, Alberta.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Wood, son and daughter, from Melita, Man., are visiting his brother, Mr. W. A. Wood, at the old homestead, Fraserville. He reports crop conditions in the West generally good.

The Ladies' Aid of Fraserville postponed their strawberry festival on account of rain. It will be held on the church grounds on Tuesday, June 30.

The crops are looking very fine, and as soon as the weather settles the farmers will be busy haying.

Following in Grandpa's Footsteps

Willie's got it too!

For unfailing jollity and cast-iron optimism there's not a pin to choose between the old chap and the young chap — because the one's just as brimful of bounding health as the other.

But even boyhood is not proof against boyhood ills. The most vigorous of youngsters are sometimes out of sorts.

When your kiddies develop "moods," lose interest in their lessons and their play, are naughty without apparent reason, or mope listlessly about the place you should recognize at once the danger-signals. Something is wrong with their health. They may have eaten something to upset them, or perhaps they are constipated. Whatever the trouble may be, they cannot become their cheery little selves again until it is removed.

There is one safe, simple way to remedy all these minor ills of childhood: to stir a tiny dose of Kruschen Salts into the child's tea or cocoa or bowl of porridge. The tiniest pinch suffices — about "half a dimeful" — and they never know they're taking it, because given in this way it's quite tasteless. There's no fear of "horrid medicine" scenes with Kruschen.

The tiny dose gently but surely expels all waste clogging matter from the small insides. Next day the kiddies wake up with "that Kruschen feeling," energy and high spirits completely restored.

Don't wait for your children to be ill. Buy a 75c bottle for the nursery to-day, and be prepared.

Kruschen Salts

Good Health for Half a Cent a Day

A 75c bottle of Kruschen Salts contains 160 doses—nearly enough for six months—which means bounding health for less than half a cent a day. The dose prescribed for daily use for adults is "as much as will lie on a 10 cent piece," taken in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea. Every druggist sells Kruschen. Get a 75c bottle to-day.

Chiffon Frocks

NEW YORK, July 1 (United Press).—Printed chiffon frocks are the leaders at all smart gatherings about New York. Country clubs, racetracks, teas, dinners and dances are crowded these warm days with smart women in figured chiffons. Fully half the women counted at these places wear prints. The remaining half wear pastels or brilliant colors of which the most numerous are powder blue, rose, shell pinks, pansy purple and a new shade of burnt orange.

Usually the printed frock is of chiffon with large rose design. It is made very simple owing to the huge floral design. There are roses in color on white back ground, as well as dark or brilliant backgrounds with white roses. Recently white shoes and hosiery have appeared with figured frocks at the resorts. Only the younger element cling to the nude toned hosiery with white shoes. Occasionally, the Deauville Sandal in bright color matches the dominate color of the printed frock. Colored pipings on white shoes are also worn.

Large drooping hats of horsehair top the sheer figured frocks in most instances. At the Belmont racetrack where warm days brought out dozens of sheer printed frocks three-fourths of the women wore straw hats in large or medium sizes. In looking down over the clubhouse lawn one noticed the vividness of the colors worn by women. Sleeves were usually of the flowing type in chiffon gowns. Very few short sleeves were noted. Fur neckpieces.

Dislocated Shoulder When Car Turned Complete Somersault

Major C. G. Coe and his mechanic were flung from a car travelling at more than 100 miles an hour in the race for the Gold Vase at Brooklands, Weybridge.

The accident was seen by thousands of holiday-makers. The car, after ricochetting twice off a fence, revolved round five times like a top and then turned a somersault.

Major Coe escaped with a few cuts and bruises, but his mechanic was more severely injured and was taken to hospital.

The timekeeper of the course said in his long experience of racing he had never seen a more wonderful escape, not only to the occupants of a car, but to others on the track.

Half a dozen cars were travelling at tremendous speeds close in the wake of Major Coe. Fortunately his car stopped at the top of the banking of the track, leaving a free passage for the others.

TREES FLY PAST.

Major Coe vividly described the accident:

"The accident happened on the fastest section of the track. Estimated by my revolution counter I was travelling at 112 miles per hour, and I accelerated to pass another car. My off-side wheels were about two feet from the edge of the banking. Suddenly I started to skid and began to correct this, and then found I was going crabwise towards the other car. I straightened up, and this caused the back wheels to hit the fence. Things then happened very quickly.

"I had a vision of trees flying past, and prayed that I would not strike them. As the car spun round on its own axis I was thrown out. I then remember travelling through space, taking part of the dashboard with me, and falling on to the track. A few minutes later the doctor arrived, and I heard him put my shoulder back with a click. Except for some aches I feel none the worse."

In the same race Major J. G. P. Thomas ran high on the banking to overtake other cars, and his car carried away a tree which was protruding over the top.

MOURNERS IN "PLUS FOURS" AT FUNERAL

Tournament Was Held Up While Players Paid Tribute

Mourners attended a funeral in sporting tweeds and "plus fours," at Littlestone-on-Sea, Kent.

The funeral was that of J. Hunter Gray, K.C., captain of the Littlestone Golf Club, whose house is within a few yards of the clubhouse.

Out of respect for the late captain the links were closed during the time of the funeral.

The Bar Golfing Society's tournament was being held on the Littlestone course, and the players attended the funeral in their golf suits. The interment was at New Romney.

PILOT WHO FOUGHT ZEPPELIN WEDS

Squadron Leader Ridley Brought Down German Craft in Thames

Daring air exploits are recalled by the marriage at St. Mark's, North Audley street, of Squadron-Leader Claude Alward Ridley, R.A.F., to Miss Lilias Elizabeth, (Naida) McAlpine, granddaughter of Sir Robert McAlpine.

Squadron-Leader Ridley went to France in 1915, and was wounded almost immediately over the German lines. He returned to France about a year later, and, when his machine was wrecked, spent several days behind the enemy lines in Belgium.

He had been given up as lost, when he re-appeared with information of the highest value. For this he was decorated with the D.S.O. on the field by Earl Haig. He was mentioned in dispatches five times, and on returning to England was summoned to Buckingham Palace to receive the congratulations of the King.

With another pilot he fought the Zeppelin L15, which was forced to come down in the Thames on March 31, 1916. He is 28 years old and an enthusiastic and successful rider "over the sticks," figuring in the Grand National last season.

MILLION A DAY SPENT BY COUNCILS

Startling Figures of British Social Service Expenditures

About £160,000,000 a year is raised by rates, said Mr. William Graham, M.P., Financial Secretary to the Treasury in the Labour Government, addressing the Local Government Officers' Conference at Southport on Saturday.

In addition, about £200,000,000 is handed to local authorities by the State, making a total of about £1,000,000 a day expended on social services.

Sir Herbert Nield, M.P., said he thought that the present generation would see such a curtailment of Poor Law expenditure as practically to extinguish it. This would give to superannuation the impetus it deserved.

BRIDE ESCAPES FROM LOCKED ROOM BY CHIMNEY AND WEDS

When a bridegroom — a man about 50—arrived at a village church in Donegal to be married the bride's father met him and said that there would be no ceremony, for the girl was securely locked up at home.

During the father's absence, however, the bride climbed up the chimney of the cottage in which she lived and escaped.

When the father had left the church the bride appeared, and the wedding took place.

OPEN VERDICT IN STRANGE AFFAIR

Lord Tredegar's Daughter Was Weak and Nervous Before Disappearing

A LETTER

Coroner Gets Note Which May Lead to Further Investigation

The inquest on the Hon. Gwyneth Erica Morgan, only daughter of Lord Tredegar, whose body was recovered from the Thames, was concluded at Rotherhithe Town Hall, by Major W. H. Whitehouse, the coroner, who returned an open verdict.

Miss Morgan disappeared on December 11 from the Niche, Lancaster avenue, near Wimbledon Common, where she had been staying with a companion, Miss Gladys Keeling.

When the inquest was opened it was stated that Miss Morgan disappeared on a foggy day, and it was suggested she might have got into the river by accident.

At the resumed inquest, Kate Blacklock, of Hastings, personal servant said Miss Morgan was suffering from the after effects of a bad attack of typhoid fever, and was weak and nervous. She did not sleep well, but took no drugs.

Miss Blacklock said she saw her mistress into bed at 10.30 p.m. on December 10. She was more cheerful than she had been. Next morning she was missing, but her bed had been slept in. Miss Morgan's pyjamas were on the bed, but a coat, stockinette dress, and underclothing were missing.

Did she ever threaten to take her life?—No.

Miss Gladys Keeling said she was companion to Miss Morgan from November last at the house at Wimbledon.

The Coroner: Did she ever suggest to you that she might commit suicide?—Oh, no.

Can you remember anything she said to you on the evening of December 10?—She was talking about what she was going to do when the tenancy of the house was up (on February 6). She discussed the possibility of going abroad.

The coroner then had a short consultation with Mr. Rider, Lord Tredegar's solicitor. The coroner held a sheet of notepaper in his hand on which there was some writing and also a letter which he took from an envelope.

The consultation lasted about five minutes, and at its close the coroner called Lord Tredegar and said to him, "I find that your daughter died from suffocation by drowning, but there is no evidence to show how she came into the water. I find an open verdict."

Lord Tredegar bowed to the coroner and then left the court.

SAINT EXHUMED AFTER 67 YEARS

French Nun in British Grave Founded Famous Order

The body of a nun who died in France, sixty-seven years ago, has been exhumed from a tomb at Upton Hall Convent, Birkenhead, in connection with a petition for her canonization as a saint.

She was Vicomtesse de Bonnault a Houet, foundress of the Order of the Faithful Companions of Jesus. The first burial took place in the cemetery she founded at Gentilly, near Paris, and the body was brought to England twenty years ago, when the religious orders were expelled from France.

The exhumation was for the purpose of certification. The body, which was in a good state of preservation, was placed in a new coffin and re-interred in the grave with Roman Catholic rites.

A report on the exhumation will be sent to Rome, and it is understood that before the dead viscomtess can be beatified the Church authorities there will have to be satisfied that she was concerned in two genuine "miracles."

BANKRUPT ONCE HAD BIG FORTUNE

Tobacco Merchant Nearing Ninety, May Start Business Again

"I am afraid that when I come back here in two years' time you will not be here," said Nicholas Coundouris, aged eighty-nine, when Judge Sir Thomas Granger suspended his discharge from bankruptcy for two years.

Coundouris, who is a naturalized American and a Greek by birth, had previously told a story of almost fabulous wealth, and claimed that before the war he was worth £2,000,000, and had an income of £60,000 a year. He also declared that he was formerly a tobacco merchant and owned 200,000 acres of land in the Near East.

"You are a wonderful man," said the judge, "and if you rid yourself of this bankruptcy you can start again."

At South Hackney Parish Church the only service in England sung entirely in French, being a translation from the English Prayer-book, will be held on June 24.

THOUSAND POUNDS A DAY GOES UP IN TOBACCO SMOKE

This is Ration of King's Pipe at London Docks

SAVE DUTY

Unsaleable Material Burnt by Customs Officials Who Make Refund

London's docks boast the champion smoker in the country. He gets through anything up to a ton of bad tobacco a day, year in, year out, and yet is innocent of smoker's heart or throat trouble.

All kinds of tobacco come to him alike, and it is a matter of indifference whether his daily ration is a million cigarettes, a cartload of Havana cigars, or a ton of shag.

Under the watchful eye of a jealous Customs officer he consumes whatever is given him in the 8ft. deep bowl of his pipe, and puffs out the smoke through a 40ft. chimney-stack "holder" in the salubrious air of Victoria Dock.

In his more exalted moments he responds to the name of The King's Pipe, but popularly is known as The Kiln, and his job is to destroy utterly all bad or unsaleable tobacco at the Port of London Authority warehouses, floor sweepings, and even cigarettes or cigars for which merchants can find no sale, but can, by passing them through the King's Pipe, recover the duty they paid.

THE STOKERS.

It seems a wicked waste, but there it is. Every day he smokes away tobacco which, had it remained sweet and fragrant, would be worth £1,000 on the market.

The Kiln's stokers have to be hardened men of wonderful self-control. The other day they shovelled several thousands of Havana cigars (beautiful to look at) into the greedy maw of the furnace without turning a hair and without a surreptitious hand finding its way to a pocket. Human restraint can surely go no farther.

This week they are to feed it with 400,000 Russian cigarettes, each one equipped with a paper holder. A market cannot be found for them, and their fiery death in the King's Pipe will recover for their owners the 8s. 2d. per lb. duty paid on their behalf in their earlier days of promise.

This insatiable smoker's work does not go for nothing, for the tobacco he burns in the kiln supplies heat for the tobacco drying rooms in the warehouses. Thus My Lady Nicotine becomes her own handmaiden.

THE BEST AND THE WORST.

The King's Pipe is never likely to lack something to smoke, for there is always from 30,000 to 35,000 tons of tobacco in the Port of London Authority's warehouses at the Victoria and Albert Docks, from which he gets his inevitable share.

It comes from every country in the world where they grow tobacco. Thus you find aristocratic Dubec (Turkish) tobacco worth a sovereign a pound in its raw duty-free state, and papery rubbish from the Orient that may fetch 3d. a pound to be made into insect poison.

But both of them are tobacco to the unsentimental Customs official, and whether they are going to be Bond street cigarettes or green-flies' terror, they stand on level footing when it comes to paying their 8s. 2d. a lb. duty.

Altogether there is about £40,000,000 worth of tobacco in the P.L.A. warehouses, of which £12,000,000 is the value of the raw material and £28,000,000 the prospective duty.

Virginian tobacco comes to the London Docks in huge casks or hogsheads weighing half a ton. There are tens of thousands of these in the warehouses, and each represents about £125 in raw tobacco and £450 in duty.

CREAKING CASKS.

For about three years the hogsheads remain in the warehouses while the tobacco matures in the wood. And they do not mature in peace.

Three times a year a sort of fermentation goes on inside, causing the tobacco to swell so much that the casks tumble about in uncanny fashion.

Occasionally during fermentation a pile of hogshead hogsheads in a warehouse will be thrown around in confusion as if by a ghostly giant, and in the stillness you can hear them creaking as if they were going to burst.

This is not the only trick of immature tobacco. On the voyage it is apt to suffer from a kind of internal combustion, known as inherent vice, which results in it burning or smoking its own good fragrance. That is where the King's Pipe comes to the rescue.

Tobacco is one of the growing trades at the London Docks. The P.L.A. has 29 warehouses for it, and four more are being built to cope with the demand. It is still a long way behind Liverpool, however, where one warehouse, the biggest in the country, contains more tobacco than London's 29 put together.

MAN WHO NAMED 3,000 BUTTERFLIES

Death Comes to Well-known British Naturalist

The death has taken place at Beckenham of Mr. Arthur Gardiner Butler, Ph.D., F.L.S., aged 81 years. He was for many years in charge of the insect room at the Natural History Museum, and was well known as a naturalist. Mr. Butler had named nearly 3,000 different butterflies.

Since his retirement in 1901 Mr. Butler had led a very active life, and had himself kept an aviary. He was the son of Mr. Thomas Butler, formerly assistant manager at the British Museum. He was born at Chelsea, educated at St. Paul's School.

He entered the Zoological branch of the British Museum in 1863, becoming assistant keeper, with special charge of the anthropoids, in 1879.

Mr. H. E. Morriss, the Shanghai merchant, whose horse Manna won the Derby has sent a cheque for £100 to the Middlesex Hospital Reconstruction Fund.

Distinguished British Visitors

Earl Haig and Countess Haig, with their daughter, Lady Alexandra Haig, who have come to Canada to attend the convention of the British Empire Service League at Ottawa. Earl Haig's present plans are to leave Ottawa on the night of Thursday, July 2, call at certain places privately en route and officially arrive in Winnipeg on July 6. He will afterwards journey to British Columbia.

WOMAN POISONED BY EUCALYPTUS

First Case Known of Fatal Effect of Family Remedy

"This is the only case on record of death from eucalyptus poisoning," said Mr. H. R. Oswald, the coroner, at a Chelsea inquest on Mrs. Fenetta Mary Tugwell, aged fifty-five, of Margaretta-terrace, Chelsea.

Mr. Tugwell, the husband, said that he found his wife lying on the sitting-room couch gasping for breath. The air of the room was thick with the smell of eucalyptus, and two empty eucalyptus bottles were beside the couch. Mrs. Tugwell died the following day. She suffered from rheumatism, neuritis, and insomnia, but had never threatened to commit suicide.

A daughter stated that her mother told her that she disliked the smell of eucalyptus.

Dr. R. M. Bronte, pathologist, who had a post-mortem examination, said that eucalyptus was a family remedy, and was not classed as a poison. It was possible that Mrs. Tugwell drank three ounces.

The coroner, in recording an open verdict, said that death was from heart failure caused by eucalyptus poisoning.

MOTHER CONTINUES 30-YEAR QUEST

Old Couple Wait at Dockside for Canadian Liner

Refusing to believe that her son, from whom she has not heard for more than 30 years, is dead, an elderly woman, Mrs. Sarah Ashworth Holt, of Kingswynford, near Dudley, Staffs, and formerly of Manchester, travelled with her husband to Southampton to meet the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France.

She had heard that a steward on board has the same name as her missing son, Robert Holt.

The old couple waited on the dockside while a message was sent to Holt to come ashore. When he appeared the old woman burst into tears, for he was not her missing son.

The missing man left his home in Manchester, 30 years ago. "He was always an adventurous lad," his mother said tearfully, "and he never would let me know where he was. I shall still hope to hear of him."

Robert Holt is entitled to some money, which he inherited at the age of 21, if he is still alive.

IRISH GUARDS MADE SOLDIER CHANGE

An extraordinary experience has befallen a British soldier, Ben Nolan, aged 16½, of Enniskillen, who entered Free State territory at Bundoran, Donegal, in khaki uniform, with some of his relatives.

He was arrested by Civic Guards, who said he had thereby committed an offence, and would be detained.

Nolan, who said he was unaware of the offence, was then given a civilian cap and coat and was set free to enjoy his stay in Bundoran.

When his day's holiday ended he reported to the Civic Guards in barracks and returned the civilian clothes.

Lord Birkenhead opened Dickens House, 48, Doughty Street, W.C., where the novelist lived and wrote; it is a library, a picture gallery, and museum.

DO CORSETS BRING ON BREAST CANCER?

Japanese Women Do Not Wear Them—Never Get Disease

David Masters, in his book "New Cancer Facts," points out that in Japan cancer of the breast is scarcely known, while it is the most common form of the disease in this country.

"Personally," he writes, "I wondered whether corsets had anything to do with this strange fact; whether the immunity of the Japanese women was to be traced to the national habit of not wearing corsets.

"The idea that the corset may play some part in the disease is strengthened by the discovery of Hoffman, the great cancer statistician, who found that cancer of the breast was unknown among the native women of South America."

WEDDING RING IS LEFT TO NIECE

Countess of Charlemont Provides for Possible Future Use

My own wedding ring I leave to my niece to be used as her wedding ring should occasion arise.

This bequest figured in the will of Anna Lucy Countess of Charlemont, of The Circus, Bath, Somerset, and formerly of the Burlington Hotel, Cork-street, W., whose estate has been proved of the value of £68,414 1s. 6d.

To her niece she also left £10,000, the money in the house and at the bankers.

Her further bequests included £100 to Viscount French and £10,000 to Viscountess French.

INJCRED MAJOR IN PARACHUTE LEAP

"Guardian Angel" of Speeding 'Plane Safely Landed Passenger

Though still lame from the effect of a war-time flying crash, Major Duble tested a parachute by jumping out of an aeroplane 500 feet above Gillingham, Kent.

The descent with the Calthrop "Guardian Angel" took 39 seconds, and Major Duble waved his hand as he floated over the crowd.

Propelled by a strong wind, the parachute bore him over the heads of the watching people, who saw him land easily in a potato field some distance away. People playing tennis helped to secure the parachute.

"Had our passenger not been lame we should have timed his descent so that he landed exactly in the flying field," said Captain Muir, the pilot of the aeroplane.

"As it was, Major Duble could not get over the edge of the machine so quickly as we had calculated because of his lameness, and as the aeroplane was travelling rapidly all the time he was carried a little further than we intended.

"The man who is making the descent has nothing to do when using this type of parachute," said A. A. Anderson. "It is, therefore, impossible for him to make a vital mistake through ignorance or nervousness."

KING HONORS POOR HELPER OF LONDON HOSPITAL

Man Has Given 71 Pints of His Blood for Transfusions

REFUSES PAY

Made Life Governor and Included in Birthday Honors

B. W. Tibble has been appointed a life governor of the London Hospital, in recognition of his gift of forty-four pints of his blood to patients whose lives were in danger. He has given altogether seventy-one pints of blood for transfusion.

The name of Mr. Tibble, who lives at St. Paul's road, Canonbury, N., was in the King's Birthday Honors List, when he was awarded the medal of the Civil Division of the Order of the British Empire. The announcement was: "For meritorious service: Tibble, Bertie Wallace, for public services in saving life."

The story of Mr. Tibble, who is one of the volunteers ready to give their blood to the London Hospital at any time, was related by Lord Knutsford, when he presided over the meeting of governors.

"For five years," he said, "Mr. Tibble has kept himself bound by his promise. The hospital has been accustomed to pay volunteers five guineas for such services, but Mr. Tibble, although a poor man, has always refused to accept payment. He has allowed it to be understood that such services are his method of doing his best to help the hospital."

TIBBLE'S STORY.

"I have now given approximately seventy-one pints of my blood for transfusion services to various hospitals," said Tibble, when interviewed.

"I have never accepted payment for my services, because I do not consider it would be right for me to exploit the physical advantages I possess which enable me to mitigate the suffering of others.

"At one time I was practically the only man on whom the London Hospital could rely, as many people, though willing to give their blood, are so nervous about the operation as to make it undesirable to accept their services. I do not drink or smoke. I have many letters of appreciation from people whose lives I have been able to help to save."

Mr. Tibble has given blood to rich and poor people alike.

"I have given my services to the London Temperance Hospital and to St. Bartholomew's, as well as to the London. It usually requires a week for me to regain my normal vitality after a transfusion."

A gift of £10,000 to the London Hospital for a new pathological institute by Mr. Bernard Baron was also announced, and Mr. Baron was made a life governor, like Mr. Tibble.

MOTORISTS CHASE NUDE LUNATIC

Recaptured After Struggle and Returned to Asylum

Escaping from the Essex County Mental Hospital, an inmate stripped himself of his clothing, and dashed along the Essex arterial road, near Codham Hall.

He showed an utter indifference to traffic, but his antics were very troublesome to motorists, who had difficulty in avoiding him.

Twice he narrowly escaped being run over, and several cars were stopped in the nick of time.

In the chase to capture him motorists took part. The man escaped his pursuers by taking to the fields, where he was soon lost.

Later he returned to the road, and two motorists tackled him. After a struggle he was overpowered, and covered with a coat.

The police arrived, and the man was taken back to the hospital in a motorcar.

PINNED FOR HOUR UNDER HUGE CRANE

Injured Man Watched Rescuers Burn Away Iron Bars

A crane weighing about 40 tons overturned at Allsop's Wharf, Wandsworth, yesterday, pinning down a workman.

For 70 minutes the man lay conscious while the side of the lorry was cut away with saws and while iron rods were burned through by an acetylene cutter. He was then taken to hospital in a serious condition.

When the crash occurred a skip of bricks weighing 2½ tons was being swung on to a lorry where the injured man, Frank Compton, aged 51, of King's-road, Kingston-on-Thames, was superintending the loading.

Richard Sergeant, the crane man, scrambled through the cabin window with a broken ankle.

PET DOG CAUSES WOMAN'S DEATH

A curious case investigated by the Cheltenham coroner was that of Mrs. Lucy Hemming, aged 63, of Stow-on-the-Wold, Gloucestershire.

When out for a walk with her little dog on a lead, she stopped to talk to two friends. The dog tried to get to some other dogs across the street, and eventually it upset its owner's balance.

She fell, breaking her thigh and wrist, and later succumbed to her injuries.

When a summons against Tom Bruce Harper, of Kennington Park-road, S.E., for selling lottery tickets in Clapton Park was adjourned at North London, his wife said the case had driven him mad and he was now in an asylum.

LAST COURT LEET HELD AT ENFIELD

Centenarian Was Chosen as Foreman of Appointing Jury

NO FUNDS

King is Asked to Forego Fine at Ancient Ceremony

Enfield's oldest inhabitant, Mr. J. C. Weld, who will be 102 in August, was elected foreman of the jury of the ancient Court Leet, of Enfield, for the last time.

The Court was, as usual, held in the old Tudor Palace, but this was "positively its last appearance on any stage.

It was stated last year that the ceremony would be the last, but just before the Labor Government went out of office they decided that the Real Property Act, passed in 1920, which does away with copyholds, should not operate until January, 1926, so the picturesque ceremony has been again observed, but for the last time.

On the table were the ancient scales, measures, and the old charter.

They also submitted that, as there were no funds at the disposal of the Court, the common fine of the sum of £1 4s. paid annually to the King, as Lord of the Manor, should lapse, and the Steward undertook to convey this decision to His Majesty, who, he was sure, would readily forgo any such claim.

The Court Leet has been held continually since the Norman Conquest, and is a survival of the manorial system.

IODINE SWEETS FOR CHILDREN

Somerset Authorities Seek to Check Ravages of Goitre

Iodine in sweets is the latest attempt of Somerset education authorities to combat the ravages of goitre among local schoolchildren.

Minute quantities of an iodine salt are to be inserted in chocolates distributed one at a time among the pupils between the ages of ten and twelve at certain selected schools. Parents will be informed, and may refuse to allow their children to eat the sweets if they so desire.

"Goitre is prevalent all over the county," said Dr. Bennett, a leading Bath physician. "It is chiefly due to the water, which, besides being hard, contains a number of harmful ingredients.

"I frequently prescribe iodine myself in one form or another. Many vegetables, of course, contain minute particles of it."

TWO MOTHER DUCKS SIT ON SAME NEST

Strange Phenomenon Discovered by Lancaster Naturalist

At Rufford, near Southport, Lancs, two wild ducks are sitting together on one nest, hatching out a clutch of 20 eggs.

As a rule each bird makes its own nest and fiercely resents any attempted intrusion, or even approach, on the part of another female of the same species of wild fowl.

The nest has been made on the border of a pool adjacent to a footpath in regular use. It was found through J. H. Ratcliffe, a Southport naturalist, almost treading on it, so artfully was it concealed among grasses and bullrushes.

During the lengthy observation necessary to obtain photographs of the birds only one drake has been seen in attendance.

TICKET CUT SENT BARDS ON STRIKE

Picturesque Chairing Ceremony Spoilt Through Lack of Passes

Anglesey's Chair Eisteddfod was shorn of much of its picturesque ceremony owing to a "strike" declared by the bards.

Trouble arose over a decision to limit the number of free tickets. Previously the bardic fraternity have been granted the privilege of a complimentary ticket. This year 21 were granted and 27 bards were left out in the cold. The Gorsedd's demand for more tickets having been declined, the bards refused to take part in the chairing ceremony.

Sir Ellis J. Griffith and Sir Robert J. Thomas, the county M.P.'s, took part in "peace" efforts that were not successful.

Certain members of the bardic fraternity determined to carry out the chairing ceremony, and this was done under the direction of Caerwyn, the well-known Eisteddfod conductor, who is himself a chaired bard.

Only one member of the Gorsedd was present. The winner of the Chair was Amanfwy, of Rhydaman, South Wales.

EXPENSIVE PATCH IN PATROL'S PANTS

Philip Duff, a patrol man employed by the Mould City Trust Company at St. Louis, left his beat in order to have his trousers repaired. Meanwhile he heard the ringing of the burglar alarm at the premises where he should have been on duty, and putting on his trousers made for his beat with all speed. The thieves, however, had escaped with £7,000.

This unfortunate adventure, which was revealed at the police court, cost Duff £10—the fine imposed on him for his negligence.

LIVED FIFTEEN YEARS WITHOUT SINGLE QUARREL

Ilford Flitch Won by Couple With Nine Children

THREE CLAIMANTS

Vows on Points of Old Stones as to Married Tranquility

Merry throngs of holiday-makers watched the judging of the candidates for the "Ilford Flitch" to the happiest married couple.

The last ceremony of the genuine Dunmow Flitch was held in 1912. Some time after the imitation cropped up at Ilford. The "flitchers," however, pride themselves on their faithful adherence to the old custom.

When the court assembled, the little procession of counsellors was led by the judge, G. K. Chesterton, splendid in a red robe and a flowing wig. Two Portias, clad in red velvet, were included in the counsel for the claimants, and for the flitch.

Then, according to tradition, six maidens and six bachelors composed the jury. The girls were all dressed in white and wore red roses, and all the bachelors had large pink bouquets in their buttonholes.

Three claimants for the flitch only were tried this year.

One of these was Reginald Clarry, member of Parliament for Newport, South Wales, and his wife; the second was Mr. Waring, a publisher, and his wife, living at Wimbledon; and a third, a railway clerk, of St. Albans, Henry Nixon, and his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Waring were the first couple to be called, and their arrival in the witness-box was the cause of tremendous amusement, for they came accompanied by nine children, boys and girls ranging from all ages between infancy to the early 'teens, one in arms, others carrying toy balloons. Mr. Waring, as the publisher of a book written by a man against birth-control, was the butt of many jokes from the facetious counsel.

POLITICIAN'S TRIAL.

Mr. Clarry, smart and debonair, next appeared for trial with his wife. Cross-examination turned chiefly on his political career, whether a member of Parliament could really be a good husband, and whether his wife was with him when he was visited on one occasion by 1,000 women constituents.

The last candidates, Mr. Nixon and his wife, took the trial extremely seriously. Not a vestige of a smile flickered across their faces as questions of a light and frivolous nature were asked of them.

"Do you get paid for loving your wife?" counsel for the flitch asked him.

"Yes, indeed I do," replied the astonished Mr. Nixon. "I get paid by the love she gives me in return."

Mr. Nixon sent more than forty testimonials from acquaintances, including their lodger.

With one exception, the jury agreed that the Warings were the winners of the flitch, and after they had vowed on the points of the old stones that their evidence was true, the bacon was awarded to them, while a consolation prize of another flitch went to Mr. Nixons.

Dunmow is to hold its ardent flitch ceremony in August.

BISHOP CONDEMNS LARGE FAMILIES

Considers Them Hindrance to Social Progress—Tainted Stocks

Preaching at Brighton in connection with the congress of the Royal Institute of Public Health, Dr. E. W. Barnes, Bishop of Birmingham, said human welfare was now menaced by human fecundity. He did not think the change from large to small families in the middle classes was to be condemned.

It was a desire for the general welfare that led to the limitation of the middle-class family. By medicine and hygiene Nature's destructive forces had been conquered, but the victory would be disastrous to human welfare unless the desire for many children was held in check.

There is a limit to the population which these islands can bear. We have probably reached that limit, and further increase must be used in emigration.

Through education we might do much more than is being done at present to prevent reckless child-bearing.

I have in my work of late come across terrible cases of large families born of tuberculous parents. The community has a right to take measures to prevent the increase of tainted stocks. It will be wise to teach more improvident members that large families are a hindrance to social progress. Speaking in the name of Christ, the lover of children, we ought to condemn such action.

ERRAND BOY WHO RETURNED A TIP

An errand boy of Islington, who was a Scout, was sent to an address in Highbury New Park with goods, and when he arrived there he was told that nothing had been ordered. The housewife, however, insisted on giving him a tip.

He returned to the house five minutes later, and explained that his employers had given him the wrong number. "I am not entitled to this," he said, returning the tip, "and I shall not take it. My principles will not allow me to accept a tip.

FINCHLEY RECTOR HAS COMIC SERVICE

"My daughter was much distressed the other day," writes the Rev. Stewart Barnays, rector of Finchley, in his parish magazine, "when some one said to her, 'Your father's comic service affords great entertainment.'

"Those who have seen me on the tennis court will understand what was meant."

Man, at Boy County Court: I never argue with a motor car. I say, "Pass, friend."

J. WEARING for the Corporation.
NESBITT, K.C., for the Plaintiffs.

HODGINS, J.A.—The sole point involved in this appeal is the right of the corporation to initiate an enquiry before the County Judge under R.S.O. 1914, c. 192, sec. 248, in a matter which under certain legislation is not under the direct control of the City Council, but is handed over to another body to manage.

That section provides that the County Judge shall make an enquiry when the council pass a resolution requesting him to "investigate any matter relating to a supposed malfeasance or breach of trust, etc., or to enquire into or concerning any matter connected with the good government of the municipality or the conduct of any part of its public business."

The learned judge here discusses the facts, and proceeds:

"Turning to the real question to be decided, it is well known that enquiries under this section have in some instances been attempted, and occasionally with success, regarding matters under the control of independent bodies, such as Board of Health, Public School Boards, Boards of Education and Police Commission. There are at present in Toronto in addition to those just named, such bodies as the Toronto Transportation Commission, The Toronto Hydro Electric Commission, the Board of the Canadian National Exhibition and the Harbor Commission, and no doubt similar bodies exist elsewhere. The question is, therefore, of some widespread interest.

No one can doubt that in one or other direction these bodies have to do with matters in which the people of the municipality have a lively and perhaps an important interest, and that in that way business managed by these bodies is of real concern to them. It is urged that as the Corporation of Peterborough is by statute entitled to any surplus resulting from the operations of the business managed and controlled by the Water Commissioners of Peterborough, it follows naturally that the business must be that of the Corporation and so within the section, but it is difficult to regard that fact as an exact test in this matter, for two reasons. It ignores the object of setting up an authority, different from the council which under the Statute represents the people of the municipality, and yet elected by and responsible to the same constituency to deal with this.

It must be clear to everyone that the Legislature has from time to time vested inindependently elected or appointed bodies various parts of what was originally the business of the municipality, and has specially favoured in that respect the segregation of what are called public utilities. In particular the management and control of electrical energy has generally been placed in the hands of local Commissions on account of its technical character. And in doing so it has established contact between these bodies and the Ontario Power Commission so that the production and distribution of power may be kept up to a proper and scientific standard, a thing hardly possible if it were managed as only one of many municipal activities. But another reason is that the argument is manifestly too wide in its scope, for nothing in which the inhabitants of the municipality can be said to be peculiarly or indirectly interested or concerned as affecting their good or welfare could then be excluded. It would lead to unexpected results if the passing of a resolution by the Council should be taken to authorize an enquiry merely because the Council therein asserted that its interests were involved.

Mr. Justice Middleton has, in Re City of Berlin and the County Judge of the County of Waterloo (1914) 33 O.L.R. 73, used language which indicates that he felt pressed with the same difficulty. He said:

"The words which I have quoted from section 248 are undoubtedly very wide. Practically everything in one way or another concerns the good government of the municipality, and some limitation must necessarily be found in section 250: 'Every council may pass such by-laws and make such regulations for the health, safety, morality and welfare of the inhabitants of the municipality . . . as may be deemed expedient.' No one supposes that this general provision confers unlimited jurisdiction upon the municipal council: yet it might well be argued that all laws dealing with every possible topic are presumed to be passed in the interest of the health, safety, morality and welfare of the inhabitants.

In our scheme of municipal government some matters concerning welfare of the inhabitants are taken from the jurisdiction of the municipal council and vested in other legislative and administrative bodies. School affairs are entrusted to school boards and boards of education; certain public utilities are placed in charge of boards specially constituted; and the affairs relating to the police force are placed in the hands of Police Commissioners. I do not think it is competent for the municipal council to direct an inquiry before the County Judge into the matters entrusted to these independent bodies. Within the limits of the jurisdiction conferred upon these bodies they are supreme and in no sense subordinate to the municipal council. This has been demonstrated in a series of cases in which the municipal council has undertaken to review the action of school boards." See also Simpson V Local Board of Health of Belleville (1917) 41 O.L.R. 320.

I find no case, as yet, under the section where the matter was not a matter clearly within the purview of the Council's own duties or related to its own undoubted concerns. See Re Godson & Toronto, 16 O.R. 275, 16 A.R. 452; 18 S.C.R. 36 (suggested malfeasance of the Inspector of the City) Lane v. Toronto (1904) 7 O.L.R. 423 (investigation of an election of Alderman and School Trustees, which was held under the supervision of City officials) Chambers V. Winchester (1907) (investigation of a municipal official). It is true that the conduct of business by the Toronto Board of Education was investigated under this section, but no objection was made, and no decision was asked for by those concerned, as to the legal right to hold it and it therefore has no effect as an authority on the subject.

It may be well to trace the formation and scope of the body here whose business is sought to be treated as that of the municipality.

By R.S.O. 1897, c. 235, s. 40, it was provided that with regard to Municipal waterworks, the council might either exercise all the powers rights, authorities and immunities with respect of those municipal works, or might by by-law provide for the election of commissioners for such purpose.

By sub-sec. 2 of s. 40 it was provided that: "Upon the election of commissioners, all the powers, rights, authorities, or immunities which, under this Act, might have been exercised or enjoyed by the council and the officers of the corporation acting for the corporation, shall and may be exercised by the commissioners and the officers appointed by the commissioners, and the council thenceforth during the continuance of the Board of Commissioners shall have no authority in respect of such works."

In 1906 by 6 Edward VII, c. 15, the Hydro-Electric Power Commission was constituted and municipalities were empowered to contract with it for a supply of electrical power for lighting, heating and power for themselves and for the inhabitants of the municipality.

In 1907, by Ed. VII, c. 82, the Corporation of Peterborough obtained power to purchase the plant and business of the Peterborough Light & Power Co., subject to the approval of the agreement by the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, and to develop and sell electrical energy or to receive, rent or lease it, subject to such conditions as to rates, etc., as the Hydro Electric Power Commission prescribed. The Water Commissioners of Peterborough were thereby constituted a body corporate in whom the management, control and operation of the business was vested and they were thenceforth to have vested in them all the rights, powers, authorities, immunities and duties conferred upon a Municipal Council entering into a contract with the Hydro Electric Power Commission under 6 Edw. VII c. 15. That Act gave the Municipal Corporations which entered into a contract with the Power Commission the same powers, duties and obligations as were given them under previous Acts which enabled them to construct and acquire works for the supply of electricity.

Under Sec. 3 of the Act of 1907 the rates charged were to be subject to regulation by the Hydro Electric Power Commission which "may from time to time for that purpose examine the books of the said water commissioners and proceed as provided in Sec. 19 of 62 Vic. (2) c. 71." That Section (19) gives powers of investigation to the Hydro Electric Power Commission into rates charged by the Municipal Corporation which are practically identical with those mentioned in the contract validated and confirmed by the Statute of 1913 which I set out below.

On the 5th March, 1913, a contract was entered into between the Corporation of Peterboro and the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, whereby the Commission was exclusively to supply the Corporation with electric energy for 30 years. The engineers of the Commission [illegible] the right to inspect the Corporation's apparatus and to take records. In case of any difference between the Commission and Corporation, the Commission was empowered to appoint a time and place to hear all representations and when possible to adjust the differences. The Commission was also to have all the powers which could be conferred on a Commissioner under the Act respecting enquiries concerning public matters. The provisions of this agreement were confirmed and declared to be legal, valid and binding by 3-4 Geo. V. c. 12 (1913). By 4 Geo. V. (1914) c. 87, which recites the statute of 1907, the Peterboro Water Commissioners are declared to be a Public Utilities Commission under R.S.O. 1914, c. 204, and are to continue as the statute states:

"To be a body corporate and all special or general authority, powers and duties conferred or imposed by any Act now in force upon the Peterboro Water Commissioners or conferred or imposed by the Public Utilities Act on the Public Utilities Commission, and the Commissioners thereof are hereby conferred and imposCommision and the Commissioners thereof, and the provisions of any Act now in force affecting the Peterboro Water Commissioners, together with the provisions of the Public Utilities Act in so far as they are applicable to and not inconsistent with any such Act shall apply to the said Peterboro Utilities Commission and the Commissioners thereof."

The authority, powers and duties conferred on a Public Utilities Commission, by the Statute R.S.O., 1914, c. 204, are those of control and management, and when a contract is made by the Corporation with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, a Public Utilities Commission is required to be established for that purpose. Section 36 provides that after the establishment of such a commission the powers right, etc., shall be exercised by the Commission and not by the Council. By this statute authority was given to take over the Peterboro Light and Power Co.

It was argued that Secs. 8, 9 and 10 of the Municipal Institutions Act 1922) (12-13), Geo. V., c. 72, enlarged the meaning of the words, "part of its public business." These sections make the "inhabitants" a body corporate, under the name of the Corporation of the City of Peterboro, and provides that the powers of a municipal corporation shall be eexrcised by its Council. But these sections in no way, in my opinion, derogate from the devolution upon the Water Commissioners of Peterboro of the authority to manage and direct the business entrusted to it as a statutory corporation by the statute of 1907 and a Public Utilities Commission under the statute R.S.O., 1914, c. 204, which were formerly conferred upon the Municipal Council, whose authority was by the statute of 1897 and by that of 1914 excluded while the Board of Commissioners continued.

To hold otherwise would be to beg to question, because while the Corporation of the City of Peterboro represents the inhabitants, it does so only so far as the Legislature consents to the business of those inhabitants being so represented and not where they are, as to the supply and distribution of electrical energy, represented directly by force of special legislation by the Public Utilities Commission. There is no power save that of the Legislature, to divert from the Water Commission of Peterboro the power and authority given to it by the legislation I have outlined. It is for this reason that I do not think Young vs. Gravenhurst, 24 O.L.R. 467, is in point. Under peculiar legislation relating to Peterboro which I have set out, the Water Commission are not merely the servants and agents of the Corporation as was the case there. They are constituted an independent authority and while they exist the Corporation of Peterboro are debarred from exercising the powers, etc., entrusted to them.

The conclusion to which I feel bound to arrive is that the matter sought to be investigated under the Council's resolution is no "part of the public business," but is solely that of the Water Commission of Peterboro as a Public Utilities Commission.

In that view the injunction was properly granted and the appeal must be dismissed with costs.

There is one matter which ought to be mentioned. Counsel for the learned County Judge appeared before us and opened and argued the appeal as if his client was not only willing but anxious to press for enquiry. As the argument proceeded comment was made on that aspect and it then appeared that the learned Judge had previously informed the Registrar of this Court in writing that his presence on the appeal was due to the desire of the Mayor of Peterboro that Mr. Hall, K.C., should represent the County Judge on the appeal and that in consenting he stipulated that he must be regarded as absolutely independent in the matter and desired to submit to the direction of the Court. This is a most correct attitude and it is due to the learned Judge that this should be clearly set forth in disposing of this appeal.

PRESIDENT OF MOTOR LEAGUE EXPLAINS LAWS

Pedestrians and Motorists Have Equal Rights on Highways.

KNOTTY POINTS

Standard of Care Required by Law is That of "Reasonable" Driver.

Mr. T. N. Phelan, K.C., President of the Ontario Motor League in the course of an interesting interview gives some valuable information to motor vehicle owners on legal points that to the lay motorist are obtuse, equivocal, ambiguous or unknown. He stated that the standard of care required by the law, of drivers, is the care a reasonable driver would exercise. He must do those things a reasonable driver would do and must not do those things a reasonable driver would not do.

President Phelan pointed out that neither the law nor the courts demand that a driver exercise extraordinary caution or be possessed of prescience or proceed with preternatural care. He stated that theoretically the motor vehicle driver and the pedestrian have exactly the same rights on the streets and highways. Illustrative of the standard of care and relative rights of pedestrians and motor vehicle drivers, he cited recent cases. In an appeal it was shown that a pedestrian had stepped at night from the side of the Toronto-Hamilton Highway on to the pavement while walking alone beside it. He was struck and killed by a motor vehicle. The Appellate Court held that the deceased had been guilty of negligence, in not first ascertaining that it was safe to step on to the pavement, and that it was not reasonable to expect a driver to anticipate such an action as he had taken.

Reasonable Care Expected.

In another case, a physician had parked his car heading down a grade. In addition to applying the set brake (hand or emergency brake) he had turned the front wheels in against the crub. A mischievous boy, in the doctor's absence, turned the wheels to the straight-ahead position and released the brake. The car rolled down the hill gaining such momentum that when it came in contact with a house at the bottom of the grade, both house and car had their fronts smashed. The owner of the house took action to recover damages from the owner of the car, but was unsuccessful. The court held that the car owner had taken every reasonable precaution and the accident had occurred and the damages had been sustained through no flat of his.

In case of fog or glare affecting visibility—the vision of drivers!—the courts have held that it is reasonable and right to expect a driver to stop until he or she can see that the road ahead is clear for proceedure.

Before guilt is established in case of an accident it must be shown that negligence was the direct cause of the accident. Previous negligence or previous reckless driving, speeding, etc., is irrelevant and has no bearing on the case. For instance, if a motorist at the time of or immediately prior to an accident is driving legally the fact that he was driving recklessly or was speeding or otherwise breaking the law five minutes prior to the accident has no value as evidence in the case. Even driving contrary to law at the time of an accident has no bearing on the driver's liability for the accident unless it can be shown that such behavior was a direct or contributing cause of the accident. By way of illustrating this President Phelan cited a recent truck collision case that occurred in the Niagara Peninsula. An unlicensed driver was in charge of one truck; the other truck was running rum. Both, therefore, were being operated contrary to law. In the trial that followed the court held that their illegal operation had nothing to do with the accident—was not a cause—and so was irrelevant and not evidence.

Implied Consent.

President Phelan declared that there was one very important exception to this rule. It is that involving the province, county, township or municipality in which the ownership or trusteeship of roads is vested. Thus, some time ago, a truck two inches wider than the then maximum statutory width, crashed through a rotten bridge, doing much damage to the truck. Action to recover damages from the municipality involved was quashed although it was shown that the 2 inches over width had nothing to do with the accident. The explanation of this seeming inconsistency is that the truck in not being constructed in compliance with the conditions under which the permit was granted for its operation in the province was guilty of trespass and its owner not only failed to collect damages but was required to defray the expense of repairing the damage his truck had done to the bridge. In this connection President Phelan pointed out that in case of damage done to motor vehicles by faulty highway or bridge notice must be served on municipalities within a week and in other cases within ten days.

Regarding liability, President Phelan stated that not only is the owner at all times held responsible when a car or truck is bing operated with his knowledge and consent but is also always responsible when his vehicle is being operated by his chauffeur, even at times when the chauffeur operates it contrary to his instructions. Implied consent has been the phrase around which many a legal battle has been waged. President Phelan mentioned two instances of interest that elucidate court interpretation of this "implied consent."

Some time ago a car was left by its owner in a garage for a minor repair. The foreman of the garage took the car out at noon, drove it to his home, picked up his wife and family and drove around town. In the course of the drive he collided with and injured a pedestrian.

Right-of-Way Relative.

The courts held the owner liable for damages on the grounds that there was implied consent that the car be taken for test purposes. Again a motorist turned his car into a garage for winter storage, giving instructions as to battery storage and other matters. The foreman of the garage took the car out and injured a man. The car had been used by the foreman despite storage orders, and so the owner was not held liable.

The right-of-way law is relative, not absolute, and does not relieve anyone of the statutory obligation to proceed with reasonable care at all times. Its intent, President Phelan said, was to prevent, not excuse accidents—a fact that all too many drivers seem to lose sight of. He pointed out, too, that the legislature has given emphasis to the law requiring drivers on overtaking other vehicles moving in the same direction to make sure that the counter-moving right-of-way is clear before turning out to pass the overtaken vehicles.

The rights of a guest in a car, he declared, are exactly the same, in so far as the driver and owner is concerned, as are those of a pedestrian on the road in front of a car.

Criminal liability, President Phelan explained, comprehends all cases involving criminal negligence or manslaughter; i.e., cases in which someone is injured or killed. No distinction is made, as many believe, between criminal and civil liability on the grounds of attitude of mind. This has been ruled by the Supreme Court.

President Phelan pointed out then the very important bearing this ruling had and has on insurance policies. Technically it made and makes them null and void in cases of criminal liability. However, he declared it was only fair to state that except in very flagrant cases of criminal liability, cases in which it was manifestly to the interest of motorists that they do so, the insurance companies have not taken advantage of this ruling.

Finally he stated that he would not drive a car or truck a block without public liability and property damage insurance, so great was the hazard. Damages are being assessed commensurate with the loss in personal liability cases and a man with a large income is as easily injured or killed as one with a small one.

Do you know that Bon Ami comes in two forms—cake and powder? Both are made from the same ingredients—both have the same wonderful gift of cleaning and polishing without scratching.

For some purposes you'll want the Bon Ami powder in its handy, sifter-top tin—it's so easy to shake out on a damp cloth. For other uses you'll prefer the solid Bon Ami cake that you can rub on the cloth like soap.

Most housewives keep both the cake and powder always on hand. These two "partners in cleanliness" are unequalled for cleaning and polishing all the things listed at the right.

BIRCHCLIFFE C.C. WON ON HOLIDAY

Beat Peterborough C. C. By 3 Wickets and 36 Runs.

GOOD BOWLING.

The Birchcliffe Cricket Club of Toronto were visitors of the Peterboro Cricket Club yesterday, and an enjoyable game ended in a win for the former club by 3 wickets and 36 runs. The game was scheduled to commence at 11 a.m., but due to rain the game did not get under way until 1.15. The Peterboro captain won the toss and elected to bat first. Dr. Hewitt and Fenton opened the batting to the bowling of Wilkinson and Barber. The start was disastrous, as Dr. Hewitt unfortunately played the ball on to his wicket with only one run scored. Five wickets were down for 28 runs. Dyer made some good hits and Fenton played steady cricket. Coutts came in at this period, and by sound batting the score steadily rose to fifty-six, when Coutts was bowled by Barber for a well-played 17. The last few batsmen played well, and the score finally reached the respectable total of 73, Barber taking seven wickets for 28 runs and Wilkinson three wickets for 20 runs.

The Toronto team opened with Morris and Wilkinson, facing the bowling of Dyer and Thorpe. With one run scored, Wilkinson was out lbw. to Dyer. After that the scoring rose steadily. Field, Barber and Perkins all hit well. The Peterboro total was passed with six men out, and the total finally reached 110 runs for nine wickets before stumps were drawn, Dyer being the most successful bowler, taking five wickets for 44 runs.

The teams were served dinner and tea in the Manufacturers' Building (kindly loaned by the Peterboro Fair Committee) by the ladies of the Peterboro club, and all did ample justice to the good things provided. Special praise is due chiefly to the untiring efforts of Mrs. Manning, Mrs. Thorpe, Mrs. Coutts and Miss Cook, who worked hard to make the affair a success. The return game is to be played in Toronto on Labor Day, when the Peterboro C.C. hopes to reverse the victory. Score:

TWO NEW GREENS FOR THE LADIES

Provisions Made to Accommodate Lady Bowlers at Any Time.

The Peterborough Bowling Club has prepared two new greens especially for the use of the lady bowlers who have hitherto been restricted to the use of the other greens for certain periods.

The new greens are in splendid condition and are admittedly as good as the older ones. It is hoped that these added attractions will prove of interest to the ladies, more especially to the business girls who are unable to use the lawns in the afternoon.

They are well lighted, full sized greens and as the ladies intend sending a rink to the Orillia tournament which is to take place on the sixth, speedy use should be made of the new provisions. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Arthur Clysdale, secretary of the Women's Lawn Bowling Club.

TRIPLE TIE IN CENTRAL LEAGUE

Kingston, as expected, walloped Belleville yesterday and as a result the half way mark in the Central Ontario League race finds Peterboro, Kingston and Oshawa in a triple tie with Belleville well behind the parade. Each of the three leaders has broken even with its two rivals while all three have taken three out of four games from Belleville. If the system of other seasons were being followed this year a three cornered play off would be necessary to select a winner for the first half but as it is the teams battle right to the finish with the first and second teams to play off. The fight is not so much for first place as it is to keep from being eliminated from the play off and it promises to be a thrilling race Here is the standing:

Peterboro	7	5	12	.583
Kingston	7	5	12	.583
Oshawa	7	5	12	.583
Belleville	9	5	12	.250

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(Canadian Press.)—There were indications at the State Department today that the Government may yet call a conference of the interested powers to consider the question of abolishing extra territoriality in China in accordance with the Washington conference treaties.

Secretary Kellogg sees no reason why such a conference should not be called in the immediate future.

Columbine.

In sunny places in the woods, and especially on rocky hillsides, the lovely flowers of the columbine, yellow and orange-red, are nodding on their slender stems. In gardens also the short-spurred European species, white or blue, as well as the Colorado columbine, long-spurred and pale blue, are coming into bloom. Wild or cultivated, the columbine is one of the most appreciated of flowers.

Between the common and scientific names of this plant is one of the strangest contrasts in all botany. The common name is lifted directly from the French, and means "dove-flower." The botanical name, Aquilegia, means "eagle-flower"—inspired, probably, by the five curved claws that project from the base of the blossom. An old English common name, "dove's-foot", combines the two; possibly the original French had something of this meaning also. Other quaint folk-names are "meeting-houses," "granny's nightcap" and "two-faces-under-a-hat." It is frequently called honeysuckle, because of the quantity of nectar in the little globular spurtips, but it has no real right to this name, which applies properly to a quite different plant.

What does everyone think about? Anyone who answers this question will have conferred a boon upon every newspaper in the world. Newspapers endeavor to satisfy the reading needs of everyone by printing various kinds of news, features and stories. The cross-word puzzle satisfies one class; the political news another class; the society column a third, and the market section a fourth. Probably only a comparatively few people are interested in all four—and there are many more angles to the news-publishing business.

Steering a Course.

Pascal thought that living was so important everybody must be studying it. But he said he was surprised to find that more people knew the laws of geometry than knew the laws of living.

And yet, may not The Examiner, with all other newspapers, be interpreting the answer to the question properly? Is not everyone thinking about living? What does living comprise? Birth, marriage, death? These the newspaper chronicles and if it is called upon to sandwich in the account of an occasional divorce it is merely because two people have not read aright the rules of life. But there is more. Health, recreation, work, money-making, home-making, sport, humor, love, cooking, romance, sacrifice and tragedy—they are all life. And these ramifications of the study of living are faithfully set down by the press that they who live may read, and, reading, learn to live more effectively.

And, lest it be said that death is not properly included under the general heading of "living," is not that the only sure and certain thing after birth, and therefore interesting to the man and woman who must face it?

Let us compare life to a boat, and men and women to the boat's crew. The man or the woman who reads the newspaper with discernment is like a boatman with chart and compass, seeing where are the dangerous shoals and where the ragged rocks, and learning through the record of others who have passed that way where to find the safe passage.

Those who neglect the advantage of this priceless record are drifting helplessly or are wearing themselves out in frantic efforts to stave the boat off rocks they suddenly encounter.

Preparedness for life comes only through acquaintance with life. This the newspaper is endeavoring honestly to give its readers.

Success is not a prize given for winning a race; it is payment in value for services rendered.

The advent of Roxy and His Gang will give radio fans in Peterboro an opportunity for which they have been waiting. On Friday night, when the programme is broadcast from the lakes, even a crystal set should be good enough to bring it in, and the results with better apparatus should be good. It is a safe prediction that many a set "stowed away for the summer" will be put in tune for this event. An invitation is extended in another column to inform The Examiner of the results of listening in.

RECEPTION HELD IN NEW BUILDING

Dominion Day Celebrated in London—Ferguson Addresed Gathering.

MORE PUBLICITY.

LONDON, July 2 (Canadian Press) — More than a thousand people attended the Dominion Day reception at the new Canadian building yesterday. An unusual feature was a musical program entirely by Canadian artists.

The Dominion Day celebration in the evening was attended by 300. Right Hon. L. C. M. S. Americ, Secretary of State for the Dominions, said that, while Great Britain and Canada were passing through a period of reaction and disappointment, our salvation lay in mutual development and support.

Hon. G. H. Ferguson, Premier of Ontario, spoke of his realization during his present visit of considerable misconception among public men in England of Canada's attitude toward the British Empire.

"I want to disabuse the British mind of one idea," he declared. "There is no possible chance of Canada ever becoming a part of any country except the British Empire. Every Canadian dollar and cent would be used to resist such a proposal."

Premier Ferguson proceeded to say that he could see no other solution for the present commercial depression than to make ourselves self sustaining as an empire. Canada, he continued, should have extended publicity in Europe and her resources should be proclaimed in the British press every day.

Rev. Dr. Cody, Toronto, and the Earl of Oxford also spoke.

BASEBALL PRACTICE.

All members of the Kiwanis baseball teams, Juvenile and Midget, are requested to be on hand at the Queen Mary School grounds tomorrow night as a most important practice will be held.

KERRY DECEIVES BOBBY IN "THREE LIVE GHOSTS."

For some time the bobby on duty had been watching with ever deepening suspicion the big slouching figure in the shabby clothes loitering around the main entrance of the Bank of England. His suspicions grew to a certainty, when this fellow after signalling to some obvious confederate among the swiftly moving crowd in front of the Exchange, pulled his cap down over his eyes and sought to slink into the building.

"No, you don't," growled the bobby, "I've been watching you some time, my man, and if you'll take a tip from me, you'll move on and be pretty brisk about it."

The big rough protested volubly that he "meant no bloomin' harm" and implied that if he wanted to hold up the Bank of England, he wasn't going to be such a bonehead as to make the attempt single-handed. Whereupon, he melted away in the crowd.

Simultaneously a couple of moving-picture cameras carefully hidden away behind the tarpaulin of a big motor lorry ceased to grind their record of this little incident and George Fitzmaurice congratulated his leading man Norman Kerry, on the success of their strategy in securing a perfect "shot."

The scene alluded to is one of many in "Three Live Ghosts" featuring Anna Q. Nilsson and Norman Kerry. The picture is filled with dramatic scenes and there is much enjoyable comedy. The production is a massive one, and the supporting players are of a high order of merit.

London Scenes Shown.

To see "Three Live Ghosts" is tantamount to making a sightseeing tour of London. Here are some of the landmarks shown:

The Limehouse quarter made famous by Thomas Burke's stories, showing the real Limehouse as well as Limehouse wharf and vicinity.

Glimpses of the mean streets contiguous to Shadwell and Poplar, and the London Tower Bridge.

One of the characters carries the spectators through Trafalgar Square showing the Nelson Column, Whitehall, Downing Street, the National Gallery, Westminster Abbey, the Albert Memorial in Hyde Park, Piccadilly Circus, the Bank of England, the Royal Exchange and the slums of Whitechapel.

Scenes as in the Chinese quarter also are shown, as well as rich country estates near London."

ROYAL

SENSATIONAL AUSTRALIAN PICTURE NOW PLAYING AT THE REGENT THEATRE.

From New Zealand to Canada via Australia, South Africa, the United Kingdom and Ireland is a long treck but nevertheless the artists connected with an Australian motion picture depicting the life story of John Lee, known the world over as "The Man They Could Not Hang," have recently completed a journey of no less than 25,000 miles by water to say nothing of thousands by land. The presentation will take place on Thursday, Friday and Saturady, July 2, 3 and 4.

The company playing here come direct from extended seasons at the Grand Opera House and Tivoli Theatre, Toronto and—in addition to the picture—include W. Leonard Howe, the well known English actor, who relates in thrilling detail the salient features of John Lee's life, and Miss Doreen Thompson, the famous British prima donna, who appears as Lee's mother in the special musical, scenic prologue. High class vaudeville and the usual comedy features compete an exceptionally fine programme.

AT THE ROYAL

AT THE ROYAL. AMATEUR NIGHT TO-NIGHT.

To-night, in Addition to the Big Western Comedy Feature, "Ridin' Pretty," the usual Amateur Contest will be held—New Talent is Promised, also a Comm ity Singing Novelty.

Western Comedy Feature Ridin' Pretty at Royal.

"Ridin' Pretty," a Universal picture with William Desmond as the star, came to the Royal Theatre today and brought with it a lot of laughs, a l of tense moments and several big thrills. This latest vehicle for Universal's favorite star of western stories is a comedy d.. ma, and is one of the best pictures seen in a long time, as it has a variety appeal that will furnish interest for almost any screen fan, no matter what manner of entertainment is preferred.

Those who maintain that being natural is one of the greatest histronic arts will find material to bolster up this contention, for certain parts of the picture are "stolen" by two or three cowboys who never have acted and never will "act."

Heretofore their efforts in behalf of motion picture art have been confined to desperate riding, for they are real cowboys and are members of Universal's famous Ranch Riders. One is forced to the conviction that in "Ridin' Pretty" these men had forgotten that such a thing as a camera was in existence for they behaved just as men might in real life in similar circumstance.

But to explain: "Ridin' Pretty" is a story of six cowboys, who find themselves in a big city (San Francisco) where one of them, the character personated by Desmond, is the heir to a fortune left him by his uncle, with the provision that he spend a year in his uncle's mansion, provided with servants, and the like. It is in this mansion that the cowboys find themselves early in the story.

Conspirator Falls in Love.

There is a love story involving Desmond and a pretty conspirater alligned with his cousin to defraud him of his inheritance. Ann Forrest has the part of the pretty conspirator, who repents of her bargain with the cousin and flees after her cowboy lover, knowing what she had tried to do, asks her to marry him.

One of the most exciting chases ever seen on a screen is that in which Desmond and Slim Cole, one of the cast, use an automobile and then after the accident, a motorcycle to catch the train on which the young woman is endeavering to desert the man who loves her.

Most of the picture was filmed in San Francisco and the mounted police were added to the cast to untangle traffic after the cowboys had ridden through town mounted on huge dray horses.

Arthur Rosson, the director, achieved some fine scenic effects from the hills surrounding the Golden Gate and San Francisco Bay.

Others in the cast are Billy Sullivan, Stanhope Wheatcroft, Billy Gillis, Tex Young and Frank Rice, who contribute much to the entertainment value of the picture.

WITH HECKMAN BACK ON HILL PETES TRIUMPH OVER OSHAWA IN DOMINION DAY BATTLE

Homesters Kick Away an Early Lead, But Hammer Out Victory Near End.

BEAT DUKE DAINTY

Veteran Southpaw on Rubber When Petes Take Fall Out of the Leaders.

(By F. D. C.)

Before the biggest crowd of the year Manager Johnston's Petes pulled up on even terms with Oshawa at the top of the Central Ontario League heap at Riverside Park yesterday morning, Al Heckman outpitching Duke Dainty and the home talent winning an interesting struggle by 6 runs to 4, thus reaching the half way post with nobody in front of them.

The big Dominion Day attendance which included many out-of-town fans saw the Petes bat in two runs in the first frame, hand back the lead to Oshawa on a silver platter in the second and fourth and finally hammer out a neat victory in the eighth canto after drawing up on even terms in the sixth.

Heckman, back on the mound after a three weeks' lay off with a lame arm, made a nice job of stopping the Motorists after their mad rush of five wins in succession. In fact with airtight support from his confreres in the field the dean of the Petes' staff would have held the invaders to one counter and he was going stronger all the way, blanking the visitors in the last five frames and allowing them only three strung out singles after the fourth. He mixed a curve to good advantage with his fast ball and showing nice control, would have had a much easier task had it not been for the four fielding misplays of the Petes, all of which figured in the run-getting.

Dainty, with a week's rest, was counted upon by Oshawa to take a fall out of the Petes and keep the Motor City crew out in front, but the veteran southpaw failed to make the programme materialize. The Petes bumped him for three hits and two runs in the opening stanza and although Dainty put the brakes on sharply and held them without another hit until the sixth they opened out on him again in that inning and in the last three frames crowded in seven hits, netting four runs and the ball game. Dainty was touched for ten hits and his three charities were very costly, all of them blossoming into runs.

The fielding features were supplied mostly by the outfielders. Wolfe's catch of Tyson's hard hit liner was a gem and he cut off a run at the plate on another occasion by a beautiful throw to Swanston. Hall went far afield to make a nice catch of Alger's foul fly and Reg. Fair, Oshawa's centre fielder, was prominent by his neat grab of Helsons' fly to left centre.

Petes Start Well.

Rowden, first up, singled to right but was forced at second on R. Fair's bunt to Heckman. Fair stole second but Tyson flied to Wolfe and Ward struck out.

The Petes bagged two counters. Legon walked and while Johnston and Helson were striking out stole second and third. Harrison dropped a double down the left field foul line, scoring Legon, and Swanston cracked a beauty to right centre for two bases, sending Harrison in. Rose singled over third, the ball hitting the bag. Hall popped to Morrison.

The invaders evened it up in the second. Morrison got a lucky hit on a Texas League to right which Legon almost nailed by diving at the ball. Dineen bunted for a sacrifice but Helson fumbled and both runners were safe. Alger lifted a high one to Harrison. W. Fair, however, was hit, filling the bases and Dainty helped his own cause by a single over second, scoring Morrison and Dineen. Rowden flied to Wolfe and Reg. Fair struck out.

In the third Tyson lined to Hall, Ward struck out and Morrison's high one was taken by Johnston.

In the home half Johnston rolled to Ward and Morrison disposed of Helson and Harrison, the first on an easy fly and the second on a roller.

A Bad Inning.

The Petes had a temporary blow-up in the fourth that nearly cost the ball game. Dineen opened the inning with a ringing double to left centre. Alger hit one to Heckman and Harrison let the throw go through his hands, Dineen going to third and Alger to second. W. Fair struck out. Dainty rolled one to Johnston whose throw pulled Harrison off the bag, Dineen trotting in. Then when Dainty started to steal second Swanston threw to centre field and Alger crossed the plate. Rowden clipped a single over second on which Dainty expected to score, but Wolfe's perfect throw to Swanston nailed the Oshawa pitcher yards away from the plate. Reg. Fair struck out.

Swanston was safe on Ward's fumble but when Rose struck out was doubled at second, Tyson to Rowden. Hall flied to Alger.

In the fifth Wolfe made a great catch of Tyson's liner to left centre, Ward fanned for the third time and Morrison lofted to Legon.

Wolfe flied to Alger in the Petes' half, Heckman reached second on Ward's high throw but Legon and Johnston both struck out.

Even In the Sixth.

The Petes clouted in two runs and sewed up the game. Dainty started the trouble himself by hitting Helson and Harrison followed with a ground single to right. Swanston laid down a neat sacrifice to advance the runners. Rose fanned for the second out and it was up to Hall. The young outfielder cracked a single between Ward and Morrison to score Helson and Wolfe split the air with another in the same place to send Harrison in with the tieing run, after Hall had stolen second. Wolfe stole the middle sack but Heckman with a chance to win his own game rolled to Ward, retiring the side.

In the seventh Rowden rolled to Heckman, R. Fair fanned for the third time and Helson made a nice play on Tyson's fast roller to end the frame.

With Legon out of the way on a roller to Morrison, Johnston singled to left. R. Fair pulled off a neat catch of Helson's drive to left centre. Harrison rolled one toward right but the ball hit Johnston, retiring the side.

Ward led off for Oshawa in the eighth with a single but was forced to second when Morrison bunted to Heckman. Dineen struck out and Alger grounded to Helson.

The Winning Counters.

The Petes won out in their half. Swanston started them on their way with a single through the box and Dainty helped the good work along by plugging Rose in the ribs. Hall hit to Morrison, forcing Swanston at third, but Rowden fumbled Wolfe's roller long enough to lose the runner and the bases were filled. Again "Heck" fell down with an opportunity to sock home the winning run, striking out but Legon came through by doubling off Alger's knee. Alger had replaced Ward at third, the latter hurting his knee going into second in the first half of the inning. Legon's rap sent Rose and Hall in with a pair of counters and the game was won. With Wolfe stealing home Johnston rolled to Rowden for third out.

The ninth was soon over. W. Fair was tossed out by Johnston. Dainty singled over second but Hall made a fine catch of Alger's foul fly and Saunders, batting for R. Fair, hit weakly to Rose or the final out.

GOLF STARS AT OTTAWA DIMMED

Max Marston, C. C. Fraser and W. J. Thompson Eliminated on Holiday.

DAY'S FIXTURES

ROYAL OTTAWA GOLF CLUB, Ottawa, Ont., July 2.— (Canadian Press.)— The elimination of Max R. Marston, of Philadelphia, 1923 amateur golf champion of the United States and C. C. Fraser, of the Kanawaki Club, Montreal, provided the features in the second round of the Canadian golf championship here yesterday.

Marston was defeated by C. Ross Somerville, of the London, Ont., Hunt Club, on the 38th green, after a sensational battle; Fraser, winner of the title in 1922, fell a victim to youth when Fred M. Lyon, of the Lambton Club, Toronto, son of Geo. S. Lyon, the patriarch of Canadian amateur golfers, defeated him one up. Fraser finished the morning round one up.

William J. Thompson, of Mississagua, Toronto, another former title holder, also made his exit from the tournament yesterday when Don Carrick, of Scarboro, Toronto, whom Thompson defeated in the Ontario amateur final, turned the tables and defeated Thompson. The score was 3 up and 2 to play. Carrick is the Canadian junior champion.

Stanley Thompson, the sole survivor of the three Thompson brothers from Mississauga, all of whom qualified for the match tournament, won his way into the third round by eliminating Erian Devlin, of the Royal Ottawa Club, 7 and 6. Thompson played splendid golf throughout, and is a strong favorite to win the title, within reach of which he has several times been without success.

The United States' only hope lies in J. H. Flynn, of Pittsburgh, who advanced another round by elimianting J. W. Yuile, of Royal Montreal, 7 and 6. Yuile provided the sensation of the first round by his victory over Lauren Upson, of Del Paso, Calif., considered a strong menace of the American invasion.

The only ex-champion left in the race is William McLuckie, of Kanawaki, Montreal, who kept his club's colors flying by taking H. D. Phelan, of Scarboro, The match concluded the 32dn with the former champion five up.

Norman M. Scott, and Charles B. Grier, an ex-title holder, locked horns in a duel between the two Royal Montreal entrants, the former having an easy victory, 7 and 6.

As the tournament now stands, Toronto has three players left in the race, Montreal two, London one, Ottawa one, and the United States one.

Summary of Results.

C. Ross Somerville, London Hunt Club, defeated Max R. Marston, Philadelphia, on the 38th hole.

Stanley Thompson, Mississauga, Toronto, defeated Brian Devlin, Royal Ottawa, 7 and 6.

J. Cameron, Royal Ottawa, defeated Jackson Walton, Summit, Toronto, 5 and 4.

Fred M. Lyon, Lambton, Toronto, defeated C. C. Fraser, Kanawaki, Montreal, one up.

J. H. Flynn, Pittsburgh, defeated J. W. Yuile, Royal Montreal, 7 and 6.

Norman M. Scott, Royal Montreal, defeated C. B. Grier, Royal Montreal, 7 and 6.

W. McLuckie, Kanawaki, Montreal, defeated H. D. Phelan, Scarboro, Toronto, 5 and 4.

Brooklyn 4; Boston 3

BROOKLYN, July 1.—Stock's triple followed by Padgett's wild throw past third base in the ninth enabled the Robins to defeat the Braves today, 4 to 3. Neis, Boston outfielder, hit two home runs, his second in the ninth tieing the score.

President Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyn club has placed Zack Wheat in charge of the playing during the team's home stay, which started today and will continue until July 26.

Pirates 8; Cubs 6.

CHICAGO, July 1.—Pittsburgh went on a batting rampage and drove Alexander off the mound in the seventh inning and defeated Chicago, 8 to 6. Wright's home run with a runner on base tied the score at the start of the seventh inning. Heathcote also got a home run in the ninth inning with a man on base and Hartnett got his homer in the sixth with none on base. This was Hartnett's seventeenth homer of the season. Score:
Pittsburgh ....100000601— 8 14 0

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

The Central Ontario League teams have turned the half-way mark, with three clubs in a heap, and from now on to the end of the schedule there will be some mean battles. Every game is of importance coming down the stretch, and there will be no quarter asked or given. The first of a series of most exciting tussles will be staged at Riverside Park Saturday when the Kingston Ponies are back for another clash with the Petes. The Johnstonites just nosed the Daleymen out last Saturday, winning 2 to 1, and this week's melee should be just about as full of interest.

* * * * * * * * *

Frankie Whitehouse and Bruce Cairns, the two left-handers who spiked most of the hitters most successfully last week, are scheduled to tie into each other again in Saturday's fixture, and that is enough in itself to ensure a real fight. Cairns is still ahead of the Petes, having beaten them twice in three starts, but the home artists hope to even scores by beating him in the week-end engagement.

* * * * * * * * *

Whitehouse has beaten the Ponies in their last two appearances at Riverside Park, and the young left-hander is in good shape to make it three in a row with the help of a little hitting from his teammates.

* * * * * * * * *

The longest Central Ontario League winning streak of the season was terminated when the Petes stopped Oshawa yesterday. The Motorists had won five games in succession before the Dominion Day fixture, and were hopeful of making it an even half dozen.

* * * * * * * * *

The return to form of Al. Heckman is very welcome to the Peterboro squad. Heck's arm gave him no trouble yesterday, he had plenty of stuff at all times and is ready to take his regular turn from now on.

* * * * * * * * *

Yesterday morning's crowd had the novelty of seeing Hap Harrison let a good throw get away from him, something the big first baseman has very seldom done. "Hap", however, made up for it by spearing several wide tosses in great style and by cracking out three hits in four times up. He has hit safely in every game this season and is clouting at a .340 clip for the year.

* * * * * * * * *

Cliff Boundy of Cobourg, one of the regulars on the Central League umpiring staff for several seasons, gave the decisions on the bases yesterday, subbing for George Sullivan of Kingston, who was unable to make the trip to Peterboro.

* * * * * * * * *

Max Swanston is keeping up his consistent hitting, cracking out a double and single in three official appearances yesterday. The Petes' backstop has had six hits in the last three games and most of them have figured in the run-getting.

* * * * * * * * *

Ward, the Peterboro boy at third for Oshawa, hurt his knee going into second base in the eighth yesterday and had to go out of the game. "Toots" was apparently nervous before so many of his former fellow-townsmen, for he struck out three times and had two errors in the field.

WILDNESS LOST GAME FOR GUIRY

K.C. 7, KIWANIS 5

A wild streak in the second innings, when Guiry passed four men, and hit one, cost the Kiwanis team the juvenile game which formed the curtain raiser of yesterday's City League double header. The five charities, with one hit, a double by Kennealey, resulted in four runs and the final score was 7-5 for the Knights of Columbus.

Except for one bad session Guiry pitched good ball striking out 11 and keeping the winners seven hits well scattered. The tendency of his teammates to make hurried throws after the men were safe, did not help him any as a couple of these useless pegs were wild, permitting the runners to advance.

Masterson was on the mound for the Caseys and held the Kiwanis team to 5 hits, which they managed to crowd into two innings.

Bannon was the bad man with the willow, getting hit twice and hitting twice. He showed a tendency to stand up and take the ball which is liable to give him a chance to keep on batting after being hit.

HASTINGS SETS PACE IN LEAGUE

Added Another Victory When They Beat Roseneath 16 to 8.

PLAY BETTER BALL

HASTINGS, July 2.—Hastings added another game to their list of victories when they defeated Roseneath at the latter place, on Friday afternoon, by the score of 16 to 8.

They won, not because they were the better team, but because they played better ball. Scriver, the junior pitcher, started on the mound for Hastings and pitched a splendid game up till the sixth inning when he was relieved by Stevenson. This was Scriver's first appearance in a league game and he certainly deserves credit for his performance. He should be a great help to Stevenson, who up until the present, has had practically all the pitching to do for Hastings. Had Stevenson had this assistance last year it might have made some difference in their standing. Herrington at first and Baker, another junior, at short provided the fielding features for Hastings, while it may be said no one fell down.

Zufelt started in the box for Roseneath and although he struck out nine men in the first five innings his teammates gave him no support. He contributed some costly errors himself. Up until the fourth inning Roseneath were unable to score and then after Baker and Zufelt had singled, Varcoe made a double, driving in both runs. Again in the sixth after the Zufelt brothers had singled Varcoe again doubled, scoring both runners. Varcoe stole third, Leach was passed, stole second and took third while Varcoe scored when Scriver let one go by. Then Leach scored when Wilson singled. Davey scored in the seventh and Thackeray in the eighth when after each runner was on Zufelt and Leach singled. Leach pitched the last three innings, holding Hastings scoreless in the seventh and ninth, but four runs were scored against him in the eighth when some costly errors were made.

Roseneath will have to win all the remaining games to be in the race and at present it looks as though they would be moved this year. If Hastings keeps up the standard of ball which they are now playing they will make any team in the league step to beat them for the honors. The game was a better exhibition of ball than the score indicates. The work of the umpires, Wellman behind the plate, and Macklin, on bases was satisfactory as usual which made everything go off smoothly as they are two of the fairest umpires in the league.

The line-up was as follows:

BURNBRAE LOST TO FRANKFORD

SCORE 19-6

BURNBRAE, July 2. — The Burnbrae baseball team journeyed to Glen Ross on Monday evening to play an exhibition game with the Frankford Northumberland leaguers. Unfortunately they finished on the short end of a 19 to 6 score, chiefly due to lack of practice. The team had not played for almost three weeks and Eagleson, their star pitcher, had not taken his turn in the box since June 3rd. In spite of this Burnbrae led 5 to 1 at the beginning of the fourth, in which inning they blew up and Frankford scored five runs. The Frankford boys played snappy ball and although Fraser, their young pitcher, was hit fairly hard, his team mates gave him such good support that his task was easy. Lewis Little at second, was the fielding star of the home boys, while Will Hume and Frank Little swung heavy bats.

This defeat is more notable in the history of the Burnbrae team than a win would have been, as this is the first reverse in five years. Five members of the present team were playing in 1921, while the others came in since 1924. This is the first year in league baseball the team is now leading the Seymour league. While formerly only exhibition ball has been played, there have been several games staged each year with teams from neighboring places in a spirit of friendly rivalry. The outstanding feat of the 1922 team was a 3 to 1 win over the Warkworth team of the Northumberland league. The same battery, Eagleson and Hume, performed on that occasion and they are still going strong to-day.

Electrics Spot Contenders 7 Runs in the First Two Frames.

A well assorted game of baseball was provided by the C.G.E. and Lakeview City League teams on the afternoon of Dominion Day, when those bombardiers met in a "7 rounds to a decision" bout at Riverside Park. The verdict went to the Lakeviews, who were kindly donated six passes and four hits in the first two frames and accrued therefrom a total of seven runs. McDonough's generosity probably cost him the game as for the remaining five stanzas he changed his policy, doling out but three miserly hits, from which the Lakeviews were lucky to get their other counter.

Woods, the Lakeview bomber, blanked the C.G.E. crew for six frames and kept the hits separated with fine judgment for distance. In the seventh, however, his vigilance waned for he allowed three hits which in turn allowed two C.G.E. campaigners to prance across the pan.

While the hitting was not particularly of the long distance type still two blows from the weapons of Halliday and Hilliard netted two bags each and a wallop from Jones' cudgel gave him a ticket for three stations.

Both pitchers were well supported and the fielding was smart, with plenty of pep behind the throws. Collins and Marchen led the attack, Collins getting two hits in three trips while Marchen netted a like number in four attempts. LeBarr and Ritchie officiated, their decrees being received with approval by all concerned.

AL SIMMONS OF ATHLETICS 1925 SENSATION

Ranks With Game's Greatest Hitters, Despite Unorthodox Style at Bat.

(By Billy Evans.)

Last season at this time, Outfielder Simmons of the Athletics as known as "Foot-in-the-Bucket" Al.

This year the same young man is the sensation of the majors, the most improved player in baseball, and one of the outstanding reasons why the Athletics are out in front in the American League.

A year ago the experts doubted whether Simmons, because of his unusual stance, would be able to consistently hit major league pitching.

Despite the fact that Simmons pulled badly, he hit better than .300 his first year in the majors. Often badly out of position, and apparently much fooled by a fast-breaking curve, Simmons would hit it hard to right field.

He's a Real Star Now.

In addition to his unorthodox style at the plate, Simmons also had other rough spots in his make up. He did not always make the proper play. Certain experts questioned his smartness.

The 1925 model of Al Simmons arrived over night. From an unpolished busher he stepped into the big show this year a real star.

Simmons still pulls at the plate, but that means nothing to Connie Mack and opposing pitchers.

"Just one of those natural hitters, whose style is not graceful but most effective. You know Hans Wagner was far from the poetry of motion when at bat," says Connie.

For the first 50 games of the present season, practically one-third of the campaign, Simmons boasted a .400 batting average, just 100 points better than his mark of last stason.

Simmons first attracted major league attention because of his batting. To-day Simmons impresses you as much by his work in the field and on the bases as at the bat.

I consider Simmons a smart ball player. He always throws the ball to the proper place in the games I officiate, and what a wonderful arm he has!

Reminds of "Happy" Felsch.

On the bases he is very fast and uses good judgment. In the field he makes great use of his speed. No outfielder in baseball can cover more distance.

The rise of Simmons reads like a tale from fiction. He has been playing professionally only four years. In his second year he led both the Texas League and American Association in batting.

MASTERLY GOLF ON NATIVE MOOR

Smith and Kirkwood Defeat Duncan and Mitchell at Gleneagles.

GLENEAGLES, Scotland, June 30.—(Canadian Press). — In an exhibition of superlative golf yesterday that produced a score of birdies by the four players in a 36-hole match, MacDonald Smith and Joe Kirkwood, defeated George Duncan and Abe Mitchell, 2 up and 1 to play.

A gallery of several thousand Scots saw their national pastime played in masterly manner over the beautiful glens and moorlands of this highland resort. At the end of the morning round Smith and Kirkwood were two down. They were unable to get ahead until the thirty-third hole, where both Duncan and Mitchell took three putts.

At the thirty-fifth hole, Mitchell, for the first time during the day, failed to find the fairway with his powerful drive, hooking the ball into an unplayable position among the yellow brown beds of Gorse atop the rolling hill. Duncan's drive to this hole lodged under the low brow of the bunker. Both Smith and Kirkwood reached the green with their second, which neither of the other pair could do, and so they won the match.

Mingled among the Scots who swarmed up and down the hilly course were scores of foreign tourists and English travellers who have come north for the holidays. For 17 holes in the afternoon they saw four men playing golf in such finished style that par figures were useless for the purposes of winning all but three of the holes. It took nothing less than birdies to win, with the standard pitched so high that all four shared the distinction of making several holes in less than par.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

There are three ways employed by different players to start the club back from the ball. Most of the par shooters drag it back — that is, the hands lead slightly in starting away, and the clubhead catches up later on in the back swing. Others break the clubhead away with the left wrist, then keep clubhead, wrists and arms "all together" until near the top, when the wrists break upward and back.

The third method is lifting the clubhead away with the right hand predominant. Not many golfers do this. By "lifting" I mean the club is merely carried back, with the clubhead even with the hands about all the way up, the wrists breaking upward and backward at the top. Some golfers have a tendency to roll the left forearm to the right in the back swing, opening up the club face too much. A good cure for this is to lift the club away with the right hand in command of it at the start. In any method keep the clubhead low as it starts.

(Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

So often is the golfer admonished to follow-through with the clubhead that many players, seeking to accomplish the follow-through, bring about in the bottom arc of the swing an arm-stiffening, reaching exertion that has the effect of deadening the clubhead just at the time when it should have its springiest punch. They accomplish a follow-through, as it were, merely by arm-shoving the clubhead to some point well in advance of the ball. This action gives the feeling of the clubhead hitting straight through the ball, which is not quite the feeling it should have. You should have a sense of hitting down on the ball as the clubhead takes the ball. Then the follow-through will come naturally and automatically.

RUTH RETURNS TO HOSPITAL

Will Submit Sore Ankle to X-Ray—Fears Bone Chipped.

SELLING HIS FARM

BOSTON, June 30. — Life for George Herman Ruth is just one ailment after another. Yesterday it was announced by Miller Huggins that the Babe will undergo an X-ray examination on his right ankle, when the Yanks return to New York Thursday.

Ruth entertains a suspicion, and so does Huggins, that a bone has been chipped in his right ankle. In batting practice a week ago, the ball glanced off Ruth's bat and struck him a solid blow on the protruding ankle bone. This caused some pain and a swelling of the joint, but inasmuch as his other ankle and both legs were already swollen, Ruth gave no thought to the accident at the time.

In the last few days the swelling in the left leg disappeared but the right ankle still gave him trouble, and Ruth now fears the worst. He is convinced that something is wrong in his ankle, and if it isn't a chipped bone, it may be a sprain or wrench.

At any rate, when the famous sick man of baseball returns to New York later this week, he will flee back to the hospital and the X-ray room and have a picture taken of the offending member.

May Necessitate a Cast.

He is wearing a strap and brace, but if it should turn out that the bone is broken, he will probably have to put on a cast and keep off his feet while the ankle is being rested. The bambino would return to New York immediately were it not for the fact that he is now negotiating for the sale of his farm at Sudbury, Mass., not far from Boston. He has hopes of getting $50,000 for the property, which has been improved by Ruth in more than two years of occupancy.

Ruth denies that he is selling the family estate because he needs the money or because he is broke as was alleged in a story which came out of St. Petersburg in March.

"The farm has been a burden and a nuisance," said the big fellow on Monday afternoon during a trip to Bristol, R.I., where the Yanks went to play an exhibition game that was rained out. "I am there only in the winter and for a few days in the summer. Mrs. Ruth is in New York with me at the same time, and there is nobody to look after the farm. I have tried to find some reliable caretaker to go out and handle it but I can't find anybody to do the job right. So I'm going to quit worrying about the matter and sell the property."

The Babe was in a gloomy and reminiscent mood as he journeyed to Bristol. He agrees with Huggins that he, the Babe, won't do much ball playing this season.

Knocked Out For Season.

"I guess I've about been knocked out for the season," said George, darkly. "It's just one thing after another. The way my legs feel now, I won't play much ball this year.

"When I think back to March and April, I feel blue. When I left St. Petersburg and started North I felt great. I thought sure I would break all home-run records. I was smacking the ball harder than I ever did before, making two and three hits every game and not feeling a bit sick. Now, look at me. I might as well be 50 years old."

The Babe is right in what he says. There is pathos in his case, for no player ever started with brighter prospects and ended with darker ones than the big fellow.

TENNIS TIPS

REVERSE TWIST SERVICE

When the American twist service first came out, it was a most baffling delivery. It fooled every one for a while, but soon, players began to solve the eccentricities of the bound, caused by the overspin—and then some one came along and began using a reverse twist service—which brought a bunch of new, baffling bounds for the striker to solve. Bundy, the great doubles partner or Maurice McLaughlin, was a past master when it came to using this service effectively. This service is very much like the one explained yesterday—except that it is actually a reverse of it.

On this service, the head and body are bent to the right, weight shifts to the right leg, ball is thrown up to the right of the head. A very flexible and supple wrist is necessary, as the wrist does most of the work on this service. With elbow bent, hold the racquet out in front of you—wrist-high. When you throw the ball in the air, move the racquet backward and upward across your face and hit into the ball with a stroke from right to left. This stroke is something between a flick and a throw, says one great English tennis authority, F. R. Burrow. This ball will have a kick just opposite to the regular American twist serve when it lands.

Weddings

WEBBER—YELLAND.

At 9 o'clock, Wednesday morning, July 1st, at 491 Water street, a very quiet wedding took place, when Miss Vivian Glenn Yelland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Yelland, and Mr. William Harvey Webber, son of the late Harry Webber and Mrs. Webber, were united in marriage by Rev. C. W. Rose, D.D. Miss Nellie Stenton acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. James Webber supported the bridegroom. Only the immediate relatives were present.

The bride wore a becoming ensemble suit of navy blue with hat to match, and carried ophelia roses.

After a short trip to Muskoka they will reside in North Monaghan. Both Mr. and Mrs. Webber are very popular among a host of friends, who extend all good wishes for happiness and prosperity.

FOY-GILLIES

A pretty wedding took place at half past four o'clock yesterday afternoon, at All Saints' Church, which was decorated with a profusion of flowers for the occasion, when Edna Irene, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gillies of Cavan, became the bride of Nelson W. H. Foy, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Foy, 97 Rubidge Street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. D. Paterson. The Wedding March was played by Mrs. W. A. Logan, and during the signing of the register, Mrs. Stanley Willis sang "Until."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. R. Leach, wore a lovely gown of while silk Canton crepe, heavily embroidered, with hat to match and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses.

Mr. William King acted as best man.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding supper to about forty guests was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Leach, Stewart Street, followed by an evening pleasantly spent in the enjoyment of games and music. Mr. and Mrs. Foy left for Toronto this morning. On their return, they will reside in Peterboro.

The young people were recipients of many useful and beautiful gifts. The gift of the bridegroom to the bridesmaid was a pin set with amethysts; to the best man, a tie pin set with pearls, and to the soloist, a bar pin set with turquoise and pearls.

OBITUARY.

JAS. H. BILLINGTON.

Mr. A. J. Johnston received a message from Winnipeg announcing the death fo his brother-in-law, Mr. Jas. H. Billington, on Tuesday night. He will be buried in Winnipeg.

Mr. Billington was born in Peterborough. He served his apprenticeship in the saddlery business with Mr. Benj. Shortly, with whom he worked for about six years. While in Peterborough he was a member of the old Fire Brigade Band, under the leadership of Mr. Finch Miller, and was well known by many of the old timers.

Mr. and Mrs. Billington left here in December, 1886, for Manitoba, where they have resided ever since. Most of that time they have resided in Winnipeg, where, with his brother, Mr. Thomas Billington, they have conducted a large saddlery business. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, one son, Roy, who since the great war is living in England. There are three daughters, Mrs. J. McBeth, Mrs. J. McVicar, both living in Winnipeg, and Miss Jean, a war-time nurse, but now in hospital work in the Eastern States.

FINANCIAL NEWS.

Wall Street Stocks Climb Led By Motor Accessories

NEW YORK, July 2.—(Canadian Press). — Broadening speculative operations throughout the forenoon trading were attended by some substantial advances in many stocks accustomed to move within narrow limits except in periods of great activity. Chain store and mail order issues responded to reports of good summer business and steady expansion in earnings. Inquiries for medium priced motor accessory stocks also was brisk, pushing Studebaker, Packard and United States Rubber into new high ground. Activity in stocks of railroads linked with Loree consolidation plan including Delaware and Hudson, Wabash and Wheeling and Lake Erie was based on reports that progress was being made in merger negotiations. Call money renewed at five per cent. and then dropped back to 4 3-4.

Sharp Break Features Winnipeg Grain Market

WINNIPEG, July 2. — (Canadian Press).—A sharp break in prices featured the first hour of trading on the Winnipeg market this morning, and July dropped five cents to $1.55 3-4 a bushel, and October 5 3-8c to $1.28 3-4. Rapil decline followed drastic losses recorded at Chicago on Dominion Day when this market was closed.

Opening prices ranged from 3 to 4½ cents lower, and following low mark prices recovered from 1 to 2 cents. Coarse grains and flax all opened at lower prices.

Toronto Trading Active Keeley and Teck Higher

TORONTO, July 2. — Canadian Press. — Trading on the Standard mining exchange was fairly active this morning with transactions numbering 121,04' shares. Hattie Porcupine with 26,000 shares traded in dropped one point to 10 over the holiday while Beaver was fractionally lower at 1 3-8. Teck Hughes was 2 points higher at 140 and Consolidated West Dome was steady at 13. Ten thousand shares of this stock sold at 13 1-2 with 60 days to buyers. Keeley advanced 6 points to 182 and Lorraine sold 1¼ points up to 16 1-4. McKinley Darragh advanced 1 1-4 points to 29.

Higher Price Levels In Toronto Stock Mart.

TORONTO, July 2. — Canadian Press. — Industrials and traction issues jointly were leaders when the Toronto Stock Exchange re-opened this morning. Trading was the heaviest of the week and the market as a whole showed a tendency to higher price levels though few reactionaries were noted. British Columbia fishing led the advance, climbing to 44½ from which it eased a half at close, showing net gain of 2¼. Canada Steamships preferred and Consolidated Smelters each advanced a point, though Smelters climbed 1 3-8 during the session. Twin City softened 1 1-4, at 68 3-4 though it advanced slightly after the opening. Winnipeg strengthened ¼ at 49.

Chicago Wheat Swung Up Then Experienced Slump

CHICAGO, July 2.—(Canadian Press.)—Influenced by unexpected relative firmness of wheat quotations at Liverpool, the wheat market here to-day took an early swing upward but soon fell back to lowest figures yet since recent declines began. Fact was apparent that considerable number of traders were acting on basis that after dramatic declines of late a rally was to be looked for. Buying power, however, soon gave out and with no reports at hand, that black rust infection had brought about any important actual damage, the market dropped to about 14 cents under Saturday's top figures.

Opening prices 1-2c. off to 1-4c. up. Sept. 139 1-2 to 140 1-4 and December 140 1-4 to 141 1-2 were followed by an advance to 141 1-4 for September and 143 1-2 for December, but then by a break to 138 for Sept. and 140 for December.

HELP COMPOSERS BY COMMISSIONS

New York Symphony Society Engages Two to Write Works.

BETTER THAN PRIZES

Perhaps a more practical spur to American composers than that of prize contests is now being introduced in New York. It is the plan of commissioning a composer to do a certain piece of creative work, with the certainty that it will be performed when completed. A lead in this matter has been taken by the New York Symphony Society, which has commissioned Deems Taylor and George Gershwin to write orchestral works for presentation next season.

Mr. Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," which has been played this season by the Paul Whiteman Orchestra, has attracted the interest of many of the leading musicians and has been called the finest contribution of jazz to the music of the concert hall. This composer will write for the New York Symphony a piano concerto in three movements on the subject of New York. It is to reflect the spirit of the city, but, the composer has stated, "this will not be done in an obvious way." He will compose the work in London, to which he has just gone for the presentation of one of his musical comedies. Upon his return he will play the piano solo in the concerto with the Symphony, both in New York and on tour.

Mr. Taylor's composition is to be a suite in four movements. Walter Damosch will conduct the orchestra in the presentaition of this work and of the Gershwin concerto. Mr Taylor is supposed to be the American composer indicated in a recent announcement of the Metropolitan Opera as the one commissioned by that company to write an American opera for presentation in 1926-7.

It is also expected that the Metropolitan will be the destination of an opera by the American composer, Ernest Schelling, writer of many successful works for the concert hall. Mr. Schelling's librettist is Arthur Train, the novelist, and the plot will be based upon one of the latters stories for the Saturday Evening Post.

Another encouragement of a similar nature to a resident composer was the friendly act of the Morning Telegraph in sending its music critic, Theodore Stearns, to Capri on leave to complete the work on his grand opera, "Atlantis."

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

TWO BOBCAYGEON GIRLS PICKED UP FOR AUTOMOBILE RIDE ENDED TRIP WITH SCREAMS IN THE DARK

One Found Unconscious By Summer Residents at Long Beach, Sturgeon Lake.

DOPE OR WHISKEY.

Taken to Her Home After Recovering From Stupor —Attended Dance.

LINDSAY, July 3.—(Special) — The dangers resulting from the practice of young girls going on auto rides with men whom they do not know was brought home to two Bobcaygeon girls a few nights ago in a manner which they will not soon forget. It appears that the two girls were picked up in the village on Wednesday, June 24, and taken to Long Beach, Sturgeon Lake, where the big Conservative picnic was held.

They remained for the dance in the evening, and some time in the early hours of the morning residents in the vicinity heard screams from the lake shore. On investigating, one of the girls was found on the shore of the lake in an unconscious condition. She had either been doped or was made to drink whiskey of the bootleg variety which put her in a stupor. The girl did not recover from the stupor for some time, when she was taken home.

The matter, it is understood, has not been placed in the hands of the police as yet. The affair is being widely discussed and all kinds of stories are afloat regarding the condition of the girl who has fully recovered from the effects of her experience.

BRITISH PRESS DELEGATION ON WAY TO CANADA

Will Attend Imperial Press Conference in Australia Sept. 1st.

BRIEF STAY HERE.

Empire Migration and Newsprint Supply on the Agenda.

LONDON, July 3. — (Canadian Press Cable). — Major J. J. Astor, M.P., chairman of the Times Publishing Company, honorary treasurer of the Empire Press Union, and Lady Violet Astor; Sir Percival Phillips, special correspondent of the London Daily Mail; Sir Edward Iliffe, M.P., chairman of Iliffe and Sons, Limited, publishers of trade and technical journals, and a few other members of the Imperial Press Conference which is to meet in Melbourne, Australia, on September 1, are now on their way to Canada.

The main body of delegates to the press conference will sail on the Empress of France on July 11. The delegation will spend a couple of days in the Rocky Mountains, but otherwise will halt only about an hour at points of interest while en route to Vancouver, B.C., where the whole party bound for the Antipodes will mobilize and sail on the Aurania on July 29. New Zealand will be visited before Australia is reached.

The tentative agenda for the Imperial Press Conference includes the following subjects: Communication by air and mails; Empire migration; newsprint supply.

It is understood that the New South Wales Government has voted £3,000 for travel facilities in connection with the press conference, and similar provision is probable in Queensland and Western Australia. The delegates to the conference will visit every state in Australia and also Tasmania.

DOCTOR PLANS WEEKLY CLINICS

Relative of Local People Extending Medical Work in Korea.

SERVICES WELCOME.

Dr. Norman Found, of Bowmanville, a medical missionary of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the United States, located in Kongju, Korea, is planning to organize a number of clinics at outpoints beyond the city in which he has his headquarters, according to a report made to the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church in New York City.

There are six main roads leading into Kongju. The plan is to select a village with a church about five or ten miles out along each road and hold there clinics on regular schedules, so that the people of the countryside may depend upon the place to be served on a regular date by either Dr. Found or his Korean assistant. This is an experiment in medical out-stations which has probably not been tried on any other mission field.

In a recent itinerating trip of about 200 miles in this territory, Dr. Found discovered many small villages where his services were very welcome. Going from village to village he performed many minor and major operations, most of them having to be done in the street, because there was no clinic to which the patient might be taken. He carried along with him two large boxes of medicine and they were practically empty when he returned to Kongju.

BEATEN BY THUGS.

DRUMMELLER, Alta., July 3.—(Canadian Press).—Albert Allen, a former secretary of the United Mine Workers of America here, was severely assaulted, while on his way home. Two or more men knocked him down hit him and kicked him. He had to be taken to the hospital. He was able, however, to leave the hospital after having his hurts dressed.

SANTA BARBARA AGAIN SUBJECT OF 'QUAKE VISIT

LASTED 6 SECONDS.

People Rush Into Open as Buildings Rock in Renewed Disturbances.

SANTA BARBARA, July 3. (Canadian Press).—The city was rocked again by a heavy 'quake at 8.38 a.m. to-day. The shock lasted about six seconds, and shook the place rather violently. The vibration appeared to be from east to west and swayed the buildings perhaps more severely than any of the shocks following the major disturbance of last Monday morning. So far as reported no damage resulted. The occupants of the buildings rushed into the open for safety.

Building Demolished.

It was later reported that the mansion of C. K. G. Billings, wealthy race horse man, located on one of the hills just east of the city, was partially demolished in this morning's 'quake.

Plan Sunday Band Concert For Peterboro' Citizens

Following many requests from citizens, the Peterborough Rangers Band has decided, with permission of the commanding officer, to give a concert on Sunday, July 5.

The programme will be of sacred selections, and will open at 8.30 p.m. on the parade ground in front of the Armouries.

The items to be rendered will be given in a programme to be published to-morrow.

LONG PROGRAM FOR KIWANIS

A. O. Hogg Spoke on Farmers and Their Relationship With City Men.

ROXY AND HIS GANG.

A big programme was on the books for the Kiwanis Club at the weekly luncheon today, which was observed as Farmers' Day. A. O. Hogg, president of the grain and produce firm of Hogg and Lytle; 'Roxy and his gang," and a number of farmers from the district were all present at the meeting.

The address of the day was delivered by Mr. Hogg, who said, that being born on a farm on the outskirts of Toronto, having worked both on the farm and in the city, and being in a business that was concerned with both, he was able to speak on the problems of both.

Thirty-six per cent. of the capital of Canada is invested in farm buildings, animals and equipment, said the speaker, and no other industry or group of industries comes anywhere near that amount. What is needed by the farmer is a square deal. He wants to be treated like everybody else, no better and no worse.

A business administration for Dominion, Province and Municipality was asked for by Mr. Hogg. Party politics, which sought only to get in power and keep the other fellow out, was not wanted.

It is a tendency of everyone, said the speaker, to think that the other fellow has a softer job and a better chance, and it had been said that any fool could run a farm. Farming, he said, is just as honorable an occupation as anything else. It requires just as intelligent a man, and as much energy and skill to farm as to do anything else. People are interdependent. If the farmers struck there would be hard times and in war time everything would have been stopped. Inexperienced men could not get along on the farm any better than they could at anything else.

Co-operation and not unthinking competition is needed, said Mr. Hogg. He spoke of the scene in Western Canada, where two lines of railway will run parallel for miles in useless competition. More people in a business in any place will not bring down the rices, but neither does co-operation mean that a man

MINING STRIKE IS NOW LIKELY SAY MERCHANTS

Suspension on September 1 Anticipated in Anthracite Field.

OTHER TROUBLES.

Outrages Continue in Canadian Area—English Miners Reject Proposals.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 3.—(Canadian Press). — Merchants in the anthracite valleys to-day finally admitted the likelihood of a suspension at the mines on September 1st, the result both of the new wage demands and talk growing out of the tri-district scale convention which closed here yesterday.

Some storekeepers figured that the demands of the miners, if granted, mean a total pay increase of perhaps 55 per cent.

Turning from whatever attitude the operators might adopt toward these demands, the merchants singled out the remark yesterday of Andrew Mattey, president of District 7, who said in the convention: "A suspension will take place." The miners' demands will be presented to the operators in Atlantic City on July 9th. A meeting of the operators is scheduled to be held in New York next Monday, when it is expected they will frame the policy they are to follow during negotiations. They are known to be opposed to the granting of any increase in wages, and it is reported they may fight for a reduction. The operators also are expected to refuse to agree to the check-off system of collecting union dues, one of the workers' principal demands.

TERRORISM AT CAPE BRETON.

SYDNEY, N.S., July 3.—(Canadian Press).—Acts of terrorism continued last night in Cape Breton, and the large new building in Glace Bay town owned by the Sydney Ice Company was destroyed by fire, together with a long building formerly used as a cook house, near the International piers of the British Empire Steel Corporation, and a smaller building at New Aberdeen.

In the extensive area affected the police authorities have found it difficult to deal with those responsible for the depredations which, in addition to fires doing damage of some hundreds of thousands of dollars, have included the stoning of houses, corporation and private, and threats to many people. In addition to the arrests made in connection with the corporation store looting which took place during the first outbreak of violence in June, four arrests of suspects were made yesterday.

ENGLISH MINERS MEET.

LONDON, July 3. — (Canadian Press).—Miners' delegates from all the coal fields in the country meeting at a private conference to-day of the Miners' Federation, decided to resist the mine owners' proposals for lower wages and for an extension of the present seven-hour day to an eight-hour day.

Various coal mining districts will be urged not to depart from the principle of national settlement of the miners' situation and to accept nothing less than wages that will meet the increased cost of living.

THORNTON REPORTS STORIES IMAGERY

Says Will Attempt to Build Up Big Trade With West Indies.

TORONTO, July 3. — (Canadian Press).—Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, visited Toronto to-day to further efforts to increase shipping over the National System. In an interview he remarked that stories that the C.N.R. was prepared to sell certain branch lines to American interests were sheer imagination.

Sir Henry said he had great hopes for something tangible resulting from the conference being held at Ottawa between representatives of the Government and officials from the West Indies. "It would be a very great thing for Canada if we could build up a big trade with the West Indies and a good thing for Imperial unity," he said.

WOULDN'T GIVE UP HOME.

BALTIMORE, July 3. — Anna Green refused to give up her home after it was sold for taxes. When a policeman came to oust her, she confronted him with a revolver. After a short scuffle, he overpowered her.

Woman Attempting Suicide Rescued By Newspaper Man

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., July 3.—(Canadian Press).—An attempted suicide in the Neebing River was frustrated Thursday by Charles Arnold, a local newspaperman, when he rescued Mrs. Celia Jugovitz who had thrown herself from the railing of the bridge into the water.

The woman who had been acting queerly jumped into the river when a constable approached her. Arnold and his son both leaped after her and after a desperate struggle succeeded in bringing the woman to shore. She is being held for examination.

FRENCH PLANS FOR WAR DEBT

Proposals By Caillaux Include Moratorium For Four Years.

BRITAIN'S DEMAND.

PARIS, July 3.—From the highest source it is now possible to reveal the broad lines of Finance Minister Caillaux's proposals for settlement of the war debts. They are as follows:

A four-year moratorium.

The entire debt to be consolidated at 4 per cent. interest.

France to make an immediate cash payment of $50,000,000 as soon as negotiations are completed as an earnest of good will.

France only offers these terms to America on condition they are also acceptable to England.

The moratorium to be gaged on French railways, state forests and other national domains.

Caillaux May Come.

Proposals along these lines will be put forth when the French debt commission, possibly headed by Finance Minister Caillaux himself, goes to Washington at the end of August or the beginning of September. If Caillaux cannot spare time to go to Washington for the entire negotiations, there is a chance that he may go for the final talks and signatures.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Official advices from Paris that the government has definitely recognized its obligation to pay its $4,000,000,000 debt to the United States were received by the French Embassy on Wednesday.

Discussion in France now centres about the most suitable time and method for approaching the United States to open funding negotiations.

Both at the Embassy and at the State Department early announcement that France will send a commission to this country is expected.

BRITISH NOTE.

PARIS, July 3.—Austen Chamberlain, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, has delivered to M. De Fleuriau, the French Ambassador to Great Britain, a new memorandum suggesting that the time is ripe for France to make an offer for the settlement of her debt to England, even if it is only a provisional one.

CANOEIST SHOT RAPIDS ALONE

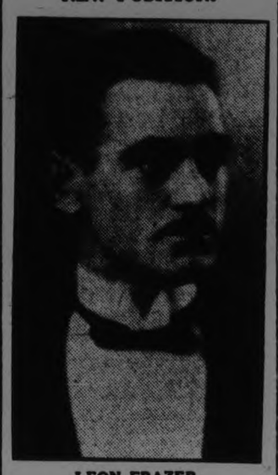
Lachine Man Man Made a Thrilling Trip to Duplicate Indian's Feat.

SOME CLOSE CALLS.

MONTREAL, July 3.—(Canadian Press).— Shooting of dangerous Lachine Rapids by a single canoe was accomplished Wednesday, it became known yesterday. The venturesome navigator was Art Christie, a member of the Lachine Rowing Club. This was the first time the feat has been performed by a white man alone in a light craft. Christie, an expert canoeist and swimmer, determined to duplicate the thrilling voyages which Big John, an Indian, used to take up every New Year's Day. Big John is dead and since his last trip the rapids have been conquered, but by two men in a heavier craft. The young Lachine Club member went through the most dangerous currents without incidents. True, he had some close calls, but with skillful use of the paddle and employing his experience he successfully negotiated the speeding waters.

LEON FRAZER ACHIEVES HONOR IN APPOINTMENT AS SECRETARY ONTARIO TOURIST ASSOCIATION

NEW POSITION.



LEON FRAZER,
Secretary of Peterborough Chamber of Commerce and other organizations, who is appointed secretary of the Tourist Association of Ontario.

Peterborough Man of Many Parts to Hold Important Position.

STARTED TO-DAY.

First Official Act Was Introduction of the Roxy Broadcasting Party.

Leon Frazer, secretary of Peterborough Chamber of Commerce and of half a dozen other civic organizations, has been appointed secretary of the Tourist Association of Ontario, and to-day started on his first duties by introducing Roxy and His Gang to the City. It is largely due to Mr. Frazer that this party of broadcasting artists has come to this section first in the itinerary that calls for advertisement of all Ontario summer resorts, and it is peculiarly fitting that his first official act as secretary of the province-wide association should be of such a nature.

Mr. Frazer will have his headquarters in Toronto, but for a time will spend half of the week in Peterboro in order to make smoother the transition period during which a new man is being broken in to the multitudinous duties that pertain to the office here.

The Tourist Association of Ontario will represent the entire province in developing tourist traffic, and is the only tourist association officially endorsed by a Provincial Government. Patrons of the Association include His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Cabinet Ministers, and the leader of the Opposition. It will be, G. S. Henry, acting Premier, said, the parent Association, and other district organizations will be affiliated with it. Functioning in the same way as those already organized, the Tourist Association of Ontario will attract tourists to the Province while the affiliated bodies will endeavor to make their different sections pre-eminent as resorts.

Father of Them All.

It is interesting to note that Peterborough has the honor of having the first Tourist Association formed in the province—The Trent Waterway Development Association. This was organized in June, 1920, and was followed in 1922 by the Blue Water Association, in 1923 by the Southern Highway Association, in 1924 by the International Highway Association, and in 1925 by the Algonquin Trail Association. Mr. Frazer has been with the Trent Waterway Development Association since its organization in 1920, and his efforts have been increasingly successful every

TWO TASKS FOR UNITED CHURCH

One Missionary and One Spiritual, Says Message From Moderator.

CHURCH IS ONE.

TORONTO, July 3.—(Canadian Press).—"Two great tasks confront the United Church", declared Rev. G. C. Pidgeon in a "message from the Moderator" issued yesterday by secretary and General Council of the United Church of Canada. "The first is spiritual and the second is missionary.

"If anything were needed to banish the sectional feeling, it was supplied by Dr. Chown's generous act of renunciation. The United Church of Canada is one; let there be neither doubt nor mistake on that point."

CHORISTERS SANG AT PORT HOPE FETE

Male Voice Choir Took Part in Holiday Entertainment —At Garden Party.

About fifty members of the Peterboro Male Voice Choir went to Port Hope on Dominion Day and took a prominent part in the evening's musical entertainment, which was attended by several thousand people.

An octette from the Choir took part in the programme given at the Centreville garden party last evening, composed of Messrs. Anderson, McEwen, H. Niven, Adair, Skitch, F. Pratt, E. Manning and T. Pitchford. The Sunday School orchestra from St. Paul's Church also took part in the programme, and several ukulele numbers were given by the Misses Marguerite Mason and Violet Davidson.

JAPS PLAN WORK ON BIG OIL FIELD

Saghalien Concessions To Be Operated Under Government Supervision.

TOKYO, July 3. — Associated Press. — A three day air bombing exercise recently was held over Trujido, a suburb of Kangawa. Two planes were employed, each carrying 32 bombs weighing 300 to 400 pounds

The object of the exercise was to study various relations between the reaching point of bombs thrown from airplanes and the speed as well as the direction of the winds, also to improve bomb browing devices aboard flying machines.

FIND FIELDSPAR MINE ON FARM

Pembroke Township Farmer Has Made Rich Discovery on Land.

NEAR RAILWAY.

PEMBROKE, July 3.—(Canadian Press).—It is reported that a feldspar mine has been discovered on the farm of Leslie Cotnam, Township of Pembroke. Mr. Cotnam has commenced preliminary work in what promises to be one of the richest feldspar mines in this country. Tests made by a C.P.R. geologist show it to be of the highest quality of spar. The mine is only a short distance from the railway, which will greatly facilitate the development operations.

DELEGATES SENT TO BRITISH MEETING

Seven Canadian Doctors Will Go To Medical Association Meeting at Bath.

TORONTO, July 3. — (Canadian Press).—For the first time official delegates have been sent by the Canadian Medical Association to the meeting of the British Medical Association in Bath, England, during the week of July 17th. This is the outcome of the affiliation of the Canadian Medical Association with the British Medical Association which was brought about last year.

Seven delegates will represent the Canadian Medical Association at Bath, as follows: Dr. Alexander Primrose, Dr. F. N. G. Starr, Dr. H. B. Anderson, Dr. F. W. Marlow and Dr. T. C. Routley, Toronto; Dr. A. T. Bazin, Montreal, and Dr. L. J. Austin, Kingston. Dr. Routley, owing to illness was unable to leave last night with the Toronto delegates. Tremendous interest is being shown by medical men in all parts of the world in the opening by the King and Queen, on July 13th, of the new home of the British Medical Association in London. The delegates from the Canadian Medical Association are to have a place of honor in the opening ceremonies.

MAKING PLANS FOR HOME BANK CLAIMS

Take Up With Exchequer Court Means of Easy Approach For Depositors.

TORONTO, July 3. — (Canadian Press).—A plan to make an easy way of approach to the Exchequer Court of Canada by the depositors in the Home Bank of Canada on more than $500 and who, by reason of being in straitened circumstances, will have claim under the Dominion Government's bill for reimbursement, has been arranged by a national committee.

I. E. Weldon, one of the bank liquidators, said last night that the counsel representing the depositors, and accompanied by himself, will go to Ottawa early next week and take up with the Judge and Registrar of the Exchequer Court of Canada and counsel representing the Dominion Government ways and means whereby depositors of $500 and over entitled to payment under the Government's bill may receive payment for their amounts without going to the expense of employing special counsel to present the case in court.

GASOLINE FAILED TO PUT OUT CIGARETTE

Young Man Threw Butt Into Basin He Thought Held Water.

That all things are not what they seem was once more demonstrated last night at 9.17 in the rear of a house at 223 Hunter Street West. A youth was cleaning a suit of overalls in what a friend thought was a basin of water. It was really gasoline, as the friend found when he threw the stub of his cigarette into the basin and a brilliant flare up ensued.

Promptitude on the part of the Fire Department averted any further damage beyond the destruction of the overalls.

If you lose or find anything put a small ad. in the Examiner. They bring results.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

HOW THE HEART MAY BECOME DISTURBED

Surrounding the heart is a sack called the pericardium. So long as this membrane is normal, you will never feel it, or know you have such a structure in your body.

It is a remarkable thing that all the wonderful machinery of the human system runs along without friction or disturbance. But after all, it is not unlike the motor of an automobile, is it? If it is in perfect condition it just runs along and we hear nothing but the pleasant hum of the engine. Not until it begins to groan or knock do we begin to worry over it.

Inflammation of the pericardium is known to the doctors as "pericarditis." If the ailment comes along it brings consciousness of the heart's existence. There may not be severe pain, but there is more or less distress or discomfort in the chest.

Breathing becomes difficult. The heart's action is rapid and there may be a short, hacking cough. The pulse is weak and feeble.

It is an interesting thing that any form of distress in the heart produces a feeling of excitement and misery. There is restlessness, and fever may be one of the symptoms of pericarditis.

The heart was suspended in its sack and deposited in the middle of the chest, so it would be safe from injury. But the blood supply and the glands may carry infections and reach this vital organ in spite of its isolation.

Among the causes of pericarditis we find somewhere in the body a focus of infection. Pussy gums, abscessed teeth or diseased tonsils may be responsible for the trouble.

Rheumatic fever, scarlet fever, measles, pneumonia, influenza, inflammation of the bowels, blood poisoning from any cause, and tuberculosis, may have pericardial trouble as a complication. Gout, diabetes and Bright's disease are other diseases which may be followed by heart trouble.

In the acute attack the victim must be put to bed at once. He must be kept in bed and absolutely quiet. At this stage, ice compresses to the chest may control the inflammation.

If this treatment does not stop the pain, hot compresses may be tried. This will serve till you can get your family doctor. He will take charge of the treatment.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

S. B. H. Q.—Will you kindly tell me how to get rid of wrinkles?

REV. MR. BLACK REMEMBERED BY OMEMEE CHURCH

Appreciation Shown By the Presbyterians—Pastor Joined United Church.

GIFT OF CHAIRS.

Presentation at Assembly in Home of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Sandy.

OMEMEE, July 2.—The Presbyterians of Mount Pleasant and Omemee gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Sandy to bid farewell in a formal way to their pastor, Rev. J. A. Black, who has been serving so faithfully here for the past two years. Like every other congregation in the Dominion of Canada, Omemee charge is being affected, on account of the unusual and historic circumstances of the union of the three churches. The church in Omemee voted to remain with the non-concurring church, and Mr. Black, being convinced that Union is the better course, is quite prepared to make any sacrifice in support of his convictions, and has accepted a charge at Plainsfield, near Belleville. Since then, he has received two offers, one on a mission up North and the other in the Montreal Presbytery. His friends to the number of about seventy, desiring to express their appreciation of his service, met on Tuesday evening.

During the evening, Mr. F. G. Sandy, who acted as chairman in his usual genial and capable manner, called for short addresses from representatives from Omemee and Mount Pleasant congregations. Mr. Harry Lamb, Dr. H. T. Carmichael, and Messrs. Josiah Best and Hubert Gardiner, all of whom referred to Mr. Black's faithfulness in church, his readiness to serve in sickness and his interest in civic affairs.

Miss Ruby Feir was then called upon to read the following address:

Omemee, June 29, 1925.

Rev. Mr. Black, Omemee, Ont.

Dear Mr. Black.—Heaving heard that you are about to leave us, we, your friends of Omemee and Mount Pleasant have come together this evening that we might assure you of our good wishes and bid you God-speed as you go to take up your duties in another field as a minister in the United Church of Canada. Your two years' sojourn with us as pastor and friend have been pleasant indeed and although in our church life, changes have taken place, and in those changes we all have been tested, yet we rejoice that the great Union for which we have been praying for years, has been effected and we desire to place on record our appreciation of your leadership. You, Mr. Black, have steadfastly, amid good report and ill, led us to our present happy relationship. Although you are going from us, yet may we hope that you will continue to regard us as friends.

We wish on this occasion to assure Mrs. Black and other members of the family of our confidence and esteem. Our sincerest hope is that you all will meet warm friends in your new field and ever be happy and successful.

That we may put on record in a tangible way, we pray you accept this souvenir and may it ever remind you of your many friends at Omemee and Mount Pleasant.

Signed on behalf of Omemee and Mount Pleasant Congregations.

Two handsome upholstered wicker chair were presented by two elders, Mr. Joseph Boyd of Mount Pleasant and Mr. S. T. Wilson of Omemee.

Mr. Black in his opening remarks said: "H was sure Omemee people knew how to keep a secret," he was taken so much by surprise. He felt unworthy of the magnificent gifts, but it was just like the people of this charge to do such things. He and his family have enjoyed their sojourn in Omemee very much and they will always think with pleasure of the friends they made while here. He desired most sincerely to thank them not only for these gifts, but for every act of kindness, they have shown him while here.

Rev. Mr. Stewart of Nippewa, a guest at the home of Mr. D. Dick, offered congratulations to Mr. Black, and expressed his pleasure at being present.

The happy gathering united in singing "Blest Be the Tie that Binds," after which a social hour was spent and the signatures of those present were attached to the address.

Oldest Resident Dead.

The death occurred on Thursday morning of Omemee's oldest resident in the person of Mr. William Neill. Deceased had been in failing health for several years and death was not unexpected. The funeral will be held from the family residence on Sunday afternoon, and will be under the Orange auspices.

Cemetery Officers.

The annual meeting and decoration of the Presbyterian cemetery near Mount Pleasant, took place on Tuesday afternoon. A service of song and worship was conducted by Rev. J. A. Black, after which the old officers were re-elected. Dr. D. W. Best of Bowmanville, addressed the large gathering, as did also Mr. Sadler of Toronto. Dr. Jamieson of Millbrook was present, and many more visitors, all of whom were highly pleased with the splendid condition of the grounds. Not a sign of any refuse was evident to mar the beauty of this pretty little burying ground, and a variety of flowers were placed on the graves of the departed by loved ones.

Masons at Church.

On Sunday evening last Lorne Lodge, No. 375, A.F. & A.M. and visiting Masonic brethren paraded to the United Church for worship. Rev. E. W. Rowland delivered a splendid discourse to the large congregation. He did not choose a text from the Bible, but his thoughts pointed mainly to the world-wide Brotherhood, and if all peoples carried out what Mr. Rowland suggested, there would be no more tragedies like the late war. This old world would be a 'paradise on earth' and everyone would be nearer the Kingdom of God."

The choir rendered a splendid anthem entitled "Hark Hark, My Soul," also a pretty duet entitled I'm a Pilgrim," was also rendered by Misses Vera and Ila Lowes.

NO FAULT FOUND WITH NEW SIGN

"Campbellford Welcomes You" is Statement on Boards to Mark Limits.

REAL ESTATE SOLD.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 3. — New automobile signs have been placed at the town limits on the main roads and to these no objection can be taken on the ground of grammatical accuracy. There is on the sign boards no harsh mandate with regard to the speed limit, the committee in charge of the work being satisfied to accept the statutory provision. Autoists coming to town read, "Campbellford Welcomes You" and when they are leaving the sign conveys the invitation, "Come Again."

Real Estate Sales.

T. L. Damond reports the following real estate sales:

Mrs. Mary Robertson has purchased the residence on Booth street, near the High School, formerly owned by George Ivey who has removed to Stirling.

James Cranston of Stirling, who recently sold the grist mill in that village, has purchased from Alex Reid a farm on the Sixth Concession of Rawdon.

Hector Whitton of Rawdon has purchased the residence on Palliser street, formerly owned by John L. Hay.

John L. Hay has purchased a farm in Prince Edward County and will take possession this month.

Mr. Diamond has sold the residence of George Johnston in Marmora to Mr. J. Mahoney of the same village.

Among the Bowlers.

The following were selected to represent the Bowling Club at the Belleville tournament on Dominion Day, to play for the Robertson Cup in the Scotch doubles.

President L. B. Glover, A. J. Meyers, W. S. Wiggins, J. A. Stewart, T. S. Tait, E. J. Tait, Dr. Beatty, J. R. Wilkinson, C. S. Gillespie and A. E. Wragg.

Mr. Wilkinson became involved with a luxuriant growth of poison ivy and his arms were so seriously affected that he was unable to make the trip.

Weddings

O'REILLY—KING.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Peter's Church, when Mrs. Hilda King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Reed of 330 Sherbrooke street, was united in marriage to Arthur E. O'Reilly of Ennismore. The bride looked lovely dressed in mauve georgette with hat to match and carrying a bouquet of roses and orange blossoms.

Mrs. Percy Reed acted as bridesmaid, wearing jade green silk with brown hat and carrying a bouquet of roses. Little Mayabelle Reed and Dorothy King, niece and daughter of the bride made pretty little flower girls, dressed in white satin and orange blossoms.

The groom was assisted by Mr. Percy Reed, brother of the bride.

The groom's gift to the bride was a white gold wrist watch, to the bridesmaid a bar pin, to the groomsman a set of pearl cuff links, and to the flower girls rosary.

About twenty-four of the relatives partook of the wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, where they received many gifts and many good wishes.

They left on the 2.20 train for Toronto, where they will spend their honeymoon. The bride travelled in a tweed suit with sport hat to match. On their return they will reside in Ennismore.

SEYMOUR—WITZER.

On Saturday, June 20 the home of Mr. Ira Switzer, Emily, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when his sister, Lea, was united in marriage to Percy B. Seymour, of Cavan, in the presence of the immediate friends of the families, Rev. E. W. Rowland officiating. The bride was dressed in white silk canton crepe, and tulle veil, and carried a bouquet of ophia roses. The bridal party entered the drawing-room to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March rendered by Miss Carrie Stinson of Omemee), through a beautiful passage way constructed of white ribbons, by the little Misses Marion Lang and Lura Edmondson, nieces of the bride, and stood beneath an arch of foliage and white flowers, banked with ferns, which made a very fitting background. Master Ivor McIntosh, nephew of the groom acted as ring-bearer. During the signing of the register Mr. Switzer, brother of the bride, sang "Oh Perfect Love," after which a very happy time was spent, during which buffet luncheon was served. The young couple left on the afternoon train for Niagara and points west. Upon their return they will reside in Cavan.

DELEGATES GIVE MISSION REPORT

Lakefield Mission Band Won Banner For Peterboro Presbytery.

LIFE MEMBERSHIPS.

LAKEFIELD, July 2—A very enjoyable meeting was held in the school room of the United (Presbyterian) Church on Tuesday afternoon under the auspices of the W.M.S. Representatives were present from the W.M.S. of the Baptist Church and (Methodist) United Church. Mrs. (Rev.) P. L. Jull occupied the chair and after the opening exercises Mrs. Jull welcomed the visitors and expressed the hope that coming together at these gatherings with one aim and purpose would have good results in all the societies. Miss Helen Porter gave a reading, "A Message from India," which was well rendered. Miss Nelson sang "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say."

Mrs. Jull and Mrs. Chant, who were delegates to the annual Presbyterial meeting at Cobourg, gave very interesting reports.

Mrs. Jull, who spoke first, spoke of the words of the Mayor of Cobourg spoken on the first evening of the meeting: "Show me a church without a missionary spirit and I will show you a church not truly Christian." The devotional exercises were especially helpful this year.

Won Mission Banner

In the Presbytery of Peterboro there are 32 Auxiliaries, and 21 Mission Bands. Of the latter sixteen had reported to the Mission Band secretary. The banner for the Presbytery was won by the Lakefield Mission Band, of which Margaret Tanner, president, and Helen Porter, secretary, were two very efficient and faithful officers. The banner is a very handsome one of purple silk with gold lettering and border and is inscribed "Banner Mission Band, W.M.S., Peterborough Presbyterial." The local band is small but that fact does not count toward the banner but points are given for Mission and Bible Study and for the report. The next stage of the work is that of the C.G.I.T. but that is not fully developed in this Presbytery as yet.

The Home Helpers department for women not able to attend the meetings regularly has been a great success. Through visits of the Home Helpers' Secretary and distribution of literature the interest has been kept up and the contributions go toward the funds of the Mission extension work.

At the London convention the general secretary reported that the contributions of this department would keep all the missionary work going for fourteen days which shows what has been already done.

The allocation system of finance, which was tried as an experiment, has proved especially good and fourteen Presbyterials went over the top in raising their apportionment and Peterboro was one of these.

The address of Miss Dinwoodie of Honan, China, was very fine and much enjoyed. She spoke of three types of girls found in China. The first, the girls of the old regime, who are not welcome in the family and are not educated and very much kept down, are modest and self effacing. The second type are those of a later day who are being sent to school and who, allowed a great deal more freedom, are bold and forward. The third type are the girls who are being educated in the Christian schools and who learn deportment and who carry themselves and their new religion with dignity and grace and are much to be admired.

Mrs. Chant gave a brief synopsis of the historical sketch prepared several years by the late Mrs. J. K. Craick of Port Hope and read by Miss Roberts.

In 1876 the society as formed by the Foreign Missions and auxiliaries were formed in Port Hope and Lakefield. Peterboro organized a year later, and in 1882 the Presbyterial was formed with Mrs. Ewart, the mother of Mrs. MacGillivray, as the first president. Mrs. Craick's paper spoke of splendid work done in Lakefield by Mrs. McEwen and Mrs. W. M. Graham. The past year was the best record in years and great progress was shown.

Two Pioneer Members

Mrs. Jull spoke of the fact that the Lakefield Auxiliary had two of the pioneer members present, and the pleasure it gave the society to honor them for "in honoring them we honor ourselves," and the old members need the young and the young members need the wise counsel of the old. Mrs. Burgess read the following address and Mrs. Chant presented life membership certificates to Mrs. Hendren and Mrs. Baptie, two charter members of the society.

"We are met this afternoon to do honor to two of the oldest and most esteemed members of this society, namely, Mrs. Peter Baptie and Mrs. Thomas Hendren.

"It is in recognition of your long and faithful memberships, Mrs. Baptie and Mrs. Hendren, that we ask you to accept these "Life Memberships in the W.M.S.

"With these tokens of our friendship and regard go our most sincere wishes that you may be long spared to share in the work of advancing God's kingdom on earth.

Signed on behalf of the members of the Women's Missionary Society, Mrs. Burgess, Mrs. Chant, Mrs. Jull, president."

Mrs. Hendren and Mrs. Baptie spoke briefly, thanking their friends for the tokens of regard presented to them and assuring their fellow members of their unfailing interest in the work, interest which has increased with the passing years, increased yes, deepened and widened.

The ladies served afternoon tea and an opportunity for social intercourse was given and Mrs. Hendren and Mrs. Baptie received the congratulations of friends of other branches who were delighted at the honor paid to the ladies who have a high place in the regard of the entire community where both have lived for many years.

Personals

Mrs. Joseph Watson leaves on Saturday for Lansing, Mich., where she will spend a couple of months with her son, Mr. Allan Watson.

Mrs. John Sanderson and Miss Ione are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Stone of Burleigh.

Mrs. P. White and daughters spent Monday in Peterboro on business.

Miss Eva Brown, nurse-in-training in the Niagara Memorial Hospital, is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Brown.

Miss Verna Pearson of Elora arrived home on Saturday evening. She will spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Pearson.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bickell were in Peterboro on Tuesday.

Mrs. Trude Waldon has returned from Detroit where she visited friends for two weeks.

Mrs. C. C. Stenner and Miss Nellie and Mrs. A. Wannamaker are visiting friends in Hillsboro.

Mrs. D. Garvey is spending a couple of weeks in Toronto visiting her daughter Mrs. LeGranden.

Dominion Day was spent very quietly in the village and with the exception of the few flags displayed and the closed stores a stranger would not guess that it was a public holiday of great importance.

AUTOIST IN TROUBLE.

Campbellford Man Finds Troubles in Herds—Car Stolen.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 4. — Frank Dewey, who lives in the vicinity of Cordova Mines, came to Campbellford one night recently without lights on the auto which he was driving. Night Constable Light took his number and a summons for Dewey was issued. He called at the Police Court, pleaded guilty and paid the fine.

Dewey can now realize that misfortunes seldom or never come single. Wednesday night, he was in town again with a companion, driving the same car. Thursday morning he reported to Chief Brown that his car had been stolen. His friend of the evening before had also disappeared.

Dewey's car was found on the road about two miles from Hastings turned turtle in the ditch, badly smashed and with both hind wheels missing. The man who had been with him the evening before was nowhere in sight and up to a late hour last night nothing had been heard of him. No one appears to know whether it was he who drove off with Dewey's car. Chief Brown is at work on the case. Dewey returned home to find out if anything had been heard of his friend, who it seems, resides in the same neighborhood.

Two More Cases.

Another car owner will be given a hearing in the Police Court on charge of running without lights.

On Saturday morning a local resident will be in court to answer to a charge of non-support.

FORTY-TWO PERMITS.

Thirty-five Thousand Dollars Estimated For Building Permits.

Forty-two building permits involving an expenditure of $35,630 were issued last month. A similar number were issued in June, 1924, representing a cost of $74,798.

CAR NAMED FOR PORTER.

Pullman Company Honors Negro Hero in Wreck.

CHICAGO, July 3—For the first time in its history the Pullman Company has named one of its cars after a porter. The porter was Oscar J. Daniels of Chicago, a negro, who died in an effort to save the lives of passengers on his car when a train carrying excursionists from Chicago to New York was wrecked June 16 near Rockport, N.J. The sleeping car Sirocco will bear the name Daniels when it emerges from the repair shops.

TWEED PERSONALS

TWEED, July 3. — The Misses Lucy, Cora and Ruth Grant, of Toronto, have taken their cottage on Onion Island.

Mr. Milton Patterson has rented C. J. Clark's cottage on Sugar Island.

Miss Agnes Quinn, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., is spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Quinn.

Mr. Roy Murray, Buffalo, N.Y., and Mr. Grant Murray, Oshawa, are visiting with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Murray.

The Sunday school of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church held its annual picnic on Monday at the Agricultural grounds.

Rev. L. S. Wight preached his farewell sermon on Sunday night in the United church. Rev. Wight will take up his new duties in Belleville, while Rev. P. Roger will be stationed in town.

Rev. A. E. U. Smart has been appointed to the parish at Elizabethtown. He will assume his new duties on August 1st. Rev. Smart was made a deacon in June, 1910, by the Bishop of Ontario, in St. George's Cathedral, Kingston. He preached in Shannonville in 1910. COMMITTED FOR LIBEL.

Vancouver Editor Sued By F. K. Baker.

VANCOUVER, July 3.—(Canadian Press).—J. S. Cowper, editor of the Weekly Tribune, charged with defamatory libel by F. R. Baker, was yesterday committed for trial and was released on his own recognizances of $500. Unless Cowper elects for trial before a county court judge, the court will not be held before the fall assizes.

The charge arose out of the publication of a statement concerning Janet Smith's death which Baker claims libelled him.

OBITUARY.

GEORGE HENDREN, JUNIOR

LAKEFIELD, July 3. — There passed away this morning, George Hendren, Junior, aged 20 years and 7 months, after a long illness, which he very patiently bore.

R. M. GLOVER, Managing Director.

FRIDAY, JULY 3, 1925.

THIS DISTRICT BENEFITS.

The Kawartha Lakes district and the city of Peterboro will receive an invaluable amount of advertising as a result of the visit of Roxy and his gang, the well-known radio entertainers from the Capitol Theatre, New York.

Roxy and those associated with him are known wherever there is a receiving set on this Continent, and the Ontario Government in securing their services as an advertising medium for Ontario's summer resorts have made no mistake in their selection.

As the radio entertainers, who were the guests of the local Kiwanis Club today, are to broadcast from Mount Julian, Stoney Lake, tonight and from the Empress Hotel tomorrow night, this district will receive great publicity as a result, while on Sunday night Roxy will broadcast from Toronto in a loop-up with seven big stations in the United States, which means that millions of listeners-in will hear the wonders of Stoney Lake and other parts of the Kawartha chain described.

Peterboro is the big gainer by having this publicity stunt commence here, inasmuch as the Sunday night broadcasting on a large scale will deal exclusively with this section of Ontario, while next week five or six resorts will be visited and the Sunday publicity will have to be divided among them.

The Kawartha district gets three nights of radio advertising—and should receive the full advantage of Hon. Mr. Price's venture in the field of broadcasting propaganda.

LONDON—AND PETERBORO.

At least one centre in Ontario staged a worthwhile celebration of Canada's 58th birthday on Wednesday.

The reference is to London, where 5,000 people gathered in Victoria Park to mark the occasion, as a dispatch puts it, "in speech, in music and in the salute of guns."

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Leader of the official Opposition at Ottawa, had been secured as the chief speaker of the day, and representatives from the Federal Parliament, the military, the city, the Service Clubs and a host of other organizations.

"Much was uttered," to quote a newspaper report, "which lauded Canada's history, much was offered to prove the country's union and stability, and not a little was offered to assert faith in a great and glorious future, taking the progressive place on the American Continent that the United States has held in the past century."

That was something like a celebration of Canada's national holiday.

Contrast it with Peterboro's almost flagless, street-deserted, Sunday-in-a-village atmosphere observance of Dominion Day.

Every worth-while centre in Canada should use Canada's natal day to sell Canada to its own people—but the only patriotic touch in Peterboro Wednesday was supplied by the programme of national airs on the chimes.

THE COAL SITUATION.

Almost before Canada has had an opportunity to enjoy any real summer weather along comes the Chairman of the Dominion Fuel Board, Dr. Charles Camsell, with a warning to householders to endeavour to secure at once their fuel supplies for next winter.

Dr. Camsell's advice is based, of course, on the possibility of a strike in the anthracite coal fields at the end of the summer, and the fact that the head of the Fuel Board considers it necessary to recommend preparing for a shortage next winter is significant, especially when read in conjunction with the disquieting reports from over the border.

Many of the operators declare that the present union wages make it impossible to compete with non-union fields, and that the organized miners will have to adopt a lower wage scale.

That is equivalent to saying that a strike is imminent because no one expects the miners to accept a cut without first, at least, staging a struggle to hold their own.

The advice to buy the winter's fuel supply now is excellent, strike or no strike, but, unfortunately, it is the people who would suffer the most from a shortage who find it impossible to buy their coal now.

The result will be that, if the strike materializes and Ontario's supply of fuel is below normal next winter, many people who cannot afford to make the outlay necessary now will be up against the situation of several years ago when coal could only be secured in limited quantities and at high prices.

That is an aspect of the situation to which the Dominion Fuel Board might pay more attention.

MAKING INTERNATIONAL TROUBLE.

Our own domestic brand of international trouble-maker is active at Brussels just now, stimulated by pride of opinion and that intolerable license which was given to cranks and quacks, financial, political and even scientific, during the latter part of the Wilson administration. But we have trouble-makers at home, and these are seeking to pick a quarrel with Great Britain on the production of opium in India and the connection of the poppy seed with habit-forming drugs smuggled or imported into this country.

Knowing nothing whatever about the subject, possessing no knowledge of the different varieties of opium and its different uses, ignoring altogether the import of the coca leaf from South America, whose murderous by-product is cocaine, these trouble-makers lay the smuggling of habit-forming drugs derived from opium—morphine, heroin and the rest—to the Britisher.

There seems some need to inform public opinion in this matter. Indian opium contains 3 1-2 per cent. of morphia. As what is known as "Smyrna" opium in the trade, principally produced in Persia and Asiatic Turkey, contains 10 per cent. or more, it is that supply from which the habit-forming drugs are extracted. Not a single ounce of such drugs has ever come to the United States as a product of the Indian supply of opium. The manufacture of morphine or heroin from the Indian poppy with its 3 1-2 per cent. morphia content is not commercially practical.

It must be tolerably well known to the Hearst newspapers, the leaders in this agitation and always first in stirring up trouble, that the bulk of the habit-forming drugs are manufactured in Germany, with a substantial quantity from Switzerland, and are derived from Smyrna opium. Not an ounce of Indian opium ever enters Germany, nor is Great Britain a manufacturer of habit-forming drugs for export. Indian opium, for a time beyond recorded history, has in India been eaten, or drunk in solution. It is used to quiet the baby when it cries, with so little effect upon the health of the people that India is dangerously overpopulated—as overpopulated as China, which imports some opium, but produces most of its own supply in spite of attempts at international regulation.

Any stick is good enough to beat a dog, and when Mr. Hearst wants to shelter his German war patrons and blackguard the British, opium is as useful as anything else. Indeed, it seems to be the gentleman's ambition to rank with morphine and heroin as a certified German by-product.—Wall St. Journal, New York.

HE WANTS TO LIVE DECENTLY.

A miner who has worked in Nova Scotia for the past 14 years has arrived in St. Marys, and in future he will make his home there. He admitted to an Advertiser reporter that he was much impressed with the clean, wholesome appearance of the town, and that it was a decided improvement over the mining district in which he had been living. It would not take long for him to make a comparison favorable to St. Marys, for it is one of the neatest and most home-like centres in the Province.

The former miner, John Dillon, also stated that one of the troubles in the coalfields was that he had had only seven days' work since Christmas; when working full time he could make $5 per day, but out of that he had to provide his own powder, tools, etc., which decreased the amount very materially. There were long periods, too, even when the mines were operating, that he did not get four days a week, so at all times he, as well as the others, found it impossible to make a living.

When it was proposed to make a reduction of 10 per cent. in the wages that were already too low to provide living conditions, the men struck. Mr. Dillon did not discuss the strike from the standpoint of an agitator, but simply as a man who had gone through the gruelling experiences of unsatisfactory years there and was glad to be away from it all. As he saw it the union had not given the miners the support they expected to receive, and on that account many of the men were of the opinion that it would be better for them to break away and form an organization of their own after the present trouble had been straightened out.

In his statement Mr. Dillon did not seek to justify the violence displayed in the wrecking and looting of the company's stores, but stated plainly that many of the men and their families were at the point of starvation, and added that they would have starved had they not secured provisions in this way. It is not a happy or a bright commentary on labor conditions that men should be facing the desperate option of starving with their families or having recourse to the desperate means of violence and looting.

It may be that this condition was the state referred to by one of the company's men earlier in the strike when he stated the company would win because the men "couldn't stand the gaff." That phrase might have meant any of the several things, but apparently, in the light of more recent developments, it anticipated that the men would be reduced quickly to such a state of privation that they would have to submit to a reduction in a scale of wages that did not guarantee them a decent living.

It is very evident that a thorough housecleaning is needed in the coal-mining industry of Nova Scotia. Mr. Dillon is probably very much like hundreds of other men who have been seeking to make a decent living at a hazardous occupation, and in the years he was engaged in making the experiment he discovered that it could not be done. He has seen too many strikes and lockouts, and has also witnessed several times the arrival of troops to restore order in the only industry in Canada that has found it necessary to call for them.

It is quite evident that the company operating the mines leased to them by the Nova Scotia Government is not competent to carry on the task; there has not been enough humanity in their outlook; they have apparently missed entirely the joy of so conducting affairs that those who are engaged with them in the work find it possible to live happily on a sufficient competence for work well done. That situation will not be cleaned up until there is a thorough and complete rattling of the dry bones at present in control of the situation.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Tonight Roxy and his gang will find themselves up among the rocks.

With Parliament over, the flood of oratory unfortunately will not stop. It is merely transferred to nomination meetings.

A Peterboro resident saw 57 glaring car lights between Pigeon Lake and the city. She was lucky she lived long enough to count that many.

The Chairman of the Dominion Fuel Board advises Canadians to get in next winter's coal supply now. A lot of people did that early in the spring and have found the fuel very useful up to the present.

The setting apart of November 11th as Remembrance Day, as suggested by the British Empire Service League, will undoubtedly be favourably received throughout the Empire.

A THOUGHT.

It is not the rare gifts, the possessions of the few, it is not great wealth, great learning, great genius, or great power, it is not these things that make the possessor happy. It is health, it is friendship, it is love at home, it is the voices of children, it is sunshine. It is the blessings that are commonest, not those that are rarest; it is the gifts that God has scattered everywhere.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, July 2.—Guided perhaps by the experience of former after the holiday markets which usually have been dull and not many cattle wanted, the run to-day was probably not as heavy as expected. This year's opening of the summer season, however, finds an active strong market. While the run was moderately heavy for a Thursday's market it was easily handled, except for a few coarse green half finished cattle. These were a drag, and not much in demand, about $6.50 being the bid price for some coarse 1,000 lbs. steers. With this exception the market for everything else in the cattle killings line was in very active demand at firm to higher prices. About a load of heavy beef steers, finished quality, sold to packers up to $8.60. There were exceptionally choice cattle. A couple of loads of heavy export steers were taken by Rogers & Maybee for export at $8 to $8.40. Choice butcher steers and heifers ran from $7.75 to $8, and medium $6.75 to $7.25.

Choice fat cows firm from $5.50 to $6, a few extra choice odd cows going up to $6.50.

Bulls steady from $4.75 to $5.25.

Calves a little easier at 9.50 to $10, tops.

Sheep and lambs steady. Choice spring lambs at $15 to $16.50.

Hogs, unsettled, $14 off cars asked and packers bidding steady prices at $12.75 f.o.b., and $13.75 off cars, thick smooth.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 2—After a rapid series of pre-holiday ups and downs, the wheat market today closed easy at the same as yesterday's finish to 7-8c lower. July 143 1-8 to 143 1-4, and Sept. 138 3-4 to 140. Renewed fears of black rust damage to spring wheat were more or less offset by slowness of export demand. Corn closed at 7-8c to 1 7-8c advance; oats 5-8c to 1 1-8c up, and provisions unchanged to 20c higher.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, July 2 (Canadian Press).—Demand sterling closed on the local exchange today at $4.85 5-8. Cables closed at $4.86 1-8.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 2 (Canadian Press).—The export business in grain direct over the cable here was reported much quieter owing to the few firm bids that were in the market from the foreign buyers, but there was some demand from New York houses for No. 2 feed oats, and sales were made at 1-2c per bushel over the Winnipeg July option c.i.f. Montreal, and sample oats at 51 1-2c per bushel c.i.f., while 8c per bushel over the July option was bid for No. 2 Northern wheat for shipment between July 15 to 17.

According to advices received from New York, some business was done with foreign buyers in wheat overnight, but it was difficult to check up over 200,000 bushels. Some Manitoba No. 4 wheat at Buffalo sold at 12c per bushel under the Winnipeg July option, and some at 4 1-2c per bushel under f.o.b. Montreal. The sales of rye for export account were estimated at 100,000 bushels and oats at 50,000 bushels.

The domestic market for car lots of oats was weaker and prices were reduced 3-4c to 1c per bushel. There was some demand for old cars, but the volume of business was small with sales of No. 2 Canadian Western at 71, No. 3 C.W. at 64, No. 1 feed at 58.

Flour Eased Off.

A feature of the local flour trade was the further weakness that developed in the market for winter wheat grades, and prices for car lots declined 10c to 20c per barrel while smaller quantities were reduced 60c to 70c per barrel, but the demand even at the lower prices showed no improvement. There was also a weaker tone in the market for spring wheat flour, and the export trade was reported quiet.

There was no actual change in the condition of the local market for eggs, prices for all grades being firmly maintained with a fair amount of business passing in a wholesale jobbing way for the season of the year, and sales of specials were made at 40c, fresh extras at 38c, firsts at 35c, and seconds at 31c to 32c per dozen. The receipts yesterday were 1,822 cases, as against 1,469 for the same day last week, and 2,806 for the corresponding day a year ago.

A very steady feeling prevailed in the market for cold storage dressed poultry, and prices for all lines were unchanged. The demand for immediate consumption continues fair and moderately active trade was done with sales of 10 to 12 lb turkeys at 40c to 43c per lb., 5 to 9 lb. birds at 32c to 39c per lb, milk-fed chickens at 35c to 40c per lb, selected chickens at 32c to 36c per lb., selected fowl at 18c to 28c per lb., selected ducks at 24c to 26c per lb. and seected geese at 18c tto 22c per lb.

Butter and Cheese.

The feature of the trade continues to be the steady demand from English importers for supplies, and as the prices bid were in line with exporters' views here a fair amount of business was done, including sales of some round lots of Western No. 1 pasteurized creamery at 37 5-8c per lb. The movement for domestic account was also larger than it has been of late and on the whole the market was fairly active with sales of Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery at 37 1-2c per lb. No. 1 creamery at 36 1-2c per lb., and No. 2 creamery at 35 1-2c per lb. The receipts of butter yesterday were 2,957 packages, as against 4,807 for the same day last week, and 7,611 for the corresponding day a year ago.

Owing to the continued good demand from foreign buyers for supplies at advanced prices, the tone of the local market was strong and prices show a further advance of 1-4c to 3-8c per lb., with purchases of Western No. 1 white and colored at 21c to 21 1-8c per lb, Eastern No. 1 white and colored at 20 3-4c per lb, and Eastern seconds at 20 1-4c to 20 1-2c per lb. The market on the whole was fairly active and higher prices are looked for providing the demand continues.

WELCOME BRIDE TO WARSAW DISTRICT

Mrs. Allen G. Taylor Visited By Many Friends and Neighbours.

WARSAW, July 3.—A large number of neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allan G. Taylor (nee Myrtle Kidd) to welcome the young bride. Mr. and Mrs. David Taylor threw open their home, too, so that there was plenty of room. A very pleasant evening was spent in social intercourse and music. Mr. James Hawthorne gave a short extempore address to Mr. and Mrs. Allan Taylor, to which Mr. Taylor made a suitable reply. Refreshments were served, and after more music the visitors took their leave. Mrs. Taylor has many friends in and near Warsaw, and Mr. Taylor is with his father on the farm where he was born.

On Friday evening of last week the Lakefield Presbyterian choir, of which Mrs. Taylor had been a member, visited them, and presented them with a breakfast set.

ENGINEERS LAY PLANS FOR NEW SANTA BARBARA

Loss Estimated at $25,000,000—Buildings Weakened Must Be Razed.

13 KNOWN DEAD.

Five Persons Missing and Forty-one Are on Injured List.

SANTA BARBARA, Col., July 3.—Structural engineers, including three of outstanding prominence on the Western coast, who have been assigned the task of testing the remaining strength of Santa Barbara's structures, began work yesterday to help the earthquake-ridden city map its plan to build a bigger and better city on its ruins.

Many of the buildings, although standing and exhibiting but slight traces of the earthquake's ravages, will be ordered demolished to make way for more solid and substantial structures, it was said.

As the surveying party moved along the thoroughfares wrecking parties, headed by Los Angeles and Santa Barbara firemen, began the demolition of the structures against which the decree of the engineers fell.

Behind the wrecking parties came a swarm of workmen and motor trucks clearing away the debris. Santa Barbara was arising from the ruin of crumbled stone and twisted steel, a catastrophe wrought early last Monday when the foundations of the buildings were shivered by the earth's ominous rumblings.

Rock Bases Best.

A survey of the ruins completed yesterday by City Engineer G. W. Morrison indicates that buildings constructed on solid rock foundations fared better in the tremor than those built on "filled-in" land.

Along Santa Barbara's waterfront region the land has been filled in for years. Buildings in that vicinity obviously suffered more than the structures on the higher sites of the city which have firm rock foundations, Mr. Morrison said.

Examples, he explains, were the California Hotel completed two weeks ago and being razed yesterday; the Southern Pacific Railroad's roundhouse, and the pavement along the waterfront.

The roundhouse was shaken throughout and the roof collapsed while asphalt waterfront streets are cracked and torn and must be replaced.

The destruction in the rock foundation area centred at the San Marcos Building, a four-story structure of 280 offices, and the Arlington Hotel. A corner of the hotel was smashed in by the fall of a large roof water tank and a corner also of the San Marcos Building collapsed. Otherwise, Mr. Morrison said due to the rock base, the remaining portions of the structures may be salvaged.

The advantage of the rock base, he added, lies in its ability to stabilize and simultaneously minimize the shock, while the filled-in or spongy land serves to intensify the tremblor.

Perhaps the earthquake's strength among the older structures was felt more keenly by the Santa Barbara Mission ('The Queen of Missions'). When the tremblor struck, the mission's two graceful towers, which rose to a height of sixty feet, crashed, carrying with them the bells which have called the monks to prayer for more than a century.

The Franciscan fathers announced that they will make a special appeal to the country by radio for a separate fund for their enterprise. They have been unable so far to determine the extent of the damage, but the rebuilding will cost not less than $300,000.

Thirteen Known Dead.

The casualty list is slightly larger than it was. There are thirteen known dead, five missing and forty-one injured, according to the latest check up. At the worst, however, it is not believed the number of dead will exceed a score.

Three bodies were recovered. They are those of R. M. Litchfield, of San Luis Obispo; Merced Leon, Mexican laborer, forty-three, and S. Mestiere also known as Chappo Maestre, engineer of the San Marco Building.

Died Under Wall.

Leon was killed when the rear wall of the Central Hotel fell and crushed him. Litchfield was crushed beneath his automobile, on which a great mass of stone and brick descended as it stood in State Street. For two days guards have paced back and forth by the wreck of the motor car not knowing Litchfield's body lay beneath it.

GOOD SHOWING IN PLUMBING REPORT

Many Sanitary Fixtures Are Being Installed in City.

The Plumbing Inspector's report for the month of June shows three open closets removed, as compared with eight removed during June of last year. For the first half of the year the returns show 58 open closets removed, a gain of 12 as compared with the corresponding period last year.

Comparison of the returns over a lengthy period seemed to indicate cycles of 2 months' activity followed by one month of comparative slackness in plumbing.

During June 16 permits were issued, which resulted in the installation of 11 waterclosets, 9 baths, 10 basins, 8 sinks and 3 laundry tubs.

Hospital Meat Seller Quits After 44 Years

WARSAW, July 3.—After supplying Nicholls Hospital with meat for forty-four years, Alex Watts took in his last supply last Saturday. Mr. Watts sold meat to Nicholls Hospital when it was in the old Nottingham place on the Grand road. In his long service only twice did he have any trouble whatever; neither time did it amount to very much and neither time was the difficulty anything which he could have controlled.

Mr. Watts says that the nurses to receive the first patients in the new hospital was Miss Mary Bradshaw, who often visited her sister and was well known to many here in Warsaw. She died about two years ago.

MANY ATTENDED MACKLIN FUNERAL

F. J. Macklin, Who Was Killed at a Crossing Accident, Laid To Rest.

COBOURG, July 3.—The funeral of Mr. F. J. Macklin, who was killed on the Provincial Highway, east of Cobourg, when a C.N.R. passenger train struck the truck which he was driving, took place on Sunday afternoon from the home of his brother, Mr. W. A. Macklin, Fenella, to the Macklin Church cemetery. It was very largely attended. Mr. Macklin is survived by his wife Eda Westington, daughter of the late W. J. Westington of Hamilton township; by one brother, W. A. Macklin, on the old homestead at Fenella; and by one sister, Mrs. Slade, wife of Mr. F. J. Slade, Liberal candidate for Northumberland County for the Federal House. Deceased was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Macklin had been engaged in the trucking business for two years past and in buying cheese, which he took to Toronto and other places to dispose of to wholesale houses.

He was driving a new two-ton truck, which was smashed to kindling wood. This was loaded with forty cheese, which were strewn over the track for some little distance. The engine of the train, when it reached the Cobourg depot was plastered with cheese. A lady who had noticed the train approaching, and had stopped her vehicle, called to Mr. Macklin, but he evidently did not hear her, as he drove straight upon the track. His friends, it is stated, think that a long line of smoke from another train that had passed may have been one reason why he did not see the approaching train in time.

INJURD BY QUAKE.

Wm. McElroy, of Mariposo, in Hospital.

LINDSAY, July 3. (Special.) — Mr William McElroy, formerly of Mariposa, Victoria county, and brother of Conductor James McElroy of the Peterboro-Belville C.N.R. train, was one of the injured in the earthquake which partially destroyed the City of Santa Barbra, California, a few days ago. Mr McElroy is at present in the only remaining hospital in the stricken city, and is suffering from bruises about the body.

CAUSED CAR UPSET.

Montreal Woman Tugged at Wheel-Is Dead.

MONTREAL, July 3. — While the police were searching for two men alleged to have taken her companions on the morning of June 26, when she was injured in a motor accident on Western avenue, Paula Cadieux, 20, died in the western hospital yesterday of a fractured [illegible]. Roy Behnet, who drove the car concerned in the accident, told the police that Miss Cadieux had tugged at the wheel causing him to momentarily lose control and the automobile to overturn.

L. M. SUKLOFF BROKE PROMISE TO MARRY GIRL WITH $5,000 DOWRY SHE ALLEGES IN DAMAGE ACTION

Her Parents Signed Agreement For Gift of $5,000 to Follow Wedding.

SUIT IN MONTREAL.

$1,500 Said to Have Been Loaned Sukloff at Engagement.

MONTREAL, July 3.—(Canadian Press).—After she had published in newspaper social columns the announcement of her engagement to L. M. Sukloff, Toronto lawyer, her fiance publicly repudiated the agreement and "disgraced my name," Miss May Slabotsky, of Montreal, complained yesterday in a Montreal court.

Sukloff is charged with obtaining $1,500 from Abraham Slabotsky, the girl's father, by false pretences.

No evidence for the defence was offered, but counsel for Sukloff announced they have argument both on fact and law to offer to the court and the case was adjourned until next Tuesday.

The accused, being a member of the bar, was granted the courtesy of remaining beside his two defenders during the trial.

P. Labadie, local notary, said that Mr., Mrs., and Miss Slabotsky and the accused went to his office in April, 1924. There a marriage contract was drawn up and signed, by which the parents of the girl pledged themselves to give the bridal couple $5,000, six months after the marriage. During the interview, the matter of a loan had been raised by Sukloff who had mentioned that he wanted it to apply to some property he had. Papers had been demanded, but finally one of the contracting parties had said: "I will take his word. You do not need the papers. He is going to be my son-in-law."

Miss Slabotsky said she met Sukloff in Toronto with her mother. He entertained them royally, she said, and later they became engaged. Then she had used her influence with her father to obtain the loan which Sukloff required to save some property.

She could not remember the date of the signing of the marriage contract nor just what discussion there had been about money. She was sure, however, that there had been an engagement to marry and that her father had borrowed some money at ten per cent to loan to Sukloff.

LOCAL GIRL WAS HONOR GRADUATE

Miss Florence Stewart Was Fourth at Brantford Hospital.

Miss Florence Stewart, who has been training at Brantford General Hospital for the last three years, has just graduated with first class honors. She came fourth on the list and was highly commended by resident and visiting doctors who were able to note her courteous and careful attention to duty. Her mother lives at 268 Munroe avenue, City, and attended the graduation exercises in company with her daughter, Mrs. Armstrong of Millbrook. Miss Stewart has many friends in the city who will be pleased to hear of her success.

OXFORD CHANCELLOR.

Earl of Asquith Defeated By Lord Cave.

LONDON, July 3. -- Canadian Press. — The Earl of Oxford and Asquith has been defeated in his candidacy for the Chancellorship of Oxford University, a post made vacant through the death of Lord Curzon of Keddlestone. It appeared that the Liberal leader in the House of Lords notwithstanding his political leanings would have a walk over. Quite recently however to the surprise of the general public a new candidate appeared in Viscount Cave, Lord High Chancellor, and in the polling to-day Lord Cave won the victory with 987 votes against 441 for the Earl of Oxford.

Thus the University's traditional conservatism asserted itself against the weight of respect felt for the great Liberal statesman.

NAME MIS-SPELLED

In the list of those who passed from second to junior third form of the Immaculate Conception School in the summer examinations, published in Tuesday evening's paper, the name of Catherina McGarvey appeared in error. This should have been Catherine McGarry, who was one of the successful contestants.

FINED AND JAILED.

Parry Sound Man Had Liquor Under Garage.

PARRY SOUND, July 3. Canadian Press. — Magistrate Broughton yesterday imposed a penalty of five hundred dollars and a month in jail on Harry Demick for having liquor to the amount of 30 quarts of whiskey and nine gallon tins of high wines concealed in an illegal place. The police in searching the premises found the liquor under the floor of his private garage. Demick pleaded not guilty and an employee admitted having assisted in placing the liquor in this place. The magistrate however imposed the above penalty.

This was a second offence for Demick and the first conviction under the new act.

NEW PRESIDENT BIDS G.W.V.A. TO PLAN FOR UNION

Sir Richard Turner, V. C., Calls on Branches to Make Ready.

UNITED ACTION.

Desires Complete Response When Time Comes to Consolidate Veterans.

OTTAWA, July 3.—(By Canadian Press).—In his first message to members of the G. W. V. A., Lt. General Sir Richard Turner, V.C., new Dominion President of that Association, calls upon branches to immediately take steps towards the consummation of unity, so that there will be ready response when the United Organization of Veterans is brought into existence. General Turner emphasized the greater service to the nation that will be possible when the veterans work together in a manner similar to that of war days.

The text of the message follows:

"With the hope of making some small contribution towards uniting the War Veterans of Canada in one composite body, I have accepted the responsibilities of office as Dominion President of the Great War Veterans' Association of Canada. In our several ways we all have tried to do our share of the post-war readjustment work that our country again may enjoy prosperity and happiness. Mutual service overseas during the war entailed a continuing responsibility after demobilization. I believe that we can never fully discharge that responsibility until we correlate our efforts and give to Canada in peace time the benefit of our united action, such as was demonstrated in war days. The inspiration of the presence of our distinguished comrade, Field Marshal Haig, among us during recent days has resulted in very definite steps towards the unity which we all desire. I would enjoin you to carry the spirit of this great occasion into your community work.

Prepare For Union.

"Whenever branches of various organizations exist in one community efforts should be made without delay to establish a closer relationship, so that when the union is consummated there may be a ready and complete response from every part of the Dominion.

"As far as the Great War Veterans' Association of Canada is concerned, we should take special care to see that all its institutions are maintained on an efficient, functioning basis during the transition period, so that we may enter the union as a virile entity.

Time of Renunciation.

"With this greater vision before us we leave behind the trivial differences that have divided our ranks in the past. For the veterans of Canada this is a time of renunciation and re-consecration. Field Mashal Haig has set before us the great ideals of unity, comradeship and peace. I am confident that we will not fail to meet the challenge of greater service.

"In conclusion, I desire to express appreciation of the opportunity you have given me to be more closely associated with the men who comprise the Great War Veterans' Association of Canada. (Signed) R. E. M. Turner."

CAMPBELLFORD PERSONALS

Mr. George Moore left last week for Toronto where he will undergo treatment for his eye which was injured recently by a piece of cement lodging in it.

Garden Party.

The garden party held on Thursday evening on the Rectory grounds under the auspices of Christ Church was a grand success. The weather was almost ideal and the various booths—home cooking, candy, ice cream, soft drink, flower, side shows and supper table did a flourishing business in the hands of courteous waitresses and waiters.

The proceeds of the evening amounted to over $275, which is most gratifying to the Rector and congregation.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Jenkins are visiting friends in Toronto.

W.M.S. Meeting.

The meeting of the W.M.S. Auxiliary of the United church and the McIntosh Auxiliary of the W.M.S., was held on Monday afternoon in the United church with a very large attendance. The two presidents, Mrs. George Oliver and Mrs. (Dr.) Haig presided. A pleasing feature of the occasion was the presentation of three life memberships in the Women's Missionary Society to Mesdames James Dickson, N. H. Thompson and P. B. Nelson, each of whom made a suitable reply.

Mrs. W. J. Stillman, delegate to the District Branch meeting of the Bay of Quinte District held recently in Oshawa gave an excellent report which was much enjoyed as was also the reading of an address given at the convention by Mrs. G. W. Hammond.

A duet was sweetly rendered by Mrs. A. L. Malcolm and Dr. Lillian Young, following which Mrs. D. A. Montgomery gave a helpful reading.

The address of the afternoon was delivered by Rev. George A. Williams, missionary on furlough from Formosa, whose addresses at both services Sunday in the United Church were so much enjoyed. The speaker paid a glowing tribute to the work of the W.M.S., and compared the lot of Christian women to those in pagan lands where superstition is rampant. Mr. Williams also eulogized the women of Campbellford for their spirit of interest and harmony and union.

PRESENTATION TO RETIRING AGENT

C.P.R. Staff Gave Chair to W. S. Dodd as a Memento.

On Tuesday evening the C.P.R. staff assembled in the freight office to proffer their respect and esteem to Mr. Dodd, agent, who is retiring.

J. W. Buyers, car service clerk, was called upon and in a brief address referred to Mr. Dodd as not having attained success by any short cut method, but rather that he started at the foot of the ladder and was gradually promoted until he was appointed as agent at Peterboro. Mr. Dodd, he said, has been regarded by the C.P.R. officials from the Atlantic to the Pacific as a competent energetic and valued representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway. "Your long term of office, Mr. Dodd, he said, "has been characterized by harmony in all departments. We regret that time which is ever on the wing brings the date of your retirement, but we congratulate you on having reached the expectation of your term of office."

Mr. Buyers then read the following address:

Dear Mr. Dodd:

We, the members of your staff, having learned of your resignation as agent, desire on this the eve of your retirement to give expression to the esteem in which you are held by all of us.

Not to many is it given to serve as long as you have served, and we congratulate you on your forty-four years of service, twenty-two of which have been spent in Peterboro. We are sure that during these many years of faithful service with the C.P.R. you must have seen great changes in many different spheres of life. You have seen the various industries of Peterboro expand from small beginings to the present splendid porportions to which growth you have no doubt contributed your share, so that the Company which you served profited by the increased business that resulted.

As an expression of our esteem and high regard in which you are held, we ask you to accept this Chesterfield Chair, and, in conclusion we extend to you and Mrs. Dodd our very best wishes for many years of comfort and happiness.

Signed on behalf of the staff.
J. W. BUYERS
T. F. McArthur, Chief Clerk made the presentation, conducting Mr. Dodd and seeing him comfortably seated in the chair. "For he's a jolly good fellow" was their song. Mr. Dodd appreciated the lovely gift very much and expressed his gratitude for the kindness of his staff with whom he had been so long associated.

COBOURG PASTOR GOES TO NORWOOD

Rev. R. F. Stillman Preached His Farewell Sermon on Sunday.

Rev. R. F. Stillman preached his farewell sermon in the United Church, Division street, formerly the Methodist church, on Sunday evening. A large congregation was present to hear Mr. Stillman, and many tarried for a few kindly words at the close of the service. Rev. W. A. Bremner, associate pastor, conducted the service.

Mr. Stillman and family expect to leave on Thursday for Norwood, and Dr. and Mrs. Brown and family are expected in town from Belleville the same day to make their home in the parsonage here. Dr. Brown is a former Millbrook minister.

Presentation.

Last Thursday the ladies of the United Church held a very enjoyable afternoon tea at the home of the Misses McBride. The gathering was largely attended and socially a great success. Opportunity was taken during the afternoon for the ladies, through the medium of Mrs. A. J. Gould, president of the Ladies Aid Society, to present Mrs. Stillman with a basket of beautiful flowers, to which was attached a pretty purse, containing $50.00 in gold. Expression was made also to the loving regard in which Mrs. Stillman is held here, and a tribute was paid to her valued and inspiring co-operation in their work. Mrs. Stillman made appropriate and gracious reply.

At a special meeting of the Mission Circle of the United Church, Miss Blanche Stillman, youngest daughter of Rev. and Mrs. R. F. Stillman, was presented with a pretty French ivory toilet set, accompanied by the good wishes of her many friends in the circle.

United Church Organized.

At a congregational meeting held on Friday night, the United Church, Division street, elected the following sixteen men as members of the Board of Sessions: John Russell, A. J. Gould, A. C. Ferguson, A. E. Hoskin, T. Donaldson, H. Skitch, Alex Young, W. H. Hopper, D. S. Haig, R. L. Ralls, Geo. Lowe, J. W. Odell, S. L. Jaynes, Clarke Hare, Dr. Wilkins and M. E. Hall.

The following were elected a committee of Stewards:

James McKinnon, Ed. Guillet, J. D. Haig, J. E. Skidmore, A. Rambellow, Dr. Garland, Archie Cochrane Roy Willmott, A. Russel, L. M. Harris, M. W. Sparling, John Morrow, O. F. Allison, John Bennett, J. D. Hayden, Stuart Henderson.

These committees are to meet on Thursday night to complete their organization and to elect their officers, and also to meet and greet the new pastor of the church. Rev. Dr. Brown will have Rev. W. A. Bremner as associate pastor.

CHIEF WHITE ELK ENDS HIS CAREER

Man Who Fooled Lindsay, London and Rome, Goes to Jail.

LUGANO, Switzerland, July 3.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Edgar Laplante, who obtained notoriety in England by posing as an Indian chief, 'Chief White Elk", having obtained a passport from Halifax to England in 1922, was sentenced here yesterday to a year's imprisonment and was also ordered by the court to repay an Italian countess £250. It was alleged that Laplante had received £7,000 from the Countess who had subsidized a lecture tour in Italy by the prisoner. The tour proved a great success and special honor was shown Laplante in Rome.

During his stay in England Laplante appeared in public in a headdress of eagles' feathers and he wore a scarlet coat and green trousers. He announced that he was with the Prince of Wales when the Prince was created an Indian Chief in Alberta, Canada.

NEW COMPENSATION BOARD HEAD SOON

V. A. Sinclair Installed Today—Appoint Deputy For North Country.

TORONTO, July 3.—(Canadian Press).—V. A. Sinclair, former member of the Ontario Legislature was yesterday morning sworn in a. Chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board by Col. W. H. Price, provincial treasurer. Mr. Sinclair succeeds Samuel Price who was retired on advice of his medical advisors.

James Lyons, minister of lands and forests yesterday morning announced the promotion of C. H. Fullerton to the position of deputy minister of northern development. A new post will carry with it all the roads construction and public works of New Ontario. Little reorganization of the department was demanded by the new sub department. Mr Lyons is leaving today for a trip to the James Bay shore by airplane to make a personal survey of the territory.

PLACER GOLD STRIKE.

DAWSON, Y.T., July 3.—(Canadian Press).—A rich placer strike is reported from the head waters of Pelly River, $2,000 worth of gold dust having been brought in by Indians.

Three-Minute Journeys

WHERE THE DAY'S BUSINESS IS NEVER HURRIED.

Persia, the very name, sounds romantic in the ears of the Westerner. It makes us think of soft, dull, rich colors, miraculously blended.

And Persia is preeminently the land of softness, soft colors, soft sounds, soft breezes. The very noises of the streets, dulled by the thick layers of dust that cover everything, sound soft and melodious. The criers of the street, instead of being raucous and shrill as they are here, are muted and harmonious. The donkey-drivers drive their animals along with a strange minor, crescendo cry.

All Persian Life Is Leisurely.

There are the bells of the caravan leaders and the singing of the soldiers marching on their way about the city. All these sounds are welded together in a pleasant, melodious drone.

Natives of Persia have a strange aversion for sidewalks. They infinitely prefer the middle of the street, darting and dashing about to avoid traffic. The little donkeys run along to the tunes of the bells tied about their necks and their drivers enjoy the fright of the unsavy pedestrians.

The black figures of the women add a sombre note to the color scheme. They must wrap themselves, from head to foot in black silk or cotton, according to the dictates of their pockets. To be seen with a man on the street or to talk to one, even though he be her husband, would be sufficient to ruin a woman's reputation.

Yet, in spite of the rigid conventions that rule them, Persian women frequently rule their homes with iron hands. They manage their own estates and decide all questions in regard to the upbringing of their children.

All Persian life is leisurely. There is no spirit of hurry or bustle. Things move along serenely, quietly. There is no sense of the passage of time. One forgets that clocks exist.

No business appointment could possibly be cut shorter than an hour. Tea must be served. There is a regular ceremony to be gone through. Sometimes the conference, over nothing in particular will last three or four or five or even seven or eight hours. And tea must be served each hour or thereabouts.

But the length of time that any appointment consumes is not really important, for there is plenty of time for everything. Persia does not know the word "hurry."

HOW THE HISTORIC PALL MALL WAS NAMED —

"O, give me the sweet shady side of Pall Mall!"

Pall Mall! The stately avenue of royalty. A name to conjure up visions of leisurely aristocrats and blue-blooded sportsmen. Who, of the many visitors to foreign shores, does not boast proudly of having walked its length and seen its sights!

Like the Champs Elysees in Paris or the Rue de la Paix, Pall Mall is famous the world over as a fashionable cosmopolitan thoroughfare. Although it was originally a modest street, shaded by lofty elms, it is now the home of fashionable dowagers, retired army officers and the older generation of British society. Clubs and residence hotels, imposing and quiet, side by side with artistic town houses, and the only traces of the elm trees of old, are vividly colored window boxes on an occasional balcony.

The name itself—Pall Mall—is derived from an Italian game called "paille-maille." Palla you will find means a "a ball" and maglia "a mallet." This name was later corrupted into the French pele-mele, and thus influences the English pronunciation of this day. Blount describes the sport as a game "where a round bowle is with a mallet struck through a high arch of iron (standing at either end of the alley), which he that can do it at the fewest blows, agreed on, wins."

By 1560 the game of "pele-mele" had become extremely popular. Charles II is said to have set aside the street of Pall Mall for the playing of the game, and thus more firmly established it as a fashionable recreation. Although the origin of the game is not known, it was favored by James I, for in his "Basilikon Doron," published in 1599, that monarch recommends "palle-malle" as a field game for the use of his eldest son, Prince Henry.

A century after Pall Mall became famous as the scene of the royal game, a tavern was erected at one end called "Wood's at the Pell-Mell." This was a haunt of that fascinating old diarist, Samuel Pepys, and is mentioned in his diary for its excellent food and merry company. When the inn was torn down the site was used as a dueling ground.

Nell Gwyn, another character whose name has been handed down to posterity, lived on the "east end, north side" of Pall Mall from 1671 until 1687, when she died. Her house on the south side was surrounded by a beautiful garden, and it was on a mount in this garden that she chatted and sang with Charles II, who stood "on ye green walk" under the wall.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

Lovely Moth Has a Pleasant Chat with Peggy.

"Oh, you beautiful butterfly!" Peggy exclaimed, as she spied the pretty creature hovering over the honeysuckle. "You better hurry under cover, or you will get wet. It's going to rain."

"So, I see," chuckled the creature gayly. "But please don't mistake me for a butterfly. I'm Miss Butterfly's cousin, "Miss Lovely Cynthia Moth. I am considered the most beautiful of the moth family."

"Moth!" exclaimed Peggy, with an air of disgust. "Do you mean to tell me you're a moth? One of those things that people all dread, because——"

"Because they eat folks' clothes," interrupted Miss Lovely Cynthia Moth. "Goodness, no, child! I'm not that kind of a moth. I'll bet you have never seen a moth like me before."

Peggy shook her head and laughed. "I don't believe I have," she replied. "But tell me, if you are not the kind that eats clothes, what does he look like?"

"Why, it's those wee, tiny little silver moths that fly right down near the carpets in our house," laughed Miss Lovely Cynthia Moth. "When you see a grayish greenish moth as large as I am, with lovely white crescents on her wings, such as I have on mine, you may know at once she is a Cynthia Moth. She wouldn't do any harm for the world."

"May I Have a Sip?"

"But you certainly do look like a butterfly," Peggy insted. "I can hardly see any difference."

"Well, in the first pace, you're not the only one who makes that mistake," chuckled Miss Cynthia Moth. "But if you had a butterfly at my side you would soon see that her body is slender, while mine is thick and a great deal heavier. Then, too, the feelers of Miss Butterfly are straight and smooth, while mine are curved and fringed. Look here. See this wee little hook with which I catch and fasten the lower wings to the upper wings? No butterfly can boast of that convenience."

"But I always thought moths only flew around at night," said Peggy. "Aren't you afraid to be out in the daytime?"

"Goodness, no!" laughed Miss Cynthia Moth. "I'm not afraid. Yet it is true that moths never fly around in the daytime unless it is cloudy weather. I stayed over on the other side of the meadow too late last night, and after the sun went under the clouds this morning I started home. I just happened to smell this honeysuckle and stopped for a bite. May I have a sip of honey?"

"Certainly you may," said Peggy softly. "And come again this evening. I'll be looking for you. I'd just love to know more about you. Stop and see me every time you pass, will you?"

Miss Lovely Cynthia Moth promised she would come again. Then, filling her pockets with pollen and honey, she sailed away, just as the raindrops began to fall.

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SATURDAY, JULY 4.

Contradictory positions of important planets dominant on this day are indicative of possible annoyance and bothers, with slight disappointments and postponements rather than active menaces. This applies to social and domestic as well as to business engagements. Irritability and strife should be avoided and all writings signed carefully. The financial prospect may be said to be fairly good.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of petty annoyances and bothers, with small disappointments and postponemnts, but no really menacing conditions. They should shun quarrels and sign papers carefully. The financial outlook is fairly good. A child born on this day may not be very amiable though it may be mentally bright and fairly successful in its ventures. There is a probability of its having some unusual or peculiar talent—possibly in music or art.

My European Excursions

By Edwin Robert Petre

WHERE THE FRENCH PLEASE MOST

The French, even in the small towns and villages, can do two things better than the rest of the world—cook and make clothes. If in some small town you have arranged for Jeanne to keep you fed she may bring in your toast from the kitchen on the end of a toasting fork and flick it on to your plate with the tip of her finger, but it's toast done to the second and unmatched anywhere else on earth. Veal is the piece de resistance. Jeanne's ideals are blanquettes de veau with tiny mushrooms, escallopes de veau and rognons de veau, with Madeira sauce. She may go down the street and buy, for 20 centimes, about a cent, a cupful of Madeira to make her sauce and you coldn't do that in Canada, but with a cupful of little button champignons for the blanquette, she will fill all your senses with a fragrance and joy that the highest paid chef could not improve. Anywhere in France the table is fit for a king.

A LINE-O-TYPE.

Lots of people pretend to despise science; scientists are lampooned and are looked upon as bespectacled gentlemen who have nothing in common with common folk. And yet this age is committed irrevocably to science. Physically we live by it. Peterborough would starve in a week, or probably burn up in a day, if deprived of magics which our forefathers would have persecuted as witchcraft. And most of us personally are now alive by virtue of medical science.

Science and Life.

Intellectually science guides us. The human mind has not improved appreciably for ages, but science makes its thinking a million-fold more effective.

Science is rationalizing commerce and finance, and is on the way to outlaw poverty and war.

Spiritually, it has stretched our vision across ten billion stars and into the secret of the atom. No mind that has glimpsed that vision could be much inspired by a conception of God any less infinite.

If there are reactionaries who think this progress an evil, no crusade of theirs can impose the limitations of the past on the knowledge of the present.

Their agitation might, at most, segregate those unfamiliar with that knowledge, to live in our time the mental life of a past age.

This is apropos a loud, flamboyant and utterly senseless declamation against science heard in the smoker of a local train. And the last paragraph places the men who were indulging in criticism of things they wot not of.

School results now appearing daily in The Examiner tell of the success of pupils in city schools—the first achievements of youth. They tell of success, mainly, because there are few who fail to cheer. [illegible] the tests and climb one step higher on the ladder of life. And whether it be on the lowest rung in public school or to the highest in collegiate or even if the proud graduate puts his feather on the topmost rung before launching out into the world, the same praise should be given by parents for triumphs won. A "well done" from Dad, and a "that's great work" from Mother, will go a long way in showing the boys and girls the joy in success—that feeling of animation that comes through the good opinion of others, honestly earned.

When you look up the result tonight or tomorrow night and see that son's or daughter earned promotion, pay the kind comment, and don't take it for granted.

WOMAN [illegible] BY TRUCK.

MONTREAL, July 3. — Canadian Press. — Stepping into the path of a motor truck driven by Arthur Bertrand, an unidentified woman was knocked down and fatally injured on Demontigny street Thursday. She died in the Notre Dame Hospital shortly afterwards.

NATURE LORE

By Wallace Havelock Robb

One little girl has asked Nature Lore what kind of birds to look for this summer when at camp. She is going up to Kawartha Lake.

It may be too late for the nesting when she gets there, for most of the birds will be all through that part of the bird business, but there are always some stragglers at nesting and I will try to tell you what to look for.

First, I must tell you about a young man who asked me last year about the same thing. I gave him a list of bird but told him to keep an eye on the wild canary, or Goldfinch, for they nest quite late, away in August, and this is what happened.

He saw kingfishers, loons, juncos, yellow warblers, black ducks, fish hawks catching fish and going off with them, and many more kinds of birds, but he always kept watch for the goldfinches and was rewarded.

He asked men for goldfinch information but got no news until one lady said she had a pair of thistle birds in her garden and that just happens to be another name for gold finch.

This man hid behind a blind he made from some spruce boughs and every day he moved it closer to the nest. Finally he was so close he could reach out and touch the nest. Each day he pushed his hand out farther through the blind and soon the mother bird was sitting on the eggs and this man's finger was gently touching her back.

It was not long before he was out of the blind altogether and had the young ones on his sleeve and the mother bird feeding them worms and insects and bugs every couple of minutes. The father bird was most annoyed all the time, and scolded continually.

When you grow tired of other sports, sit down by the roadside or in a garden, and patience will tell you unnumbered secrets.

MINERS ASSAULTED.

First Trouble Reported From Edmonton Field.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 3. — (Canadian Press).—The first word of any trouble with strikers in mines in the Edmonton field comes from the Ottwell Mine at Cloverbear Thursday morning, the mine manager of the place reporting to the Provincial Police that his men had been assaulted by pickets, on proceeding to work.

The men who have been assaulted have been asked to lay information, when prompt action will be taken against the offenders.

RICHARD HALL & SON

A HAPPY JUNE DAY OF 50 YEARS AGO RECALLED BY R. M. ELMHIRST AND HIS WIFE ON ANNIVERSARY

Nearly 250 Guests at Celebration of Elmhirst Nuptials of Long Ago.

MARRIED IN 1875

Husband for Years Trusted Municipal and Church Servant—Purse From Church.

HASTINGS, July 2 — On Tuesday, June 30th, about two hundred and fifty guests, some relatives, some old and some new friends, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Elmhirst to celebrate with them the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding.

In Norwood on June 30th, 1875, Miss Eleanor Leeper, daughter of Mr. Robert Leeper was united in marriage to Mr. M. R. Elmhirst The ceremony was performed in the Anglican Church by the rector, Rev. Farar.

The young couple settled on the old homestead where they still reside.

In 1843 Mr. Elmhirst's father and mother settled on the farm it then being almost a wilderness, only a few scattered settlers inhabiting that part of the country. Mr. Elmhirst is one of a family of fourteen of whom six boys and three girls are now living.

For thirty-eight years Mr. Elmhirst had a trusted position as assessor or the municipality of Asphodel. For thirty-seven years he has been and still is warden of St. Michael's Anglican Church of Westwood of which he has been a constant attendant for fifty-five years. Both Mr. and Mrs. Elmhirst are in fairly good health for their years.

They were blessed with five children, four sons, John Lewis, who resides on the farm of one hundred and seventy-five acres, Toyne of Wellington, N.Y., Albert and Robert of Harris, Saskatchewan, and one daughter who passed away in 1903. Eight grandchildren are still living.

The first house erected in 1843 on the homstead was of logs, part of which still remains and in 1855 a stone house was built.

A most delightful time was spent on Wednesday, the day when so many gathered together to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary In the afternoon old friends chatted together of olden times, some indulged in playing quoits.

Supper a Feature

At five o'clock a call for supper was given and two long tables which were placed on the lawn beside the house were filled with guests for the first time, four seatings being necessary to serve everyone.

In the centre of the one table was placed a large three storey wedding cake which in time was cut by the bride of fifty years ago. The color scheme was gold throughout; gold candlesticks and candles placed in prominent positions on the tables, cut flowers of white carnations and and canterbury bells thi at mbmbm and canterbury bells were tastefully arranged in vases and many good things graced the tables to satisfy the inner man.

The color scheme in the house was also white and gold. At the front entrance suspended from the ceiling in very artistic style was a large white bell and at the side of which were the dates 1875-1925 in gold.

Gift From Congregation

On Sunday afternoon after the usual order of evening service was followedl in St. Michael's Anglican Church, Westwood. Mr. and Mrs. Elmhirst were made recipients of a purse of gold which was presented by the congregation.

The presentation was made by Mr. W. Butchart, Mr. O'Connor-Fenton, rector of the Norwood and Westwood Churches made a short address.

An illuminated address, the work of which is being done by Rev. E. W. Pickford, who was a former rector of the Westwood Church, is being given to Mr. and Mrs. Elmhirst on its arrival.

Congratulations were extended Mr. and Mrs. Elmhirst on both occasions in many ways. Some beautiful gifts were received and several coins of gold.

Many Guests Present

Those of the guests present were: Mr and Mrs. R E Birdsall, Birdsalls; Rev and Mrs Harwood, Cambourne Mr and Mrs Everate Birdsall, Birdsalls; Mr and Mrs Jas Moore, Hastings; Mr and Mrs W Dickson; Mr John Coughlan,, Mr and Mrs P M Howard and John Hastings; Mrs. John Sargeant Westwood; Mr and Mrs John Lobb, Westwood; Mr and Mrs Adam Humphries, Norwood; Mr and Mrs Alex Wilson and Mr and Mrs W. In the evening Mrs. Everett Birdsall rendered a solo and some happy hours were spent by those present in singing and music.

VITAL STATISTICS.

There were 27 births in Peterboro during the month of June, 21 marriages and 22 deaths. Figures in all three departments show a decrease from those of the corresponding month last year, which showed 47 births, 22 marriages and 33 deaths.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burto

"Did you ever hear of Ulysses X. Forgan?" Gloria asked, turning her soft eyes to Dick.

He nodded. "Of course . . . . Everybody in town knows Forgan. Rich old duck," he answered. "Why do you ask?"

"Because I was his stenographer all last week," Gloria explained simply. "Did you really think I was drawing the long bow when I said I was going back to work?"

Dick said nothing.

"I quit my job yesterday, however," Gloria added. She waited for Dick to ask her why she had given up her position. She wanted to tell him how Ulysses X. had come to court her . . . so that he'd know she was attractive to other men even if her own husbnd. no longer cared to live with her!

But he remained silent, staring straight ahead of him at a bed of dusty, tired-looking flowers.

Gloria wanted to lean over and stroke his hand. But on second thought, she decided against it. He looked so stern.

"Poor Dick!" she said suddenly. "We've made a fine hash of things, haven't we?"

At that he turned and spoke. "We?" he asked.

"I . . . I've made a wreck of your life," Gloria corrected herself. "You might have had a nice wife to love you, and children. . . ."

Dick gave a short laugh, and lapsed into silence again.

"What you really should have done," Gloria went on thoughtfully, "was to marry Susan Briggs. She's an awfully nice, good woman even if she is terribly homely. And she would have made you contented to her dying day . . . or yours. Wouldn't she?"

Dick concealed a smile. "Susan's not so terribly homely," he said. "I think she's rather above the average in looks. You and she'd make an man a good wife."

That maddened Gloria. "How do you know she would?" she asked crossly. "Just because she knows how to handle a typewriter doesn't prove that she could run a house . . . or a husband, either! I'll bet she can't make coffee either! I'll bet she can't make coffee like mine!"

She looked at him, daring him to defend Susan Briggs.

"I can make wonderful coffee. My mother's giving me cooking lessons," she added.

"What's the big idea? . . . Are you getting ready for your second marriage?" Dick asked, sarcastically.

Gloria slowly shook her head. "There won't be any second marriage for me, Dick," she said. "This is my only venture. Do you know, it's almost two weeks since we separated?"

She saw his brows draw down in a scowl. "Its longer than that," he said. "It's almost two months since you ran away from home to follow Stanley Wayburn down to New York!"

Gloria bit her lip. "Oh, won't you ever forget that?" she asked impatiently. "That was just a kid trick. . . . I wasn't half so wild about Stanley Wayburn as I was about New York. And I wanted to get even with you for going away on that trip and leaving me behind."

"If I could believe that . . ." Dick began.

Gloria waited breathlessly, but he said nothing more. Presently he took a book from the pocket of his coat and opened it. He began to read.

Gloria rose and held out her hand. "I must go," she said. "It's getting late. . . ."

Then she sat down again. "I really ought to go," she murmured. But she knew that so long as Dick was there she could not leave. Invisible chains held her to that bench. . . . It was good just to be near him again.

"I showed a couple of people our house last week," Dick remarked presently, without raising his eyes from his book. "I hope they'll buy the furniture, too."

Gloria set her teeth. "It's too bad you can't get rid of the house as easily as you got rid of me, isn't it?" she asked, watching his face. But it was as blank as that of a good poker player or a Hindu.

"I hate the thought of other people living in our house with our things," Gloria went on, after a few minutes. "I don't want anybody to take naps on my chaise longue, or sit in your armchair. . . . I don't want any man but you to use that little red smoking stand of yours. . . ."

Her voice broke. She fought hard to keep back the tears that welled up into her eyes.

"You broke into the house the other day, didn't you?" Dick asked suddenly.

Gloria nodded.

"Why?"

She shook her head. She knew that if she tried to talk, she would burst into tears.

It was almost sunset, and picnickers who had come to the park for supper walked past them with baskets on their arms. Somehow or other the women were better looking than the men. Perhaps it was their ready-made smartness. . . .

But anyway, beside Dick, the men looked flabby and weedy to Gloria . . . or else too fat and solid. . . . Why, she wondered, had she never seen how much better he was to look at, than any other man alive

"Not that he's so handsome," she remarked to herself, "but he's so . . . himself!" She loved him for the simple fact that he was Dick. For his face, because it couldn't by any possibility be anybody else's . . . and for his mind that was so utterly sound and decent.

"It took me a long time to find it out," Gloria went on thinking, "but I know it at last, now, when it would be better if I didn't!"

Wasn't that just like Life, though? It was full of such tricks. . . . Giving you what you wanted just a little too late? Like a Valentine coming the morning after Valentine day . . . and in a plain envelope!

Gloria rose. "Well, this time I'm really going," she said, unsteadily.

Dick rose with her, and they walked slowly out of the park together . . . close together as lover's walk, and yet worlds apart!

The following day, Goria started out to go job-hunting again. A slip of paper with two or three "want ads" on it, was folded away in her purse, along with three $10 bills . . . her last week's salary.

She walked along George street, looking in the shop windows. The hats, as always, lured her. So did the crisp summer dresses, with their sashes and lace.

In the window of a department store was a display of lustre bowls . . . lovely orange and sea-blue ones. "The very thing for the mantel in the living room!" Gloria exclaimed, looking at one that glowed like the sunrise.

Then, with a jerk, her brain told her that the living room did no longer belonged to her. Dick was going to sell it and everything in it to the couple who were looking at the house . . . that is, if he could.

Gloria walked on, down the street.

She didn't feel at all like going up into one of the great office buildings to ask for a position. She felt like "Mrs. Richard Gregory" that morning . . . and she couldn't step into the role of "Gloria Gordon," looking for a place to work.

She didn't want to work in an office. She wanted to go back to her own house. She told herself truthfully that she had felt "like a fish out of water" every minute since she had packed up her trunks and left Dick.

At the corner of George and Hunter streets, she met little, blond Mrs. Wing.

To Gloria's amazement she came up to her and seized both hands. "Hello, Glory Gregory!" she cried. "It's so nice to see you again! . . . Where have you been keeping yourself, for goodness sake? . . . Just the other day the girls were asking what had become of you?"

Gloria stared at her in astonishment.

She remembered pafectly the night when she had tried to speak to Mrs. Wing, and Mrs. Wing turned away her little blond head.

But why hold that against her? . . . It was nice to have friends, and it warmed Gloria's heart to have Mrs. Wing welcome her this way. People were queer, inexplicable things, but they were also necessary to each other.

• • •

So Gloria smiled back. "I've been down in New York the last few weeks," she said grandly.

"Did you hear about May Seymour's husband?" Mrs. Wing asked. "Terrible thing, wasn't it?"

"Dreadful," Gloria agreed, "And poor May's left town. Did you know that?"

Mrs. Wing nodded. "The best thing she could do under the circumstances," she said wisely. "I never could see what you saw in May Seymour. She was so rattle-brained and—well, call it unconventional. That's the kindest word for her."

She pressed Gloria's hand when she left her. "Now, do come to see me," she said warmly, "Won't you?"

"It's a cinch she doesn't know I've left Dick, or she wouldn't be so cordial," Gloria told herself.

"Little hypocrite!" she added to herself. She stood there in the shunsine, thinking.

"What a fool I am!" she said inwardly, after a minute or two. "Just because Dick doesn't want to live with me is no reason why I should give up my home, and go back to a job that I hate! I guess I'd rather be a housekeeping woman like Mrs. Wing or Mother than the best stenographer on earth!"

Five minutes later she was in Dick's office. She knew that it was the time when he went out to lunch.

Miss Briggs, very white in her dark blue dress, sat at her desk.

"How do you do," Gloria greeted her coldly. "I came up here to get the key of my house. I gave it to Mr. Gregory a few days ago. Do you know where he keeps it?"

Without a word Susan Briggs got up and went into Dick's office. Gloria could hear her opening and shutting drawers, and rustling papers as she searched through Dick's desk.

Presently she came out with a dozen keys in the palm of her outstretched hand.

"Is any of these the key you want?" she asked as she threw them on the table.

Gloria picked them up. Her own key was among them. She put it into her purse.

"I don't know whether I ought to give you that key or not," Miss Briggs said. "Mr. Gregory didn't say I could."

Gloria glared at her. "It's none of Mr. Gregory's affair, Miss Briggs," she said. "The key belongs to me!"

NOVEL DOTTED DESIGNS MARK THE N EW MODE.

A Coin Sprinkled Era in Frocks Is Evident.

The Model on the Left Uses Bright Green Dots on a White Ground, While the Other Employs Soft Red and Yellow Dots on Cream.

The rage for dots has spread and spread. Last season there were only a few frocks of polka dotted design. Those who possess a clever fashion sense predicted then that dots would be in the limelight for this new season —and, lo, the coin dotted frock has definitely arrived.

We see the dots in all sizes. Some of them are plain polka dots, and a favored treatment is the bordered dress, with dots which are small toward the top of the garment and which gradually enlarge in size until they are quite big at the hemline. This is a very smart treatment for the tunic dress.

The model at the left uses bright green dots on a white ground, with most attractive results. Green circles enclose the green dots, and the upper part of the dress is plain white with dotted trimming. This is an ideal frock for dress occasions on Summer afternoons.

The dress to the right of this is a straight little affair for house or sports wear. The cream ground is dotted in soft red and yellow, and the trimming bands are plain soft red.

Not alone in the attractive dresses are the dotted designs utilized, but one can find all the accessories to match most any dotted dress. Parasols, scarfs, sport hats draped with the dotted material all add to the general effect. One can even find stockings with a polka dotted effect on the ankles or in designs on the sides.

The dots aren't particular what color they are, sometimes there may be dots of four or five different gay colors used to brighten a sombre background.

HOME TOWN RECIPE

One of our lady subscribers has requested a recipe for salad dressing. This is described by Mrs. C. Bacon, 256 Westcott street, as being excellent, if properly made:

1 cup vinegar.
1 cup milk.
¾ cup white sugar.
2 eggs.
2 tablespoons flour.
Slice of butter and pinch of pepper and salt.
2 tablespoons mustard.

The dresing must be made in a double boiler and stirred while cooking. If too thick, add milk or cream.

HEDDA HOYT TALKS ABOUT THINGS THAT INTEREST THE BUSY WOMAN OF 1925

Street Wear

NEW YORK, July 3. (United Press)—Owing to the present vogue for pastels, more light colored frocks are worn on the street than have been worn in years. Almost everyone is dressed in light colors or gay prints and the dark silk street frock has lot its foothold with the Fashionables.

Among the colorful frocks which attract attention are the pale greens, rose-beiges, Madonna blues and corals. A green crepe matlor frock of slender lines with circular flaring hemline is trimmed about the body portion with leaves of yellow silk appliqued with silver thread. The border flares is of plain green and a wide sash of green extends from one hip. Sleeves of this frock are short and yellowish wrist-length gloves and yellow felt hat carry out the color scheme.

A straight-line frock of green crepe de chene was accompanied by a scarf of matching green figured in blue and yellow. The frock was sleeveless and the scarf was carried over one arm. Several duplications of the plain-dress and matching scarf [illegible] and one surmises that these frocks are made of bordered material with the border used for the scarf.

Cape Ensemble

A lovely cape ensemble combines a frock of gray georgette with a hip-length cape of gray georgette printed in border design in pansy purple. Here again, one believes that the wearer, purchased a frock of gray georgette which she matched by [illegible]

Many women are fashioning long tunic blouses into street frocks by adding deep hems of solid color. Usually the tunic is of printed silk.

Ensembles of chiffon in shades such as powder blue, nile green, gray or beige are numerous. The effect is of solid color. Frocks have flaring hemlines and jacquettes are of three-quarter length with attached scarf which are worn draped about the [illegible]

Gaining a Graceful Back

By Lucrezia Bori

Women who dread old age are, more often than not, women who sit still and let old age come upon them without doing anything to store up resources for the time of life that can be so charming if one but wills it.

Of course, the woman who dreads it and sits still watching it approach with unvarying steadiness, is the woman with whom old age goes hardest when it does arrive.

If those of you who are wise will take my advice now, you will find yourself dreading old age less and less. It matters not whether you are still young or whether you are well advanced in life. The thing to do is to keep your mind interested in books and people and the things about you, and it will not grow stale with lassitude and lack of usage.

Now the second very important thing is exercise. The figure which is growing heavy and soft and cumbersome through neglect of exercise is the figure which is going to be prematurely old.

There are certain current faults of the aging figure which can be corrected with a little timely precaution. I am going to give you here an exercise to correct a fault which is often found among women who are growing a bit fat, due to lack of proper exercise.

The fault I refer to is an excess amount of fat across the back between the shoulders. In the days of high corsets this fault used to be more pronounced than it is at the present time, because the corsets pushed the soft flesh up into this prominent position. Even with the low cut girdles and corsets of the present day there are many women who have humps of fat on their backs which make them appear at a great disadvantage, to say the least.

Here is the exercise I recommend to banish fat from your back:

Stand erect, push back your arms, so that your forearms are on a level with your waist and your elbows are pushed as far back as possible.

Now thrust between your back and shoulders a stout cane or a broomstick.

Next manipulate the cane up and down by means of your elbows, so that the cane is rolled over your flesh. This not only strengthens your muscles, but the rolling motion also tends to wear down the excess flesh. It does this by breaking the fat cells.

You may also try holding the cane in a diagonal position and rolling it over the flesh of your back.

This method of breaking the fats cells will be found to be the greatest possible help in reducing various parts of your body.

There are on the market to-day various rolling-pin devices which are most effective in removing excess flesh. The cane or broomstick works the same result and is invaluable in reducing the flesh in particular spots.

Manipulate the Cane Up and Down.

PLENTY LEFT YET.

Let's Talk It Over

A Broken-Hearted Pal asks our advice. Her sweetie "doesn't want to go with her any more because people and relatives have been saying things that are untrue!"

If I had a sweetie whose feelings were so tender and whose spinal column was so weak I'd send him a stuffed dove and a wreath of everlasting and let him rest in peace.

Break your heart over him? I would break a nicked dinner plate over his head, little Pal. The boy who can't take a little guff for his girl's sake, won't be able to take much from life later. Forget him. Make your own place in life through your own efforts, and let your "friends and relatives" do the same if they can.

Please give me some advice in my woe—a woe that is brought about by love. I have been going with a dear pal, as I call him, and last year when I returned from school we corresponded for a few months until friends and relatives began to talk about us, saying things that weren't true. Then we decided to quit and see if things would quiet down. Folks thought we had a quarrel and kept still, though remarks were made that I didn't know how to appreciate a "good kid." Some were jealous of me and tried to win him away, but had no success.

Eight months went by, and then I met him one day while at school and we started to correspond again. Woe unto me! The talking started again; this time worse than before. The other night, in my old home town, which is his, too, he wrote me, telling me we would have to stop altogether, as things were getting worse. We were always the best of friends and he said he would remain so, but couldn't be like we used to be. He used to be very kind and take me to dances and athletic games, loved by us both.

Now, what shall I do? My heart is nearly broken. I don't want to give him up altogether. He said we could only be friends. Does he mean that I can't go with him any more and only speak to him when we meet? Please tell me what to do. I am old enough to know what I am doing, as I am out of my teens and have had my hard times on account of parental affairs and financial difficulties. The future is beyond me. Won't you tell me what to do? —Broken-Hearted Pal.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Is it proper for a lady to take a man's arm when going out of a crowded building?

IN DOUBT.

IN DOUBT: In going out of a crowded building or in crossing a busy street it is quite proper for the lady to take the gentleman's arm. The gentleman may also offer his arm to assist a lady when it is raining and the streets are slippery. Otherwise it is considered provincial.

CUSTOMS RETURNS.

The customs returns show a revenue for the month of June of $64,125.75 from all sources. This represents an increase from the total of $59,893.23 received during May, and falls slightly below the figures for June of last year.

IN THE KITCHEN

By Jeanette Norton

ECONOMICAL WAYS TO SERVE TASTY LUNCHEONS

The daily luncheon is considered the economical meal of the day in most families. It is the meal wherein the left-overs figure.

Hash in Ramekins.

Take all the small pieces of left-over meat and chop it all very fine. To a cupful and a half add three-quarters of a cupful of dry crumbs, a grated onion, a teaspoonful of chopped celery leaves, pepper, salt, a teaspoonful of sugar, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, a tablespoonful of soft butter, a beaten egg and two table poonfuls of catsup thinned with a tablespoonful of water. Fill buttered ramekins with the mixture and bake until a delicate brown on top. Serve hot.

Strawberries and Rice.

If there are strawberries left that will not keep very well, place them in a saucepan with a half cupful of sugar to a cupful of berries, and melt them down. Then stew them a few minutes. Meantime boil a little rice, a scant cupful, and when the rice is done heap it on a hot dish, make a hole in the center and turn in the berries. Put a little whipped cream on top and you will have a delicious emergency dessert.

GIRL GUIDES PERMANENT.

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 3. — (Canadian Press.)—The Girl Guide movement has undoubtedly come to stay, and is now given recognition the world over. Proof of this fact is evident in the request from the international committee for child welfare meeting in Geneva, asking that the Guides be represented on this committee. Dame Katherine Furse, and Mrs. Mark Kerr, are representatives. This fact was stressed by Miss Francis Mara of Victoria, deputy provincial commissioner of Girl Guides, in an interview. Miss Mara has just returned from England where special work is the post guide effort, which includes guides who are ill at home or in hospital. The blind and deaf are also enrolled. Mentioning the standing of Canadians in England, Miss Mara declared they had a very good [illegible] Owls in the whole world there are two in Canada, the other eight being in England. About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

DID MRS. FRANKNESS OVERSTEP BOUNDS

Disagreeable Dora had the surprise of her life the other day—it was an awful shock to her, but the rest of us are delighted.

No, there isn't anything really very bad about Disagreeable Dora; she wouldn't break up your home or spill ink on your best party frock or tell fibs about you to your dearest foe.

And if you are in trouble, really serious trouble, nobody can be kinder than Disagreeable Dora.

She will lend you money: she'll endorse a check for you; she'll sit up at night and give you medicine—but when you are well and happy and have all the new clothes you want and are not lonesome or blue or anything—Disagreeable Dora can't bear it.

She simply can't.

So she comes to see you all smiles and pretty greetings, but before she has left she has made you feel that your new frock is a failure and your new hat is a joke, and the sport shoes you thought such darlings are really crimes.

As Comforting as Measles.

She tells you about the party where you were not invited, and she wonders, oh, so sweetly, why you weren't asked—everybody else was, and everybody was wondering about it too, Dora says.

She noticed your best young man at the party and, dear me, isn't he devoted to little Totty Coughdrop, the little singer. Nobody can see, nobody can think what he sees in her, but men are always such fools about blondes. And is it true that your sister's engagement is broken? Did the man drink, or what? Or maybe he just changed his mind—men are so fickle, don't you think? She asks after your best friend, and she doesn't say a word against her. Not a word, but somehow you get the impression that Dora is sorry for you for trusting your friend so completely.

Altogether, when Dora is gone you feel as if you were old and poor and sick and lonesome and forgotten and forlorn.

And you can't put your finger on a single definite thing she said either. And the other day—well, it was yesterday, to be accurate about it—Dora went to see pretty little Mrs. Frankness.

And Mrs. Frankness sent word down that she was not at home, and Dora saw her sitting at the window upstairs, and later in the day Dora met little Mrs. Frankness at a tea and she said something about her call, and Mrs. Frankness smiled, and finally something more was said, and Mrs. Frankness calmly set down her tea cup and remarked: "Dora, I wonder if you would really like to know why I didn't see you today?" Then she went on and told her.

I Haven't Any Extra Tears.

"Dora," said Mrs. Frankness, "I am having a bit of trouble just now, something that worries me a good deal, and I am learning to take things comfortably. I have to, or I can't get through—and so I never see anybody who is disagreeable if I can help it. Dora, you are so cleverly disagreeable, after you have gone I always cry—and I haven't any extra tears to shed just now, so I made up my mind to deny myself the pleasure of your company—anyhow until I feel better."

And Dora was furious; Dora was outraged; Dora was amazed, but when she told her friends about it, nobody seemed even furious or the least outraged.

I wish somebody would send Mrs. Frankness a vote of thanks—she certainly ceserves it.

I wonder what Dora would think if she knew how we all feel about it—what do you think?

NO PARLEY TILL GOVERNMENT OF CHINA IS STRONG

British Government Agrees With Principle That Conference Should Be Called.

RESTORE ORDER.

Such a Conference Not Likely to be Held Until Autumn, Says Chamberlain.

LONDON, July 3.— (Special by United Press.)— While the British Government may be said to be in agreement with the principle that early conferences should convene to discuss the whole situation of the extra territorial rights of China, it is equally clear to-day that the Government is opposed to any immediate summoning of such a parley—that is until some responsible central Chinese government is able to prepare to negotiate with the Powers and until anti-foreign agitation shall cease.

The reported move by the United States' government to hasten the calling of such a conference is well received.

Austin Chamberlain, however, while voicing his faith in the means of reaching a settlement in China, made it plain that such a parley is not likely to be held until the autumn. It is evident to-day in political quarters that there are serious doubts about the advisability of calling a conference of the powers at the present juncture. There is a general approval at least by the Conservatives of the Government of the insistence on the return to order in China before any such negotiations can be undertaken.

The diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says:

"It is hoped that Chamberlain's standpoint, as it is now formulated, will be upheld against any suggestions from the Power which have less at stake than the British Empire, for untimely concessions to Peking so long as the present disorders are allowed to continue unchecked by the Chinese authorities."

SUBURBAN AREA COMMISSON CONVERTS TRAILS TO ROADS AND MAKE TRAFFIC EASIER

Splendid Work Being Done by Three Men and Superintendent McFarlane.

ADMINISTER 35 MILES.

Build Bridges, Widen Road and Eliminate Dangerous Curves and Grades.

"The best laid out construction and the best roads in the Province."

That is the verdict of John McVicar, government engineer, on the work of the Suburban Area Commission of Peterborough, and coming from an expert it must be accepted as the final word of commendation. But it is a question whether the Peterborough autoist needs this corroboration of what must be to him self-evident fact. There is no question about the improvement in the roads administered by the Suburban Area Commission, nor about the worth of the work now being done. And their is no difficulty in telling when the car slides off the sections that have received attention to the bumps of the until yet unreached portions.

The Commission yesterday made a tour of inspection of the work under way on three roads, giving a word of commendation here, a suggestion there and planning everywhere for greater improvement. The members are for the City, Harry Gainey, Chairman; for the County, William Brown of Smith township; and appointed by the Government, Tom Brown, Lock street. It is the duty of these members to ascertain the work needed, lay out the plans for carrying it on, apportion the expenditure to the best advantage, and generally carry out the improvement and maintenance of the thirty-five miles of roadway for which the Suburban Area Commission is responsible. In this the Commission is ably aided by Duncan McFarlane, road superintendent, and expert in his business.

Some Of Work.

Yesterday the Commission saw the work going on at Skibbereen bridge on the Keene road, at Corkery's bridge on the Norwood road, and at the bad twists a few miles out on the Lakefield road. The Keene road, formerly little more than a trail, is being widened to at least twenty-eight feet, corners are being taken off and fences pushed back. The Norwood road too is having the kinks straightened by judicious widening and changing, and at every point where needed substantial bridges are being built.

The Commission has three gangs working on the Keene, Norwood and Lakefield roads. Its territory extends seven miles to Zion on the Keene road; ten miles to Shears Cheese Factory on the Norwood road; nine miles to Phelan's corners on the Lakefield road, and nine miles to the floating bridge at Chemong. It works on roads classified as county roads only, ignoring the township and provincial roads.

The cost is apportioned 40 per cent to the province, 30 per cent to the county and 30 per cent to the city. It is proposed under new regulations to have 50 per cent payable by province, and 25 per cent each by city and county. A total of $25,000 will be expended by the Suburban Area Commission this year, divided as above, which means that for the maintenance, care and improvement of the main roads radiating from the city, the City Council will be called upon to pay $7,500 During the past five years, according to figures given by Ed. Elliott, who adds the secretaryship of the Commission to his already multitudinous duties as County Clerk, the county has contributed $5,473 more than the city for this work, and has in addition allowed free use of its road building machinery and lumber. This has been done with the desire to improve the roads.

The commissioners were well satisfied with their inspection yesterday, which showed all work proceeding according to schedule. Many difficulties arise in the course of the business, necessitating constant attention to straighten them out, but the members of the Commission are doing good business with a hearty interest that compels admiration and approval from citizens of city and county alike.

A.Y.P.A. PICNIC.

Members of St. George's Enjoy Picnic Down River on Ship Tootsie.

On the evening of June 29 the members of St. George's A.Y.P.A. enjoyed a pleasant trip down the river due to the hospitality of Mr. Allen, who presented his boat Tootsie for the occasion.

Baseball and other games composed an informal programme, while dancing was enjoyed by many, after which a sing-song with the members seated around the camp fire composed a prominent part of the entertainment.

The trip up the river was the closing incident of a merry picnic.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

MANY CHANGES ON RAILWAYS

W. S. Dodd Began Work When Wood Burners Hauled Fifteen Cars.

AT MANY STATIONS.

A long association, dating back to 1885, with the C.P.R., came to an end Tuesday last, when W. S. Dodd, for 22 years in charge of the freight sheds here, bade good bye to what he says is the finest office staff and the most loyal bunch workers in the city of Peterboro.

Mr. Dodd, who was born in New Jersey, was an operator for a short time on a railway in that state, but hard times in 1877 induced him to cross the line and on May 3rd of that year he began work as a brakeman on the old Northern Railway of Canada. The engines then were without exception wood burners, with huge wide smoke stacks; all brakes were operated by hand, and the passenger trains were made up of the quaint, tiny yellow painted coaches now seen only in last century pictures or in museums.

At the beginning of Mr. Dodd's railway career, 15 cars, each of 12 tons capacity, constituted a train load. When he entered the service of the C.P.R. the normal load had increased to 800 tons. Now, he says, the average freight engine pulls behind it 2000 tons of goods loaded into the wagons.

On the Northern Railway, the average brakeman's wage was $1.15 per day. Meals on the line were about 15c, with no charge for a bed.

Mr. Dodd's duties were on a freight train plying between Toronto and Gravenhurst or Collingwood, carrying square timber, which he and his partner loaded out of the water, their own locomotive furnishing the necessary lifting power.

Noble Visitors.

When the Duke of Cumberland visited Canada in 1878, he was taken over the Northern Railway. Mr. Dodd acted as brakeman, and a baggageman was [illegible] service as conductor of the train carrying the royal guest.

During his term of service on the Northern Mr. Dodd acted at various times as operator, station agent, and even baggageman. He was the first station agent at Parkdale, now a station on the C. N. R.. He was next transferred to King, 25 miles north of Toronto. Two years later, he went to Hagersville, a junction point of the Canada Northern and Michigan Central Railways. Eighteen months afterwards he was sent to Allandale, his last post on the Northern. In 1885 he entered the employment of the C. P. R. acting as agent at Port Moody, 34 miles from Vancouver, and then the western terminal of the C.P.R..

When the line was carried through to the Coast, Port Moody station was closed and Mr. Dodd was removed to Vancouver. As a result of chronic ill-health following an attack of typhoid fever, he was obliged to come east and after a period of rest and recuperation he took up his duties as agent at Merrivale, 27 miles north west of Toronto. From Merrivale he proceeded to Pontypool. After four years he was removed to Havelock, from which after seven and a half years service he came to Peterboro, and began his 22 years and six months of service here.

Vast Changes.

Mr. Dodd has seen vast changes during his labors here, He has seen the C.P.R. grow from near bankruptcy to a world wide organization, with interests in every quarter of the globe. He has vivid memories of all the big figures of the C. P. R. in the early days—Lord Strathcona, Sir William VanHorne and Lord Shaughnessey. To Sir William VanHorne's determination and foresight, says Mr. Dodd, the C.P.R. owes its pre-eminent position to-day.

Throughout his year of service Mr. Dodd never lost a day's salary, not except[illegible] when he was frequently laid aside by sickness.

Mr. Dodd was on one occasion the intermediary between the company and the operators during a strike at Havelock, which was eventually settled largely through his tactful handling of a difficult situation. Though he was the company's representative he retained the goodwill of the strikers during all the negotiations.

A former member of the Queen's Own, which he joined in 1877, Mr. Dodd kept open the positions of such members of his staff as enlisted during the great war.

On June 30, Mr. Dodd was pensioned off by the C.P.R. at his own request and on the evening of that day he was made the recipient of an easy chair presented by the staff of the freight sheds, and many expressions of good will accompanied him into hi retirement.

Mr. Dodd expressed himself as feeling very keenly the severing of connection with the company he had served so long and with the men whom he has been associated with for so many years.

Practically the entire staff of the freight department in Peterboro began work as boys under Mr. Dodd.

At the close of his long service Mr. Dodd is still convinced of the romance and fascination of the railway, and says he thinks he will often find his way back again to the freight sheds and live over again some of the experiences of his former days

CHOIR PICNIC.

George Street Songsters Went to Cobourg on the Holiday.

Wednesday the George Street Church choir held their annual picnic at Cobourg where a most en[illegible] time was [illegible]

The choir and friends motored to their destination in the morning, under ideal weather conditions.

Dinner was served in the British Hotel. After dinner baseball and races were held and two presentations were made to members of the choir who are leaving the city.

Miss Ethel Rowe was presented with a beautiful leather writing case by Miss Elma Coon while the address was read by Miss Eva Fucee.

Mr. Jock Renwick was the recipient of a handsome suit case, presented by Mr. Arnold V. Lillow while Miss McKey read the address.

Supper was served on the beach after which a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Miss McKey as convenor of the social committee for the splendid supper which was served by the choir members.

Another hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the president, Mr. W. H. Cunningham, for his untiring efforts to make this picnic the success it was.

The party then sang the National Anthem and returned.

SCHOOL CHILDREN'S PROBLEMS THROUGH SUMMER MONTHS IS HOW TO SPEND VACATION

Peterborough Children Have Many Duties and a Diversity of Amusements.

WATCH WORKMEN.

Provision Should Be Made For Hour When They Can't Think What To Do.

(By W. D.)

Now that some 4000 school children have been freed of carking routine work which has held their attention for the major portion of the day what outlet do they find for the super abundance of life which they have bottled up during their ardent pursuit of knowledge?

With this question in mind an Examiner reporter wandered around the city and found a partial answer. He saw number of youths rushing apparently homewards with some article which mother doubtless needed for the noonday meal; others, who had bigger orders were rolling along in coaster wagons which they piloted with considerable skill.

As most mothers have a peculiar ability for thinking up errands it is no doubt that many small boys have a busy time and may possibly long for a return of school days long before they arrive; for what could be more irksome to the small child than to be called away from some gorgeous fun to run an apparently useless errand?

However, as most of those seen today appeared quite happy it is possible that the importunings of the female parents have not yet fallen heavily upon busy shoulders.

Many were seen wandering aimlessly along the street looking as if they were trying desperately to remember something.

Ball Attractions

On corner lot haphazard games of ball were in progress where due possibly to the warmth no particular care was evidenced regarding the excellence of play.

Some faces looked bored as if nothing could happen which would upset the equilibrium while others were on fire with life every incident marked by a change in the features.

A concrete mixer attracted much attention and as the men operated it children came, watched awhile and then turned away surfeited, one other factor of interest drained of its resources.

A welder cutting through an I-beam, with his scorching flame, drew a crowd about him as he goggled and be-dewed with sweat he played the small blue flame along the chalk line.

The children waited patiently until the welder knocked the piece off with a sledge hammer, and then the little crowd melted away in search of new things.

A number of fortunates were observed cycling gaily along with bathing suits wrapped about the handle bars. No need to query here if holidays were valued.

The well known sport of hoop-rolling was frequently in evidence and it occurred to the reporter that here again was variety—one hoop consisted of a huge cord tire, through which the ardent roller might have walked erect, and another boy was steering a diminutive [illegible] by means of a stick with [illegible].

[illegible] their Dolls.

[illegible] seen, very important [illegible] front steps, scandalizing [illegible] Dolly's wardrobes in the public street, and [illegible] thought of immodesty. [illegible] deadly serious about it. [illegible] was heard to say, "Mary, you've worn this dress just one day and look how dirty it is——"

Other little girls were washing and drying a miniature set of dishes. It was work not play with them; they were in earnest about it.

Some, both boys and girls of a studious bent, were reading books in a variety of attitudes, which might have caused the envy of a contortionist. Never still, moving from one position to another they read on, engrossed in tales of the war, red-skin battles and animal stories.

Ingenuity Taxed.

Small wonder that as the days fly past juvenile ingenuity is taxed to the utmost and the question is bound to come up "What will I do now?" It is then that Johnnie pulls Mary's hair or grabs her book, and it is then that raids are made on the family larder and mother's patience is tried to the breaking point, and father is told a tale of woe at night, which so often results in woodshed sessions

Possibly if slightly different methods were used in these dead line periods his family affairs would move along with greater accord. If Daddy, for instance, were to take an evening off, and join Johnnie in a plunge, or go to a show with a good comedy. A change might also consist in sending the boy to camp for a week. Let him get out and work the savagery free of his system. He will come back as tractable as a lamb.

Sometimes the spending of a vacation is a real problem, the solution of which is beyond the average child.

Redoubtable French Star Wins Sixth Wimbledon Women's Tennis Championship.

S. Lenglen

Wimbledon, July 3 (Can. Press).—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, of France, won her sixth Wimbledon women's tennis championship today, defeating an English girl, champion Joan Fry, 6 to 2, 6 to 0, in the finals of the all-England tournaments

ALBERTA COAL WILL MOVE EAST SUNDAY

Expect Shipment to Reach Ontario About July 11.

TORONTO, July 3. — (Canadian Press).—Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, stated this afternoon that a wire had been received from the Alberta Government that the Ontario coal shipment of 25,000 tons was ready to be moved to Ontario, but that the Canadian National Railways at that point had not received their orders from Montreal to move the shipment.

Mr. McCrea states that he immediately got in touch with the railway authorities and orders were received yesterday to move the shipment. It is anticipated that the coal will commence to move under these orders on Sunday or Monday, and will reach Toronto and other Ontario points toward the end of the week.

6 FEET OF WATER DROWNS SCOT GIRLS

Not Yet a Week in Canada, Two Girls Meet Tragic Death in Pond.

UNIONVILLE, Ont., July 3 (Canadian Press) — Mary Martin, aged 22 years, who arrived in Canada from Glasgow, Scotland, last Monday, and friend, Minnie McAlpine, aged 25 years, were drowned yesterday in a pond on the farm of Col. F. H. Deacon, two miles north of here where they were employed.

The girls formed part of a party of domestic servants who went to the pond a short time before entering upon the evening's duties. They were seated on an upturned punt on the edge of the pond when in some unexplainable manner Miss Martin slipped into six feet of water and was immediately in difficulties. Miss McAlpine went to her assistance, but was dragged down and both were drowned. Attracted by the screams of the other two girls, Kenneth Decaon, son of Col. Deacon, rushed to the rescue and brought the bodies to the bank. Dr. McKay, of Unionville, was summoned and for two hours he worked unceasingly to induce respiration but without success.

Coroner Dr. McDonald of Markham was notified and upon ascertaining the facts decided that an inquest was unnecessary. A sister of Miss McAlpine lives in Rochester.

GARDEN PARTY.

Centreville Was Scene of a Happy Gathering—Many From City.

Last night, before six o'clock, cars from many directions came to Centreville Presbyterian Church and parked on all sides of the church and grounds. The people who came here were attending the annual garden party and strawberry festival; and there were close upon 600 present from the Peterboro, Millbrook and Cavan churches, a body of St. Paul's Church folks motoring down to help swell the crowd.

The Ladies' Aid carried through the big task of satisfying the inner man, and succeeded immensely, with the luscious fruit in abundance and many other good things. The fine weather enabled this to be served on the church lawn, and with the president, Mrs. D. N. Dodds, and her assistants, everyone was well looked after.

A homemade candy booth on the grounds also did a fine business.

Musical Programme

After the social event, the audience gathered in the church, where an interesting programme of five pieces from St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, with Martin B. Chenhall at the piano; an octette from Peterborough Male Voice Choir; violin solo by Mr. Rusaw; vocal solos by Messrs. W. F. Skitch, Frank Pratt and Hugh M. Niven; and guitar duet by Misses Viola Davidson and Marguerite Mason.

The various numbers were encored, and with the National Anthem and benediction another strawberry festival, the best in the history of the church, was consigned to the limbo of things that have passed.

The proceeds of the party amounted to well over $220.00.

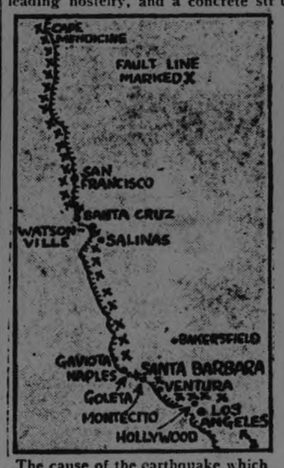
SEND COMMISSION.

French Council of Ministers Approved Plan to Send Embassy to States.

PARIS, July 3. — Canadian Press. The Council of Ministers to-day approved plan to send a French debt commission to the United States during this summer.

SANTA BARBARA IS AGAIN ROCKED BY 'QUAKE.

Santa Barbara, one of the most picturesque watering places in the United States and one of the early Spanish settlements on the California coast, was virtually destroyed by an earthquake this week, and the ruins were shaken again to-day. State Street, the main thoroughfare, LEFT, is a ghastly avenue of ruin, portions of its most stately buildings being demolished, and cornices, walls and fronts of practically all principal structures shattered. The First National Bank, which is shown in the photograph, is a mass of ruins. The Arlington Hotel, RIGHT, is a leading hostelry, and a concrete structure, collapsed in the centre. Lives were lost in it.



The cause of the earthquake which destroyed Santa Barbara is attributed to the "San Andreas" or California fault line, which is shown in the above illustration, running the length of the state. It is the source of practically all California earthquakes. This line is a gigantic break in the earth's crust, which first appears from the sea in the vicinity of Cape Mendocino.

The above map shows where the earthquake disturbances of earlier in the week centred.

SOUTHERN DRIFT SHOWS DECLINE

As Indicated By Value of Settlers' Effects Registered at Bureau.

OTTAWA, July 3. — (Canadian Press).—The drift of Canadian settlers south—so far as is indicated by the value of settlers' effects exported—is declining. The Canadian Government does not keep statistics of outgoing Canadians, but the value of settlers' effects, both outgoing and incoming, is recorded. These, as given by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics for the year ending May, show a heavy decline in settlers' effects exported to United States as compared with previous months. At the same time settlers' effects imported from United States show an increase.

Settlers' effects exported to United States in the twelve months ending May were $6,406,711; in the corresponding year previous $9,624,114. Settlers' effects imported from the United States in the year ending May were $5,208,945; in corresponding year previous $4,880,118.

DECORATION DAYS.

G. W. V. A. Will Adorn Graves on July 12 and July 19.

At an executive meeting of the G. W.A. it was decided to hold the annual decoration days on Sundays, July 12th and July 19th. The graves at St. Peter's Cemetery will be decorated on July 12th, those at the Little Lake cemetery on the 19th.

can sell his product for more and buy what he needs for less.

The option markets in grain, which are so often condemned, work to great advantage, said Mr. Hogg, and the only disadvantage is that gamblers will get in and bet on the price of wheat.

In concluding his address, Mr. Hogg said that if farmers and city men would get together and talk over their problems quietly, a great deal would be accomplished and they would know each other better.

Roxy and his gang, who were present, entertained the company with a few selections. They were individually introduced by Leon Frazer, secretary of the Trent Waterways Association and now secretary of the Tourist Association of Ontario, their mentor in this district. In a short address, Roxy spoke of the soldiers in Christie Street Hospital, telling of the fund that had been taken in the States to put a headsett at every bed in such hospitals, and suggestion such a fund for Canada. Gitz Rice and the quartette sang "Dear Old Pal of Mine," and "Winter," the latter song by the author of "The Stein Song." Two selections were contributed by 'Ukelele" Bailey, and Mr. Rice sang a little song about Ontario, which he had composed on the train.

A vote of thanks to every who took part was moved by Kiwanian G. N. Gordon, while Messrs. Moore and McIndoo thanked the club on behalf of the farmers.

FINANCIAL NEWS.

Torpor Felt In Wall Street International Shoe Climbs

NEW YORK, July 3.— (Canadian Press.) — Confused price movements characterized the morning trading with, standard industrials and Rails inclined to heaviness on continuation of pre-holiday profit taking, while several specialties, particularly in the merchandising group, responded to aggressive pool buying.

Heaviness of the motors was generally attributed to liquidation for account of the bankrupt firm, Nash Motors, dropping 28 points to 411 on one sale. S. H. Kress sold at 400 as compared with a previous transaction at 335 3-4 last year.

Steady accumulation took place in American Agricultural Chemical Preferred, Certainteed Products and Commercial Solvents issues. International Shoe continued its sensational gain by climbing five points. Call money renewed at 4 3-4 per cent. and then dropped to 4 1-2.

Mining Exchange Steady With Fractional Changes

TORONTO, July 3. — (Canadian Press). — Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange was steady today, with transactions totalling 109,552 shares Algonquin was quoted ½ lower at 1½, while Baldwin was fractionally higher at 2 5-8. Hattie Preferred was active at 9, 3-4 point lower, and Common remained steady at 1 3-8. Teck Hughes opened steady but dropped a point to 133 at the close. Keeley made an advance of four points to 182, and Castle Trethewey receded fractionally to 84½. Mining Corporation was weaker by two points at 272.

Toronto Trading Scattered Canadian Steel Was Active

TORONTO, July 3. — (Canadian Press).—Trading was scattered over a wide list on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, with no particular stock leading, though the total volume of trade was fair. Steel of Canada was active, Preferred improving about a point at 111 1-8, and the Common strengthening to 87. Atlantic Sugar and Mackay Preferred each gained a quarter point, and British Columbia Fishing held its advance at 44½. Consumers Gas in active dealings eased off 5-8 at 170 3-8.

CLERGYMAN TELLS OF SHANGHAI RIOTS

Rev. A. C. S. Trivett, Writing Home, Tells of Attack on Jail.

TORONTO, July 3. — (Canadian Press).—Rev. A. C. S. Trivett, subdean of the Shanghai Cathedral, tells of some of the trouble in China in letters to Mrs. Trivett, who is visiting her parents, Rev. Principal and Mrs. O'Meara, Wycliffe College, here. In a letter written on June 1, he describes the scenes of Naking Road (the main shopping street of Shanghai). There was a great procession of Chinese students bearing banners, on which were written such slogans as "Restore all Foreign Settlements to China," "Cancel all Unequal Treaties," and "Let us Rescue the Students who have been Arrested." They tried to live up to the latter banner by raiding the jail, and when they shouted "Kill the foreigners," the jail guards opened fire. Nine were killed in the riot. Armoured cars patrolled the road after the riot. Martial law was proclaimed.

15 DROWNED IN POLISH FLOODS.

WARSAW, July 3. — Devastating floods have followed the worst rainy spell experienced for a generation in Galicia and Silesia. The Vistula River and all the mountain streams are out of their banks. Cracow is in danger, and all the crops in the region have been destroyed. Fifteen children crossing a bridge over the Dniester River near Marjampol were washed away and all perished.

MORE MEN SOUTHPAWS.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 3. — More men than women are left-handed, says Prof. June Downey of the University of Wyoming, who recently completed examinations of 400 people. She says ambidexterous persons generally possess a superior intelligence.

WIFE MADE HIM SLAVE.

GRIMSBY, Eng., July 3.—Albert Kyffin, a baker, complained in his divorce action that his wife wouldn't allow him to follow his trade, but kept him at home "to slave at housework from 6 in the morning until midnight." "After much persuasion my wife last Easter made me an allowance of five shillings for my services," he added.

HOW GULLIBLE WE ARE.

LONDON, July 3. — A cabman here made more than $1,000 by selling tickets for a fake concert, which he said was to help crippled and aged cab drivers. Just as he was selling the last ticket he had printed in his fraud scheme, the police arrested him.

HAPPY DAYS AT 'Y' BOYS' CAMP

Fifty-three Lads Are Enjoying Outdoor Life at Clear Lake.

PLENTY TO EAT.

Fifty-three happy, healthy boys are enjoying the first two weeks of their summer vacation at the Y.M.C.A. Camp at Camp Rotary, on Clear Lake, and are having the time of their young lives.

The first two or three days of the camp, Dame Nature, forgetting the annual "Y" camp was on, sent cold weather, and, Oh! how those boys did shiver during the first night, when sleep was long in coming. But when Tuesday night came around, cold weather or not, sleepy eyes closed as soon as tired heads hit the pillows.

A schedule of baseball games has been drawn up, and four teams, recruited from the husky athletes of the camp, battle desperately for the decision in thrilling encounters. The boat trips have also been scheduled, so that every boy goes for a cruise every day. A new freight canoe, which has been added to the equipment, is especially useful, as a full team can be transported at once.

But life is not all play. Grim tragedy lifted its head in the camp one night. A boy, tossing in his sleep after a long day of pleasure, got turned around in his bunk. Waking up, he could feel no bed-mate, and raised his voice in lusty wails because his brother had been lost. A leader with a lantern soon disclosed the fact that his brother was sleeping soundly at the other end of the bunk.

Eats! Oh, Boy!

The favorite times of the day are four. Three of them come under the same head: time to eat. And when that time comes the mounds of appetizing viands provided by Mrs. Chesney, the camp's skillful and well-beloved chief cook, soon disappear down fifty-odd hungry throats. The other of the sessions that pleases most is the camp-fire, the last event of a busy day. A blazing fire surrounded by boys, whose angelic faces gleam in the flickering light, is a pretty sight, and when they sing the illusion of angels remains as their voices join in the harmony of an old song.

On Sunday afternoon there will be a camp service conducted by W. W. Richman, leader of the Baracca Class of Murray Street Church. Anybody who wishes to go will be made welcome by the boys and leaders.

TIMELY TIPS ON OUTDOOR LIFE

By Morris Ackerman

Carry a canvas packsack. The size depends on your outfit and number of packs.

Load the pack so it will ride as high as possible.

A flat pack is best. If too high or wide it will sway you and soon tire you out. Rig with ring and snap at bottom of each shoulder strap.

Be ready to slip the pack when necessary.

Oats is Canada's chief quantity crop—420,000,000 bushels in 1924, worth $208,752,000.

ACTRESS' WILL IS CONTESTED

Five Persons Seek Share in $3,000,000 Estate Left to Charity.

BOSTON, July 3.— (Canadian Press.) — Testimony that Lotta Crabtree, noted actress whose will leaving most of a $3,000,000 estate to charity, is under contest, appeared in the middle west with a nine months old baby in her arms was given by a witness in Suffolk Probate Court yesterday. Mrs. Ida May Blankenberg, one of the five persons seeking a share in the estate, alleges that she is the daughter of Miss Crabtree by a marriage in England to a man named Manning.

WOMAN SECRETARY OF WESTERN UNION

First Woman Executive of the Great Telegraph Company Born in Scotland.

NEW YORK, July 3 (Canadian Press)—Miss Kate O'Flanigan, red haired daughter of an Irish father and Scotch mother, who was educated in a convent and who speaks with a gentle burr is the first woman executive of the Western Union Telegraph Co. She has become assistant Secretary of the Company, whose operations blanket the globe. She came to this country from Greenock, Scotland. She is feminine in dress and demeanor and believes in marriage and children.

PLAYGROUNDS TO OPEN.

School Grounds Will Be Available For Children Six Days a Week.

Beginning Monday, July 6, Queen Alexandra, Central and King Edward school playgrounds will be opened every day except Sunday until August 15. Capable male and female supervisors will be on hand [illegible] between those dates.

IRISH BAND COMING.

DUBLIN, July 3.—The Irish Government may send the Free State Army Band on an American tour.

LEON FRAZER ACHIEVES HONOR

year. He has represented the province at the New York Motor Boat Show, his wide acquaintance with the attractions of this section of Ontario and his outstanding ability in organization work commending him as the right man for such a position. At the Show, he did good work in advertising the Trent Waterway, showing living specimens of the monster game fish caught in local waters, and distributing hundreds of pamphlets that brought tourists from every section of the United States.

Valued Man Here.

The valuable services rendered by Mr. Frazer in Peterborough may be judged by the number of important posts he holds. Some of them are: Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; Secretary of the Trent Waterway Development Association; Secretary of the Peterborough Branch of the Ontario Motor League; Secretary of the Horticultural Association; Secretary of the Manufacturers' Association; Secretary of the Retail Men's Association, and Auto License Issuer for the district. He is a valued member of Royal Arthur Lodge 523, A. F. and A. M.

Brilliant Record.

Leon Frazer has had a brilliant record in army and civil life. He was born in Croydon, England, and educated in English public schools and Kingston Grammar School, Kingston-on-Thames. He came to Peterborough in 1913 to assist in organizing a cost accounting and physical inventory system for the Canadian General Electric Co.

In November, 1924, Mr. Frazer enlisted in the 21st Battalion as a private. He went to England in May, 1915, and to France in September, 1915, continuing in the field with the Army of Occupation, and was demobilized at Kingston on May 24, 1919. In December, 1914, he was promoted Sergeant and while in the trenches in April, 1916, received his commission as Lieutenant. In August, 1918, he was gazetted Captain, at the same time being awarded the Military Cross for effective and heroic work while leading his company in the crushing attack at Amiens

At the close of the war, Captain Frazer commiled and published the Historical Calendar of the battalion, the first of any infantry unit authorized by the British War Office.

Mrs. Frazer (nee Helen Greaves) is a direct descendent of David Livingstone.

VOLCANO ACTIVE IN IDAHO AFTER YEARS

First Activity Shown in Centuries—Emitting Ashes, Smoke and Mud.

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho, July 3. — United Press. — An old volcanic mountain 100 miles north of here, quiet for years if not for centuries, is emitting dust, ashes, smoke, rock and mud, according to reports here.

It is feared valuable grazing lands will be destroyed as a river of mud is pouring into the Alaska basin.

The crater is just across the Montana border near Lima.

SOCCER NOTES

The latest move! Dummer United meet the Thistle in the Gordon Cup final, and, according to rumor, a few live agents are contemplating a move to introduce old regular players to participate in the game, and, as "they term it," a battle royal. It is a great pity that enthusiasts should indulge in such tactics, which is detrimental to the universal sport.

WILLS' VICTORY ELATES NEGROES

Two Parties Beat Up White Men in New York Streets.

ALL ESCAPED.

NEW YORK, July 3.— (Canadian Press.) — Elated over the knockout victory of Harry Wills, negro heavyweight challenger, over Charley Weinert, two groups of negroes early to-day beat up a half dozen whites, knocking two through a plate glass window and one into unconsciousness.

The speedy arrival of the police prevented further disorders. All the negroes escaped.

Three men and a young woman were talking in front of a West 52nd street house when several negroes passed, discussing, the police said, the ease with which Wills scored a knockout.

"There's a white man about Weinert's size," one negro shouted, pointing to John Gaffney. Gaffney was knocked senseless through the store front. His friend Michael Earl, followed. Both were severely cut and bruised. The woman and her escort were not molested before the police arrived. In the second fracas, on 53rd street, all the participants escaped.

THEATRES

"THREE LIVE GHOSTS."

Some Lung and his little lamb, chauffered by the likeable Spoofy, are at the Capitol Treatre this week, in "Three Live Ghosts." The ghosts themselves provide much amusement for the audience in this well known feature picture, but the biggest laughs come from the unfolding of the adventures of the shell-shocked Spoofy and from the sub-titles from the mouth of the redoubtable Mrs. Gubbins. The Cockney lady from Whitechapel is one of the funniest characters in the big picture.

"Three Live Ghosts" is a refreshing comedy. Jimmy Gubbins, Billy Foster and Spoofy are the trio of returned men, reported dead to their families, who escaped from a Dutch internment camp, and make their way back to Blighty. Spoofy is the "toff" of the bunch; Jimmy is the product of the mean streets of the London Limehouse district, and Foster is the American whose entanglement in a supposed murder leads him to enlist in the ranks of the British army.

The love element in the picture is slightly melodramatic, but the comedy interest is well sustained through out. Spoofy, with his "taking" ways and his habit of intruding at the wrong moment, is the hit of the piece. He parades down Pall Mall with a carriage containing a kidnapped baby and a lamb on a string, in the suit of clothes he has "borrowed" from a Hyde Park Mansion, in his pockets the pears and diamonds of a looted safe. To the talkative Mrs. Gubbins falls a large share of the spoils of the trip, and the lady has a good time for a while, wearing a jewelled tiara atop of her tousled head and strings of pearls over a soiled blouse. Just at the psychological moment, when Spoofy should stay "crazy," as his chums put it he regains his mental balance and the picture winds up on a happy note for the three wartime pals. With plenty of laughs and an out of the ordinary English atmosphere, "Three Live Ghosts" makes a good entertainment.

In this picture, as in several other features presented lately, the feminine portion of the audience have an excellent opportunity to reflect on the passing show of fashion. Timed in the Armistice year, the clothes and hats of that period have almost as old-fashioned a look now as the apparel in "The Lady," presented at the Capitol recently with Norma Talmadge in the stellar role.

The short reels with this programme are particularly good. Felix the Cat has a wonderful cartoon time, pursuing the almighty dollar that has eluded his keeping, and Hal Roach's Rascals in "It's a Bear" are as funny as ever, playing wild Indian among peaceful farm animals.

—Jeannette.

AT THE ROYAL

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL AMATEUR NIGHT AT THE ROYAL

Patrons of the Royal can always look forward for something new or novel on Amateur nights, and last night was no exception to the rule.

All the 'artists" did their best and their efforts won them hearty applause.

Last night's programme:

Mary Tobin, Irish Jigg.

Leslie Dyer, Two Songs.

Madeline Curtain, Highland Fling and Buck Dance.

Emily Hemphill, Wild Irish Rose and Irish Dance.

C. Sauriol, Cornet Solo.

Mr. Harris endeavored to teach the audience the words and music of "I'll See You in My Dreams" and "No Wonder," two of the new song hits. Artistic slides with the words were flashed on the screen and the audience requested to sing, which they did—first the ladies, then the men, then altogether. Anyone with any kind of a memory is familiar with two news songs today. "No Wonder" is the new Leo Feist summer hit that is being extensively advertised at the present time and is for sale at all the local music stores.

ROLLICKING COMEDY FEATURE "RIDIN' PRETTY" AT THE ROYAL

It's a long time since we have heard such hearty laughter at a motion picture as that occasioned by "Ridin' Pretty," a clever Western comedy now playing at the Royal.

William Desmond and a company that includes three hard-boiled cowboys., somewhat out of their element, furnish mighty fine entertainment that should not be missed by any who favor the lighter brand of movies.

Desmond, whose picture name in this instance is Sky Parker, has the part of a cowboy who is left a fortune by the death of an uncle whose will provides that the heir reside in the family mansion in San Francisco for a year before he comes into his inheritance. Cityward goes the heir accompanied by five of his cowboy friends. The cowboys are susceptible to feminine charms, and Sky finds himself in love with a young woman who has entered into a scheme with Sky's lounge lizard cousin to prevent Sky getting the fortune.

The cowboys have brought all their ranch equipment except horses, and pining for a ride they come upon a stable in which are a number of draft horses, which they saddle, and ride out into the hummin traffic of the city. The resultant mix-up affords an exposition of the ability of a squad of San Francisco's mounted police and also affords many laughs.

Plenty of Excitement.

The story includes an exciting race on the part of Sky to catch the train on which the girl he loves is running away from him and from the scheme to deprive him of his fortune. First Sky uses an automobile and when that breaks down craftily obtains a motorcycle from a speed cop and continues the chase, to finally swing from the motorcycle to the rear coach on the speeding train.

Ann Forrest is Desmond's leading woman and gives a pleasing performance as the girl of the scheme. Stanhope Wheatcroft tis the scheming cousin, and Billy Sullivan, also a Universal star, is happily cast as a flirtatious cowboy, under Arthur Rosson's direction.

HOLIDAY GAME WON BY DELORO

Smelters Defeated Belleville 19 to 1—Ada in Good Form.

MARMORA, July 3. — Deloro registered their first home victory and also the first homer of the season when on Dominion Day they defeated the Belleville team by the large margin of 19-1. The game was played under unfavorable weather conditions, but a very substantial crowd assembled. Smith was on the rubber for Belleville, whilst Ada pitched his first game for the Smelters.

The first innings opened tamely, neither team registering. Through consistent hitting by the Smelters, a lead of seven runs was piled up in the second innings. Quinn in this innings brought the crowd to their feet by smashig the Spalding into right field for a triple. Deloro added three in the third. The fourth and fifth innings saw the score unchanged. In the first half of the sixth innings, Regan was loudly applauded by the spectators for a brilliant running catch off Smith's long foul.

Deloro had a great batting spree in the sixth, in which all participated. Vernon Johnston carried off the honors with a homer into left field. The total was increased by Belleville 0. There was no score in eight, leaving the score Deloro 18. the seventh.

In the eighth Villeneuve replaced Ada on the rubber for Deloro. Deloro in their half added one more run, Hughes registering. Belleville decided that there were goose eggs enough by the time the ninth innings was reached, so tallied their only run on a passed ball.

Umpires were: Maybee behind bat; Knott on bases.

Score by innings:
Belleville ....000000001— 1
Deloro ....072008010—19

SYRACUSE, July 2 — Syracuse blew up in the 8th inning here today and Buffalo scored six runs to win 11 to 5. Frankhouse, who started for the Stars lasted only two thirds of an inning during which he walked three men. Grabowski, who relieved him, was effective until the 8th, when he was touched up for two hits, contributed an error and forced a run in with a base on balls. Score:
Buffalo .. ..121000160—11 12 0
Syracuse ....202001000— 5 10 2
Fisher, Auer and Hill, Pond; Farnkhouse, Grabowski, Meine and McKee.

PONIES BACK AT RIVERSIDE PARK FOR BIG BATTLE

Daley Men Will Hook Up With Petes in Important Tilt To-morrow.

Whitehouse to Pitch For the Petes and Cairns or Gallagher For Ponies.

The Kingston Ponies and the Petes will clash at Riverside Park tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and the loser will drop back into second place in the League standing. Last week the Petes pulled the Ponies off the top perch and let Oshawa go in front and Wednesday returned the compliment by knocking Oshawa over. Tomorrow they hope to beat Kingston again and send them down a peg.

Whitehouse will do the heaving for the home talent. On June 6th the left-hander allowed the Ponies but four hits and one run and last Saturday he let them down with four safeties and a solitary counter. If he comes back with a similar brand tomorrow he should take another scalp, if his teammates kick in with a few runs to work on.

Cairns is the likely Kingston choice although Gallagher has not worked for sometime and may be used against the Petes tomorrow. He got a hot reception in his last appearance here but the ancient southpaw is a good pitcher when he is right—and Joe Daley may gamble on him being right tomorrow.

FIRST HALF TO COGNAWAGA TEAM

Win From Curve Lake Puts Team Out in Front of League.

By defeating Curve Lake last evening, Cognawagas grabbed the first half of the East Peterborough League schedule. Lakefield plays in Keene this evening but the result of the contest has no bearing on the race. The Curve Lake players were disappointed over their showing against the Cogs and with a full team available hope to use their war clubs to better advantage when they visit Exhibition Park again. Several of the hitters were busy "guiding" in the waters about Buckhorn and could not get here for last night's game.

Royals and Raybestos go at it again at Exhibition Park this evening. Royals have strengthened their team and are confident that they can make things interesting for the brake liners. The winner of this city series will play the rural winner for the championship and indications point to a real "world's series."

The City League has lost another promising pitcher by the removal to Toronto of Earl Donnelly who heaved them from the portside for the Lakeviews. Donnelly also performed in the Mercantile League with the Lock Works All Stars and his recent feat of turning back the strong Bankers' team was one of the pitching features of the season.

"Chuck" Bradley who pitched the Maple Leafs to three city championships and one provincial championship, is now in Detroit, where he is having considerable success on the hurling heap.

City League clubs who operate under an age limit are receiving the benefit of older and experienced players who coach on the playing field. This method of helping the youngsters seems to be the proper one but it should be understood that the O.B.A.A. does not permit it. When the winners in the bantam, midget, juvenile and junior divisions start in the Ontario semi-finals only signed players of a club will be permitted on the field.

JUNIOR SOCCER NOTES.

The De Laval will meet the C.P.C. in a league game at the King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon. Great importance is attached to this game as it will very likely determine the winners of the league. His Worship Mayor J. J. Turner, will be present to set the ball in motion and Mr. [illegible] will refer. Both teams will be at full strength and the following players are asked to be present at the club houses at 2.45 p.m. Kick off at 3 p.m.:

The DeLaval: Frick, H. Frost, Hensley, J. Ward, J. Cooper, A. Edwards, G. Harvey, H. Anson, E. Abrahan., F. Dyer, H. Pulley, R. Evans, Fowler.

C.P.C.: T. Montgomery, A. Downer, D. Grant, A. Hall, J Cross, J. Mitchell, J. Buchan, W. James, J. Downer, T. Foster, S. Laidlaw, A. Sullivan.

YOUNG GOLFERS PLAYING TO-DAY IN SEMI-FINALS

Don Carrick Eliminated Last of American Contestants at Ottawa.

CANADIANS LEFT.

Four Cities Represented in Semi-Final Round For Title.

ROYAL OTTAWA GOLF CLUB, Ottawa, July 3.—(Canadian Press).—Montreal, Toronto Ottawa and London were represented in the semi-finals of the Canadian amateur golf tourney here to-day when J. A. Cameron, of Rivermead, Ottawa, meets C. Ross Somerville, of the London, Ont. Hunt Club, and Norman M. Scott, of Royal Montreal, meets Don Carrick, Scarboro, Toronto.

This quartette of youthful golfers qualified for the semi-finals by winning their matches yesterday in the third round, which saw the elimination of the surviving member of the Thompson trio, Stanley, who by his brilliant 146 in the qualifying round, headed the 95 entrants in that phase of the tourney.

Flinn was defeated by Carrick in the most dogged match of the day, and the one which produced the best golf. The score was two up. Thompson was eliminated by Somerville, 5 and 4. Scott qualified for the semi-finals by downing another Montrealer William McLuckie, of Kanawaki, 7 and 6, and Cameron took the measure of Fred M. Lyon, of Lambton, Toronto, 6 and 5.

Carrick Only 19.

The contestants in the semi-final round include two runners-up for the title, Norman Scott being defeated by C. C. Fraser of Montreal, in the sterling final of 1923 at Hamilton, and Somerville being the runner up to Frank Thompson last year. Carrick, who is only 19 years old, has come into prominence during the last two years. In the Ontario final this year he was defeated by W. J. Thompson, whom he eliminated in the second round of the present tournament. Cameron is practically unknown in national golf, although his performance in the Canadian amateur this year commands respect for his prowess, and Somerville will have to be his best to beat him.

Flinn was three down at the end of the morning round in his match with Carrick, but cut the lead down to one at the 6th yesterday. At the 9th he squared the match by laying a difficult stymie which Carrick could not negotiate, thereby obtaining revenge for a stymie laid by Carrick on the same green in the morning. Flinn took the 10th and 11th, when Carrick drove poorly, and the American was apparently headed for a win, for he was two up at the 14th. An overhanging lie at the 15th helped Carrick, Flinn's next shot finding a ditch. Carrick recovered marvellously at this stage, taking the 16th and 17th with par fours, and the 18th with a par five. Flinn got into difficulty here, and took seven, whereas Carrick's driving, especially his third, which carried him dead to the elevated pin, was flawless and he won the hole and the match two up. Carrick's iron play excelled throughout the match, his approaches being perfect. Therein lies the difference in the two players.

The Other Games.

Exceptionally good driving helped Scott along to victory. His putting could have been better. Several birdies were included in his card, and he gave a par display most of the way. The fourteenth in the morning round saw him take the lead on McLuckie, and thereafter he was in front.

Lyon showed a deterioration in form against Cameron, and never had a chance. His game was quite a contrast to that of Wednesday, when he defeated the former champion, C. C. Fraser. Cameron played splendidly, driving and putting with deadly accuracy.

A combination of faults brought about the downfall of Thompson. He was at various times out of bounds, in traps and in bunkers, and his work with the putter was far from the calibre of Thompson's usual form. He was four down in the morning, and Somerville, though not at his best, had little difficulty in winning.

WHY THEY'RE GREEN.

PARIS, July 3. — Recent tests show that the green color of French oysters is due to a pigment present in their food materials. A quantity of the pigment was isolated and oysters placed in a solution which contained it took up the color within 24 hours.

PETERBOROUGH C. O. B. L. AVERAGES.

The averages of the Peterboro Central Ontario League team for the twelve league games played so far are given below. Herb. Wolfe continues to lead the parade with a .361 average for nine games, while Max Swanston and Hap Harrison are tied for second place with a .340 mark in twelve games. These three are the only members of the team hitting better than .300, Legon and Heckman having dropped out of the charmed circle for the time being. The biggest gainer since the last averages were published is Jimmy Hall, who has boosted his average 50 points.

Swanston and Harrison have driven in 27 runs between them, the catcher being responsible for batting home 14 counters. He leads in doubles, while Harrison tops the lot in triples and in extra bases. Wolfe is the leading base stealer, while Legon has scored the most runs. Here are the figures:

FAVORITES WON AT FUND BOUTS

Greb Beat Walker and Wills Knocked Out Wienert at Polo Grounds.

SLATTERY BEATEN.

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 3.—(Canadian Press).—In fifteen rounds of terrific fighting last night, Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, Pa., retained his world's middleweight championship against Mickey Walker of Elizabeth, N.J., welterweight king, before a colorful throng of 65,000 spectators in the main bout of the benefit show for the Italian hospital fund.

Lashing back gamely in the closing rounds, Walker saved himself from a knockout by a courageous stand which brought the crowd to its feet in a tribute which has seldom been given a beaten man in the historic ring of the National League Baseball Park. But Greb had piled up a big lead on points throughout the bout.

Twenty-four rounds of terrific fighting crammed into the card carried the immense audience to the heights of enthusiasm, and then dropped it with stunning thud as Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, battered Charley Weinert to the canvas in two brief rounds of a 15-rounder, and Dave Shade of California, stretched sensational Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, on the canvas with an unexpected right in the third round of a carded six-rounder.

The New Jersey heavyweight proved no match for the giant negro. Wills took the attack in the first as Wienert remained at a respectful distance, and then quickly disposed of his opponent after one minute and 46 seconds of the second with a staggering right.

The sensational Firpo - Dempsey battle, fought in the same arena, was repeated in the final between Walker and Greb with the knockdowns omitted. It was a meeting of modern cavemen armed with five-ounce gloves. They battered each other back and forth, across the ring and out of it. They wrestled each other in the clinches. They milled around the referee with such fury that four times he was thrown to the canvas, and on the second trip so badly that his leg was injured.

CRICKET MATCH.

Peterborough C. C. 'A' and 'B' Teams Will Play To-morrow Afternoon.

The Peterboro "A" and "B" teams will play a match at the Exhibition Grounds to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 p.m. As many of the following as possible are asked to turn out for the game:

"A" Team — Thorpe (captain), Dr. Hewitt, Manning, Elliott, Dela Fosse, Monkman, Lewis, Rigby (Sr.), Mulholland, Ryland, Waddel, Fielder, Dr. Hammond and R. B. Rogers.

"B" Team — Coutts (captain), Dyer, Langley, Fenton, Stuart, Massey-Cooke, Fox, Rigby (Jr.), Foster, Chenhall, Coleman, Stratton, Evans and Dr. Young.

A full practice will be held to-night at 6.15 o'clock. Everyone is asked to turn out.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER.

OTTAWA ALERTS' STAR.

Miss Ethel Lush of Ottawa Alerts basketball team and an all-round athlete, who is in the running for a place on the girls' team which may visit the Old Country in August.

ROYAL OAK C. C.

Frank Dyer's Eleven Was Beaten Last Night—Practice on Saturday.

The Royal Oak Cricket Club defeated F. Dyer's XI. by about 25 runs last evening at the Exhibition Grounds. The fielding was very snappy, and the batsmen could not afford to take chances at stealing runs. It was a most enjoyable game. The regular practice will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 at the Exhibition Grounds.

SOCCER NOTES

Saturday's soccer bill is a Senior League game at Nicholls Oval between the Quaker Oats and Canadian Woollens. In all the previous games the Woollens have gained the verdict after an excellent brand of soccer played throughout the ninety minutes. Of course, the Porridge boys expect a brace of points tomorrow. Kick-off at 3 o'clock. Alex. McKinley referee.

Down on King Eward Park, the De Laval meet the C.P.C. in a Junior League match at 3 o'clock.

Before the senior game at Nicholls Oval, the Juvenile Vets meet an opponent in the juvenile league.

OLD COUNTRY CRICKET

LONDON, July 2. — Canadian Press Cable. — In a county cricket championship match concluded today Sussex defeated Glamorganshire by an innings and 109 runs; Glamorganshire 82 and 84; Sussex 274 for nine wickets, declared (Holmes 72 and A. H. Giligan 57, not out.)

Essex beat Somerset by an innings and 92 runs; Essex [illegible] (Russell 150, Perrin 92, O'Connor 57, Morris 58,, Somerset 212 and followed with a second innings of 129 runs.

Yorkshire beat Derby an innings and 159 runs. Yorkshire got 423 runs for eight wickets, and declared (Rhodes 157, Kilner 87), Derby 128 (Jackson 50) and followed with 136 in the second innings.

BRITISH GOLF WINNER.

"Long Jim" Barnes, former American champion, who won the coveted British open golf championship at Prestwick, Scotland.

LOOSE FIELDING IN MERCANTILE GAME

Examiner and Bankers Had an Off Night, But Slugged the Ball.

The Examiner and Bankers put on a ragged exhibition of baseball last night, the newspaper boys winning by the score of 14-5, and by virtue of their victory took a firm hold on first place in the League.

Seven errors by the money-changers, plus a little wildness on the part of Lansing, who acted as paying teller for them, caused a debit balance on their ledger. Nine hits on the credit side were insufficient to overcome the deficit.

The printers pied only five chances while they set up eleven hits, composing therewith a total of fourteen runs. Three triples, lusty blows from the bats of Marchen, Collins and Franks, featured their batting efforts. Marchen and Collins didn't stop at third on their hits, errors on the part of Payne and Hudon allowing them to go right in.

Roy Taylor, regular first baseman for the Examiner nine, tried his hand at throwing them over last night and made a good job of it. Six of his opponents carried their bats and their nine hits were kept well scattered. The Bankers' battery, Masterson and Kennealey, had played on Wednesday with the Knights of Columbus, and their place was taken by Lansing and MacWilliams, who turned in a fair game.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

Trying to make the clubhead hit straight through the ball often has the effect of causing the clubhead to lift upward too quickly after it passes through. The clubhead does go straight through the ball, but what I wish to distinguish is the difference between the club head going straight through and the player consciously trying to make it go straight through. The difference is that if you hit down on the ball as the clubhead takes it—as if you were to hit directly into the ground—the clubhead will then pass straight through the ball without your knowing anything about it other than that the ball leaves the tee and flies well. The same thing happens with an iron. Hit directly down on the ball, aiming at the spot where the ball rests on the grass. The blade will then click the ball and bite out a bit of turf, as it should.

ATTORNEY SEEKS TO REGAIN CHILD

James H. Cooke, of Toronto, Has Writ Issued Against His Wife.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—(Canadian Press).—James H. Cooke, a Toronto attorney, obtained in the Superior Court here yesterday a writ of habeas corpus against his wife, Mrs. Hilda Betty Cooke, directing her to produce their five-year-old daughter, Shirley, before the court on July 8th on charges of kidnapping.

The action taken yesterday by Cooke is the outgrowth of divorce proceedings in the Canadian Parliament, after which Mrs. Cooke went to the United States with the child, the attorney charges.

After the initial divorce action in Ontario, Cooke said the case jumped to Detroit, thence to Reno, and then to San Francisco.

Mrs. Cooke has been appearing at hearings before the immigration inspectors here for the last two days. Cooke said he would be satisfied if his wife was deported to Canada, where he could legally obtain possession of the child.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

Although Cairns pitched and won Wednesday's game for Kingston, Manager Joe Daley is likely to send him in against the Petes tomorrow in view of his two victories over the locals and the good game he pitched here last week. The Petes will use Whitehouse, and are hopeful of pulling Kingston down into second place and keeping linked up with Oshawa, who are playing Belleville in the Motor City tomorrow and should grab off another victory. Tomorrow's game here should be full of exciting features, and will undoubtedly attract a full house. The Petes have been providing home fans with some colourful baseball, and enthusiasts have been well paid for their trips across the river. The clash with the Ponies tomorrow should be just about the most exciting of the season.

* * * * * * * * *

Manager Les Reeves, the pint-sized pilot of the Oshawa team, is a Miller Huggins model, or, as they say down south, "a little bitty fella." Thus, when after Oshawa had taken the lead Wednesday and Mr. Reeves boastingly informed the crowd, "We are leading the league," some rude fan in the right field stand upset all his dignity by wanting to know if he was the water-boy.

* * * * * * * * *

The Petes' pitchers continue to lead the Central loop from the viewpoint of control. In twelve games Heckman, Whitehouse and Hardill have issued only thirteen charities. As the Petes, during the same period, have drawn 28 bases on balls and been hit 11 times, it can be seen that the local gunners have been sparing to the point of stinginess in franking the opposition to first base.

* * * * * * * * *

The prediction in these columns six weeks ago that the Athletics would eventually come back to the Senators has been verified. That does not necessarily mean that Bucky Harris and his ancient and honourable company will win the American League pennant again, but most people would hate to wager their next winter's coal supply that they won't. The Senators have been going along steadily, getting great pitching from a weather-beaten staff of flingers, and they are well fortified in every position. They showed their class in the little world's series with the Athletics and look like the best bet in the American League sweepstakes.

* * * * * * * * *

And in the National League, despite the wonderful showing of the Pirates, whose hitting ability and speed make them veritable tigers in attack this column is not yet prepared to abandon the Giants. The New York entry usually arises to the occasion when the going is roughest.

* * * * * * * * *

Al. Heckman has struck out but once this season. The Petes' twirler points out that he chose a beautiful spot for his first whiff, a tie score and the bases full in the eighth. However, Red Legon made up for the pitcher's failure, and Al. can shove that hit in somewhere else when a run is needed to win a ball game.

* * * * * * * * *

The umpires in tomorrow's fray at Riverside Park are Colling of Belleville and Dell of Oshawa, the former working behind the bat. The game is called for 3 o'clock sharp and promises to attract a huge crowd.

Next week the Petes have two games with Belleville, playing in the Quinte City on Wednesday and back here on Saturday. Meanwhile Oshawa and Kingston will clash in two games. —F. D. C.

NEW COMMISSIONER.

James Friel, K.C., Will Investigate Canadian Claims For Indemnity.

OTTAWA, July 3. — (Canadian Press). — The appointment by the Government of James Friel, K.C., Moncton, N.B., as commissioner to investigate Canadian claims for war indemnity against Germany was officially announced here last night. Mr. Friel will continue the work carried on by the late William Pugsley before his death.

TAX TO HELP SCIENCE.

PARIS, July 3.—A tax of 100 centimes on each 100 francs paid in salaries by industrial concerns is provided in a bill before the French Chamber of Deputies. The money would be used to support scientific research.

BERESFORD BEATS WALTER M. HOOVER

American Eliminated From Diamond Sculls By Present Title Holder.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, July 3.—(Canadian Press).—Jack Beresford, Jr., of London, present title holder, to-day defeated Walter M. Hoover, of Philadelphia, in the eliminations for the diamond sculls of the Henley Regatta. Beresford won by three lengths. His time was eight minutes and 27 seconds.

Ancient Masonic Emblem Heirloom For Generations

NELSON, B.C., July 3.—(Canadian Press.) — Handed down through successive generations for at least 167 years, a Masonic apron is in the possession of Mrs. F. M. McKechnie, of this city, and it still is in a good state of preservation.

The apron came from Cork, Ireland. It was formerly owned by Barney Corbett, of Antrim, who had the misfortune to be shipwrecked, when he lost the emblem. Months later it was washed ashore on the Isle of Man in the chest in which Corbett kept it, and was eventually returned to its owner. The action of the sea water discolored the emblem somewhat, but the characters are still plainly discernible.

Since then the apron has passed down through several generations of the Corbett family and has travelled many thousands of miles.

CONVENT EXAMINATIONS.

In the list of promotion examinations published in last night's paper, a little confusion was caused by the omission of the word "to" in each section. For instance, the Section Senior Third, should have been marked "To Senior Third," the pupils pasing from a lower grade in each instance to the grade in which their names appeared.

NO AERIAL REPORTS FROM AERIAL DERBY

Plane Carrying Officials and Reporters Crashes Without Casualties Resulting.

CROYDON, Eng., July 3.—(Canadian Press.)— An air liner carrying officials and newspaper men to observe to-day's aerial derby around England for the King's Cup, crashed near Durham. The wings of the plane were damaged, but there were no casualties. Plan to report the race from the air was abandoned.

STEAMER BURNED.

River Boat Totally Destroyed Near Cornwall, on St. Lawrence.

CORNWALL, July 3.—(Canadian Press).—The steamship Fred Mercer, bound west on the St. Lawrence River, was burned to the water's edge, about four miles above Cornwall, opposite Glen Walker, early this morning. The ship, after it had taken fire, was beached, and early reports state that there was no loss of life. It is not known whether the steamer had any passengers aboard.

VESPER SERVICE.

Noted Organist Coming to Murray Street Baptist Church on Sunday.

Mr. H. C. Hamilton, of Toronto, who will be the organist in Murray Street Baptist Church on Sunday, has had many years' experience in musical and evangelistic work. He was organist and pianist in the Gipsey Smith Campaign in Vancouver and Victoria five years ago and more recently with Campbell Morgan. His choir in June last presented "Hayden's Oratorio of the Creation." The last half hour Sunday evening will consist of organ music suitable for the close of the Sabbath. A few of the well known hymns, aranged specially for the organ by Mr. Hamilton, will be given, also selections from the Old Masters and others —Andante from Jubiter Symphony and Minuet from G minor Syphony Mozart: Minuet from Military Symphony, Hayden; Selection from the "Sketch Book," Nevin; Canzonetta," Wheldon; Grand Chorus, Guilmont.

C.G.I.T. PROGRAM.

Rainbow Tea in St. Andrew's Sunday School Well Attended.

On Tuesday afternoon and evening, a very pretty Rainbow tea was held in St. Andrew's Sunday school room by the Canadian Girls in Training group of the church. There was a good attendance of friends of the girls, who achieved a particularly attractive effect by wearing frocks which matched the different rainbow tints of the decorations and flowers on their tables. The pastel shades employed made a lovely setting for the tea.. Mrs. J. A. McKone, leader of the group, looked after general arrangements, assisted by Miss Helen Ross, president of the senior group. Several members of the Sunday school orchestra, including the Misses Dorothy Moir, Edna Connor and Irine King, Grant Breckenridge, George Barnes and Mr. Fanfoy supplied instrumental music, and Bartley McKone gave a vocal solo.

The proceeds of the tea, amounting to about $30, together with the $50 won by Miss Arleigh McKone, will be used for a summer camp for the girls, to be held at Grafton or Presque Isle.

The group is anxious to extend its hospitality to either one or two girls, not over sixteen years of age, who might not be able otherwise to enjoy a summer outing of this sort, and would be glad to hear from such girls at Telephone Number 1170,

GREATER INTEREST IN EDUCATION NOW

Premier Ferguson Reports Support of Schools is on Lavish Scale.

TORONTO, July 3. — Canadian Press. — That the general public is interested in education as never before, is the assertion contained in the report of Ontario's Minister of Education, Premier G. H. Ferguson, for 1924. This unprecedented interest is responsible for the prosperous and satisfactory condition of the school system as a whole, the report notes.

The financial support of the schools is on a generous and to some extent lavish scale, and the attendance is larger than ever before.

Mention is made in the report that the teaching profession continues to attract the right kind of material, and the continuing high salaries are a contributing factor to the emolument and permanent attraction of teaching as an avocation.

The policy of transferring some of the facilities of higher education to high schools is being developed, the report comments, in announcing that the intention is to transfer the first year University course to local centres, some time late in 1926.

CHARITY BEQUEST FOR POOR KIDDIES

Estate of London Citizen to Provide Home For Poor Children.

LONDON, Ont., July 3.—(Canadian Press.)— London charity receives the largest donation in the history of the city from the late Albert MacGarvey, who has left almost his entire estate of $208,795, for the erection of a home in London for poor children. Although not specified in the will it is more than likely that the home will be named after Mr. MacGarvey's wife, who predeceased him and will be called in all probability the Lucinda MacGarvey Memorial Home For Children.

CEMETERIES IMPROVED.

Credit Due Women of Rural Communities For Work of Beauty and Grace.

LONDON, Ont., July 3.—(Canadian Press.) — "Peggy Wadson," writing in the London Free Press of "Decoration Day" in a 'little cemetery on the hill,' when June was at her best and Western Ontario at the height of her loveliness, speaks of the improvement in the care of rural graveyards. "Not so long ago this little 'God's acre' was a dreary spot, with unkept plots in many cases, straggling headpieces, rough, uneven ground, and long grass left uncut year after year. As a countrywoman, one is proud to say that it was the women of the community, led by the Women's Institute members, who started the ball rolling towards an improved cemetery. It was the women of the community who got the men awakened to the possibilities of the undertaking and encouraged them to give of their time, strength and equipment in a united effort to beautify the burying ground."

WEDDING BELLS.

MORRIS—PATERSON.

The wedding took place at two o'clock this afternoon, at St. Paul's church, of Jane Gunson, daughter of Mrs. John Patterson, 482 Cambridge street, and the late John Patterson, and Alexander Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Morris, of Glasgow, Scotland. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. L. Craw of Springville.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother in law, Robert Dingwall, of Detroit, Michigan, wore pale blue crepe de chine, with sand-colored hat and bouquet of ophelia roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Isabel Paterson, was attired in peach crepe de chine, with sand hat and bouquet of carnations.

Mr. David Kay of Detroit, Michigan, supported the bridegroom.

After the ceremony a reception and buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride.

A. R. MOORE WAS SEVERELY HURT IN MOTOR CRASH

High County Constable Sustained Compound Fracture of Leg Last Night.

AT CHEMONG PARK.

Car Backed Up, Pinning Mr. Moore Against His Own Car.

At a late hour last night, Archie Moore, a well-known resident of Peterborough, sustained a compound facture of the leg at Chemong Park.

Mr. Moore, who had spent the evening at the Park, was in the act of fixing the carburetor of his automobile in preparation for going home whe nanother car, driven by Sidney Rooke, 279 Park street, backed out from the parking place on the roadside and pinned Mr. Moore tightly between the two cars.

Mr. Moore's leg was almost severed from his body by the impact and he lost an enormous quantity of blood. First Aid was immediately rendered and a doctor was summoned from Peterborough by telephone.

Mr. Moore was removed to Nichlls' Hospital, where his condition is regarded as very serious.

Mr. Moore, who is nearly 70 years of age, was for many years High County Constable of Peterborugh and his name is still on the list as a county constable.

PROVINCE FILES SCHOOL DEFENCE

Admits None of Separate School Claims For Grants.

TRY CASE IN FALL.

TORONTO, July 4 (Canadian Press).—The defence statement of the Attorney General of Ontario to the claim of the Separate Schools of the Province to unearned grants, to the declaration of provincial legislation as ultra vires, and to the declaration that the Separate School supporters are wrongfully taxed to support continuation schools and collegiate institutes, has been drafted by the Government solicitors and has been filed with the Supreme Court at Osgoode Hall, preparatory to the trial of the issues at the Fall sitting of the court. No admission is made by the Province of any of the Separate School claims, but argument on the contrary is strongly given for the present system of apportioning grants, for the validity of the Ontario parliament's legislation and for the liability of Separate School supporters to be taxed for continuation school and collegiate purposes.

IRISH NAVIGATORS TO TRAIN SEAMEN

Shipping Interests Plan a School to Qualify Mariners For Various Degrees.

DUBLIN, July 4.—A conference of shipowners, brokers and others interested, has decided to establish a school for navigation. The private school which hitherto met this need has been closed since last February. In addition to the training of seamen and ship's officers in the subjects necessary to qualify them for certificates as masters and mates, the new school is expected to provide instruction for fishermen desiring certificates as shippers and second hands, and for boys desiring to follow a sea career.

VETERAN FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

Mac McVittie Was Dying When Found By Bridge Tender.

HAD SMALL RIFLE.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., July 4. —Canadian Press. — With a bullet hole in his temple and a .22 calibre rifle lying beside him, Mac McVittie, of Port Colborne, was found in a dying condition near the Lake street bridge over the Welland canal this morning by Bridge Tender Ellis.

McVittie, who was apparently a helper on the canal, wore a Canadian Great War Service Button and carried letters showing that he has a brother Robert in Southampton, Eng. He was taken to the general hospital in this city where he died at eleven o'clock.

MET DEATH BY SWERVING CAR

Detroit Man Tried to Dodge Car in Ditch on Highway.

CAR OVERTURNED.

BRANTFORD, July 4.—(Canadian Press).—Joseph Lovenger of Detroit met death this morning when he swerved the motor car which he was driving, in order to avoid colliding with a ditched automobile on the Hamilton highway, about ten miles from Brantford. His wife and two children were severely injured. The motor car overturned into the ditch. There were three other automobiles ditched between Brantford and the scene of the accident. Corroner Dr. Farmer was summoned, and an inquest will be held on the body of Lovenger.

EXPECT LARGE CROP THIS YEAR

Bureau Estimates Wheat Yield of 350 Million Bushels For Canada.

MORE THAN AVERAGE.

OTTAWA, July 4. — (Canadian Press).—A wheat yield of 350,000,000 bushels for Canada in 1925 is estimated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in a crop report issued yesterday. The figure is based upon the acreage of last year, and, according to reports received by the Bureau to date, the area sown this year is approximately the same as last. A yield of 350,000,000 bushels would be 10,000,000 above the average of the past five years.

"The practical elimination of the United States as an exporting country next year," states the report, "points to the likelihood of the maintenance of good prices from which Canada should benefit to the extent of her exportable surplus."

British Veterans in the United States Desire To Affiliate With Proposed Empire Legion

OTTAWA, July 4 (Canadian Press). — Expressing the hope that the movement now under way for an Empire-wide organization of war veterans would be sufficiently comprehensive to include British veterans in the United States, representatives of the G.W.V.A. of America, New York, have wired congratulations to Lt.-General Sir Richard Turner, V.C., on his election to the presidency of the G.W.V.A. of Canada. The message follows:

"The British Great War Veterans o. America respectfully congratulate you on your election as president of the Great War Veterans' Association and send through you its greetings to the officers and members. This organization expressed the hope that early arrangements can be made for this association to join with the Canadian organization in becoming part of the Empire-wide British legion. (Signed) Harry M. Herbert, President, Great War Veterans' Association of America

NO TRACE FOUND OF BANK ROBBER OF THORNDALE

Daring Youth Who Penned Staff in Vault Thought to Know District.

REWARD OFFERED.

Officials Are Trying to Trace McLaughlin Car Which He Drove.

LONDON, Ont., July 4.—(Canadian Press).—No trace has yet been found of the cool youth who, singlehanded, robbed the Bank of Montreal branch at Thorndale of between $6,000 and $7,000 a few minutes after three o'clock yesterday afternoon, after locking Manager Reid and his staff of three in the vault. There is a standing reward of $5,000 offered by the Canadian Bankers' Association for the apprehension or information leading to the arrest of the bank robber, and it is expected that the Bank of Montreal will offer a substantial addition to this. Middlesex County will not offer a reward, County Clerk John Stuart stated, pointing out that no person had been killed as in the famous Home Bank robbery at Melbourne in 1921, when Russell Campbell, a garage man, was shot and killed.

High Constable Wharton is endeavoring to trace the movements of the old McLaughlan touring car in which the robber vanished from the village.

The youthful robber stood carelessly by the side of his car in front of the bank yesterday waiting for the customer to conclude a conversation with the manager.

It is believed that the robber hails from Detroit, and is a former resident of the district, knowing the exact layout of the Thorndale Bank. Manager Reid this morning stated that none of the staff was suffering any ill effects from being locked up in the stuffy vault for over half an hour.

Earthquake Shook Down Numerous Houses in Japan

TOKIO, July 4.—(Canadian Press). — Numerous houses crumbled to-day when a severe earthquake struck Yonago, 100 miles west of Kobe, which was also shaken. No casualties were reported.

TO-DAY'S MARKET.

Butter Sold at 37 to 40 Cents and Eggs at 35 Cents.

The sticky warmth of a hot July morning after a rain pervaded the farmers' market this morning. There was not much produce on the carts and the available supplies had a quick sale. Upstairs, supplies of butter and eggs went at a slower pace. The ice cream cone man had a busy morning. Strawberries were selling, two boxes for 35 cents.

Little spring chickens were priced as high as 50 cents a pound, with 40 and 45 cents generally asked. One woman, however, had April birds at 30 cents a pound. Hens were 22 and 23 cents.

Butter was 37 to 40 cents a pound and eggs were 35 cents a dozen.

Garden stuff on the open market was priced at usual rates. Tender little new carrots were 5 cents a bunch. Old potatoes were $1 a bag.

Plenty of flowers at moderate prices were offered on the market this morning; sweet william and pink roses and pansies, yellow and white daisies and orange blossom.

CHINESE DEMAND REPARATION FOR THOSE WOUNDED

Also Require Punishment of Authorities Concerned in Clash.

BLAME FOREIGNERS.

Chinese Disclaim Responsibility, But British Claim Natives Guilty.

(By Alfred Hicks, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

HONG KONG, July 4. — The Canton government has presented demands for compensation for Chinese killed and wounded in the recent Shameen disturbance.

The note presented to the British and French consuls also demands punishment of the authorities concerned in the affair.

The Chinese have blamed the foreigners at Shameen for the recent clash, while the foreigners, particularly the British, have claimed that the Chinese alone were responsible.

"Boy Scouts" Led Mob.

CHUNGKING, China, July 4. — Canadian Press. — The Asiatic Petroleum Company's property here was entered to-day by 800 hoodlum Chinese soldiers who destroyed the office and ransacked the living quarters of the staff.

The mob scattered only when the British gun boat Teal arrived.

So-called Chinese "boy scouts" led another mob which stoned workmen on the wharf of a British company here.

The attackers were scattered by British marines, who charged with bayonets. One Chinese was injured.

AMUNDSEN WILL LECTURE ON TRIP

Intends to Visit America This Month to Tell of Adventures.

ROYAL WELCOME.

By Olav Myre
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

OSLO, July 4.—Captain Roald Amundsen, Arctic explorer, who intends to make some lectures on his recent aerial venture to near the Pole, plans to go to America this month.

He is due here to-morrow afternoon and everything is arranged to give him a royal welcome.

LONE BANDIT ROBS BANK AT THORNDALE

Emptied Till of $7,000—Locked Employees in Vault.

LONDON, Ont., July 4 (Canadian Press).—A branch of the Bank of Montreal at Thorndale was entered by an armed lone bandit at three o'clock Friday afternoon. Employees were forced into the vault at the point of a revolver and locked in. About $7,000 was taken from the till. The man escaped in a McLaughlin four-cylinder touring car. He was 5 feet 6 inches in height, weight about 140 pounds, age about 25; slight, thin face heavily smeared with dirt or oil. He wore a grey suit of shoddy and a grey peak cap. His revolver was an Ivor-Johnson of gun-metal.

Brockville Water Rates Reduced For Many Homes

BROCKVILLE, July 3 (Canadian Press).—Eighty per cent. of Brockville's water users are to get their aqua a little cheaper, and twenty per cent. will pay more, according to a new system of charges just announced by the Public Utilities Commission. The new system of charging is based on the number of rooms in dwellings as against the number of occupants, and will entail a drop in revenue of the department of about five thousand annually.

FALLING WALLS BURY DANCERS IN NIGHT CLUB

Unknown Number Covered in Ruins of the Pickwick Building.

EIGHT DEAD.

Patrol Man Leaped From Sagging Roof to Next Building.

BOSTON, July 4. — (Canadian Press).—An indeterminate number of men and women, estimated at between thirty and fifty, were buried beneath the wreckage of a five-storey building early to-day when the wall of the Pickwick Club, an all night dancing resort of Beach Street, collapsed. Police estimated shortly before ten o'clock this morning that at least eight persons had lost their lives.

One unidentified girl was taken from the ruins, and rescue workers reported seeing the bodies of two other women and five men in the wreckage. It is believed that others would be found as the work of clearing away the bricks proceeded.

Leaped to Safety.

A patrolman who had been on the roof of the building said that there was a noise "like an earthquake," and that three walls and then the roof went down. He leaped to an adjacent building and made his way to the street. He said that there had been 125 men and women dancing and drinking in the place when the collapse came.

THE WEATHER

Frequent, copious showers have been characteristic of this spring and summer, notwithstanding the dire predictions early in the year by some scientists and would-be weather prophets that we were in for a period of drought. Instead of a shortage of rainfall, we have had rain in abundance. In June of last year the rainfall was a fraction short of two inches; in June of this year it amounted to over 4½ inches. Another good shower occurred last night and to-day. The most pessimistic and grouchy agriculturist now acknowledges that crop prospects are particularly bright. These conditions apparently prevail all over Canada, notwithstanding the fact that the voice of the chronic croaker can be heard, it is said, farther than a fog horn. Cool conditions still continue, and with the exception of the first eight days of June there has been little excessive heat. The thermometer for some time past rarely goes above 75 degrees, nor descends below 55 degrees at night. —W. P.

Flanders Poppy Becomes Popular American Flower

LOS ANGELES, July 4. — "Poppies that grow in Flanders fields" and the sentiment surrounding them have resulted in that variety of flower becoming one of the most popular in America, according to L. D. Waller, a horticulturist.

The lore and sentiment surrounding the Flanders poppy have also developed a new type of California poppy known as the American Legion. The sale of poppies has increased 1,000 per cent. in the past ten years, Waller said.

STORM STREWS COUNTRY WITH FELLED TREES

Tornado-Like Wind Visited St. David's, Southern Ontario, To-day.

ORCKARDS WRECKED.

Fruit Trees Broken Off and Great Damage is Reported.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont July 4. Canadian Press. — A storm that reached the intensity of a tornado, struck St. David's early to-day leaving a trail of wreckage in its wake. Many orchards were wrecked by the wind. The major portion of a fine orchard was felled to the ground. Trees were forced to the ground and broken off short. From no other points in the district are damage reports received.

BERESFORD WON SKULLS AGAIN

London Oarsman Repeated His Triumph of Last Year.

BEAT GALLAN.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, Eng., July 4.—(Canadian Press).—Beresford, Jr., of London, won the Diamond sculls in the Henley Regatta to-day by defeating G. H. L. Gollan, of the Leander Club. Beresford won the event last year. Yesterday he eliminated Walter Hoover, U.S. oarsman, from the competition for the jewelled sculling trophy.

ASKS NATIONS TO ENTER COVENANT

Coolidge Pledges Moral Support of U.S.A. to European States.

NO COMMITTMENTS.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 4. — (Canadian Press).—President Coolidge last night called on the Nations of Europe to enter into mutual covenants for their mutual security, pledging the moral support of the United States Government if they do so.

"While our own country should refrain from making political committments where it does not have political interests," he declared, "such covenants would always have the moral support of our Government and could not fail to have the commendation of the public opinion of the world."

Never a Broadcast Heard From Roxy on the Radio

As per your request, I listened patiently, and turned dials industriously, to hear Roxy: speeches on "Preparedness," "U. S. Navy the greatest in the world," "Child Welfare," Jazz in abundance, patriotic airs (U. S. of course) filled the air, together with imitations, a long-way off, of Harry Lauder, but never a sound of Roxy at the hotel at Mount Julian, though the band could be heard distinctly and loudly on the board walks of Atlantic City.—W. P.

Editor's Note. — It was learned late yesterday evening that Roxy would be unable to broadcast last night as promised. Try Sunday night.

PROHIBITION CHIEFS OF GOTHAM AND PHILADELPHIA ADMIT THAT WET SENTMENT HAS CONQUERED

Aggresive Officials Acknowledge Failure to Clean Up Big Eastern Cities.

"CAN'T BE DONE."

Blame Legal and Political Systems—Can't Make New York Dry.

NEW YORK, July 4.—Smedley Butler and Emory Buckner, those two-fisted champions of prohibition who were "cleaning up" Philadelphia and New York respectively, have come to the conclusion that "it can't be done."

As long as the legal and political systems are what they are, say Butler and Buckner, simultaneously, although not jointly, prohibition enforcement is unattainable.

Butler is quitting at the end of the year; Buckner has given no intimation of such intention, but his job as United States attorney covers a multitude of sins, and it is as a hard fighter against the liquor license of Broadway that he has earned fame since coming here to succeed Colonel Hayward.

Was Double-Crossed.

"I've been double-crossed at every turn," said "Old Gimlet Eye," Philadelphia's director of public safety. "I've been kicked around and I'm tired of it. I may have failed, but I wasn't bluffed. The job goes back to the city authorities at the end of the year."

Prohibition Impossible.

"Antiquated, creaking federal machinery and unbelieveable parsimony" have hampered prohibition enforcement in New York to such an extent that it is impossible to enforce the law, Buckner asserted in a Rotary club speech. He said that under the prevailing court system, New York cannot be made dry.

Boys Organize To Give Blood At Own Expense

LONDON, July 4.—(Special by United Press).—An organization known as "The Rovers," an elder brother of the Boy Scout movement has organized a blood transfusion service for London hospitals.

The members, who are all chosen for medical fitness, are subject to summons day and night, and on receiving a call, drop everything and take a taxi cab to the hospital. They receive no pay, and all expenses are borne by the Rovers themselves. Their only reward is a certificate of honor.

CABINET WOULD RID BRITAIN OF SOVIET MISSION

Churchill Favors Packing the Russian Delegation Back to Moscow.

THEN CLOSE DOOR.

Germany Fears Britain May Be Embroiled With the Bolsheviks.

LONDON, July 4.—Soviet Foreign Minister Tchitcherin's statement in Moscow that the British Conservative Cabinet is heading toward war with Russia is prominently displayed by the newspapers here.

Premier Baldwin has been keeping the closest kind of a watch on alleged propaganda activities of Soviet agents against British interests in various parts of the globe.

No Military Action.

A majority of his Cabinet, headed by Lord Birkenhead, are desirous of immediately cancelling the remaining diplomatic privileges accorded to Soviet representatives in London on account of the Bolshevik anti-British activities in China, India, Persia and elsewhere.

Nothing in the way of military action such as Tchitcherin predicts has been contemplated even by the most rabid anti-soviet minister in the British Cabinet.

All that the Birkenhead faction — which includes Chancellor of the Exchequer Winston Churchill — wants is to have the whole Russian delegation here sent back to Moscow and to make impossible the admitting of Bolshevik Russians to England.

Foreign Secretary Austen Chamberlain opposes any such step and will continue to fight it unless other powers are prepared to take similar action.

BERLIN APPREHENSIVE.

BERLIN, July 4. — Grave fears are entertained in Germany that Great Britain is being crowded into a position where she will soon consider it necessary, in defence of her interests, to strike a blow against Russia.

Even if such a move be only diplomatic, there is a keen realization in Berlin that the consequences of Germany leaning either toward the East or the West cannot now be foreseen.

Tension Increases.

Tension between England and Russia, according to confidential information in diplomatic channels, is steadily increasing.

To the demand of Lord Birkenhead, Secretary of State for India, foreshadowing the possibility of a severance of relations between Great Britain and Russia, Georges Tchitcherin, Soviet Foreign Minister, has answered that the severing of relations would be an unfriendly act, "the last consequence of which is war."

His statement is interpreted here as a threat to London.

Asiatic Activities.

Moscow's alleged activities against British interests in Asia will, it is believed here, force London to take some kind of action.

Germany is beginning to see herself in a key position between the Westerrn powers and Russia. Well informed persons believe the effort to rush Germany into the League of Nations is a preliminary effort by Britain and France to put up a united front against Russia.

No Canadian life insurance company has ever defaulted, and that no person has therefore ever lost a dollar through the failure of any Canadian life office.

SOVIET MEMBER HAD CERTIFICATE FOR AGITATION

"Comrade Dosser Is Sent For Organizing Strikes," Says Paper.

ASKS ASSISTANCE.

Document Links Up Soviet Consulate With Shanghai Troubles.

SHANGHAI, July 4.—(Special by United Press).—The International Mixed Court has cancelled $10,000 bail of Zeinovi Dosser, the Soviet agent, arrested when a document was found concealed in the binding of his code book, reading, "Certificate of the agitation department of the Russian Communist Party in Shanghai, No. 43. The bearer, Comrade Dosser, is sent by the agitation department of the section of Southern China to Hong Kong and Canton for organizing strike committees.

"All members of the Russian Communist Party should give him every assistance."

This paper bore the seal of the agitation department, June 16, in Shanghai, and was signed "Agitation Department, Communist Party."

The document is considered as the most important yet made, as it links definitely the Soviet Consulate here with the strike.

BIG FISH FALL FOR ROXY'S GANG

The Leader Took Whopp When Out Only Fifteen Minutes Last Night.

AT OAK ORCHARD.

Roxy and his gang have been enjoying themselves immensely up the lakes and are catching plenty of fish. Roxy himself had been out only 15 minutes when he caught a five-pound bass, and other members of the party have also been successful.

Some members of the party made the trip around to Oak Orchard today. They were the guests of Perry Alexander for lunch, and then returned to South Beach.

To-morrow morning they will leave South Beach by car, stopping at Bewdley, and then proceeding to Port Hope to take a train for Toronto.

To-morrow night they will broadcast their experiences in the Kawartha district from the King Edward Hotel, Toronto. They will be tied in with a number of stations in the eastern United Stations, reaching according to Roxy, at least 8,000,000 people at a conservative estimate.

Life insurance in Canada total on December 31, 1924, the huge of $3,750,000,000, as against $35,680,082 in 1860.

R. S. SOUTHWORTH GIVEN TOKEN BY HIS CAMPBELLFORD FRIENDS

Presented With Gold Watch and Addres—Going to Vancouver.

RESIGNS COUNCIL.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 4—R. S. Southworth, who leaves town today for Vancouver was on Friday presented by a number of friends and fellow Masons with an address and a handsome white gold watch and chain as a token of esteem. The presentation was held in the Oddfellows' room in the Ferris Block, the address being read by A. L. Riendeau and the watch presented by Dr. H. B. Longmore.

The address was as follows:

Dear Stan — The undersigned, who have been your fellow townsmen for years and have associated with you in the various activities of church, lodge or club, of town council, of Chamber of Commerce or in the everyday interests of the round of life wish to express to you their hearty appreciation of your good fellowship and their recognition of your ready co-operation in anything that was for the good of any phase of community life.

We regret that you find it necessary to terminate your residence here and heartily hope that wherever you go you may find success in business, good health for yourself and family, and true friends.

We ask you to take away with you a little expression of our regard and hope that it will remind you in days to come of the friends you are leaving behind you.

Signed by—A. L. Riendeau, Dr. H. B. Longmore, T. L. Diamond, P. C. Denyes, J. A. Loucks, J. Stuart, C. Black, George O'Sullivan, S. J. Dolman, J. P. Archer, H. Lowery, D. W. Douglas, J. C. Birmingham, J. Maynard, W. S. Wiggins, L. B. Glover, C. Madoo, G. A. Kingston, C. Davidson; W. J. Armsrtong, F. W. Wood, Dr. O. C. Watson, H. W. Carr, T. S. Tait, D. E. Tait, J. O'Sullivan, S. H. Neale, F. Linton, J. Linton, John Gay, A. J. Meyers, N. Thompson, J. E. Birks.

Mr. Southworth acknowledged the gift in fitting terms and all of those present joined in wishing him a happy and prosperous future.

Mr. Southworth was one of Campbellford's most successful business men. He was owner of the Trent Valley Creameries with a branch at Keene but disposed of this property some time ago as his wife's health demanded a change of climate. Mrs. Southworth is at present in Vancouver where her husband expects to spend at least two months, going later to California. He may go into business in the latter state but has, as yet, made no definite plans for the future.

Vacancy in Council

Mr. Southworth on Friday placed his resignation as councillor in the hands of Town Clerk McGregor and this matter will be dealt with at the regular meeting Monday evening. The special election to fill the vacancy is likely to occasion one of the hottest municipal contests held in Campbellford for years and certain local issues depend to a great extent on the result.

Seine Suicides Stopped By Life-Saving Stations

By MINOTT SAUNDERS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, July 4. — (United Press).—Back through several centuries the swift, silvery Seine hasl ure d forlorn folk who felt that life was not worth living, but today it is not so easy to fall into the forgetfulness of those whirling waters. Statistics of last year show that seventy-five percent of those persons who jumped into the river were pulled out again.

Tolerance and philosophy notwithstanding, the French have organized to prevent Seine suicides, and the life-saving stations last year achieved a glorious record. Out of 321 suicidal attempts, the books show 239 rescues. Of these all but a dozen were restored to their previously unhappy state of livelihood.

Pont Neuf Popular.

Pont Neuf still retains its popularity. It easily maintained its prestige last year, with Pont Alexandre III a poor second, despite the fact that the Alexandre bridge is the more beautiful. Pount Neuf, however, has the advantage of being near the municipal morgue, in the purlieus of the Latin Quarter and rich in the lore of historical suicides. But times have changed, and it is now a doubtful place from which to jump because, disrespectful of tradition, the best life-savers are concentrated in that neighborhood. Some medals have been awarded, and several hitherto sad hearts are now cheerful because of last years' record, but in the garrets over the Left Bank they say that the romance of Pont Neuf is passing.

MORE THAN 100 HOUSES BUILT BY W. M. RUNNELS IN CAMPBELLFORD

Buys Lot For His Sixth House in Last Five Years.

RESORT ROMANCE.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 4.—W. M. Runnels has purchased from Mrs. Sam West a vacant lot on Canrobert Street, adjoining the residence at the corner of Sebastapol Street, and proposes to erect upon it a modern bungalow, work on which will be started early this Fall. This house, when completed, will make the sixth residence that Mr. Runnels has put up in the last five years, every one of them modern and of a style of architecture so attractive that he has never failed to secure purchasers or tenants for them before they were finished.

The latest residence to be erected by Mr. Runnels was the handsome brick structure on Sebastopol street, which he has reserved for his own home, and now occupies. The walls are built of Milton red rug brick, the only material of that kind in Campbellford. He has been offered a fancy cash prices for the place, but cannot be tempted to part with it.

Mr. Runnels is the oldest builder in Campbellford, and has in his day erected more than one hundred houses. Nearly sixty years ago he and his father put down the first sidewalks ever laid in Campbellford, the material used being the old plank that was taken from the bridge over the Trent, when that structure was first repaired. One sidewalk was laid on Queen Street from the corner of Tice to where the residence of Dr. H. B. Longmore now stands. Another sidewalk ran from the present site of the Standard Bank to what at that time was a white frame hotel, later burned down and replaced by the St. Lawrence Hall. The boards, many of them well worn, were laid on cedar stringers furnished by the contractors.

GEISELMAN—RISDEN

The routine of life at Stanley Keller's summer resort at Healey Falls was diversified Thursday afternoon, when two of the American guests were united in marriage by Rev. James Grier, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Campbellford. The contracting parties were Helen May Risden of Homesworth, Iowa, and Howard Edwin Geiselman of Alliance, in the same state. The parents of the bride, who are also guestts at the resort, were among those present, and the young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Keller.

Mr. and Mrs. Geiselman left Friday morning on a motor trip to Iowa. They will return to Healey Falls early in September, when the groom, who is an interior decorator, will be engaged in the construction work on a number of new cottages which Americans will erect at that place.

Pickerel Record.

A pickeral weighing 10½ pounds, taken from the waters of Crow Bay, is the piscatorial trophy claimed by J. I. Adams. This holds the local record to date by four pounds.

Leaves for Almonte.

A. G. Thompson, teller in the local branch of the Standard Bank, has left for Almonte, where he will put in two weeks relieving the manager there, who has gone on his vacation.

HASTINGS SCHOOL PROBLEM IS LEFT TO RATEPAYERS' DECISION

Councillors Did Not Approve of Continuation School Proposal.

A LONG DEBATE.

After Heated Discussion Decided to Put By-law to People.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

HASTINGS, July 4. — Hastings educational problem was advanced another step last night when the council in regular session unanimously decided to submit to the taxpayers a bylaw providing for the issue of 20-year debentures to raise $15,000 for the purpose of erecting a three-room public school building.

Linked up with this question is a proposition to remodel the present school building, converting it into a two-room Continuation school.

All of the members of the council were present, except Councillor Hatherley, who is nursing a broken ankle. The trustees in attendance to back up their proposal were A. Y. German, chairman, C. P. Doughty, secretary, and Trustees Harry Dodd and R. N. Simpson.

A Change of Plan.

Secretary Doughty, who was chief spokesman for the trustees, stated that at the June meeting of the council the board had asked for $30,000, the intention at that time being to put up a six-room new building, three rooms to be used for Continuation classes, the Separate and Public school Boards to combine in paying for this department. This plan has since been changed, the intention now being to put up a three room Public school and fit up the old building for Continuation classes. The amount now asked for by the Board was $15,000. Plans for the proposed new building had been prepared by a Toronto architect, and an official from the department of Education had been brought to Hastings to look over the situation.

It is proposed by the Board to lease the old building to the Continuation school board at a rental of $400 a year for five years. It is estimated that the cost of remodeling this building will be $500. The rent was to be paid by Public and Separate school supporters in proportion to their assessment. Less the grants the former would pay $50 and the latter $30 a year of the rent.

An agreement, sealed and signed by members of the two boards, embracing the above conditions, was laid before the council together with the architect's plans.

A Long Debate.

A long and at times acrimonious debate followed. Councillor Doxsee questioned the power of a School Board to compel ratepayers to pay taxes for a Union Continuation School, calling attention to the fact that a test case to settle this very question was now being tried in Osgoode Hall.

"We need a school," said Councillor Dodd. "What is the use of arguing any more about it?"

Reeve Hess and Councillors Doxsee and McDonald, while declaring that they recognized the need of a new school, refused to accept the proposition of the Trustees.

Secretary Doughty advanced argument after argument in support of the Board's stand. There are, he said, five candidates from the Public School who wrote at the recent entrance examinations, while there are 20 or 25 new pupils waiting to enter the school after the summer vacation. The rooms are already overcrowded, and the Board cannot see how these additional pupils are to be accommodated. The trustees planned to have the new building ready by September 1st.

A Time-Worn Issue.

Trustee Simpson said he had lived in Hastings for 10 years, and the question of a new school was an issue before his arrival. There was, however, always some object in the way. A good school was an asset to business men and all classes of citizens as the lack of it kept desirable people away from the village.

Reeve States Position.

Reeve Hess stated his position clearly, and also submitted some figures that were a revelation to some of those present. The Reeve is in favor of good public school facilities, and that this should include adequate playgrounds in which the pupils could have proper exercise. He is convinced, however, that a combined public and continuation school is too heavy a financial proposition for a municipality the size of Hastings.

The Reeve figured that the combinder school would cost the municipality $5,500 extra every year allowing $725 for the yearly interest and $700 to pay the debenture principal. This would mean an increase in the tax rate of over 30 mills for the public school supporters, whose total assessment is now $179,000. At present they pay a school rate of 14 mills and the new school would boost this to at least 42. Hastings' tax rate at present is exactly that figure. He maintained that as some of the taxpayers were not in a position to stand such an additional burden they should be given an opportunity to say whether they were willing to assume this debt.

Finally the discussion was closed when Councillor McDonald moved, seconded by Councillor Dodd, that a by-law be submitted to the people. This carried unanimously.

Secretary Doughty stated that he had been instructed by his colleagues, in the event of the Council failing to consent to a debenture issue, to ask that they submit the question to the people, so that he was satisfied with the action taken.

Routine Business

After passing the usual monthly bills the council disposed of other business. As a recognition of his satisfactory service Constable Trinkwon was granted an increase of salary of $5 a month and was authorized to secure assistance to preserve order during the Orange celebration in the village on Monday, July 13th. A tax of $2 will be charged residents for the privilege of operating a booth on that day while outsiders will be required to pay $5.

H. J. Hodgett, representing the Goodyear Rubber Company, sold the Council 200 feet of fire hose at $1.00 a foot.

Clerk Wilson's Position

Clerk Alex Wilson who is a recognized authority on municipal law was the sharpest critic of the School Board's proposition. He pointed out among other things that while the Public School supporters would bear the entire cost of fitting up the old building they would pay $50 a year of the rental as against the $30 to be paid by the Separate School supporters.

He also challenged the debenture estimates of Secretary Doughty, whose figures provided for a small payment during the firts year, this gradually increasing until the amount due the 20th or last year was over $1200 by which time, Mr. Wilson said the school building would probably be in need of repairs. Secretary Doughty said that his figures were subject to revision.

SOFT BALL GAMES AT CAMPBELLFORD

Outlaws Held Up Clerks — Hydro Electrocuted Masons.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 4—Playing errorless ball behind the clever pitching of DeCarroll, the Outlaws kept up their winning record at the expense of the Clerks by a score of 6 to 4.

The Outlaws got all the breaks of the game. Errors by the usually reliable Clerk infield at critical moments giving the Outlaws the majority of their runs.

In the other fixture the good Hydro team outslugged and outfielded the Masons to win by 24 to 11.

HOLIDAY FOR WIVES ADVISED BY DOCTOR

Complete Change From All Household Duties.

BERLIN, July 4.—Every wife needs at least fourteen days' vacation each year—and not just a trip with the husband and family, but a complete change and freedom from all household and family duties.

That is the prescription of Dr. Schweisheimer, of Berlin.

The wife, says Dr. Schweisheimer, is under greater, because more constant, nervous strain than man, and therefore is bound to have a nervous collapse sooner or later.

Symptoms which a wife wanting a vacation should be able to recount he lists as nervousness, a tired feeling, melancholy, heart trouble, headaches, sleeplessness and lack of appetite.

KEENE WON LAST GAME OF SECTION

Defeated Lakefield 10-8 to Wind Up First Half of Schedule.

KEENE, July 4.—Lakefield and Keene hooked up in the last game of the first half of the E.P.L. schedule here last night, Keene winning 10 to 8.

Keene played good ball in all but the fifth inning, when a walk and two errors coupled with some timely hits netted seven runs for Lakefield. Keene went to work in their half, scoring three more, sewing up the game. Barring this inning, Robertson, for Keene, had things pretty well his own way, having good fielding behind him, while Keene hit Woodhouse fairly hard all through the game. The line up:

Keene.—C. Robertson, c; E. McCarthy, 1b, rf; M. Renwick, 3b; M. Stone, ss; M. Robertson, p; W. Fletcher, cf; R. Comrie, df; A. Fletcher, 2b; M. McCarthy, ss. 1b.

Lakefield.—Sherin, ss; Grier, 2b; Hill 3b; Northey, c; James, 1b; Payne, lf; Hamblin, cf; Dench, rf; Woodhouse, p.

Score by innings:

Lakefield	0000710— 8
Keene	302230x—10

Keene Girls' Sofetball team defeated Norwood 17 to 0 in the baseball tournament and were leading 6 to 0 against Havelock in the third inning when the umpire called the game on account of the crowd overflowing the field.

BURNBRAE WON IN RAGGED GAME

English Line Pitcher Allowed Only 7 Hits, But Had No Support.

SCORE WAS 10-2.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 4. — The English Line ball team trotted out "Joey" Ibey to hold the heavy hitting Burnbrae outfit in check in their Seymour League game played here last night, and although "Joey" restricted them to 7 hits and fanned 13 in 7 innings, his team mates fell down in fielding, and Burnbrae was on the big end of a 10 to 2 score.

Burnbrae gathered 4 runs in the second inning on five hits and a error. Hume led off with a single to right. Ibey got under L. Little's pop fly. Johnson laid one down the third base line and Hume beat the throw home. Hay struck out, but Craighead dropped the third strike and then threw wild to first. F. Little punched a single through short and Johnston scored. Craighead fanned, Rainnie singled through third and came home with the fourth run of the inning. Eagleson shot a single to right, Grills got under Shillinglaw's high fly.

The English Line got one back in their half. After E. Godden rolled an easy one to Shillinglaw, Daniel beat out a bunt. T. Little singled to centre. K. Godden dropped a hit in right and Daniel scored, but T. Little was caught at third. Ibey shot a single over second, but Diamond watched the third strike float over. Hume started the third with a single to centre. Lew Little fanned. So did Johnston, but Craighead lost the third one and Hume scored. Johnston pulling up at second. Hay was out, Craighead to Maybee, and F. Little was Ibey's third strike out victim of the inning.

Craighead got the longest hit of the game to start the English Line's third inning. After missing two strikes he connected with one of Barney's drops and the horsehide landed out on the track in right. Craighead pulling up at third. Grills was out, Eagleson to Shillinglaw. Maybee was safe on L. Little's error, Craighead scoring. E. Godden was out on his roller to L. Little, and Daniel's foul fly was gathered in by Shillinglaw.

Burnbrae made it safe by scoring in the 5th. Hume fanned but Craighead lost the third one. L. Little flied to T. Little, Johnston fanned but Craighead lost the third one again, and when he threw wide to first Hume scored. Hay fanned and F. Little was out, Maybee to Ibey who covered first.

Burnebrae made it safe by scoring 4 runs on one hit in the sixth. Craighead fanned for the third time. Rainnie was out, Ibey to Maybee. Eagleson drew a walk and stole second. Shillinglaw hit over Godden's head in right for two bases, and Eagleson scored. Hume rolled one down to Diamond, who fumbled. L. Little took a fast one in the ribs. Grills messed up Johnston's slow roller, but Hay fanned to end the agony..

Line Up.

English Line (2).—Ibey, p; Craighead, c; Maybee, 1b; Diamond, 2b; Grills, 3b; Daniel, ss; K. Godden, rf; T. Little, cf; E. Godden, lf.

Umpires—Donald and Chaplin.

CAUSE AND EFFECT.

The American Bar Association is reported to be interesting itself in the growing unwillingness of the citizenry to submit all grievances and arguments to the "due process of law" and casting about for the cause and the cure, says the Hamilton Spectator. It need look no farther than its own household. The daily newspapers of the United States, with their flash headlines, tell the complete story—that the courts have ceased to be the habitat of justice and, instead, are the playgrounds of clever lawyers. One reads of the brilliant duels of opposing counsel. That the plain rights and wrongs of the case are submerged to these oratorical duels—and very often completely lost sight of—is seemingly unimportant. The average man, not having the wherewithal to engage one of these high-priced jury spell-binders, may be pardoned if he is skeptical about his chances of getting justice. Our American cousins are an up-and-doing people who have taught the world a lesson in industrial efficiency. They have evolved short-cuts to speed up production in everything but their courts, which are now years behind in their work in some States, without hope of ever catching up. American industry has dispensed with every unnecessary movement, while the courts have been adding new ones daily. The number of obstacles counsel can put in the way of justice depends entirely upon the number of figures in his clients bank book. Chief Justice William Taft recently returned to his own country after a lengthy inspection of the British court system, and the comparisons he has drawn constitute scorching criticism of United States methods. If the American Bar Association is sincere in its expressed desire to again interest the citizenry in the "due process of law," it might wisely use Chief Justice Taft's report as a starting point.

THE ANNUAL WASTE.

There is something familar and at the same time something exasperating in the story from the Niagara fruit belt that the cherry crop is so large that many cherries will rot on the trees for the want of pickers.

Surely there must be some way of meeting this situation each year that the waste represented by this failure to pick a bountiful crop may be avoided.

In the cities are thousands of people who would welcome some of these cherries; the producers surely would like to dispose of them to advantage.

Yet in every season we are greeted by the reports of fruit rotting on the trees or the bushes, as the case may be.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture, it is presumed, has paid some attention to the problem, but not enough apparently to arrive at a solution.

It is to be hoped that the experts in the service of the department will continue to consider the matter until a more business-like method of marketing the fruit Nature so bountifully bestows upon the Province has been established.

Closer co-operation between city and country is, of course, needed to bring about better conditions, and as the Examiner sees the matter, it should be the duty of the Provincial Department of Agriculture to strive to bring about such co-operation.

We cannot honestly consider ourselves a business-like people so long as we let cherries and peaches and strawberries rot for want of pickers or markets.

ACTION MAY BE NEEDED.

Whatever may be the truth about the situation in the anthracite coal fields, there seems to be little doubt as to the likelihood of a complete tie-up.

The mine workers have decided to demand an increase in wages.

At the same time they declare that the operators will refuse to sign an agreement with their men, but will close the mines, and with ten million tons ready for sale will raise the price to the consumer.

Examiner readers can draw their own conclusion as to the truth or otherwise of this charge, but whether on the target or not, the outlook is such as to cause worry as to next winter's fuel supply.

Fortunately there is plenty of warning, the dealers in Ontario are presumably fairly well supplied, and those citizens who have funds or credit enough to secure their next winters coal now have an opportunity to do so and should take advantage of it.

As for the people not in a position to do this, the situation presents some disquieting possibilities.

If the prices go up, and they undoubtedly will in the event of a strike, those least able to carry the burden will be hit in two ways, by difficulty in securing fuel at all and by having to pay high prices for what coal they can get.

Local fuel committees were necessary in other years to deal with a similar situation, and it is not too soon for such committees to begin considering ways and means of handling the crisis that seems to be developing.

THE ROTARY CAMP.

Something has been said about the Rotary Club's work on behalf of crippled children.

It is a splendid effort, and by itself furnishes sufficient reason for community co-operation on behalf of the Rotary Carnival on July 16th—but it by no means tells the whole story of Rotary activity in Peterboro.

The summer camp is another fine Rotary achievement, linked up as it is with the general work for under-privileged boys.

There are few permanent camps in the country better located, better equipped or better supervised than Camp Rotary on Clear Lake.

A beautiful site in a clearing on the sloping east shore of Clear Lake, a vista of the smiling waters of the lake in the foreground with Kawartha Park further away, and northward the green-clad granite islands of Stoney Lake, behind the camp a grove of trees, and further back a field where baseball and other sports can be enjoyed, comfortable dormitories, a commodious dining and assembly building with a fireplace for duty on cold nights, ample equipment insofar as dishes and other utensils are concerned, boats to carry the young voyagers on delightful water trips, safe bathing facilities—these are some of the advantages of this fine camp.

For two weeks Peterboro boys who are unable to enjoy a holiday out of town are the guests of Rotary, which looks after getting them, keeping them supplied with food and entertainment, and brings them back again.

During the balance of the summer the camp is available for other organizations interested in boys' work, with the conditions attached that such boys shall not be charged more than actual cost for their stay in camp.

That means a cheap holiday for scores of boys who are in a position to pay and a free vacation for others who are unable to pay anything.

It is a great work and offers another reason why the Rotary Carnival should attract a huge patronage.

A SCHOOL PROBLEM.

The Canadian Council on Child Welfare of Ottawa has just distributed a brochure, written by Dr. S. B. Sinclair, which clearly sets forth a condition among the school children of Ontario, and as clearly suggests a remedy. The interest in education is universal, and therefore both these matters call insistently for consideration.

The condition to which allusion has just been made grows out of the fact that in every group of children of school age a certain more or less definite number are sub-normal and require special care. In a school area of 30,000 population and 5,000 pupils a survey would probably show 80 who were only between 50 and 75 per cent. normal in mentality, 18 who were seriously defective in hearing, 75 who are called "orthopedic" by reason of their inability to walk, 75 who must live as much as possible in the open air because of delicate health, and 10 whose insufficient sight prevents their being able to see the exercises set on the blackboard.

That is, broadly, the condition which prevails in the ordinary community. It means that 258 children in every 5,000 of school age are unable to hold their own in a class of normal pupils. They are handicapped. They cannot receive the full benefit of the training exercises, and their presence in the classroom is a hindrance to the free and satisfactory work of the teacher.

Since Ottawa has a Public School population of 10,200, it is a reasonable assumption that there are about 500 children in this city of school age who come within this classification. That brings the matter home to us as a problem in both education and sociology.

The solution is presented by Dr. Sinclair as follows:

"During recent school years, as the result of careful and extended scientific investigation and experiment, a large body of interesting and valuable information has been obtained regarding the correct diagnosis and treatment of abnormal children. Experience has demonstrated beyond doubt that, where practicable, not only the wisest but the most economical course is to place such children in a class by themselves with educational opportunities suited to their individual needs and with a teacher of natural aptitude, who has made special preparation for the work."

It is argued that such treatment saves the backward child from becoming a social derelict, carries him or her along to the possibilities of a happy life, protects the normal pupils from delays in their work, and saves the teacher from nervous strain, discouragement, and unjust censure. Dr. Sinclair asserts that experience has justified these conclusions. The first special training classes were organized in 1910 in Toronto, and, as the result of that experiment, the Auxiliary Class Act was passed by the Ontario Legislature in 1914. Under that Act Dr. Sinclair is Inspector of Auxiliary Classes, and therefore writes with authority.

The pamphlet deals comprehensively with every aspect of this problem and is a highly informative document. It will be surprising to those who are unfamiliar with actual conditions in our schools as to sub-normal children. In discussing the outlook and the need, the author points out the suggested course of action as follows:

"The first form of desirable assistance is public propaganda, for it is necessary to have a well-informed public opinion behind the movement, in order that legislation may be rendered effective in the establishment and continuance of Auxiliary Classes everywhere. School Boards must ask for surveys and be convinced that the formation of such classes is a wise procedure. The feelings of parents and children must be respected by confidential surveys and the avoidance of the terms, 'feeble-minded,' 'crippled,' etc. School rooms of ample size must be provided and the cost of transportation paid. Children whose parents are unable to pay for special eye examination and glasses, and those suffering from malnutrition, should have their needs supplied by philanthropic aid."

The Journal cheerfully does its part in respect of publicity. It has no knowledge of actual conditions in Ottawa, but takes it for granted the facts are in the possession of the Public School Board. The matter, as was said at the outset, is of concern to everybody. One of the tests of advancing civilization is the measure of organized care each community gives to its defectives.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It is to be hoped Roxy and his gang forget to mention the lack of Sunday bathing facilities when they are broadcasting about the Peterboro district.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

HE'D CHASE THE BALL PLAYERS.

Editor of Examiner, City.

Sir:—Allow me a little space in your paper to voice my opinion with reference to the girls softball games played in central park, I am informed that the part they play in is government property, surely the government should have some one in authority to keep down disturbance without having a uniformed policeman on duty to watch the girls softball games, it simply looks bad to have a policeman there to watch the girls games, I am sure no father or mother desire their girl to be playing ball where a policeman has to stand over the spectators to keep them from hearing abusive and bad talk, if the spectators and the managers of some of the ball teams would shut their mouths everything would be perfectly alright.

I would like to say that I do not think it is a proper place to play ball in front of a public building like the Armouries, all you can see is a lot of old iron stakes, some chicken wire and a few old boards hammered together, and a few old poles almost falling down, it is an eyesore to the building, if there is any one in charge of the government grounds they should be instructed to tear down immediately all the old junk from the government property, It is about time the government stopped the nuisance that is being carried on in front of a public building, conditions must be in a bad state at the girls ball games when the service of a policeman is required every night, the government should have some one in authority over their grounds, but as I see it from the spectators point of view, the Officials of the girl softball controls the whle situation and no one seem to be in charge of the governments part of central park.

I am a lover of sport and I think the proper place for such is Riverside Park, I think the government should give their Officers power to remove anything which they may consider a nuisance, if ball is the cause of abusive and bad talk then let the government remove the cause without delay, such should not be allowed on government property,

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 3 (Canadian Press).—Unsettling effects of a big brokerage failure together with forecasts of favorable weather for spring wheat and of enlarged receipts of winter wheat led to some weakening of the wheat market today. Closing quotations on wheat were easy at the same as yesterday's finish to 1 1-2 cents lower, Sept. 1.39 1-2 to 1.40, and Dec. 1.40 3-4 to 141 1-8. Corn finished at 3-8c to 3-4c off; oats unchanged to 1-4c down, and provisions showing 5c to 35c gain.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 3 (Canadian Press).—While the foreign demand for grain here today was small, there was a brisk demand from New York houses for coarse grains. A fairly large business was done direct from Winnipeg, including sales of No. 3 C.W. oats at 9 1-2 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, No. 1 feed oats at 2 1-2c per bushel over, No. 3 barley at 96 1-2c per bushel c.i.f. Montreal, and they were bidding 4c per bushel under the July option for No. 4 wheat.

The local market for oats was practically unchanged, prices being steady with a moderate amount of business passing in car lots for domestic and country account. Sales of No. 2 C.W. were made at 71c, No. 3 C.W. at 64c, No. 1 feed at 58c and No. 2 feed at 56 1-2c ex-store.

A fair volume of business was done in eggs in a wholesale jobbing way, with sales of specials at 40c, fresh extras at 38c, firsts at 35c, and seconds at 31c to 32c per dozen. The receipts yesterday were 5,210 cases, as compared with 4,248 for the same day last week, and 1,821 for the corresponding day a year ago.

The demand for honey was very slow and the market was dull but steady, with No. 1 white clover in comb quoted at 22c to 23c per section, No. 2 grade at 17c to 18c per section, white extract in 30 lb. tins at 11c per lb., 10 lb. tins at 11 1-2c per lb., 5 lb. tins at 12c per lb., and 2 1-2 lb. tins at 12 1-2c per lb.

There were no new developments in the condition of the butter market, but the undertone continues very firm with a good steady business passing in most directions and spot prices were unchanged with sales of Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery at 37 1-2c per lb., No. 1 creamery at 36 1-2c per lb., and No. 2 creamery at 35 1-2c per lb.

Cheese prices tended towards a higher level which is attributed to the good demand from foreign buyers for supplies and the fact that prices bid were 1s. 6d. to 2s. per cwt. higher. The market was active and a large volume of business was done.

The Liverpool public cheese cable was strong and noted a further advance at 5s. 6d. per cwt., with finest Canadian white and colored quoted at 106s. 6d. per cwt.

ONTARIO CHEESE AUCTION

MONTREAL, July 3 (Canadian Press).—At the United Dairymen Co-operative auction sale of Ontario cheese held at the Board of Trade yesterday, there were 3,750 boxes offered of which 1,469 boxes No. 1 white sold at 21 5-8c per lb., and 1,827 boxes No. 1 colored at 21 3-4c per lb. These prices show an advance of 1 3-16c to 1 5-16c per lb., as compared with a week ago.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, June 3.—The cattle market opened good and strong, and has continued so through the week. Export buying was good, and included fat steers, heifers and bulls. Prices were firm, fat steers from $7.75 to $8.50; heifers, $7.50 to $8; and bulls $4.50 to $5.25. Total exports for the week were about 2,200, including billed through cattle. Ample space is again reported for next week

The butcher cattle trade is unusually active for this season. Choice steers and heifers, finished quality, were very much in demand all week, at firmer prices, steers and heifers from $7.50 to $8.25. Lots of select extra choice heavy beef steers sold to local packers up to $8.50 and $8.60. Medium and common butcher stuff not quite so active, and half finished green cows hard to market.

Choice fat cows firm.

Common springers and milkers not wanted and hard to dispose of at any price.

Very little doing in stockers and feeders.

Calves opened strong up to $10.50 tops, but eased off a dollar at the end of the week.

Choice spring lambs firm at $15.50 to $16.50.

Hogs strong and 25c to 50c higher at $12.75 to $13, f.o.b. asked; packers bid 25c lower at close.

MANY ENJOYED TRIP ON OTONABEE RIVER

Springville and Zion Sunday Schools Held Their Excursion.

SPRINGVILLE, July 4. — Mrs. Lindsay Vance of Regina, left for the West on Monday after a month's visit with her mother, Mrs. Herron.

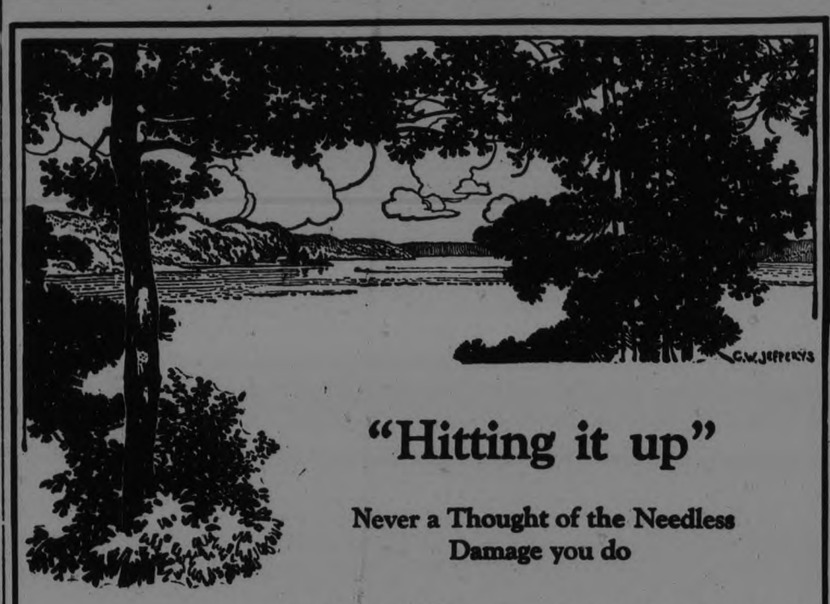
Springville and Zion Union Sunday Schools held their exursion on Thursday July 2. The Steamer Stoney Lake left the George street wharf at 8 a.m., stopping at the different wharves to pick up the many picnicers waiting there.

The weather was ideal, the crowd out for a good time and everything passed off so well that several expressed their opinion that it was the most sucessful excursion they had ever had.

After a delightful sail down the river and across the lake Gore's Landing was reached in good time for dinner, and after wandering around the beautiful summer resort, the crowd embarked again for a sail around the lake, stopping for an hour at Harwood, where the girls of the different schools played an exciting and closely contested game of baseball. Arricing at Kent's Wharf time for given for tea and the sail home in the cool of the evening was enjoyed by all.

Needless to say the booth under the skilful management of Messrs. B. Sanderson and G. Whitfield, was well patronized.

From Centreville, Fraserville, Fair mount, East Emily and Peterboro, friends of the different congregations joined them in their outing and it good fellowship; the day assed in renewing old acquaintances and in forming new ones.



"Hitting it up"

Never a Thought of the Needless Damage you do

The Rideau Lakes—famous for fish and renowned for scenery. One of its beauty spots as sketched by the well known Canadian artist, C. W. Jefferys, O.S.A., A.R.C.A.

"And when we hit the pavement, we found we had covered the last 54 miles in an hour and twenty minutes."

"Hitting it up" in the country where the traffic is lightest. SPEEDING—because the road ahead is clear.

Never a thought of the needless damage done to the highway by this excessive speed. Never a worry about the hundreds of thousands of dollars spent yearly to make good the road surfaces torn up by automobiles that move too fast.

The law provides a speed limit to save road surfaces, as well as to save motorists from accident. While the highway may be clear and there may be no danger of accident, remember the road is always beneath you and that needless damage done by yourself and hundreds of thousands of other motorists is damage which you and the other motorists will pay for out of your own pockets.

You have no right to destroy the property of others, and it is not common sense that you should destroy your own. Yet you do this every time you exceed the speed limit.

Take a pride in the highways. They are yours to use, not to abuse. Co-operate with the Counties and the Government in maintaining Ontario's roads among the best on the continent.

The Government requests you to obey the law whether there is a traffic officer in the vicinity or not. Having made this request for co-operation of all motorists, it gives notice that infractions of the law will be vigorously prosecuted.

An advertisement issued by the Ontario Department of Highways to secure the co-operation of motorists and truck drivers, Automobile Clubs, Good Roads Associations and all other public spirited bodies, in abating the abuse of the roads of the Province.

TRADE NEWS IN WEST CHEERFUL

Edmonton Reports Splendid Sales—Collections Exceed Last Year's Figures.

EAST UNCHANGED.

WINNIPEG, July 4. — (Canadian Press).—The weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association, Ltd., reads:

Halifax: Wholesale trade reported steady and retail business not up to expectations, due largely to weather conditions.

St. John: Conditions in both wholesale and retail trade remain about the same as previous week. Collections fairly good.

Montreal: Boots and shoes—Sales continue fairly steady and collections fair. Hardware—A good increase in sales over those reported last week and collections fair. Dry goods—Not much increase over the sales of last report and collections not very good. Groceries—Sales steady but not much increase and collections fair.

Toronto: Wholesale trade reports summer goods are moving reasonably well, and in some cases a little ahead of last year's figures. Retail very similar.

Winnipeg: Wholesale and retail business normal for time of year, with greatest activity in hardware and kindred lines. Prospects for fall considered excellent; collections fair.

Regina: No material change has been noted during the past week in trade conditions, but better prospects looked for.

Saskatoon: Wholesale trade reported fair to normal and retail trade fair. Collections slow.

Calgary: Business conditions generally in both wholesale and retail remain very satisfactory. Collections fair to good.

Edmonton: Both wholesale and retail trade report splendid sales for the past week. Collections in excess of last year.

Vancouver: Conditions in both wholesale and retail trade holding steady with slight improvement noticed. Collections fair to good.

GOLDEN WEDDING HAPPY OCCASION

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Valentine Celebrate 50 Anniversary at Home in Cavan.

Guests numbering between 50 and 60 were present at the happy occasion, and joined in wishing them many more happy years together.

Included in the guests were their sons, who were accompanied by their wives and families. They were Charles of Brantford, Robert and William of Toronto, James of Peterboro and Frank of Cavan. Norman of Toronto was also present.

The daughters who took part in the ceremony were: Mrs. N. Bradley of Peterboro and Mrs. J. Morrison of Cavan, as well as Mrs. F. Valentine and family of Garden Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Valentine were married in Dundee, Scotland, coming to Canada within a few months after their marriage.

They settled at first on Rice Lake Plains, and moved thence to the 12th Concession of Cavan, where they have resided almost continuously for more than forty years.

The day marking their golden wedding anniversary was spent in games of all kinds, in which the happy pair had the pleasure of seeing their 24 grand-children taking part, and many recollections were brought to light of the good old days through which Mr. and Mrs. Valentine had passed.

In the course of the entertainment an address and presentation took place and those who had reached their golden year were given a purse of the shining metal which will commemorate the occasion.

The happy evening's entertainment was brought to a conclusion with singing "Auld Lang Syne," which rang down the curtain on a pleasant and profitable gathering.

JOKE ON TIGHTWAD.

LONDON, July 4. — An unusual joke recently was played on a noted tightwad here. Hospitals and charity associations received cards saying that if collectors were sent to his home he would give them large donations. The tightwad is still seeking the sender of the cards.

FLOODS SWEEP SOUTH POLAND MANY HOMELESS

Hundreds of Thousands of People Are Reported Without Shelter.

WORST SINCE 1903.

Property Damage Huge — Towns Inundated By Swollen Rivers—Rains Cease.

WARSAW, July 4. — Despatches from Galicia and Teschen state that the damage wrought by the floods here has surpassed even that of the 1903 inundations. Three hundred thousand people are reported without shelter, and $2,000,000 relief is needed.

Troops have been sent to the flooded districts to rescue victims from precarious positions and to protect abandoned property. Galicia and Little Foland suffer most from the flooding of the Vistula and its tributary rivers.

Near Cracow large areas are under water and the suburbs are flooded. Five villages are under water in the rekion of Drohobycz, where most of the houses have been destroyed. Railroad lines have been broken in several places and three bridges have been swept away near Skale.

Swollen mountain streams have washed away the sawmills on the northern slope of the Carpathians. Toward Cracow near Czerminchow five villages had to be evacuated. Three villages in the Brjewsko region are flooded.

The Vistula swept over an area a mile wide at Zarzeeze. At other places it flooded an area ten miles wide. In addition to the city of Przemysl many villages are without light because of the flooding of the power stations. Several lives have been lost.

The rains have ceased and the rivers are expected soon to subside.

MINE STRIKE WON'T PREVENT SHIPMENT

Minister of Mines Says Alberta Coal For Ontario Will Be Shipped.

TORONTO, July 4. — (Canadian Press).—The strike of miners in the Alberta coal mines will have no effect on the shipment of the 25,000 tons of Alberta coal to Ontario, Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, stated yesterday.

LOAN ACT SHELVED.

Alberta Statute Depends on Federal Action.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 4.—Another year on the shelf is in store for the Farm Loan Act, which pasesd the Legislature during the 1924 session. The act has never been put into effect, for the reason that it was intended to operate in case no provision was made for a Federal rural credit scheme and pending legislation along that line at Ottawa no move has been made to apply the Provincial Act. Now that the legislation has been held up for a still further period, it anticipated that the policy of watchful waiting will be continued until definite action for or against a Dominion-wide credit scheme has been taken.

ASKED PRINCE FOR TIP.

Wales Replied to Racing Fan's Query.

LONDON, July 4. — (Canadian Press.)— Evidently the Prince of Wales, who sometimes backs a winner at the race course, has received no inside information as to which horse is likely to win the Durban July handicap, which is to be run to-day in South Africa.

An exchange Telegraph despatch from Cape Town says a Kimberley sportsman named Nieuwoudt, thinking that H. R. H. probably had obtained a tip, sent him the following telgram: "Be sporty and wire me the winner of the July handicap."

Yesterday Nieuwoudt received the following from Vice-Admiral Sir Lionel Halsey, a member of the entourage of the Prince who is now visiting Rhodesia: "The Prince wishes he knew."

DAUGHTERS MUST SUPPORT FATHER

Regina Magistrate Considers Maintenance Act Drastic.

REGINA, July 3 (Canadian Press).—Invoked for the first time in the Province of Saskatchewan in the Police Court Friday, the Parents' Maintenance Act was characterized as drastic legislation by the magistrate. The case arose out of the action of Henry Sunstrom in charging that his two daughters had failed to contribute to his support. He claimed to be a physical wreck and unable to earn his maintenance.

An order for payment of $3 weekly against the two girls was made, the magistrate declaring that although he was averse to this step he was bound by the act under which, he declared, considerable hardship might be caused.

ROBBER HELD UP BANK, LOCKING STAFF IN VAULT

Montreal Bank at Thorndale, Near London, Was Scene of Robbery.

FOUR IN VAULT.

More Than an Hour's Start For Bandit, Who Took More Than $6,000.

LONDON, Ont., July 4.—(Canadian Press).—Entering the branch of the Bank of Montreal at Thorndale shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, a lone bandit pulled a revolver, made the staff throw up their hands, and locking them in the vault, got away with between $6,000 and $7,000 in cash. The robber had more than one hour to make his escape, because it was not until after 4 o'clock that Lloyd Gumb, in passing the bank, heard a thumping noise and shouts, and, investigating, found the place deserted. He speedily released the imprisoned staff and the alarm was given to the police of London and the district.

In the vault, which is not a very large one, were the manager, Arthur Reid, formerly of Holstein, Ontario; the teller, Alfred Waugh, formerly of Paisley, Ontario; and two clerks, M. McMaster of Oxford Street, London, and Miss M. Baker, of Lake Side, near Thorndale. They all agreed that the bandit was about 34 years of age, 5 feet 10 inches tall, and wore a grey shoddy suit.

CHEQUE GIVEN REV. D. R. CLARE

Deloro Congregation Shows Appreciation of Pastor's Work in District.

IS TRANSFERRED.

MARMORA, July 3.— On Tuesday evening, June 30th, a deputation from the congregation of Deloro waited upon Rev. D. R. Clare at the parsonage and the following address was read:

Rev. D. R. Clare, Marmora:

Dear Mr. Clare,—We were very sorry indeed to hear a short time ago that you have been transferred from Marmora to another charge. It seems a great pity that it should be necessary for you to leave at this time, just when you have become well enough acquainted with your people here to work with them most effectually and when they have come to value you both as friend and pastor. Our committee is unanimous in the feeling that we should acquaint you with these our sentiments. We are anxious to assure you that you have many warm friends in Deloro who sincerely regret your removal. We unite in wishing you all good fortune in the future. Please accept the enclosed cheque as a small token of our esteem. May you and Mrs. Clare and your children always enjoy God's guidance and favor.

Your friends and well wishers, the church people of Deloro.

FERGUSON SEES NEED OVERSEAS OF PRESS AGENT

Ontario's Premier Found Little Canadian News in the British Papers.

VISITING FRANCE.

Says Ontario Should Mark Her Goods For British Market.

LONDON, July 4.—"I am most disappointed to find what little Canadian news appears in the British newspapers as compared with Australian news," declared Premier Ferguson of Ontario, in an interview here Friday. "I think it is most necessary that Canada should have a press bureau here by which we can tell Britain what is happening in Canada.

"For the most part, the news printed from Canada is dull and of little interest. It is obviously not what the people want. It must be added, however, that a Canadian press bureau here wouldn't be of much use, for there is a tendency here to distrust all free news.

Trade Possibilities.

Premier Ferguson has been searching trade possibilities here and he thinks that much must be done in order to improve Canadian export trade with Great Britain. "I find in Covent Garden," he said, "that whereas the markets are able to rely on regular supplies of Australian, New Zealand and South African apples, they are unable to do so with regard to Canadian apples. I think we should have a Federal export trade commission which would guarantee and insure supplies of Canadian products, but if we cannot get one I believe that Ontario should specially mark her goods for the British market, so they would know they are guaranteed by exporters who have been selected by the Provincial Government."

To Visit France.

Premier Ferguson also wants a trade commissioner appointed for Ontario with offices here, and he believes that Canadian exports here could be developed by proper organization. Mr. Ferguson left here yesterday for France, where he purposes making a tour of the battlefields. On his return he will visit Scotland and Ireland before going home.

MISS M'PHAIL, M.P. TO HUMANIZE MAN

Member Has Age Old Illusion Regarding the Mission of Women—Believes in Fallacy.

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 4 (Canadian Press).—J. Butterfield, writing in The Province of Miss Agnes MacPhail, Canada's woman M.P., comments on an article in The New York Times, which paper has just "discovered" her. The matters covered by the interview demonstrate that she is quite willing at a moment's notice to step out and reconstitute the whole social and political fabric. Whether she would do it successfully or not is another matter. In one things she is very right. She says she does not represent women, she represents farmers. That is the proper attitude and one which woman members of other parliaments have not adopted; they base much or all of their publicity and appeal on the assumption that they are sent to Parliament to represent the vague and undefined rights of woman. But having gone that far Miss MacPhail slips back into one of the oldest illusions of history.

Speaking of her mission in Parliament, she referred to the curious belief that women are more interested in what she called the "human values" than men are, and then went right back to Eve and said this: "Has not woman's most difficult task, since the race began, been to humanize man in order to make civilized living with him possible So our work in this generation is not new. It is only a new aspect of a job that is very old." "This," says her masculine mentor, "was a fundamental axiom with the old-fashioned type of female and she very nearly succeeded in making man himself accept it. But she was betrayed in this worthy effort by the rise of the modern woman, who has definitely proved that it is a fallacy. So far from it being the divinely appointed task of woman to civilize man the fact is that until some of her went in for politics and the higher educatoin her whole powers were bent upon catching up to his high moral viewpoint."

NEW REQUIREMENTS IN VITAL EQUIPMENT

Provision Made By Board of Trade For Life-Boat Equipment.

LONDON, July 4.—New Board of Trade regulations relating to life saving apparatus to be carried by ships become effective July 1. A motor-boat or boast fitted with wireless apparatus and searchlights, must be carried in vessels with more than 15 life-boats. If the vessel does not carry a motor-boat, but has more than 10 life-boats, one of these must be fitted with wireless.

Life-boats in all foreign-going ships will be required to carry one pound of condensed milk for each person, in addition to the water and biscuits required by the preesnt rules.

'QUAKE VICTIMS NOW FOURTEEN

Another Body Found Friday in Santa Barbara Ruins.

LOSS $10,000,000.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., July 4—The ruins of Santa Barbara gave up the body of another quake victim yesterday.

With the finding in the wreckage of a rooming house of the body of Charles Knudson, the toll of death in the recent earthquake rose to 14.

Aside from one more slight shock at 10.03 a.m. Thursday, Santa Barbarans have enjoyed respite from the tremors since the last severe one early Tuesday, and all efforts are bent upon reconstruction. The walls of condemned buildings were to be dynamited and pulled down yesterday, and workers were busy early, clearing debris from the city's main street.

Among the piles of masonry where once stood the Arlington Hotel, workmen yesterday found emerald necklaces, bracelets, watches and rings, said to be worth $350,000. They were the property of Mrs. Charles R. Perkins of Burlington, Iowa, whose life was crushed out by the falling walls.

The majority of persons in the residential district, which was comparatively undamaged, slept in their homes Thursday night, although the more timid spent their third night in camp on lawns in parks.

Santa Barbara's earthquake loss was fixed Friday by the committee of engineers at $10,000f000.

Fire insurance policies, which under the law are automatically canceled when the building is damaged by a force other than fire, were reinstated by underwriters today and practically every building is now covered by insurance commensurate with its present value.

In order that everything might be done to rehabilitate the poor families it was decided to accept outside financial aid, which has been pouring into the city.

Asks $13,000,000 Assistance

LOS ANGELES, July 4 — The City of Santa Barbara, through representatives here, revised its previous estimates of needed rehabilitation funds and asked through clearing houses, insurance companies and other agencies, for a $3,000,000 fund to rebuild its charitable institutions and a loan of $10,000,000 to rebuild the business section of the city.

WINNIPEG TRACK PAYS $70,000 TAX

Provincial Treasury "Sweetened" By Three Spring Meets.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 4—Manitoba Government coffers were enriched by $70,000 as a result of the three spring race meetings held in Winnipeg, it was announced Friday by Hon. D. McLeod, municipal commissioner. This sum represents a tax of 10 per cent on the gate receipts and an additional three per cent of moneys passing through the pari-mutuels.

Fess-Holden Morgan Automatic Oil Burning Favored by Women

WOMEN favor and understand Fess Automatic Oil Burning Equipment. They like it because it is so downright simple and free of complications and troubles. In the living room or hall there is a little thermostat (heat regulating thermometer). When more, or less, heat is required a simple adjustment of the thermostat does the work.

They like Fess equipment because it goes right along with its job of keeping the home cosy and warm, doing its work thoroughly, quietly, reliably! Women don't have to worry about it, fuss over it. In fact, they do not have to think of it at all. To them, it is as simple and logical as electric light.

Men Folk Like Their New Freedom

As for the men of households heated by Fess or Fess-Holden Morgan Oil Burners! The men boast to their coal-burning neighbors how much better their houses are heated the Fess way.

Men luxuriate in their freedom from having to shovel coal, carry heavy cans of ashes, sweep and scrape; they like the idea of going to the cellar only once a month perhaps, instead of three or four times a day in the wearying years of coal heating. Owners of larger Fess-Heated homes do not have to employ a furnace man!

Children's Health is Better Now

In Fess-Heated homes children have fewer colds, coughs and other little illnesses. The secret of this is that no matter how viciously cold or mild it is outside you can keep your home uniformly, evenly heated, the Fess way. Grandma and Grandad like the nice, even warmth. And because oil is so wonderfully clean it doesn't create any dust or grime; this means far less cleaning to do.

And that is the whole family!

SAFETY! All Fess equipments have been approved by the Hydro Electric Commission and accepted by the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association. The entire line of Fess equipment, which is the largest and most complete manufactured, has been tried out under severest conditions and has proved its worth for all cases, both in homes and commercial institutions.

Don't order coal! Obtain from us the Fess-Holden Morgan list of 2,000 Canadian homes oil heated the Fess Way. We will gladly give you a demonstration with no obligation to you whatsoever.

Dominion Day, some years ago, happened on Saturday. On Friday evening, some young boys came over to see me about a hike on the holiday.

In those early days of the Boy Scout movement, there were not many rules abou Scou affairs, and it was more or less of an aimless ramble, compared with the highly organized Scout affairs now. There had been formed a small scout club, as they called it, and it was a bit of a mixture of scouts, Indians, boys and cow-boys.

The delegation waited upon me, in the garden, and I was informed that they were scouts and that knowledge of woods and birds was part of their training. All of which was very nice, but having no bird pictures, or books or trained leaders, there was not much system to the thing and "Would you please, Mr. Robb, come with us and help us learn about birds?"

So it was arranged that we would make a day of it on Dominion Day. Frying pans, food, hatchets and what not, were all divided up and we started out, at six fifteen in the morning, for the woods.

I wonder what Scouts get up and start out so early now. Those boys had me up and dressed at five o'clock.

We all went hiking through swamp and hollow, over hill and dale, until we got into woods so thick that the boys were satisfied to accept the place as good enough for a real scout, and there we made our camp.

A rough lean-to was made, and everybody worked for about an hour, making necessary things such as seats and fires and pot hangers.

So much forest floor was turned up in the process, that mosquitos were assembled in millions, by the time everybody was ready to sit down for a rest. So we all sat down, but could not stick it out, so had to get up and get out.

The deep woods is a fine place in which to play indian, but with a crowd, birds are seldom seen, for the birds of the thick woods are mostly shy, secretive things, and unless it is a winter wren or a woodpecker, few are seen. One must be silent and alone in that holy sanctuary.

We all went out to the nearest field and found a very attractive woodland glade just off of it, so there we stayed. We made camp and saw many birds new to the boys. One I remember was the Pileated Woodpecker, a big and magnificent bird with a red top or crest and beautiful white markings on his wings seen when flying. He is called Cock-of-the-woods but is seldom seen now, for foolish gunners have killed so many. It is a direct blow at our forests too, for these birds are so powerful that they can dig out worms which are too deep in the wood for little woodpeckers, and now that so many have been killed, the deep borers go unchecked.

One of the lads had a small mongrel dog. That is alright, but in this case, the dog went off on his own, into the woods, and was not seen for several hours.

When we did see the dog at last, it was at the end of a perfect day, for everybody but him.

About half-past two, I was sitting near a rail fence, with some of the boys, watching red headed woodpeckers carrying June bugs to their young, when some confusion arose in our midst.

One of the boys came running out of the woods, waving arms and yelling, with a smaller lad trailing him. They came right for us.

When the first one reached us, all out of breath, he pantingly drew himself up, saluted, and asked me if "Big Chief Knows a Bird" wanted to hear a report. I accepted my new name without batting an eye and wanted the the report.

"Well," said the first lad, presenting the second one, all out of breath and speechless, "this is big chief "Kill an'ate a woodpecker" and he——"

"Don't you mean "Pileated Woodpecker?" said I? By this time "Kill an'ate a woodpecker" had his breath and butted in "I don't mean nothin' 'cept that "Little War Eagle's" dog is fightin' a porcupine'." And away went the gang, myself trying to keep up with them.

Just before we arrived, we few tailenders, the porcupine had crawled into a big hollow log, and took that means of defence, since his spiked ball defence had failed. The dog couldn't follow him, so very foolishly tried going in the log from the other end. The log was not very long, and when I arrived, there they were, dog and porky, almost face to face in a hollow log and both stuck, for the quills would not let the porcupine back up and the dog defied all efforts to pull him out hind end first. The boys said the dog's mouth was a mass of quills, and the forced truce made the dog feel them, so that he whined sadly inside the log, between barks.

It all started over the dog finding the porcupine during a pow-pow over the naming of new chiefs, and "Little War Eagle's" proud name alone kept back the tears.

We finally had to get a farmer to lend us a saw and we cut the log in two, separating the sections, so that the animals could come out head first. Porky was forced out, climbed a tree and stayed there. We pulled the dog out and I held his jaws open, while his master, "Little War Eagle" pulled out the quills, a long and painful process for them both.

The Pow-wow was held all over again, and the new chiefs named all over again. And "Little War Eagle" became "Big Chief Pull-em-quill." And "Kill-an'ate-a-woodpecker" was to become "Pileated Woodpecker" as soon as he could tell all about that bird.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DAVID MEETS A NEW FRIEND IN THE ZOO

"Goodness!" laughed David. "But you're the best-looking rat I've ever seen." The little fellow behind the wires wiggled his ears and nose and blinked his black eyes. "I'd like to know what——"

"That's not hard," declared a merry voice, and David turned to find Happy Giggles, the wee little elfin from Make-believe Land, standing at his side.

"Oh, Happy Giggles!" he cried, "I'm glad you happened along. Who is that fellow? Isn't he related to the rat family?"

"Of course I am," laughed the prisoner behind the wire fence. "But my tail isn't quite so long at Daddy Rat's."

"No," answered Happy Giggles, "and Daddy Rat hasn't long hair on his tail, either."

"Daddy Rat doesn't ever wear a yellowish-brown suit like yours, either," said David. "I'm mighty glad to know you, Mr. What-Ever-You-May-Call-It."

"Oh, I beg your pardon," said Happy Giggles. "Sure enough, I have forgotten my manners. Mr. Hamster, this is David Dorn. I don't believe he has ever seen a Hamster before, have you David?"

"Can't say that I have," replied David. "So don't be offended when I stare at you. I like your little, yellowish-brown fur coat. It fairly shines in the sun. The reddish-brown band on your neck and the two bright yellow spots on your cheeks certainly set off your costume. They really make the black band on your forehead look blacker than night. I see you like white shoes, too," David suggested, glancing from his own white shoes to Mr. Hamster's

"Don't You Have any Hamsters?"

white feet. "But why do you wear black legs?"

"For no reason at all," squeaked Mr. Hamster. "Only that I do. If you have never seen a Hamster before, I guess my house will be new to you. So come on in and see it before the keeper comes along."

Happy Giggles and David squeezed in through the wires and Mr. Hamster showed them the pretty little burrow he had made down deep in the ground. They wandered from one room to another, all connected with little tunnels. The place was so dark David couldn't have seen a thing if Happy Giggles hadn't dusted his eyes with magic powder.

"You see," said Mr. Hamster, "we stay in our burrow all Winter long, from late Autumn until February. So we must have something to eat when we do wake up once in a while. I gather all the corn I can find and store my rooms full, so as not to run short. It is a rule in the Hamster tribe for the males of the house to get up early in February. The females in the colony get up along the first of April sometime."

Then once more they came out of the burrow into the sunshine.

"You don't have any Hamsters running around wild in America. You see, I came from Asia. There you'll find plenty of my relatives."

Then they saw the keeper coming.

Happy Giggles and David just squeezed through the wires as the keeper came up. He tossed in some feed to Mr. Hamster and nodded to David. A big bell sounded and David and Happy Giggles walked out of the Zoo just at closing time.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY JULY 5-6.

Sunday's astrological figurewarns against travel, removal and change, and enjoins strict attention to affairs in hand. Beware deception or fraud, and do not resort to quarrels or litigation.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a moderate success during the year if they will attend strictly to affairs, shun quarrels and law and be on guard against fraud or deceit. Change and travel should be postponed. A child born on this day may be restless and unsettled, but may succeed through industry.

Monday's horoscope is a generally favorable one excepting for those in the employment of others who should be careful of their positions. Others may make advantageous changes or journeys, as the financial opportunities are well supported by a friendly Jupiter. A child born on this day may be enterprising and ambitious but may make its best success on its own account. In the employment of others it may encounter difficulties.

Three-Minute Journeys

By Temple Manning

THREE-MINUTE JOURNEYS.

By Temple Manning.

A great deal of the history of the Middle Ages and even of the past few centuries, centers about the old feudal castles of the Danube. There we can read the history, in the ruins, of the Robber Barons, of famous prisoners and sensational rescues, and there, probably, we could read the story of the tragic end of many famous characters of history.

The Castle of Aggstein, for example, was at one time the home of a band of famous robbers. Situated high on the peak of a mountain overlooking the Danube, the gentlemen highwaymen could easily observe the comings and goings along the river and along the road. When they saw anybody approaching, they would casually come down from their lofty home and relieve the passers-by of any valuables they might possess. They were even known to stretch a cable across the river to prevent the passing of any vessels.

Where Feudal Castles Flank the Danube.

Down below the castle, on the river side, is a tiny platform of rock, decorated with a single tree. The robber knights would show their unwilling guests the view of this "rosegarden" as they called it and gently insinuate that unless all valuables were immediately turned over, the pleasant visit would be terminated by a headlong leap into the garden.

Weissenkirchen is another spot replete with memories of bygone ages. There one finds the Teisenhofer hof, where tournaments were held in medieval days. It is a quadrangle of old buildings, with embrasures that are deeply arched.

Duernstein Castle with its gray walls and crumbling towers has a story that is perhaps more romantic than any of the others. For there, the much sung and popular Richard Coeur de Lion was once held captive by the Duke of Austria. During the Third Crusade in 1189-1192, Richard of England, having quarrelled with several of the other European monarchs, attempted to cross the Continent in disguise and so reach the Holy Land. He was recognized near Vienna and sent to Duernstein.

His faithful follower and minstrel Blondel, wandering about Europe in search of his master, happened to reach the castle and, singing the king's favorite song before the castle, heard the answering voice. Knowing that Richard was imprisoned there, he finally succeeded in effecting a rescue.

All of these historic castles are now fallibg into ruins but they are still the mecca of artists and tourists who are interested in romantic atmosphere. For there is probably no place in the world that has so many stories attached to it as this valley of the Danube.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

HOW BATHING HELPS TO BRING HEALTH

This is the time of the year when frequent bathing adds to the comfort and at all times of the year it promotes the health.

We are living in the period of bath-rubs. It was not long ago that a bath-tub was a novelty. Visit the old castles and palaces of Europe—you find no bath-tubs.

It is true that in the glorious days of the Roman Empire bathing was as common as the radio is today, but it was public bathing. It was a social affair rather than a hygenic one.

The skin is rich in sweat glands, and grease glands. They pour out quantities of fluid, much of it filled with waste material. The oils which keep the skin pliable and elastic are capable of catching and holding all manner of dirt and germs.

A good many persons are unfortunate in having secretions possessing highly offensive odors. With out frequent bathing, any person will become an offense to his associates.

Regular bathing should be practiced for the sake of cleanliness. Good soap and lots of water will do wonders in warding off disease.

The clothing, especially the intimate garments, become soiled and impregnated with the secretions of the skin. On this account, the regular baths should be followed by discarding the soiled garments and putting on clean ones.

Everybody should have a stated program about the use of water. Let us begin with the hands.

If there is one thing we know and believe, it is that the hands convey disease. It is no wonder they do, because the hands go everywhere. They come in contact with all sorts of filth and disease producing material.

Add to this fact the unaccountable habit most folks have of putting their fingers in the mouth and biting their finger nails—there you have a combination sure to produce trouble.

The hands should be washed several times a day and always before eating. You should never think of doing anything with the hands which will bring them near the mouth or nose unless they have been washed.

When you get home from work the face should be washed with soap and water. You should not go to bed until you have washed hands and face and the outer openings of the nostrils with soap and water.

At least twice a week, and better still, every day, there should be a general bath with soap and generous quantities of water. After each bath a change of underwear should come as a matter of course.

Cleanliness is next to godliness, we are taught. Who can doubt it?

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

L. K. Q.—What can I do for cross eyes?

A.—In every case careful examination must be made to determine the extent of the trouble and the degree of vision. You should have your eyes examined by a competent oculist.

• • •

S. S. Q.—Are the children of a mother who has heart disease liable to inherit it?

A.—This condition is not necessarily inherited.

L. D. Q.—What causes a ringing in my head? What treatment will help.

A.—This may be due to a catarrhal condition which has affected your middle ear. Clear up the nasal trouble first and the symptom may disappear. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

A. J. B. Q.—What causes excessive perspiration?

A.—This is usually due to nervousness. For full particulars send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

M. M. Q.—What causes my nose to be sore inside and also to itch?

2.—Will iodide of iron build up the blood?

A.—You may need a septum operation. It would be well to have your nose examined.

2.—If your doctor has prescribed the medicine you mention, it would be well to continue taking it, as a blood builder.

YOUR GARDEN

GRADING ABOUT SHADE TREES.

July and August are excellent months for grading operations of all kinds, but in endeavoring to change the levels of contours of your property be sure to take great care to preserve any trees of value that may be growing on the place. Many trees are lost by either too much or careless filling in or exposure of the roots.

Grading up close to trees and filling in with several feet of earth will often smother root system and the tree will die. It is advisable to build a well of stone or brick (allowing plenty of room for circulation) about the trunk. A wise precaution also, is to plough the original surface soil first, before filling to make a natural open contact of the soil. Otherwise the original ground, which usually is hard on the surface, would act as a blanket against the passage of the water.

Where the grade must be lowered about a tree, it is advisable to leave a substantial mound around the trunk, approximately of the same diameter as the spread of the branches.

The points to be avoided are never to allow soil to come in contact with the bark and never to change the depth of the roots below the surface. Small trees are better transplanted to suit the new grade and not subjected to mounding or filling.

Brazen Head

Roger Bacon spent seven years constructing a brazen head which he fancied would tell him how to surround the Island of Great Britain with a wall of brass according to a legend prevalent in the Middle Ages. This head was to speak within a month after its completion but no special hour was set for its so doing. Bacon, accordingly, set his servant to watch, especially enjoining him to notify his master in case the head should speak.

At the end of the first half hour the servant heard the head exclaim "Time is;" at the end of the second half hour, "Time was," and at the end of the third half hour, "Time's past;" whereupon it fell with a crash and was shattered to pieces. The servant neglected to call Bacon, thinking he would not care to be disturbed for such a trifle, and thus the knowledge necessary to build the brazen wall was never acquired.

One searching for the motto might well say it is "Do it yourself if you want it well done."

Last week we read of the financer who left his secretary to keep touch with the market while he went on a trip. A frantic telegram brought him back post-haste at the end of four days, but he found his holdings shattered. Had he been on the spot he would have sensed the trend of the market, judging by signs too small for the secretary to notice.

Flivvers and Alfalfa

Yes, we get some queer letters. On a recent farm page we printed the story of a chicken that was sold and walked back two miles to its old home. Now someone writes to tell of a flivver he had owned since 1911. Next night after he sold it, about midnight, he heard a commotion at his garage, and on going out to investigate, darned if he didn't find the old Ford trying to get back into its old home. It had come back from the other side of the city, all by itself.

Our correspondent, unfortunately, omitted his signature. He certainly deserves some publicity. He is doubtless endeavouring to prove that the city is not a whit behind the country, and we concede on one point—story-telling. And we would point out that in such cases it is well to have a reporter on hand to watch the peregrinations of such things as chickens and flivvers, when so remarkable as these. Call 1600 when your old flivver comes home alone.

Maybe at that the owner of the 1911 automobile (let's be charitable) was merely troubled by his conscience. Any man who sold a 1911 car in 1925 would be.

A couple of weeks ago someone started an argument about alfalfa, displaying a stalk 42 inches long. Another produced a stalk 47 inches long. And yesterday we were visited by a gentleman who went the best five inches better. But we saw the alfalfa, just as we insist on seeing all 52-inch-long fish, so we can write of their wonders without the prejudice that might naturally follow the hearing of a fish story—or a hay one.

And at that we've seen taller alfalfa than that. Out West it grows so high a horse can get lost in it. We repeat, we saw it.

Reports from the West indicate that the wheat and oat crops are much better than was at first anticipated. We nearly always anticipate that they will be.

Toot! Toot! Old Dear

Some automombile owners in Peterborough give one the impression that they bought it because they wanted the horn. They toot-toot here, and squawk-squawk there here a toot, there a toot, everywhere a squawk-squawk—you know how it goes. It goes on for ever, in fact. And nobody objects to it at the proper place and time—corner of George and McDonnel, for instance, on Saturday evening. But when a car draws up in the middle of the block and the driver starts tooting for his lady friend who hasn't even started to powder her nose, and keeps it up until she has, and until she has patted her hair, and rouged her lips, and fixed her cloche at the right angle, and generally touched up in readiness for a nice dusty drive—then it's not in the right place or time. Sometimes it's seven o'clock in the evening—sometimes later. And then when they come back they want to let neighbors know they've been out—what's the use of a car, else—and they toot some more. Some dear young things start to learn to drive the car by learning to toot the horn, and apparently never get any farther.

But what's the use?
Toot-toot!
We'll hear it again tonight.

• • •

We are informed that it is alleged that a certain prominent Peterborough man, who is a strong maleist (why not?) is said to have remarked on first hearing of a Black-Eyed Susan: "It serves her right."

AKE COMO SINCE LONGFELLOW'S DAY

Here at Cadenabbia the shutters are opening one after another and winter has gone for good and the little colony of English who live here and mix happily with the Contadini who farm the land is now daily being enlarged by visitors from everywhere. Longfellow could not longer write as he did here in 1874. "No sound of wheels or hoofbeat breaks the silence of the summer day," for the excellent motor road by the lake is a busy thoroughfare for tourists, and the new golf course at Menaggio with its Scotch Secretary all the way from St. Andrews has opened this "loveliest of all Italian Lakes" to thousands who seek the silences that Longfellow loved, when they want them, on the primrose studded hills around.

The GRESSMAN Company Limited

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burto

Gloria flounced out of the office without even thanking Miss Briggs for the key. She put it into the coin-purse in her bag, and started home.

On the porch of her mother's little house stood an empty baby buggy, filled with soft blue pillows and robes.

Gloria groaned. "I suppose Aunt Dorcas and Cousin Lulu have dropped in for lunch," she said to herself.

It seemed impossible to face the pair again . . . with their eyes that searched her for a sign of weakness. But to her relief, only Lulu was in the living room of the house.

"Well," she greeted Gloria. "Did you get over your peeve yesterday?" She giggled nervously.

"All over it," Gloria answered, tossing her hat down on the table that stood between the windows. An open handbag stood there, too. It was filled with infant's lingerie and nursing bottles.

Gloria went into the kitchen and slipped into a house dress.

"I suppose that is the wonderful baby," Gloria said, looking at the small white bundle in Lulu's arms. "May I see her? I haven't yet, you know."

"Sit down in that chair and I'll let you hold her," Lulu offered generously. Gloria sat down in a chair by the sunny window and held up her arms for The New Baby.

Lulu laid the small, warm thing in her arms, and for the first time that she could remember, Gloria knew what it was like to hold a baby. . . . It was utterly unlike anything she had ever known, before—the feeling of compassion and tenderness that stirred in her heart.

She was afraid she was going to cry. And when she smiled up at Lulu her eyes were wet and starry with unshed tears. "Lulu," she said slowly, "I . . . I should like to have a baby of my own think!"

The baby stirred in her arms, and laid its wee starfish of a hand against her breast.

"It's a blessing it's got hair," she said airily to hide the emotion that almost choked her. "So many of 'em are bald as billiard balls . . ."

She scowled down, sullen-sweet, at The New Baby, and gave it back to its mother.

trunks. 'Where's mother? . . . Up here?" she called to Cousin Lulu as she ran.

Her mother's voice answered her from the "spare" bedroom.

"I'm in here, looking up some old baby clothes of yours to give to Lulu," she said. "The poor child hasn't made a single flannel petticoat for that blessed baby. . . . My goodness, the women nowadays! They don't want their babies to wear any more clothes than they wear themselves!"

She looked at Gloria as she stood, lightly poised, on the threshold.

"I thought you were going to work today," she remarked.

Gloria smiled and tilted back her head. "No, I'm going home, mother," she said, her eyes gleaming like amber through the thick lashes that fringed them.

Her mother turned sharply toward her. "Have you seen Dick?" she asked. "Have you made up with him?"

Gloria laughed. "Ask me no questions, and I'll tell you no fibs," she said. "And don't say a word to Cousin Lulu or Aunt Dorcas about what I'm doing. . . . Will you?"

At 5 o'clock, when Gloria had finished packing, she telephoned for a taxicab . . . an unheard-of luxury.

"I wish I knew what you're up to, Glory," her mother said anxiously as she kissed her goodby. "If you've made up with Dick I think you might tell me, at least."

Gloria smiled and kissed her. "Don't worry about me, mother-kin," she said, "I always land on my feet, don't I?"

Her mother shook her head doubtfully. "I'd feel better if I knew just what you're doing. . . . You have such wild impulses, Gloria," she said.

But Gloria, herself, didn't know quite what she was doing. She knew simply this: that she couldn't spend another night under her father's roof. She was homesick . . . and she was going home. That was all there was to it.

She stopped the taxi to before a grocery store on George stret and went in. She took out the money she had earned the week before, and bought tomatoes and bread and lemons.

"Tomato sandwiches and lemonade," she said to herself. That was the beautifying breakfast the heroine of a Scott Fitzgerald novel had eate, while her husband was away at war.

"I'm a sort of war-widow, myself," Gloria added mentally. "I suppose a family quarrel is a war just as well as one between nations." She sighed, dismally.

But her spirits lifted when the cab turned in at the driveway of her own house. She turned her head away so that she didn't see the 'For Sale" sign as they swept past it.

The house smelled musty.

Gloria threw open the windows and doors. She took off her hat, and ran out into the back yard to pick some of the late roses that glowed among the leaves of the bushes.

She filled bowls and vases with them, and turned on all the lamps in the living-room. The house began to feel home-like and happy again. . . .

There came a sound of footsteps on the back porch.

The Donbertg twins stood there, peering in through the screen door. Their noses were flattened against the wire netting.

"Hello," one of them said. "We're glad you're home again. We like you."

"Because you're pretty," the other added solemnly.

"You mustn't like people because they're pretty," Gloria told them. "You must like folks because they're nice and good . . . like your mother."

"Aren't you nice and good?" asked one twin.

"Well, no. . . . But I can tell fairy stories," Gloria answered. "Come over tomorrow and I'll tell you one about a poor girl who was bewitched by an ogre."

She thought of herself and Stan Wayburn. In his own sleek, dapper way, Stan had been a sort of ogre. He certainly had bewitched her, after a fashion—Oh, well, what was the use thinking about it?

"Look here, infants," she said, suddenly. "Run over and ask your mother if I can borrow a piece of ice from her. Just a little piece . . . enough for a pitcher of lemonade."

The pair dashed down the steps, racing to see who could reach home racing to see who could reach home first, to be the proud bearer of the borrowed ice.

In a few minutes the light tapping of high heels came across the porch. The twins' mother stood there, holding a large lump of ice in one hand and a covered plate in the other.

"Hello, there," she called cheerfully. "What are you doing here? I thought you and your nice husband had gone away for good."

"Oh, I just came back to pack up some things," Gloria put her off. "And I thought while I was here, I'd get a bite to eat."

Mrs. Donberg laughed. "I've brought you another bite," she said, uncovering the plate. "Some devil's food cake I baked this morning. Mr. Donberg has such a sweet tooth! . . . Dessert's the whole meal to him!"

* * *

A month ago Gloria would have sneered inwardly at her neighbor's chatter. But now she listened with interest. . . . She had found out the joy that lies in putting a good meal on the table for a well-loved husband!

There was as much romance in cooking corned-beef-and-cabbage as there was in writing a love letter. It all depended upon the person for whom you cooked it!

"If I hadn't made such a mess of things I might be getting dinner for Dick myself, right this minute . . . . waiting for him to come home," she thought regretfully, as she peeled her tomatoes.

It wasn't until after she had eaten her lonely meal and put the dishes away that she began to wonder why she had come there to the house that seemed still to be alive with Dick.

"I ought to go back to mother's," she told herself. "There's no point in getting soft and sentimental about Dick now, when he hates me. . . . If I had any sense I'd divorce him and froget him, I suppose. There must be some one else somewhere who could make me happy."

But she knew there wasn't anybody else who could.

She closed and locked the doors and windows of the house, and went upstairs.

Her own room . . . with its silk curtains rustling in the night wind. . . . Ah, it was the sanctuary she needed! Away from everyone who would question her or give her advice.

Tomorrow she'd brace up and get a job. She'd face the world, and whatever was head of her. But tonight she'd stay here, hidden and at peace . . . .

She thought of the month before her marriage when she and Dick had come here every day to watch the builders at their work of making a home for just the two of them! . . . She remembered how Dick had watched her as she went around the half-finished house, planning the furniture that was to go into it. He had loved her then! . . . Could it be possible that he had no feeling at all for her now?

"I'm going to telephone him right now and tell him to come here! I want to see him!" Gloria said suddenly, moved by an impulse stronger than herself.

She called the number of the old Gregory residence. "What'll I say to him?" she thought in panic, as she waited for him to answer. "I haven't any excuse for seeing him, have I?"

But to her intense relief, it was not Dick's voice, but Motor Gregory's, that answered the phone.

"This is Gloria, speaking," the girl said. "Is Dick there, please?"

"No, he's not!" Mother Gregory's full voice snapped off the words. "He came home to dinner, but he's gone out for the evening."

"All right . . . goodby," Gloria faltered.

"Wait a minute!" Mother Gregory cried. "I want to say a word to you, Gloria. . . . I think you'd better not telephone Dick again. There's no use in keeping him stirred up all the time . . . . You two have agreed to disagree, and you'd better stick to it!"

Gloria had no answer.

"Glo-ree-a, did you hear me?" Dick's mother asked, after a moment.

"Yes," she heard Gloria whisper. And she hung up the receiver.

TEACHERS ENGAGED.

J. H. Watson Will Be Principal at Deloro Public School.

MARMORA, July 4. — James H. Watson, of Kenmore, has been engaged as Principal of Deloro Public School, with Miss S. Blair of Madoc as assistant teacher.

Principal E. C. Prentice and all his teaching staff have been re-engaged for Marmora Public School.

HASTINGS TANNERY PICNIC IS ENJOYED

Decided That It Shall Become an Annual Dominion Day Event.

HASTINGS, July 4.—The Hastings Tanning Company held its second annual picnic to Birdsall's Beach on July 1st.

Last year was the first time this event was introduced, and it was such a decided success that it is to be made an annual affair.

While the weather was not of the best, several slight showers of rain falling during the day, a most delightful time was spent by all present. At about seven-thirty a.m. the large motor truck of the company made its first trip and was loaded with booth supplies, stoves on which tea was made for those attending the picnic, and several articles for sport use.

The crowd present was much larger than that of last year and several busses and motor vans conveyed the picnicers to the beach.

The first softball game was the girls against the boys. The rule of the game was that the boys play with one hand, with the exception of the catcher, who was permitted to use both hands. The penalty given to a player using both hands was that a base runner advanced another base.

The line-up for this was:

Boys—Pitcher, C. Baker; catcher, L. Hill; first, base, L. Scriver; second base, R. Jones; third base, D. Lemoire; short-stop, Scotty Clapper; right field, Allan Sherwin; left field, Cecil Waye; centre field, C. Scriver.

Score—Boys, 18; girls, 13.

Umpire at plate—A. Shand.

Base umpire—E. Breethrupt.

Another softball game was played, the married men against the single men. This game was scheduled for seven innings, and ten innings were necessary as a tie was made. The score then ended 11-10 in favor of the married men. In this game William Scriver won the prize, which was given for the best hitting.

In the afternoon races were held and resulted as follows:

Boys' race, up to 6 years (50 yards)—Bert Johnson.

Girls' race, up to 6 years (50 yards)—Marjorie Dodd.

Boys' race, 6 to 8 years (50 yards)—R. Fitzgerald.

Girls' race, 6 to 8 years (50 yards)—Ruth Ellis.

Boys' race, 8 to 12 years (75 yards)—Frank Sargeant.

Girls' race, 8 to 12 years (60 yards)—Lilly Dodd.

Married men's and women's thread-the-needle race (35 yards)—Mrs. W. Slapper.

Standing broad jump—"Gib" Herrington.

Hop, step and jump—Fred. Scriver.

Shot put—William Clapper.

Boys' race, 16 years (100 yards)—Everett Whitred.

Girls' race, 16 years (100 yards)—Marion Clapper.

Race for men (100 yards) — Fred. Scriver.

Race for girls (100 yards) — Marion Clapper.

Girls' race carrying peanut on a knife (35 yards)—Hazel Macdonald.

Three other picnics were also held at Birdsall's Beach on Dominion Day—the choir of the Church of Our Lady Mount Carmel, Hastings, and the Baptist Sunday School from Norwood, who entertained those from Wildman's School.

FIRST MEETING OF UNITED LADIES' AID

Hastings Ladies Met for First Time After Union.

HASTINGS, July 4 — A most pleasant afternoon was spent on Thursday at the parsonage of the United Church when about sixty ladies were entertained by Mrs. (Rev.) M. L. Hinton.

This was the first meeting held by the Ladies' Aid of the new United Church. The Ladies' Aid of the Bethel Church was present on an invitation extended by Hastings United Church Ladies' Aid.

Four new members joined the society, one being the mother of the church, Mrs. Sarah Carter, who has long since reached the four score years' mark. Mrs. Carter was made a member of the society by her daughter, Mrs. A. M. Brooks.

When the business was completed a programme was given. After a welcome was given the visiting ladies Miss Mary Stevenson replied in a few words thanking the Hastings Ladies for the pleasure of their being able to accept the invitation. Miss Reta Langmuir sang "I'm Drifting Back to Dreamland." Miss Kathleen Longmuir gave a reading "Adrift on the Sea," and Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Shearer rendered a duet.

Lunch was served and everyone joined in singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" as the meeting closed.

UNSURPASSED FOR CHILDHOOD AILMENTS

Mrs. Howard King, R.R. No. 5, Truro, N.S., says:—"I am the mother of four children and have always used Baby's Own Tablets when any of them needed a medicine, and I can recommend the Tablets as being unsurpassed for childhood ailments." Thousands of other mothers agree with Mrs. King as to the merits of the Tablets. There are thousands of homes throughout Canada where the Tablets are always kept on hand in readiness for the least sign of any of the minor ailments which afflict little ones. Baby's Own Tablets never fail to regulate the stomach and bowels, thus they banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers; relieve colic and bring the baby through that dreaded teething period in safety. The Tablets never do harm—always good—as they are guaranteed absolutely free from any injurious drugs. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BOARD OF TRADE COUNCIL NAMED

Eighteen Appointed at a Recent Meeting—Regiment in Camp.

ASK SAFEGUARDS.

COBOURG, July 4—At a meeting of the Board of Trade the following were appointed as council for the year 1925: A. R. Dundas, Harry Field, Wm. Fox, H. O. Taylor, H. C. Higginbotham, George Taylor, E. W. Hargraft, Geo. Strong, A. L. Jex, J. W. Odell, R. T. Mahan, O. F. Allison, A. J. Plunkett, W. L. Allen, Wm. Jennings, J. D. Barnett, J. E. Skidmore, M. W. Sparling.

Death of Old Citizen

Mr. Bernard McGrath of Haldimand township succumbed to shock and illness attendant upon an injury which he received a few weeks ago, when he fell and fractured his leg, and his death took place at Cobourg General Hospital, Thursday, July 2. The remains will be taken to Grafton and the funeral takes place there on Saturday morning to St. Mary's Church and cemetery.

Go Into Camp On Monday

The Northumberland Regiment under Lt. Col. J. F. Wolfrian of Colborne, will go into camp on Monday at the armouries here. The Regiment Band from Campbellford will be here also. It has been arranged to hold a school of instruction for officers and non-commissioned officers.

Want Public Safeguarded

The jury empaneled to enquire into the cause of death of F. J. Macklin who was killed on Friday morning when he drove his truck upon a C.N.R. railway crossing, on a detour about a mile east of Cobourg brought in a verdict of accidental death. They also exonerated the train crew from negligence. A resolution was passed recommending that the safety of the public be better safeguarded by some precautionary measures at these crossings.

A copy of the resolution was ordered sent to the Board of Railway Commissioners and to the Department of Highways.

Real Estate Sold

J. H. Taylor has sold a farm to Mrs. Clara Braithwaite.

Edward Brooks has sold to Abraham Payne a lot on the north side of Bay St. in the town of Cobourg.

WEATHER MARRED PICNIC AT APSLEY

United Church People Came Out, But Sports Were Cancelled.

APSLEY, July 4—The annual picnic of the United Church was held on July 1st but cold weather and a drizzling rain somewhat marred the success of the event. A fair number, however, braved the elements and attended the bountiful dinner and supper laid on tables under the shade trees on the parsonage grounds. The programme of sports was cancelled, but a softball match was played between Apsley and Purdeyville. An exciting game resulted in a win for Apsley by the narrow margin of one run, the score being Apsley 19, Purdeyville 18.

A full house greeted the performance of the three act comedy "Safety First" in the Parish Hall on Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. The audience was kept in roars of laughter from start to finish, Mary Ann O'Finnerty, personated by Mrs. G. Kilborn, contributing the major cause of the hilarity and filling the role to perfection. The whole performance was well staged and acted, and considering that four of the players made their debut on this occasion its success was remarkable and deserved the appreciation it received. The whole of the scenery was the work of Mrs. Spence. The play will be repeated next week at Lasswade. The door receipts amounted to $30. An enjoyable dance was held afterwards and indulged in by about thirty couples. The cast was as follows: Mabel Montgomery, Miss Windram; Virginia Bridger, Miss P. Spence; Mrs. Bridger, Mrs. Spence; Zuleika, a Turkish maid, Miss Howlett; Mary Ann O'Finnerty, Mrs. G. Kilborn; Jack Montgomery, Roy Spence; Jerry Arnold, C. A. G. Spence; Elmer Flannel, Eddie Everett; McNutt, Herbert Lean; Abou Ben Mocha, a Turk, Frank Tanner.

CHEMONG ASSAULT LEADS TO A FINE

Local Young Man Convicted of Attack on Charles Forsyth.

Arising out of incidents which occurred in the early hours of Sunday last two brothers were fined for assaulting Charles Forsyth manager of the Rendezvous Pavilion Chemong Park, and for being intoxicated in a public place. One was fined $40 and costs, and fines totalling $30 and costs were imposed on the other. A further charge preferred against the latter of having liquor in his possession in a place other than his residence was dismissed. The accused were represented by V. J. McElderry while Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton and J. F. Strickland acted for the prosecution.

The charge of assaulting Forsyth was first taken up. The story of the assault was related to His Worship by Charles Forsyth. He stated that the brothers came into the store which is carried on in connection with the dancing hall, about 12.40 on Sunday morning and immediately began to make trouble. One, he said, tried to get behind the counter and on witness endeavoring to restrain him became abusive and used bad language. At the same time the other who was intoxicated seized a lad named Larone by the throat and witness, as manager of the place, went to the boy's assistance. The accused, witness stated, then struck him on the mouth, dislodging one of his teeth, and his brother closed in on him and all three fell to the floor. While on the floor, Forsyth stated, he was hit several times by the accused. He was b leeding as a result of the scuffle. Then Gettas interfered and the accused went out.

Grasped Bottles.

Witness explained that when the accused approached him threateningly he grasped an empty Coco-cola bottle in each hand, but he made no attempt to use them. He did not try to fight with accused and hoped to persuade them to go out peaceably. His idea in picking up the battles was to use them as a bluff. He did not know which it was who hit him when he was on the floor. All he knew was he felt himself getting a few belts.

Peter Gettas stated he was the owner of the Rendezvous. Urged by Attorney Hatton to tell all that happened, he replied cheerfully, "I will, Sir," and proceeded to quote the language said to be used by accused, until His Worship intervened.

"There is no need to introduce these dirty words into court. Tell us what happened without repeating every disgusting word that was used," His Worship said. Witness then described the assault on the lad ,Larone, whose clothes, he said, were torn in the struggle. He stated that he saw the assault on Forsyth. The two youths, he said, got on top of Forsyth and pommelled the life out of him.

He did not often see people under the influence of drink. A couple of years ago there was one: "The same gentleman over there," he declared. In his opinion Larone would have been choked had no one gone to his aid. Describing the assault, witness said the accused hit Forsyth. He added naively, "I guess Charlie hit the boards then, but I did not follow him that far." He thought the accused could have been persuaded to go quietly, had his brother not been there.

Earl Spellman, a young lad in Gettas' employ, took the stand and gave corroborative evidence of the assault.

Paid for Tooth.

Mr. McElderry, on behalf of his client, was willing to offer to Forsyth a reasonable sum to replace the tooth that had been lost. He asked His Worship to take into consideration the youth of the accused and the fact that he had never been in any similar trouble before.

Mr. Hatton said there was no question of the fact that an assault had been committed, an aggravated uncalled for assaut, occasioning actual bodily harm. The fact that Gettas was anxious to maintain an orderly place was entirely to his credit. In the interest of a place that was providing clean, wholesome amusement, he asked that a penalty should be inflicted which would ensure no repetition of the offence.

His Worship found the charge proved and deferred sentence until the other charges were disposed of.

The intoxication charge was then considered.

Mr. Gettas recalled to the stand was emphatic in the statement that the accused was intoxicated. Asked by Mr. Hatton as to the youth's sobriety, witness spluttered: 'He was no sobriety.' 'What did you notice as to his condition?" asked counsel. "His condition was no good; in plain English, he was drunk. Witness added that accused had liquor all over his clothes. He was s oaking with it. He knew he was drunk because he was staggering and jumping and yelling about. Witness thought the two accused had come with the intention of wrecking the place.

Sent For Police.

Charles Forsyth stated that when the accused entered, both intoxicated, he said, he sent for the police, but accused had left the premises before the police arrived.

Earl Spellman thought the accused was feeling pretty gay, but would not swear he was drunk.

A representative of the company with which the accused is employed, took the stand, giving evidence that he had never given any evidence of being addicted to liquor during working hours.

This charge His Worship also found proved and held sentence over till the other cases were disposed of.

On a charge of intoxication and common assault, the brother amended his original plea to one of guilty.

He then pleaded not guilty on the charge of having liquor in his possession in a place other than his residence. Mr. Gettas swore that on the night in question accused produced a bottle saying, "Have a drink, you're a good fellow." Several witnesses gave evidence of the appearance of the bottle and the invitation to drink, but the accused, who took the stand on his own behalf, produced a bottle of mouth wash obtained from a Peterborough dentist which he stated was the identical bottle that he had exhibited on Sunday morning.

Mr. Strickland characterized the statement as one of the most ingenious stories to escape punishment for a breach of the O. T. A. but the magistrate upheld Mr. McElderry's contention for the defence that the prosecution had failed to establish proof that the bottle flourished in front of Gettas and the other witnesses actually contained liquor. Consequently the charge was dismissed.

His Worship stated that both had been well defended by Mr. McElderry, who had stated in their favour everything that could be said. In imposing the fine of $40 he was taking into consideration the fact that the accused had given Forsyth $10 as compensation for the lost tooth. His Worship gave both young men some salutary advice as to their future conduct, warning them of the consequences of a repetition of the behaviour that had brought them into court.

HAT CREEK MINES NEW COAL SOURCE

Interest Revived in Mysterious Disappearance of George Finney, Discoverer.

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 4.—(Canadian Press).—The Hat Creek coal mines, located on the Pacific Great Eastern railway, whose history is interwoven with mystery and romance, may prove one of British Columbia's most important industrial assets.

Recent investigations have brought the Hat Creek coal field out of oblivion to a position of primary attention on the part of the western mining world and big things are expected of it. Yet, a few months ago Hat Creek was little more than a name associated with one of the most perplexing mysteries of the Cariboo country.

The mystery concerns George Finney, a rancher who, during the late '90's established a ranch on the creek and acquired title to the coal field. In those days the presence of coal in that vicinity was merely a matter of speculation, but Finney had faith in the possibilities of the field and did considerable drilling. He sank shafts and pits, the sites of which are evident from the old dumps. All show that he found coal, one shaft having a depth of 185 feet.

Finney mined coal, sold it to neighboring ranchers and blacksmiths, and hauled it by wagon as far as Ashcroft, where he supplied hotels. Then one day in August, 1900, Finney disappeared. He left his horse saddled standing at the post outside his cabin and when friends called they found his tea kettle boiling on the stove. Finney was never seen again and it was supposed that he fell down one of the deep chasms of the mine.

Long after Finney's disappearance the mine was taken over by Chinese interests, but they did not understand mining and eventually the property went into liquidation. It was not until early this year that interest was revived in Hat Creek. A Vancouver syndicate took a bond on the property and development work was carried on under A. C. McDougall, who had considerable experience in the Alberta coal areas. Since then the coal deposits have been given a fairly thorough examination. Diamond drilling has proved the existence of coal for a continuous depth of 523 feet and the field is now regarded as one of the most remarkable discoveries in the history of coal mining, and authorities such as E. A. Haggen, editor of the Mining and Engineering Record, Vancouver, states that it is certainly the greatest discovery in the records of the coal industry of this province. The coal has yet to be tested for steam, gas, railway and other purposes, but on its analyses it should meet these requirements. The fact that the field was until recently regarded as a lignite, or low grade proposition, discouraged development heretofore, but recent tests have shown that the coal is of bituminous nature.

A favorable feature of the discovery is that Hat Creek is now easily accessible from the outside world by means of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway. This railway, owned by the provincial government, is at present languishing for traffic; yet, if the coal fields are developed as expected an entirely new industrial area will be brought into being in central British Columbia and the difficulties of the railroad will soon vanish. Plans are already being made to handle trial shipments of the coal as soon as suitable arrangements can be made to handle the fuel at Squamish the terminus of the railway, situated forty miles north of Vancouver. Here the coal can be loaded onto scows and transported to Vancuver at a minimum cost.

NEW STRENGTH FOR WEAK GIRLS

Can Be Had Through the Rich, Red Blood Made By Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

There comes a time in the life of almost every girl when weakness atacks her. The strain upon her blood supply is too great, and there comes headaches and backaches, loss of appetite, attacks of dizziness, heart palpitation, a constant weariness and a tendency to decline. All hese symptoms may not be present in any particular case, but the presence of any one of them shows the necessity for prompt treatment. And the very best treament is through the blood-making tonic qualities of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are the one thing needed to maintain the health of growing girls and women of mature years.

Here is a bit of strong proof:—Miss Maltilda Brean, King Highway, Newcastle, N.B., says:—"I was in an extremely run-down and nervous condition. I was losing flesh, had a poor appetite, always pale, and suffered frequently from headaches. In fact my condition can best be described as miserable. I had tried several treatments but they did not help me in the least. Then, reading one day about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I decided to try them. After using three boxes I was much improved, but continued until I had taken six boxes, with the result that I am now well and strong, with good color and a hearty appetite. In view of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me I cannot recommend them too highly."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FRIENDS HONOR GEORGE JOBBITT

Retiring C. N. R. Conductor Receives Club Bag—Mrs. Jobbitt Remembered.

MANY GOOD WISHES.

On Tuesday evening, June 30th, a happy event took place at the residence of Mr. Geo. Jobbitt, 299 Boswell Avenue, when a company of his fellow employees gathered to make merry and celebrate the occasion of his retirement from service with the Canadian National Railways. Felicitations were offered by many friends and among those who called were G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, and J. J. Duffus, ex-Mayor of Peterboro.

A very delightful evening was spent in games and music, during the course of which Mr. and Mrs. Jobbitt were summoned before a tribunal, hastily convened, and were charged with being jolly good fellows. The following was the indictment:

Dear Friend,—This is an important date in your life, the day on which you lay aside the duties and responsibilities which for 47 years you have carried as you went in and out among your fellow employees of the railway. That is a long way to look back and we do not doubt that you had to meet and vanquish many giants along the way, as is the lot of all men on life's journey.

So a goodly company of your friends received a hurry up call to assemble themselves in your home to-night, and join with you and your good wife and children in a festive hour to celebrate the glad occasion, to make merry with you, and to tender our hearty congratulations and to express our good wishes.

Some of us conceived the idea that you might still like to travel occasionally, and that you would like to take an extra necktie and collar and pair of sox with you. In the old days when you began railroading it was usual to tie such things up in a red handkerchief and hang them on a stick over the shoulder. But we have something here which will probably answer the purpose better and ask you to accept from your friends this club bag. Our only hope, George, is that you may live to wear it out, although it is the best we could get. From the bottom of our hearts we wish you long life and happiness.

Only half of our pleasant task is done. There is one with you in your home to-night who has shared with you every joy and every sorrow that has come to you during your wedded life. You are fortunate indeed that you have your good helpmate by your side to-night as you pass this milestone in your life's journey. Our hope is that you may spend many happy days in companionship, and in the love of your children.

And as ladies like to travel too and as you will want to have an occasional honeymoon together, we thought it only fair that Mrs. Jobbitt should have a bag in which to tote around six or seven dresses and a powder puff. But dresses don't take up much room these days, so we just got a small bag. If she will have as much pleasure in the use of it as her friends have in the presenting of it for her use, then we will feel gratified.

They were found guilty and were much overcome by the sentence. However, both responded in happy manner. Refreshments were served and the company departed after wishing their host and hostess long life and happy days. After 47 years of active railway life, Mr. Jobbitt has retired from service and will spend his days in fishing and his evenings telling of the big ones that got off the hook.

Stony Lake.

By southern seas I have seen purple stones
Throw back the shadows of the waves and hills.
On the Aegean, so the stories run,
Greek youths, with many a saffron-colored sail,
Rode flame-like to the rhythm of the gale.

Again, on the bright shores of this small lake,
Purple of hills and pink of Northern rocks.
To-day I met a sail boat in the wind
And at its mast a brown Canadian boy—
He was as splendid as his mate of Troy.

AMERICAN PEOPLE ARE EXTRAVAGANT

Dr. J. Leason of Chicago Tells Medical Society in Convention.

TORONTO, July 4 (Canadian Press).—"American people are noted for their extravagance," said Dr. J. Deason of Chicago, Ill., addressing the American Osteopathic Society of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology here yesterday. "This applies to their physical selves as well as to their physical possession. Most of us use up our vitality, our physical structure, our life, as if it were an unlimited source of income.

"Not only are we criminally extravagant, but we are also suicidally careless. From a study of my records for a period of 10 years, I find that more than 60 per cent. of the cases of deafness referred to me by general practitioners have come too late to have their hearing restored to normal. This is not by any means always the fault of the general practitioners, because most people will not consult a doctor sufficiently early.

"On the American table, the presence of devitalized and of demineralized foods is the most potent factor leading to food deficiencies," said Dr. George V. Webster of Carthage, N.Y. "Not only do these foods lack substances which the blood needs, but the very lack of these substances causes overeating, and the excess of food in turn, uses up the precious compounds of which the blood already has so little. Then there is acidosis and the blood is unable to fight disease. Normal blood means normal health. This has been a fundamental for more than 50 years. In most chronic infections this acidosis which I have just been speaking of, is found present in the blood and it defeats the effort of the body to establish an immunity. This fact is just another proof of the truth of the osteopathic theory."

"Diseases of the larynx are due to many causes," said Dr. Will O. Medaris of Rockford, Ill. "and not the least among these are bony subluxations, or what the osteopathic physician commonly speaks of as between the vertebrae of the neck, and between the topmost vertebrae and the skull, as well as in the joints of the jaw, the upper ribs, and the collar bones."

"There is a difference between the family physician and the specialist," said Dr. H. J. Marshall of Des Moines, Iowa, "and the law recognizes this differentiation. The people have a right to expect and even legally demand, that their family physician shall know something of the treatment of eye, ear, nose and throat conditions, enough to appreciate the real nature of any trouble, and acknowledging his own limitations to advise them when to consult an expert."

A specialist who confines his work to diseases of the eyes, ears, nose and throat, is just as much in need of a complete laboratory examination of his patients as the general practitioner, according to Dr. L. C. Chandler of Los Angeles, and in fact such examination may be more important to him because he is interested in the patient's general tissue health and the general practitioner is often engrossed with symptoms.

Methods of making osteopathic adjustment with the patient seated on a stool were demonstrated by Dr. J. Ivan Dufur of Philadelphia.

A FASHION MODEL'S DIARY

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A DASHING DANCE FROCK

To-day a new client came in to consult Madame. She was a tall, slender blonde, with close-shingled hair and a very lovely figure.

Madame advanced to greet her, for she happened to be in the entrance salon at the time, instead of closeted with a pet client, as she so often is in the busy season.

"Miss Miller sent me," the young lady announced when she had introduced herself. "She said I'd love you things, and I do trust you'll be able to help me right away."

Miss Harlow, the new young lady, then proceeded to tell Madame htat she was planning to go on a week end party and that she really had to have one new and dashing evening gown for the occasion.

Madame, as she is wont to do, was sizing her client up all the time she talked to her. I know Madame so well that I can tell by the look in her eye. I knew by the time the conversation was over Madame would have a good idea of her client's type and her most successful colors.

"Madame does know how to dress her clients with regard to color and line," I thought to myself for the thousandth time. "Their costumes are so successful, too, that they always come back for more."

Very soon one of the errand girls was dispatched to the stockroom with a request to bring down the new imported satin that had just arrived.

"It's the blue and gold brocade," Madame informed her.

The new client looked interested when she heard the material mentioned, and she grew more interested still swhen Madame took out her little pad and began sketching rapidly with her soft drawing pencil.

I hung in the background, for as I have embitions to become a designer myself some day I am always interested to watch how Madame works.

Her long fingers made rapid strokes and I could see that the sketch was growing into a slimline affair and that it was to have a decollette neckline.

Then Madame began to explain.

"I suggest a frock cut quite low in the back, with a rounded neckline in front," she said. "I should like the front perfectly straight, with a soft handkerchief inset at the right side. From the right hip we'll have a frill of gold lace that dips down across the back and ends low at the left seam."

"Oh, that will be gorgeous," said Miss Harlow. "I know I shall love it."

This Gown of Blue and Gold Brocaded Satin is Trimmed with Silver Lace.

Let's Talk It Over

Love to "Unhappy" is a highly emotional affair. To "Gladys" it seems purely a commercial proposition.

Will you please write an article on your views of a girl's working after marriage? Also, if the girl does not work, how much should a man make in order to take care of her? If a girl is in love at twenty with a poor young man, should she wait for a rich man to come along with the hope that she will also fall in love with him?

GLADYS.

Are you discussing marriage, Gladys, or a deal in hides, hoof and tallow? My advice to any girl of twenty, who, being in love with a poor young man would decide to wait until a richer suitor comes along, is simply this: By all means, wait. Wait until you're at least thirty before risking a possible bad bargain. By that time all danger will probably have passed for you and any potential husband. For which said husband oughta give loud yelps of gratitude. Am I joking? I am NOT. You've got about as much appreciation of the beauty and dignity of love as a deep-sea clam. And this is my simple way of telling you so.

Home-Making Helps

MAKING THE WINDOW SHADES ATTRACTIVE

Window shades are receiving the close attention of the interior decorators. Glazed chintz for the shades is very smart. With lamp shades and chair covers to match, a wonderfully crisp and cool combination is obtained.

Then stenciled linens came along and they are very pretty. In clean places they last all Summer without being laundered.

Next, the oilcloth shades appeared for the bathroom and kitchen, with long curtains to match. The curtains were stenciled, painted, even hand blocked. With care they last well and may be wiped off with a damp cloth or chamois.

Perhaps the latest fad is the unbleached sheeting shades, appliqued with calico decorative motifs for kitchen use. Women buy cheap shapes that fit and rip off the shade, retaining the fixtures. They applique the motifs in colors that match the furnishings of the kitchen. One woman having a blue and white kitchen appliqued yellow oranges and leaves in natural size as a border across the bottoms of her shades. In another blue kitchen having red and blue furniture the curtains were decorated with tomato vines and fruits.

Another set of the white sheeing shades were decorated with a flower box effect in brown and gaily colored tulips growing up the curtain on long, slender, green stems. The drapes to go with these shades had a pot of tulips in the center of each drape. Across the top valance there were several rows of fancy stitching in the colors of the tulips used.

Some of the shades have little groups of children or single figures. Sometimes the children are done singly, in groups, or playing with animals or toys. In some cases they are put on in outline stitch in mercerized cottons instead of being appliqued.

Black silk shades are quite the newest of all and are done in machine embroidery in chain stitch in one or more colors or in hand embroidery. The cord used on the shade matches a color in the embroidery and is finished with a long silk tassel to match, or with one of the pretty painted wood shade pulls. For a modern black and white room a set of the black shades was embroidered with white flowers done in cross stitch. Still another was done in the flower baskets in the cross stitch.

The glazed cambric shades, ready made or made to order, are favored in the chintz patterns for the upstairs rooms.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a boy in my teens and for the past month I have been going out with a girl whom I admire. She says that she likes me but everytime I endeavored to kiss her she insisted that I do not.

Do you think that she refused me because she dislikes me, although she said she didn't?

WAVY HAIR.

WAVY HAIR: Demonstrations of affection between people who are not engaged to be married are improper, the the young lady's conduct is due to the fact that she wisely realized this. Your respect for her should increase because of this, and I suggest that you continue your friendship with her.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl sixteen years of age and greatly interested in a man about twenty-eight.

Should this friendship continue?

L. P.

L. P.: Although it is hardly advisable for you to cultivate the friendship of people who are much older than you, there is really no reason why you should discontinue your friendship with this young man. However, do not devote too much time to someone whose tastes and interests necessarily differ from yours. Meet your other friends, have a jolly good time, and you won't have any leisure in which to worry.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

Weddings

CALLAGHAN—HALPIN.

A pretty wedding, attended by a large number of the friends of the bridal couple, took place at the Church of the Sacred Heart on Tuesday morning, when Miss Mary Halpin became the bride of Mr. John Callaghan, of this city, formerly of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. O'Brien.

The bride wore a stylish French ensemble suit of grey crepe de chine, with hat, shoes and stockings to match, and silver fox fur neckpiece. She carried a shower bouquet of ophelia roses and orchids.

The bridesmaid, Miss Muriel Goselin, wore a gown of blue satin with silver shoes and stockings and hat to match, and bouquet of columbia roses.

The bridegroom was supported by Mr. Robert Armitage.

After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast, catered for by Messrs. T. H. Hooper and Son, was served at the home of the bride. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Callaghan left for a brief honeymoon. They will reside at their new home on Lansdowne avenue.

FARRELLY—SULLIVAN.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place on Tuesday morning, June 30, in St. Mary's Cathedral, when Rev. Father Coyle, Kingston, united in marriage Dorothy Elizabeth, daughter of Mrs. Leo Sullivan, to Hughie Farrelly, of Pittsburgh. The bride was attired in a white crepe de chene dress with hat to match and carried a bouquet of roses. The bridesmaid, Lorraine, sister of the bride, wore a dress of pink crepe de chene and hat to match, and carried a bouquet of tear drops. Mr. Vincent Farrelly, brother of the groom, acted as best man. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride Mr. and Mrs. Farrelly left on a motor trip to New York and other points. On their return they will reside in Pittsburgh.—Kingston Standard.

MOTHER.

Dedicated to my Dead Mother.

Oh ,Mother dear, I loved you so,
Why did you have to leave me?
Of course you are happy in heaven, I know,
But, Oh, I do feel lonely.

I pray for the day when we'll meet again,
Darling Mother, you and I;
Of course such happiness is hard to obtain,
But, dearest, I mean to try.

Your memory is as dear to-day,
As in the hour you passed,
I still continue praying for you
And always will try to remain so true.

TIMELY TIPS ON OUTDOOR LIFE

By Morris Ackerman

During the bathing and vacation season it is well to watch with care for bruises, scratches and abrasions on one's feet and hands.

Sharp stones often cut the feet while in water. If the water is not pure there is grave danger of infection.

Scratches on the hands also are common with vacationists.

A good and simple remedy in either case is iodine. If iodine is applied quickly enough after the wound is made there is small danger from infection.

Weakened carbolic acid also is good.

Discoloration of the skin will result from a bruise if the wound is not properly taken care of. Ammonium chloride, one-half ounce; tincture of arnica, one ounce; dilute acetic acid, two and a half ounces, and water, two and a half ounces, makes an excellent solution for bruises.

Bread and vinegar poultices also are good for bruises. Bread crumbs should be soaked in cold viengar, and the mixture should be beaten to a paste. Apply this as a poultice.

Children should be taught the advisability of giving attention to cuts, bruises and abrasions.

Remember a cut would never get sore if poison was not permitted to enter the wound.

BISLEY MARKSMAN RECALLS 65 MEETS

LONDON, July 4.—(Canadian Press).—Never to have missed a single meeting of the National Rifle Association in all the 65 years of its existence, and still an eager competitor in one at least of the matches! This is the wonderful record of R. T. Caiger, of Mortlake, near London. This year Mr. Caiger, celebrates his 85th birthday. He is looking forward once again to occupying his old tent, and to doing a strenuous fifteen hours a day in the Statistics Department on Bisley Common, when this year's Bisley opens on July 6.

A slight deafness is his only disability. He is one of the first up of a morning in this camp of early risers. Mr. Caiger is very insistent that moderation in eating and drinking is largely responsible for his enjoyment at 85 years of the health and good spirits of a man of 40. Several of Mr. Caiger's family are happily settled in Canada.

Yes I have certainly seen a good many changes in the N.R.A. meet," said Mr. Caiger to The Canadian Press. "Queen Victoria opened the first meeting on Wembledon Common in 1860.

It was the fashion for a good many years to have a review of the volunteers, with the old style of "Sham fight", on the last day. The ex-Kaiser was present at one of them.

"As for the actual shooting, well, we had the muzzle-loading Long Enfield. There were only two stages for the King's Prize, and anybody who made 45 out of an aggregate of 60 was considered to have done very well. A lot of competitors never got on the target at all with that kind of weapon.

"The targets for years were of iron, and the marking used to be done with flags of different colors—white for bulls, red for centre and so on. In the early days it was sometimes possible for a crooked competitor to 'make it right' with a crooked marker. Such a dodge would nowadays be impossible for a range officer can alter the arrangements on his butt any time of the day.

"Competitors were obliged for many years to fire in uniform. If they had so much as the top button of their tunic loosed—and the early tunics were heavy—they were liable to be disqualified. Permission was given later for firing in undress uniform. Still later uniform was compulsory only at the 200 yards range, and for many years now firing has been allowed in pretty well any dress the competitor pleases.

"The Canadians first sent a team to Wimbledon in 1871. Canada is the only Dominion or Overseas portion of the Empire to send a team regularly, although we used to have a team from Belgium for special matches even in the Wimbledon days.

"The move from Wimbledon to Bisley came in 1890. Wimbledon had rapidly grown as a suburb of London, and the people objected to the great crowds which were attracted there by the N.R.A. meeting."

AMERICAN PAIR DEFEAT FRENCH

Casey and Hennesey Enter Wimbledon Finals—Joan Fry New British Hope.

LOST TO LENGLEN.

WIMBLEDON, July 4. — Canadian Press. — Yesterday the all-English tennis tournament brought forth the expected and the unexpected.

Susanne Lenglen, the French marvel, did what had been expected when she captured the women's singles for the sixth time since 1919 by defeating the young Engilsh girl—Joan Fry—6-2, 6-0. The United States doubles pair, Ray Casey of California, and John Hennessey of Indiana accomplished the unexpected when they overthrew the favorites in the men's doubles semi-final, Jacques Brugnon and Henri Cochet, of France 7-5, 5-7, 9-7, 6-4, and entered the final against Jean Borotra and Rene La Coste, also f France.

The first match attracted the greatest interest for it marked the entry of a new British hope in the list of woman players. It was a match of long rallies from the baseline, neither player often venturing near the net, each waiting for breaks in her opponent's armor. Both played accurately. The English girl perhaps performed with the greater force, while Suzanne was willing to wait. She kept Joan moving along the base line from right to left and left to right like a puppet while she herself rarely left her position in the centre. Then when for an instant, Joan left her backhand ungurded, Suzanne pounced, and the point was hers. The English girl took two games off Suzanne's services in the first set but after that the French champion never left herself open for a winning stroke.

The stroke analysis shows that Mlle. Lenglen won 52 to Miss Fry's 23 in the two sets. Only one game—the second of the second set—went to deuce, and in this Suzanne had an ace up her sleeve and was not in danger.

PASSES TO RAYS DEFEAT ROYALS

West-Enders Also Do Some Wild Tossing to Help Raybestos.

"Bud" Weese, hurling for Royals against Raybestos last evening, got away to a good start, but lost control in the third and fourth when the Coursey clan got enough runs to score another victory, the final count being 9 to 3. The Royals have not been able to stop their flow of wild pegs, their weakness in this respect being largely responsible for their losses to Raybestos. Grant Miller, who relieved Weese in the fifth, settled the dust on the runways, fannink six batsmen and allowing but one hit.

Moore was the chief swatsman, getting a triple and two singles.

CARRICK MEETS SOMERVILLE IN FINALS OF GOLF

Carrick Rallied Friday Afternoon and Defeated Scott in Sensational Finish.

DECIDE TITLE.

Final Round For Canadian Championship Played Today at Ottawa.

ROYAL OTTAWA GOLF CLUB, Ottawa, July 4.—(Canadian Press). — The final round of the Canadian amateur golf tournament was reached here yesterday, with C. Rose Somerville of London Hunt Club and D. D. Carrick of Scarboro Golf Club, Toronto, the contestants for the 1925 title. Both are University of Toronto athletes.

Somerville had an easy victory over J. A. Cameron, of the Rivermead Club, Ottawa, in the penultimate round, the match ending on the 30th green with last year's runner-up 7 to the good.

The triumph of Carrick, who is Canadian junior champion, was less decisive, however, and the 36th green was reached before Carrick got the decision. Carrick, apparently beaten in the morning round when he was three down, rallied in the afternoon and squared the match at the 29th by a brilliant exhibition. The next six holes were halved, and then came the memorable 36th, which ended one of the most sensational uphill fights of championship play. The 36th is the longest hole, measures 565 yards, and pars at 5. Carrick raised the ball to within ten feet of the cup on the elevated green, Scott's third carrying over to the back slope, 20 feet from the pin. Scott made a gallant effort to chip into the hole from his poor lie, but the ball bounded over, leaving Carrick a ten-foot putt to win the hole with a birdie four. It was a tense moment around the club-house when Carrick set himself to the task of breaking a deadlock which had stayed adhesively with the players for six holes. The junior champion's ball went straight into the hole, and the thousand or more spectators cheered Carrick to the echo.

Both Brilliant.

The golf of both Carrick and Scott was brilliant throughout, with Carrick slightly the best. He was more aggressive than the Montrealer, and but for Scott's brilliant shots during the exciting deadlock between the 29th and 35th holes, when he rose to the occasion, the match might have ended before the final hole.

In the afternoon round Carrick made the course in one under par, and was two under par for the last nine holes. Five times in the afternoon Scott rimmed the cup with long putts of fifteen feet or so. He was very steady in his short game throughout the day, and only missed two long drives in the 36 holes. But Carrick was the stronger finisher of the two, and his super golf carried him to victory. The Torontonian conceded a big lead in the morning round through weak putting, but he was a different player starting the second, following a consultation on this subject during the interval for lunch. The 24th was the only afternoon hole he lost, this being the result of an extra putt.

Carrick's splendid victory over Scott marked the second occasion in two days that he has been forced to better par golf to eliminate his opponent. Thursday he had to win the last four holes to defeat G. H. Flynn, of Pittsburgh, two up.

Progress of Finalists.

The following shows the progress of Don Carrick, Scarboro, Toronto, and C. Ross Somerville, London Hunt Club, into the final round of the Canadian amateur golf tournament:

Mr. Carrick:
Qualifying round—75, 76—151.
First rorund—Defeated Gordon Taylor, Toronto, 8 and 6.
Second round — Defeated W. J. Thompson, Toronto, 3 and 2.
Third round—Defeated G. H. Flynn of Pittsburgh, 2 up.
Semi-finals — Defeated Norman M. Scott, Montreal, 1 up.

Mr. Somerville:
Qualifying round—79, 80—159.
First round—Defeated A. B. Darling of Montreal, 3 and 2.
Second round—Defeated Max R. Marston, Philadelphia, on 38th.
Third round — Defeated Stanley Thompson, Toronto, 4 and 3.
Semi-finals—Defeated J. A. Cameron of Ottawa, 7 and 6.

SECOND HALF IN THE E.P.B. LEAGUE

ANDERSON WINS FOR BISONS ON HOMER IN NINTH

Syracuse Pulled Down Long Lead, But Circuit Smash Broke Tie.

TORONTO IDLE.

Jersey City Take Three Out of Four From Reading.

SYRACUSE, July 3—Andy Anderson broke a tie score with a home run in the ninth inning here today and Buffalo won by 10 to 8. Spencer the first man to face Frankhouse in the ninth inning, drew a pass and Anderson drove the ball over the left field fence for his second circuit clout of the afternoon. Syracuse trailed from the second inning when the Bisons scored six runs but got to Brice in the eighth, deadlocking the count when Jim Taggart drove a homer over the right field fence sending in Thevenow and Niebergall ahead of him. The score:

Buffalo .. ..260000002—10 12 2
Syracuse .. ..200010050— 8 8 0

Brice, Reddy and Hill; Parks, Boyd, Frankhouse and Niebergall.

Baltimore 8; Providence 3

PROVIDENCE, July 3 — Baltimore took the final game of the series today by a score of 8 to 3. The locals outbatted the visitors and generally played a snappier game, but the weakness in the pitcher's box was fatal. The Orioles batted Swaney off the mound in the third. Musante pitched good ball for his stay in the box. Fourteen Providence men left on the bases tells the story. Score:

Baltimore .. ..203101010—8 9 0
Providence.. .. .. ..000020001—3 13 1

Jackson and Cobb; Musante, Tomlin and Fox.

Jersey City 5; Reading 1

JERSEY CITY, July 3 — Jersey City made it three out of four games over Reading by taking the final of the series today, 5 to 1. Bunched hits in the first inning nettel the Skeeters three runs while singles by Freitag and Simpson followed by Kiefer's triple accounted two more runs in the fourth. Score:

Reading .. ..010000000—1 10 0
Jersey City .. .. ..30020000x—5 9 3

Wilson, Mattison and Smith, Meuter; Kiefer and Freitag.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Maker of 61 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

I have always advocated the square stance for wood shots and the slightly open stance for long iron shots. There are some golfers who do better with the open stance for woods. Many par players use it. There is something about their make-up that calls for this stance, and when that is the case the open stance should be used since golf can never be a proposition of exact rule with any player. If you have trouble with the woods and have been using the square stance, try a slightly open stance, with the ball off the left instep and the right foot about five inches, or a little less than that, forward toward the ball. This stance has a tendency to encourage the right arm to stay close to the side in the back swing, which is a good thing. The right elbow slides around the right side instead of projecting itself out from the side.

ATHLETICS ON DOMINION DAY

Norwood A. A. Celebration Was a Great Success Despite Weather.

PROCEEDS LARGE

NORWOOD, July 4.—In spite of the unfavorable weather, the celebration held under the auspices of the Norwood Amateur Athletic Club was well attended. The principal attraction for the afternoon was a girls' softball tournament, in which teams from Havelock, Campbellford, Keene and Norwood participated. At 1.30 Keene and Norwood competed, the former winning by the score 17-2. Later in the afternoon Havelock and Campbellford played and the former won, leaving the play-off to Keene and Havelock. At 6.30 these teams came together, but on account of some disagreement the umpire called the game off. The score at this time was 6-0 in favor of Keene. It is probable that the final play-off will take place at Norwood in the near future. The trophy competed for was a handsome silver cup.

A baseball match between Havelock and Norwood was altogether too one-sided to be very interesting. Norwood did not have a look in.

The O.A.L.A. League lacrosse match between Campbellford and Norwood juniors was the big attraction of the day. For the first two periods the Norwood boys held their opponents down to a score of 4-2, but in the last two periods they fell down and Campbellford won out by a score of 11-2.

The evening attraction was a concert in the Town Hall, put on by "The Mirthmakers," a group of local young men under the management of J. S. Weir. Those who assisted him were: Armar Weir, Alex. Weir, Gordon Wright and W. J. Stares. The High School orchestra under the leadership of Charlie Adams contributed a number of selections and were, as always, well received. The members of the orchestra were: Charlie Adams, cornet; Ralph Elliott, piano; W. Wendt, saxaphone; Hector Munroe, violin; Charlie Copen, violin; Wesley Wildman, guitar. and Keefe McLaughlin, traps. The program of music, song and story was well received, especially the local hits. Messrs. Armar and Alex. Weir, as female impersonators, took their parts exceedingly well.

The proceeds for the day were: Gate receipts, about $155.00; concert receipts, about $200.00, and the I.O.D.E., who had a booth on the grounds, did a very good business considering the weather.

Londoners are gradually becoming darker of hair and complexion, which type thrives better under the conditions of city life.

BOWLING TOURNEY TO MAKE RECORD

Niagara-on-the-Lake to be Visited by the Ontario Association.

TORONTO, Ont, July 4.—(Canadian Press).— The decision last year unanimously arrived at, that Niagara-on-the-Lake was the logical place at which to hold the annual tourney of the Ontario Bowling Association, should mean much in making the 37th event, scheduled to open on Monday, July 6, draw out a record representation of the best bowling talent to be found in the province. Niagara has the great recommendation that the bowlers get together on the one green, giving old friends and opportunity of getting together on this occasion. Every assurance is given that the greens this year will be in excellent condition and there is no lack of local co-operation to make the event a big success.

The Ontario Bowling Association Trophy, offered since 1914 is the most important of the five trophies to be competed for. The club winning in three times in 10 years will retain possession and since 1915 it has been twice captured by the same club. Niagara won it in 1917 and 1924 while the Canada Club, Toronto, were successful in 1919 and 1921. A win for either of these competitors this year means that the O.B.A. would have to buy some new silverware for the premier competition in 1926. The other winners of the trophy are; Fernleigh Club, Hamilton; Guelph, Woodstock; Balmy Beach, Toronto; Hamilton Thistles and St. Matthew's, Toronto.

The Woods Trophy provides the second competition. The cup was donated by G.B. Woods, Toronto, in 1916, and it will become the property of the club winning it the most times in 10 years. In case of a tie the competition is to be continued until the tie is broken. It looks very much as if this trophy will next year adorn the Canada Club home, as Canada Club rinks have won it three times. One win each has been scored by St. Catharines, Granites, Hamilton Vics, Westmount, Howard Park, Toronto and Brantford Pastimes.

Fred J. Rowland donated the Niagara Trophy in 1922, and its future possession permanently is on the same basis as the Woods Trophy. Guelph, Woodstock, and Canada Club have each won this silverware once.

The Butt Trophy is now an institution. It was given by an enthusiastic English visitor to Canada several years ago and changes possession each year. Fifteen ends of doubles provide the contention which brings out some of the best of the talent each year. Niagara Club was the winner last year. In the singles competition any player winning the trophy donated by A. E. J. Blackman of Toronto on two occasions, will retain its possession.

Indications are that Welland, Niagara Falls, Buffalo, and St. Catharines will send a record number of entries this year. Hamilton is expected to fall in line, while the dependable Toronto contingent will come along in force as usual. The tourney is scheduled for three days but as a rule runs into Thursday morning.

SLATTERY DEFEAT STARTLED CROWD

Pride of Buffalo Was Regarded as Monarch of His Class.

NEW YORK, July 4. — Mickey Walkers first duty as the welterweight champion of the world is to attend to his own business, stay in his own class and fight Dave Shade.

This was the only moral or lesson to be derived from $225,000 worth of fights for which 40,000 spectators gave up close to a half million dollars last night.

Walker who was set down twice by the New York boxing commission because he would not accept the challenge filed by Slade, went out of his class Thursday night and tried to take the middleweight championship away from Harry Greb. He got a good purse and a fine threshing for his ambition and his stock on the pugilistic market also suffered a downward movement.

Shade, forced out of his class because no welterweight fighters will fight him, pulled one of the sensations of the year when he knocked out Jim Slattery, a middleweight from Buffalo, who ha been hailed by experts tried and true as the next heavyweight champion and another sure Corbett. Shade punched Slattery to the floor three times in the third round and was all set for a final shot when the towel flew in from Slattery's corner.

Harry Greb proved himself more than he ever has been rated, and he always has been rated as A-1. He made a complete mess of Walker, another of those inflated balloon fighters with more reputation than class. Walker has a good stout heart in him that should be expected of a "Mickey," and it was his heart that saved him in the fourteenth round, when Greb, who never had a rep. as a puncher, had him on the point of a knockout.

Harry Wills, the negro challenger for the heavyweight championship, ran true to form and knocked out Charley Weinert. The bout proved nothing and it should not have been permitted. By no process of reasoning can the victory of Wills over such a second rater as Weinert be construed as meaning that Wills is the outstanding contender in the heavyweight class. Weinert never had a chance. His end started when Wills sneaked over a right hand punch in the second round as they were stepping back out of a clinch. Referee Eddie Purdy said after the fight that the blow was fair as he had not ordered them to break, and that Weinert stepped back voluntarily.

While the figures have not been computed, Humbert Fugazy, who arranged the card, estimated that there would be about 150,000 left for the hospital after the bills are paid.

OLD COUNTRY CRICKET

LONDON, July 4. — (Canadian Press Cable).—The cricket match between H. G. D. Leveson-Gower's XI. and Cambridge University was drawn yesterday on account of rain, after Leven-Gower's in one innings scored 438 runs (J. Bryan 182), Cambride 227 (Duleepsinghji 63), followed in the second by 184 for two wickets (Duleepsinghji 72, Dawson 69 not out).

Warwick won from Worcester by 359 runs. Warwick 341 (Croom 125, Wyatt 104) and 307 for nine wickets declared (Parsons 84, Calthorpe 89); Worcester 196 (M. Foster 67) and 93.

Lancashire won from Gloucester by 180 runs. Lancashire 276 (Hallows 56, Barnes 62) and 334 for three wickets declared (Ernest Tyldesley 109); Gloucester 246 (Dipper 84) and 184 (Hammond 94).

Northamptonshire won from Kent by 44 runs. Northamptonshire 202 (Woolley 54, Jupp 72 not out) and 114; Kent 179 (Ashdown 73) and 93.

Hampshire won in the first innings from Middlesex. Hampshire 578 (Brown 51, Aird 50, Jameson 61, Bowell 64, Tennyson 184); Middlesex 456 (Hearne 104, Dales 126, Mann 58).

Oxford won by five wickets from Marlebone. Marlebone 274 (Titchmarsh 78, King 61) and 168 (Hosie 63). Oxford 300 (Guise 50, Legge 83) and 146 for five wickets (Lyon 52).

Rotary Camp Gives Under-Privileged Youngsters a Chance.

A SPLENDID PLANT.

It Is Another Reason Why Carnival Should Be Success.

An organization that makes it possible for some 50 or 60 under-privileged boys without the means to pay for an outing and for scores of other youngsters who are able to finance a vacation at moderate terms, to enjoy a holiday under most delightful conditions at the Kawartha Lakes is surely deserving of a helping hand from the community.

The Peterboro Rotary Club has been doing this most commendable thing for several years, and the Carnival which is to be held on July 16th will help to finance this enterprise as well as the other social service activities of Rotary.

Camp Rotary at Clear Lake is in a class by itself when compared with other similar camps.

Most organizations have to depend upon tents, and are without any permanent plant

The Rotary Camp consists of commodious permanent buildings, dormitories, kitchen, a dining and assembly building and several cottages, all admirably adapted to the purpose for which they are used. The club owns a large tract of land on which the camp stands, and property is splendidly suited for boy camp purposes, with good bathing facilities, plenty of ground for games on shore, good spring water just far enough away to make going after it by boat an adventure in itself.

The boys who are guests of Rotary at this ideal spot come home stronger in physique and with a more hopeful outlook on life. They are not preached to at all, but during their stay in camp the opportunity is taken to implant in the boys the seeds of ambition that in many cases will bear fruit later on.

Another splendid achievement to the credit of Rotary and another substantial reason why the Carnival should be supported enthusiastically by the whole community.

GIRLS GIVE TOKEN OF REMEMBRANCE

Fraserville C. G. I. T. Group Made Presentation to Mrs. Patterson.

A very pleasing event took place at the home of Mr. Richard Moncrief, of North Monaghan, when the Fraserville Group of Canadian Girls-in-Training met and presented their leader, Mrs. R. M. Patterson, with a beautiful water set and an address. The address was read by Miss Margaret Moncrief, president of the Group, while several of the girls presented the gifts. The following is the address:

Dear Mrs. Patterson,—It is with a deep feeling of sadness that we gather to-night to bid farewell to you, the leader of the Canadian Girls in Training.

We shall miss you in our church choir and in our neighborhood, and shall think often of your smiling face in our social activities.

We will often think of the many times you opened your beautiful home for our meetings. Often, no doubt, you have felt discouraged and thought that your efforts were of no avail, but we will try to remember the lessons you have taught, not only by your lips, but by your daily life.

The word of a familiar hymn come to us:

"Cast thy bread upon the waters,
Ye who have abundant store;
It may float on many a billow,
It may strand on many a shore.

"You may think it lost forever,
But, as sure as God is true,
In this life or in the other,
It will yet return to you."

Our best wishes go with you and Mr. Patterson in your new field of labor, and may you "carry on" in the great work of "winning souls for Him."

We feel we cannot allow you to leave our Group, of which you are the leader, without giving you a slight token which is but a reminder of our love for you and appreciation of your services.

We ask you to accept this water set, and may it prove a pleasant reminder of the King's Daughters' Group at Fraserville.

Signed on behalf of the Group.

TENNIS MEET IN VANCOUVER

Tourneys Attract Many Net Starts From Canada and States.

VANCOUVER, July 4.—(Canadian Press).—The stage is set for the Canadian Lawn Tennis championships to be decided here during the week commencing July 6 on the courts of the Vancouver Tennis club, when the best exponents of the game in the Dominion, together with a battery of women and men from Washington, Oregon and California will contest for national honors. Usually in July the Lower Mainland British Columbia championships are held in Vancouver but this year winners in one will be entitled to the double honors. There will be the usual five open events together with a boys and girls junior and veterans.

The tournament will be attended by President G. H. Meldrum, of the Canadian Lawn Tennis association, who will preside at the special annual meeting of the association to be held on the evening of July 9 with Secretary E. J. H. Cardinall of the Vancouver club acting as secretary to the annual meeting of the national association. On Monday night, July 6, the annual general meeting of the British Columbia association will be convened by President E. D. Nicholson. A dance is scheduled for the following Wednesday night.

In preparation for the national championships the Vancouver club has constructed additional stands which should provide seating accomodation for two thousand persons. Play in the main events will be confined to the first four of eleven gras courts and they are being withheld from play in order that they will be in the best possible condition.

While Secretary Cardinall has received a number of entries already the big bulk will come within a few days of the tournament. Willard Crocker and Jack Wright, last year's Canadian Davis Cup team, who have been playing the past three weeks in United States tourneys, will be the official delegates from the province of Quebec and Leroy Rennie, of Toronto, Ontario champion, will be one of the delegates from that province. From Winnipeg it is expected that Baynes and Gyles, together with the veterans Holmes Wood and Love wil be here for the opening day. Miss Burridge of Winnipeg has already sent in her entry.

The only entry thus far from Saskatchewan is A. J. Wickens, the champion of that province.

Secretary C. T. Casselman of the Alberta association, has filed an early list stating that he and Dr. Dunsworth will be along for certain and that the ladies will have two first string representatives in Mrs. E. A. Bourque, who is well-known in coast tourneys, having competed here before when a resident of Seattle, and Mrs. C. T. Casselman.

California is planning on making a clean sweep of the Canadian honors and with that idea in mind has already delegated Elmer Griffin and Phil Neer, Stanford University crack, to make the trip. Neal Brown and "Bud" Chandler, who made such a sensation in his game last year and who has been starring all season in the south, will also be along. Chandler reached the semi-finals in the United States intercollegiate play last year.

R. Hofheims, who won the New York state doubles titles early in June, and who hails from Buffalo, is coming west and will be an entrant as will also Miss Golda Cross and her doubles partner, Mrs. Wagner who won high honors in leading tourneys in New York last season. Miss Cross is at present playing in California.

Portland, Oregon, will be represented by Catlin Wolfard as the headliner and several others are coming. Captain Leon de Turenne, of the Seattle Tennis club, has stated that he and Wally Scott will play in the doubles. This pair will play together this season in the Pacific Northwest tennis tournament at Seattle with the idea of winning the event, thereby earning a trip to Forest Hills for the National doubles at the expense of the United States Lawn Tennis association. Scott won the inter-collegiate final last year. Ralph Miller, John Ryan, Armand Marian, Howard Langlie, Grant A. Laizure, R. M. Burr, "Dick" Van der Las and W. S. Taylor are others in the Washington contingent who will be pitted against all-comers.

Strenous efforts were made to induce Gerald Paterson and J. B. Hawkes of the Australian Davis Cup team, who arrived here on the steamship Niagara on June 27, to remain over for the tournament, but although they will have several days practice here, they will continue east to meet J. O. Anderson, the Australian ace, in Montreal on his return from Wimbledon. The Australians are taking no chances with Canada in the Davis Cup play and will use the intervening time until August 13-14-15, the plate dates, working out in the east and possibly taking part in a couple of tourneys around New York.

JUVENILE BASEBALL.

The Kiwanis and Dodgers will play at the Sacred Heart Grounds on Tuesday, July 7th, instead of July 14th, on account of the grounds being required for the social. A win for the Kiwanis will put them in the play-off which will begin very likely on Saturday, July 18th, at Riverside (James Stevenson Park).

JUNIOR SERIES.

The C.G.E. will play the Lakeviews at Riverside on Wednesday, July 8th, instead of Thursday, July 9th, as the Lacrosse Club play on the later date.

$200 ALLOWED TO ENTERTAIN ROXY AND GANG

Fnance Committee Will Ask Government to Have Broadcast Repeated.

GOOD SCHEME.

Municipalities Expected to Entertain Visitors While on Tour.

At a meeting of the Committee on Finance last night, attended by Ald. Turner, Denne, Greene, Fife, McIntyre and Hancock it was resolved on the motion of Mayor Turner, seconded by Alderman Greene, that the council be asked to make an appropriation of $200 towards the expenses of entertaining Roxy and his Gang during their stay in the district.

The Mayor explained that the Chamber of Commerce had arranged the local itinerary of the visitors, who are broadcasting their impressions of the district through which they travel. The Provincial government is expending $10,000 towards the project, but the municipalities were expected to take care of the visitors while on tour. Should the expenses exceed $200, said His Worship, the Chamber of Commerce would take care of the rest.

Alderman Greene thought it was one of the best proposals he had encountered for some time, but was of the opinion that the present time was not the most opportune. Few people were listening in at present, he said, and most people had already arranged their tours for this year. He thought representations should be made to have the broadcasting of the impressions of Roxy and his Gang repeated during the winter.

It was finally decided to have the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce write to Toronto, laying this suggestion before the Provincial government.

Alderman McIntyre thought the $200 would be spent to better advantage among the poor of the city.

Will Attract Tourists.

The Mayor said he believed any money spent would be more than returned through the revenue consequent on the increased tourist traffic that would result from the broadcasting. He explained that the Peterboro district will be specially favored in that on Sunday first Roxy will broadcast from Toronto and his report then will deal entirely with the districts in the neighborhood of Peterboro, which is the first part of the tour. There were 19 members in the party, including two government representatives. The mayor mentioned that one of the party had already written the words and composed the music of a song commemorating the beauties of some of the Kawartha Lakes, which was sung in Peterboro yesterday. His Worship dilated on the accomplishments of the party, which he said, contained a Hungarian violinist, a lad harpist, and a splendid quartette of singers.

"We might have a Sunday night concert," suggested Alderman Greene

"Bring them to the bathing beach," supplemented Alderman Phelan.

A motion authorizing payment when due, of $1650.12, to the Department of Public Highways, was carried.

A letter was read from the Ontario Tourist Research Bureau asking for a contribution of one cent per head of the population of the city towards the work of the Association. On motion it was decided to receive the letter.

Offers Assistance—$200.

A letter was read from a former Trade Commissioner who has opened an office in Manchester, England for the purpose of disseminating information among tourists and investors regarding Canada, its opportunities and attractions, and offering on payment of $200, to include Peterboro in his service. It was received to have City Clerk Armstrong acknowledge the letter and to state that the council had decided to take no action with regard to the proposition.

Seek a Grant.

On the motion of Alderman Fife, seconded by Alderman Denne, it was decided to approach the Provincial government with the object of obtaining a grant for the Isolation Hospital.

Alderman Fife suggested that a report be made of the number of nurses in the hospital, and of their duties. The mayor, the chairman (Alderman Phelan) and Mr. Armstrong were appointed to confer with Mr. Bradburn, M.P.P., on the subject.

Some minor accounts were then passed after which the committee adjourned.

LOCAL GIRL IS PRIZE-WINNER

Miss Grace Sutherland Winner of a Remington Typewriter.

Miss Grace Sutherland, a pupil of the commercial classes of the Peterboro Collegiate Institute, is one of the winners in the Remington Typewriter Company's competition. The Remington Company offer a portable Remington as a prize to every student in Canada who can type 60 words a minute for ten minutes without an error. Miss Sutherland averaged 61.7 yords a minute for ten minutes, using a Remington machine, and was one of the few winners throughout Canada in this competition, her feat reflecting credit upon herself and the commercial department of the Collegiate Institute.

NEW S.A. OFFICERS IN CAMPBELLFORD

Captain and Mrs. Stevens Arrived From Fenelon Falls Recently.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 4.—Captain and Mrs. James Stevens, the new officers assigned to the local corps of the Salvation Army, have reached town and taken up their residence on Front street. They held their first services in the Citadel Thursday night. Captain Stevens, who has been engaged in army work for the past four years, comes from Fenelon Falls, where he was stationed for eight months. His wife, who holds the same rank as her husband, is a good speaker and musician.

Mayor Turner Here.

Mayor J. J. and Mrs. Turner of Peterboro were holiday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Barrie, Front street, motoring here by way of Port Hope. Mrs. Turner is a neice of Mr. Barrie. The visitors were accompanied by John Todd, Mrs. Turner's father, and by Mrs. James and Miss Kathleen Vincent.

St. John's Church Notes.

Rev. C. F. McIntosh is spending a month's vacation with Mrs. McIntosh and children at their summer cottage, near Barrie. He will return August 1st to resume his duties as associate pastor of St. John's Church.

The $50 presented to Rev. G. A. Williams, former missionary to Formosa, like the similar amount given Rev. C. F. McIntosh, was a gift from the former Presbyterians who entered the Union, and was paid out of the surplus they had on hand when they closed their separate account on June 10th.

Mr. Williams will not return to the Formosa field for the present, at least, but has been asked by the Foreign Mission Board to remain in Canada for two years to deliver special addresses in the United Churches throughout the Dominion.

The annual lawn social of St. John's Church will be held on the church lawn next Tuesday evening.

Open-Air Concert.

The Northumberland Regiment Band gave another of their popular open-air concerts Thursday night, an excellent programme being rendered, under the leadership of William Pearson, who plays an instrument himself besides wielding the baton.

MINISTER OF MINES ASSET TO PROVINCE

Retirement of Hon. Charles McCrea Would be Serious.

During the past few weeks there have been a number of rumors and reports suggesting the possibility of the retirement of Hon. Chas. McCrea as Minister of Mines for Ontario. One story is to the effect that Hon. Mr. McCrea has been offered a very attractive and lucrative position with a large mining corporation, and that in justice to his own prospects and interests he can scarcely afford to refuse the proferred past. The reports in regard to the possibility of the retirement of Hon. Mr. McCrea are so persistent as to suggest some foundation in fact. At any event the official denials have not been emphatic enough to please those whose chief thought is the advantage of the North Land and the benefit of the mining industry.

The retirement of Hon. Mr. McCrea would be a very serious loss to the Province of Ontario in general, and to the North Land in particular. It is not too much to say that he is the best Minister of Mines that Ontario has had. Knowledge, experience, energy, ability, optimism, courage and integrity, these are the qualities that Hon. Mr. McCrea has given to his work as Minister of Mines. He took up the work with a large enthusiasm and he has carried it on with boundless energy. He has been an eloquent and able preacher and prophet for the North Land and its mineral wealth. At home and abroad he has inspired faith and confidence in mining in Ontario, and belief in the fact that the Government would deal fairly by prospector, miner, capitalist and the people in general. To the routine work of the Department of Mines Hon. Mr. McCrea has also given a talent and a thoroughness of attention that have been of greatest value. His great energy and outstanding ability have been so clearly demonstrated that it is no wonder if private concerns are anxious to secure his services.

The most thankless service in all the world is the service of the public. Yet the work of the world depends on the unselfishness and generous patriotism of men of talent like Hon. Mr. McCrea. It is sincerely to be hoped that Ontario does not lose his gifted and enthusiastic services as Minister of Mines. —Timmins Advance.

A.O.F. CEREMONY.

Officers and Members of Queen Alexandra Circle at Port Hope.

Last evening, a number of the officers and members of the Queen Alexandra Circle, No. 136, A.O.F., motored to Port Hope to open a new Circle, the Queen Mary, there. After the initiation ceremonies had taken place, an enjoyable social hour was spent, with service of refreshments. The meeting was marked by the presence of the Chief Companion, Mrs. Stoneman, of Dundas. Peterboro ladies who went to Port Hope numbered about twenty-five, including the following officers: Chief Companion Miss Etta Wiggins, Deputy Chief Companion Mrs. Wm. Stevens, Past Chief Companion Mrs. S. Adlam, District Sub Chief Companion Mrs. Meslsy, Right Guard Mrs. J. McLean, Left Guard Mrs. Barnes, Chaplain Mrs. W. Head, Outer Guard Mrs. Freeman, Secretary Mrs. A. Simmons and Treasurer Mrs. Geo. Record.

BESSIE LOVE IN NEW BARTHELMESS FILM.

Pretty Star Tops Her Screen Career in New Picture, "Soul Fire."

Miss Love's portrayal touches heights of pathos and emotionalism. Indeed, the New York critics pronounced it one of the best characterizations of the entire screen year. Coupled with Barthelmess' fine work as Eric Fane, a musical genius, in this production, rated by the metropolitan reviewers as the most extraordinary work film portrait of his brilliant career, "Soul Fire" can well be said to be the best acted motion picture of the season. Aside from the brilliant acting of Barthelmess and Miss Love, fine performances are contributed by Helen Ware, Harriet Sterling, Walter Long, Effie Shannon, Lee Baker and other members of the unusual cast.

Miss Love has had many excellent hits to her credit in her years before the camera, but none of them equal her Teita in "Soul Fire." She was, by the way, a star while she was attending the Los Angeles High School. Born in Texas, her parents went to California while she was a child. D. W. Griffith chanced to see her and offered her a role, that of the Bride of Cana in his big production of "Intolerance." Indeed, it was "D. W." who gave Miss Love her name of Bessie Love and caused her to drop the family cognomen of Horton.

Miss Love made an instant hit on the screen. She was leading woman to Doug Fairbanks in some of his early screen successes and went rapidly on to stardom.

"Soul Fire" is an adaptation from the stage success, "Great Music."

COUNTRY STORE MONDAY NIGHT.

Special matinee for children on Monday afternoon at 2.30. School children will be admitted for five cents. The programme includes Felix, the crazy cat, Fatty Heir's comedy, William Desmond in "The Riddle Rider" and Bert Lyttel and Barbara La Marr in Sandra.

NEW MOVIE BALL BIGGEST EVER

More Than 1,000 Gorgeously Costumed Persons Appear in Huge Scene Filmed for "Sandra."

While sets of great dimension have become the thing in present day motion pictures, "Sandra," the new First National production starring Barbara La Marr and Bert Lytell, hangs up a new record in size, color and picturesque values in the costume ball which is one of the high lights of this dramatic picturization of Pearl Doles Bell's novel.

This ball marks one of the pivotal points in the story and aside from its beauty and gorgeousness, provides Barbara La Marr with an opportunity to display her well known emotional talents.

More than 1,000 people appear in the set, which depicts one of the most famous pleasure resorts in Paris, and the entire space of one floor at the Biograph studios in New York was utilized in filming these scenes.

With a background of giant columns reaching from floor to ceiling, boxes stretcing around all sides of the floor, and crystal chandeliers suspended from the ceiling, the central part of this set is given over to a magnificent throne on a dais.

A variety of more than five hundred costumes, embracing Indian, Mexican, Colonial Dames, Animals, Chinamen, Pirates, Clowns, Ballet Dancers, etc., add to the picturesque beauty of this scene in "Sandra."

As queen of the ball, Barbara La Marr is seen in a magnificent silver cloth and lace creation with silver star headdress to match.

The entire effect of settings, costumes and lighting furnishes some of the most beautiful views ever wtinessed in motion pictures, and it is expected that the costume ball in this Sawyer-Lubin production will delight even the jaded motion picture fans used to magnificent settings in their screen entertainment.

The picture will be at the Royal Theatre next Monday.

The New CHRYSLER FOUR

Four-wheel hydraulic brakes optional. Body by Fisher.

Price include spare tire, cover, front and rear bumpers & tires.

Greeted as a Great Contribution to 4-Cylinder Motoring

As anticipated the new Chrysler Four is being received with unrestrained enthusiasm.

Those who have been fortunate enough to ride in the new car declare that never before has there been a four that delivers so much in fine performance, so much in roadability and riding and driving ease.

For the Chrysler Four is a true companion to the Chrysler Six. It represents in a very definite and practical sense the application of the same quality and fine manufacture that raised the Chrysler Six to its peak of popularity.

$1760 Delivered

Consequently it is not surprising that the new Chrysler Four is already hailed as the most modern and soundest contribution to finer four-cylinder motoring.

See it—ride in it—drive it! Call on us—we are only too glad to extend you the opportunity to learn at first hand the many advantages of owning a new Chrysler Four.

First car of its price with the option of hydraulic four-wheel brakes at slight extra cost. Closed bodies by Fisher.

Touring Car, Club Coupe, Coach and Sedan—

There are Chrysler dealers and superior Chrysler service everywhere. All dealers are in position to extend the convenience of time-payments. Ask about Chrysler's attractive plan.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

Meeting houses and various religious organizations have been, and are miscalled churches. The word "church" simply means an assembly. The "church of God" is the assembly of God. God's people are not to forsake such an assembly. When the Holy Spirit is acknowledged and honored in the assembly, it can truly be called a church or assembly of God. Ignoring the Holy Spirit in the various religious gathering, is the cause of the spiritual deadness that prevails. When the spirit of God has right of way, different ones are used in different ways, for the edification of God's children, and testimonies are given for Christ, that no human wisdom can imitate. Then, there is liberty, freedom in the blessed, glorious will of God. Then, the work of the ministry does not devolve on one man, for one, even Jesus is Master, and all are brethren. In order to have the blessedness of the real presence of the Holy Spirit, it is necessary that the individual give unfeigned subjection of heart to the sovereign guidance of the Holy Spirit. Then, and not until then, shall we have a genuine revival.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.

Rev. P. H. Neville Was the Chairman—Leaves United Church Soon.

At a very successful strawberry festival held last night in Bridgenorth United Church, the Rev. P. H. Neville acted as chairman, marking his last attendance as minister of the congregation. There was a good attendance, and a splendid supper was served. Among those present were G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., deputy speaker of the House of Commons, and Mrs. Gordon and a number of summer visitors and cottagers from Chemong Park.

Mr. Neville spoke a few words of welcome to those attending, and alluded to his coming separation from the people. Rev. W. S. Edgar of the Gilmour Baptist Church gave a short address on "The Church and the Higher Life."

Numerous pleasing numbers were rendered by George Street Orchestra. Several members of the orchestra gave vocal selections. Mrs. Clayton Telford also sang.

Mr. Neville took a formal farewell of the members of the congregation on Wednesday of this week. He has been superannuated for a year, during which time he intends to live in Toronto.

The new pastor of Bridgenorth United Church, Rev. V. J. McNeilly, takes up his duties on Sunday first. Mr. McNeilly, who is a native of Peterborough County, being from near Havelock, comes to Bridgenorth from Scugog, near Port Perry, where he was ordained a year ago.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Mark street church held a very enjoyable lawn social on the church grounds last evening, with which was combined also an official reception of the congregation by the new pastor and his wife, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Richards, formerly of Cavan. Bountiful refreshments were served by the ladies of the society, of which Mrs. A. Throop is president. Mrs E. Wand and Mrs. G. Marshall were convenors of the refreshment committee, assisted by Mesdames Cornell, Long, Chartren, Rork, Pomeroy, Cross and Miss Whattam. During the evening, Mr. A. Nichols' orchestra provided very much appreciated music.

NORTH BAY WILL BE BABY CITY WHEN INCORPORATED AUGUST 2

Originally Discovered By Champlain in 1615, Became Trading Post on Ottawa Trail.

MINING AREA.

Following Week Occasion For Many Sporting Activities Concurrent With Old Home Spirit.

NORTH BAY, Ont., July 4.—(Canadian Press). — Old Home Week celebration to celebrate the attainment of city status will be the big attraction for Northern Ontario the first week in August. North Bay, today the largest town in the province with a population officially estimated at 13,011 will become the baby city of Ontario on Sunday, Aug. 2. For the following week, it will be a case of "open house" with all the hospitality of the North Country.

Special services in all the city churches, conducted in most cases by former pastors who were identified with the early history of the town, will inaugurate Old Home Week. The following day, officialdom takes charge with "Civic Day," when a formal presentation of the city charter will be made at Memorial Park and representatives of the federal and provincial governments will extend their congratulations to the Gateway City of the North.

Northern Ontario has always been noted for its sports and sportsmanlike spirit and athletic events have first call for the big week. Practically every kind of sport except ice hockey will be found on the week's card. Soccer, baseball, lacrosse, track and field sports, horse racing, water sports of all kinds, softball and other attractions are being arranged.

The history of North Bay is one not generally known to all Canadians, though the name is familiar from the Atlantic to the Pacific as a great railroad centre. North Bay was originally discovered by Samuel de Champlain in 1615 and was a post on the old trail from the Ottawa to the Great Lakes in the time of the great French explorer.

The first settlements recorded were in 1882, with the coming of the first train over the Canadian Pacific Railway, North Bay was never incorporated as a village Like Topsy, it just grew and became officially a town in 1891. In 1895, the population was 2,034; in 1915 it was 10,041 and the last muuicipal census placed it at 13,011 while the rapid growth of the town this year indicates that it will be about 15,000 when it takes the position of a city next August.

Assessments in North Bay have grown steadily with the population. In 1895, it was $425,735; and in 1925 $8,435,300.

The Canadian Pacific paved the way for North Bay. The old Grand Trunk followed with its first train in June, 1888. Next was Northern Ontario's own railway, the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario, which was built north to the mining areas from North Bay in 1904, the first train being operated out of here on January 12, 1905. The Canadian Northern was the fourth line to come in here their first train arriving on Sept. 14, 1925.

Some idea of the immense business transacted through North Bay for the Northern mining areas can be guaged from the statement that the average number of tons freight through this gateway to the mining areas, is 129,221 per month.

Three and a half tons of gold bullion pass through North Bay every month from the Northern mines, altogether with 13 tons of silver bullion, 503 tons of high-grade silver ores, 6,030 tons of pulp and 12,450 tons of paper.

With the establishment here in the coming year of the district headquarters of the Canadian National system for Northern Ontario, North Bay will be able to boast of being, aside from Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, the only city that is district headquarters of both the transcontinental railway systems.

Tendency For Lowering Prices In Toronto

TORONTO, July 4. — (Canadian Press).—Brazilian and Twin City jointly led in the activity on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. The session was an active one, despite the absence of any stimulus from New York. Prices, however, tended to lower, though there were few outstanding movements. Brazilian eased off an eighth at 54 7-8, but Twin City strengthened a quarter at 66. Winnipeg dropped a half point, and Consumers Gas 3-8, and Steel of Canada receded 3-4 at 86¼. Atlantic Sugar Common improved a quarter at 30¼. Asbestos Corporation featured the unlisted section with an advance of three points to 82.

THE NINETY AND NINE.

Historic Old Song Will Be Sung on Sunday Night.

This old fashioned song, written by some unknown person and handed to Mr. Ira D. Sankey while in Scotland, during Mr. Moody's meetings, in the sheep growing country, was first sung, and the tune composed while being sung. Mr. Sankey had just been handed the poem, when that night Mr. Moody asked him during the service, to sing something about lost sheep, and he just laid the verses on the organ and gave one chord in A flat, and started, with the result that many were amazed at the beauty of the melody. Mr. G. W. Mulligan will sing this song Sunday night during the open air service in Central Park.

CHOIR ENTERTAINED.

Musical Members of St. Paul's Guests of Dr. Smith.

A social time was enjoyed last evening, when the members of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church choir, to the number of about forty, with friends, motored to Lakefield and were the guests of one of the choir members, Dr. Smith and his esteemed wife, at their home on the lake front.

On the lawn at the rear of the doctor's house was started a game of baseball, greatly enjoyed by all who participated, with a score running almost into three figures, according to the winning team. This game was carried out in two sections.

The intermediate period was occupied by Dr. Smith and his wife and assisting ladies traying everything they could find in the way of edibles, followed by strawberries and ice cream, to the hungry choristers. They did justice to the repast, while the doctor and his young son displayed the cleverness of the Chinese parrot, which is a part of his household.

Then Martin B. Chenhall had the company singing choruses, with the second section of the baseball game following until darkness settled upon the pleasant scene. Mosquitoes began to nip, and retiring to the house the time was joyously passed with songs and games, and a short "spiel" by Rev. Mr. Cox.

About ten o'clock the call for home was sounded. Dave Moore conveyed the grateful thanks of the guests to the worthy Doctor and his wife for their great goodness, three cheers were given "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," was sung and "Auld Lang Syne" was the final touch to a splendid sample of Doctor Smiths' goodness to the members of St. Paul's Church choir.

SUNDAY NIGHT BAND CONCERT DREW HUNDREDS

Band Stand Was Erected on Government Property at Armouries.

SACRED PROGRAMME.

Air, Not Amenable to Blue Laws, Carried Music to the Park.

Peterboro has had its Sunday band concert, and without the rainy Wednesday or Friday that Mayor J. J. Turner prescribed as a necessary forerunner. There was a band concert in Victoria Park on Friday evening, but the citizens were apparently not surfeited for last night they crowded Central Park in hundreds.

Technically, the band did not play in Central Park. They would not have accorded with the wishes of the City Council, the members of which declared against Sunday band concerts. A temporary band stand was erected on the Government property fronting the Armouries, under direction of Major Sid. Whatley, and lights were placed above it. Here the band played on its own grounds. But the air waves have not yet become amenable to the City Council's regulation, and carried the music out over Central Park, even to George Street, and here, seated on the park benches or on the grass, the people heard as fine a concert as has been given in Peterboro.

It was a direct and convincing condemnation of the regulation acquiesced in by the Council on June 8 without a vote, and the huge attendance left no need for the oft-repeated remark, "We should have them every Sunday."

By actual count, there were 163 automobiles parked on Murray, George, and McDonnel Streets in the vicinity of the park at 8.45. Others came later. Murray Street Baptist Church steps were crowded, half a dozen ladies being seated on chairs brought from the church. And as the band played, first "Abide With Me," with chimes and then a dozen other sacred airs, the crowd thickened and the vicinity of the improvised bandstand was uncomfortably crowded while the audience stretched away back to George Street, north to McDonnel, and the bank along Murray Street had a score of groups.

Foolish to Stop Them.

Conversation with half a dozen well-known citizens brought in every case the declaration that the City Council is foolish to stop the Sunday evening band concerts. "The bathing beaches were closed," one man said, "ostensibly because there was rowdyism, but there was no excuse given for stopping the band concerts. There is no rowdyism here."

While correct in saying there was no rowdyism apparent last night, The Examiner's informer was mistaken in saying no excuse was given for refusing the citizens the Sunday concerts. On June 12 His Worship the Mayor said the Council did not care to ask any musical organization to play on Sunday, and Alderman Greene also expressed the opinion that musicians should not be required to perform on Sunday evenings. Later, the Mayor told Alderman Phelan there is no reason why the Council should cater to the apparently greater appreciation of the public for Sunday concerts than for week-day concerts.

Last night the band voluntarily gave a concert, apparently not objecting to playing on Sunday.

The Programme.

Hymn—"Abide With Me," with chimes.
Overture—"Morning, Noon and Night" (Suppe).
Selection—"La Traviata" (Verdi).
Anthem—"Evening Meditation."
Fantasia of Anglo-American Airs.

Telegraphed Pictures of Earthquake Wreckage that Vividly Reveal the Extent of Santa Barbara's Misfortune

Transmitted from the Pacific coast by wire on a new invention called the telepix, these are the first pictures of the Santa Barbara earthquake to reach Canada. On top is shown a ruined brick church, with a frame building next door unharmed. Below is all that is left of the Hotel California.

These two telepix pictures, among the first to reach Canada from the Pacific coast, show (above) the devastated business section of the city of Santa Barbara, and (below) the shattered ruins of the Arlington Hotel, in which a number of lives were lost.

R. R. Hall Taxes Peterboro' Utilities Commission With Extravagance At Expense Of City Consumers

The Court of Appeal has declared the law to be that the City Council has no power to ask for an enquiry into the Local Utilities Commission's management of upwards of $1,750,000.00 invested in power and water plants. To that decision we must bow, with great respect to the learned Judges' opinion of what the existing law is, but that does not mean that these learned Judges think that the Muncipal Councils of Ontario should not ask the Legislature to change the law.

The Court in effect decides that the people must conduct their own investigations in their own way.

That being the case, let us examine our Local Utilities Commission in the light of the Auditor's Report for the year 1924 on the administration of their department.

This Commission bought from Hydro last year 4,640 horse power at the rate of $22.50 per horse power, and paid in all $104,407.46.

Domestic Light Consumers	$80,417.54
Commercial Light Consumers	41,591.42
Power Consumers	67,445.87
Municipal and Street Lighting	18,193.65
Total Revenue from Sale of 4,640 h.p.	$207,648,48

which means that the total horse power purchased was sold at an average price of $43.82 per horse power. This power cost the Local Utilities Commission $22.50 per horse power, and it cost the poor unfortunate consumers on the average $18.32 per horse power to have this same identical horse power delivered, in addition to $22.50 per horse power.

On page 106 of the Auditor's Report, it appears that the manufacturers and other power users consumed 4,145 horse power out of a total of 4,640 horse power purchased. But it takes about 3,000 horse power to supply domestic and commercial light consumers and street lighting.

It is necessary to set out these dry facts to support the following interesting conclusion or deductions.

The Local Commission pretend that they are selling power to our manufacturers at the rate of $16.26 per horse power, while it is paying to Hydro $22.50 per horse power to purchase it, and an average of $18.32 to distribute it. The power user or manufacturer is peak-loaded and power-factored till he is white in the face through the loss of the blood of the innocent.

The merchants of this city know to what extent their electric light bills have gone up of late. They, too, are being bled till they are white in the face. If your constant readers do not believe it, let them ask the first merchant of Peterborough they meet.

The consumer who is the most lightly "touched" is the householder, but he pays through "the nose" indirectly for the increased cost of the goods he buys.

The constant reader can hear by wireless the fiendish laugh of the members of the Local Utilities Commission when they tell our manufacturers, that they are getting power at $16.26 per horse power which costs the Commission $22.50 per horse power to buy, and $18.32 to distribute, and our merchants can clap their chests when they see their electric lighting bills merrily rolling up.

Don't be in a hurry. The householder paid $4,564.00 more last year than he did the year before. It was only a trifle, but "every mickle makes a muckle." Listen to the refrain of the song the Local Commission may now be singing for and on behalf of the manufacturers, merchants and householders of Peterborough, "What fools these mortals be."

If you want grounds for an investigation into the affairs of the Local Commission, look at the office building in Aylmer Street and the garage where the cost is shown in this same report as being $18,033.83. This is not the sub-station. This office building and garage is an extra. It is an expensive one at that to the tax-payers of Peterbrough. It could be built for less than one half the money. If you do not believe it, ask an intelligent contractor.

Let us conclude. The City wanted an investigation into the Campbell Flour Mills contract. The Courts in effect said, bring an action and you will get all the facts you want. The sum of over $10,000 is at stake. The triumvirate, the mighty three local commissioners, have plainly told our City Council that this Campbell Mills contract is none of their business. Are the tax payers going to lose this money? They never will if the insolence of autocrats is curbed and justice prevails. The facts are on the City's side. The Campbell Mills used the power and in common honesty they should pay.

KAWARTHA LAKES ARE LAUDED BY ROXY BROADCASTING GANG AFTER FLYING VISIT THERE

Canadian Mother and Baby Win Empire Championship

LONDON, July 6 (Canadian Press Cable).—The champion mother and baby in the Empire's mother and baby competition at the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley are Mrs. MacDonald, 730 Eighteenth Avenue West, Calgary, Alberta, and John Duncan Claude MacDonald. The announcement of Mrs. MacDonald and her child winning the prize was made today.

The first prize is an endowment policy for £1,000 and £20 in cash.

While it was the original intention of Roxy and his gang to broadcast a description of the beauties of the Kawartha lake district from Mount Julien, unfortunately the broadcasting equipment and the electricians who were coming from New York were unaccountably delayed which of course necessitated an immediate change of plans.

As a result of this change Roxy and his troupe after feasting on the joys which the lakes afford took an afternoon train out of Port Hope for Toronto and from the Parliament buildings there he broadcasted all which concerned his trip in this district.

The programme which he provided was picked up and transmitted by seven of the biggest stations in the States so that this district will become known all over the North American continent as a vacation home.

Did Roxy have a good time? Well he'll say he did. Eleven hefty fighting bass fell victims to his industrious line, the largest of which weighed five pounds which he landed fifteen minutes after his first cast.

So enthused was Roxy that he arose at 5.00 a.m. on Saturday and repaired once more to the piscatorial paradise from which he extracted ten more beauties. Others of the party went out and each man got his meat.

Through the untiring efforts of G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., Deputy Speaker in the House of Commons, the Steamer Bessie Butler was commissioned to make the trip, first to Mt. Julien and afterwards to Oak Orchard when a number of the gang paid a visit to that place. Previous to departing from Peterborough Panoramic views were taken of the city from the top of the Westclox water tank from which point of vantage two cameras "shot" the city, including the famous lift lock.

The two camera men from the motion picture bureau of the provincial government were constantly with the expedition and were busy at all times taking pictures. One

NEW DEVELOPMENTS.

LONDON, July 6. — (United Press). — American marines at Shanghai killed the leader of a Chinese mob and rescued a police officer named Macdonald (presumably a Britisher), who had been attacked and beaten by rioters, according to a despatch to the Daily News.

Leaders of the tram strike at Shanghai have resorted to torture as a means of terrorism, says the Daily News correspondent. Six tramway workers have been kidnapped, hung up by their hands and seevrely flogged and then released.

The family of Archie Moore, who was injured on Friday last, inform The Examiner that Mr. Moore's injury consists of a compound fracture below the knee. They also correct the reports of Mr. Moore's age, which is 59 instead of 70, as stated on Saturday. Mrs. Moore added that the car which injured her husband was travelling forward and not backing out from the parking ground.

The injured man is progressing as well as can be expected.

44 BODIES RECOVERED FROM RUIN OF DANCE HALL THAT COLLAPSED WITH CROWD EARLY ON SATURDAY

Sixteen Injured in Hospitals and Four of Them Likely to Die.

OTHERS MISSING.

Building Weakened By Recent Fire and Adoining Construction Work.

BOSTON, July 6. — (Canadian Press).—The forty-fourth body was taken from the wreck of the Pickwick Club early to-day, just fifty hours after the throng of "night before the fourth" revelers were flung down and buried with the collapse of the building. This means that the rescuers have found nearly all who had been reported missing.

Some of the bodies found were of persons paying their first visit to the club; others were those of habitues. Johnnie Scales and John Duffey for the last time had wandered singing between the tables while drinks were pressed upon them and silver showered on the dance floor.

The debris whispered a strange story. One man, his wife's picture in a pocket over his heart, was found in the dead arms of another woman. Once and again a worker picked up a bottle of whiskey unbroken by the force which wrecked so many lives.

Practically all of the bodies have been identified by the throng which besieged the mortuary ever since the catastrophe.

Sixteen of the bodies were found before 3.30 yesterday morning, about 24 hours after the crash occurred. Two more were uncovered soon afterward and another at 8 o'clock. Sixteen injured were in hospitals. Police and fire department officers refused to estimate the number that might still lie beneath the piles of brick and wood. It has been impossible to check up on the number of merry-makers who rushed to safety through doors and windows when a wall of the old five-storey building that housed one of the Chinatown's best known all-night resorts buckled into the basement.

Of the sixteen injured at the hospitals four were in a critical condition, while six of the others suffered from broken bones. The other six were suffering from shock, cuts and bruises. Among them was Edward F. Doyle, a fireman who assisted in the rescue work. He suffered a mental breakdown under the stress of the work and it required

Passers-by At Cathedral Had a Thrill Last Night

A number of people had an agreeable thrill last evening, about half past ten o'clock, when they gathered outside of St. Peter's Cathedral to listen to what was described by one bystander as a moaning sound issuing from somewhere about the premises. Much discussion took place as to the exact nature of the disturbance, and it was finally decided that a cat must have been locked up in the big building after the evening services. Stray felines and occasional pups have a habit of patronizing church services unaware, as anyone who has been shocked by an unfamiliar movement about his feet when at church devotion will witness.

A cat, it appears, was found yesterday morning at the side of the church, dead from poisoning. Whether it was the ghost of this animal or a real live member of the cat family that was audible last night, has not been ascertained.

DARING THIEVES ROB ST. PETER'S OF RICH TOKENS

Broke Into the Vatican's Repository of Historical Relics and Treasures.

SEVEN ARRESTS.

Jewelled Crosses Missing — Robbers, Using Gloves, Left No Finger Prints.

ROME, July 6—The Treasury of St. Peter's, repository of the Vatican's priceless collection of religious and historical relics and artistic treasures, was viloated Friday night when thieves broke into its second room and escaped with a number of irreplacable objects, estimated variously to have a money value of from one to three million lire.

The criminals worked carefully, used gloves and left no fingerprints. The police have made seven arrests, including four painters and two laborers who have worked in St. Peter's and another laborer, Giovanni Bellini, who slept in a room near the scene of the crime. Bellini denies any knowledge of it. He says he slept undisturbed Friday night. Nearby residents say they saw three prowlers and heard an automobile during the night.

Was Carefully Planned

The thieves were manifestly well acquainted with the treasury and apparently had made careful preparations for the robbery. They forced the door of a store-room adjoining the treasury and then entered one of the chambers where objects precious to the Church have been gathered., After leisurely ransacking the room and selecting as booty half a dozen objects that could easily be carried away the thieves made their escape, leaving behind a rope ladder, electric torches and burglar tools used in their audacious crime.

The stolen objects include an extremely valuable ring set with sapphires and diamonds which is placed upon a finger of the statue of St. Peter in the basilica upon certain occasions a golden mass service given to St. Peter's by Cardinal Merry del Val, a golden cross presented by King Alfonso of Spain, a golden cross set with emeralds given by the Republic of Columbia, a golden cross presented by Cardinal Della Volpe, a silver vessel ornamented with diamonds which belonged to Pope Pius IX.

The robbers also took a ciborium, or coffer in which the Host is kept, in the belief it was gold but abandoned it upon discovering it was silver.

BAD LANGUAGE AT BALL GAMES

Calling of the Police Raises Question—Chief Will Preserve Order.

GAMES GO ON.

During the last two weeks, following representations made to the Police Commission on the subject of obscene language used by a section among the spectators, a constable has been in attendance at the girls softball games at the Armouries. Since then it has been intimated to Mr. Cotton that since the games are being played on government property, they must be played elsewhere, if the presence of a policeman is necessary.

The Chief of Police points out that while the necessity exists, a policeman will be stationed there to maintain law, order and decency. Filthy language is not to be tolerated in Peterboro, neither at ball games nor elsewhere, and offenders will be taught a salutary lesson involving dollars and cents. If an honorable request is made from anywhere in the town for a policeman to preserve order at any outdoor event, this will be granted provided a policeman is available.

It is at present an open question as to exactly how much of the Central Park is city property and how much is government property. It is probable that while the ground on which the girls play may be government property, the portion occupied by the spectators may be city property. In any case in the meantime, Central Park is an open place within the meaning of the Act, and in Peterboro there is a by-law, prescribing a penalty for bad language at or near a public place.

As the Chief pointed out today, a police officer in execution of his duty can go anywhere so long as he is not compelled to use force in making an entry. While the ne[w] of a policeman remains; so will [a] constable, added the Chief, whe[n] the ground be government pro[p]erty or not.

SUNDAY NIGHT BAND CONCERT DREW HUNDREDS

Band Stand Was Erected on Government Property at Armouries.

SACRED PROGRAMME.

Air, Not Amenable to Blue Laws, Carried Music to the Park.

Peterboro has had its Sunday band concert, and without the rainy Wednesday or Friday that Mayor J. J. Turner prescribed as a necessary forerunner. There was a band concert in Victoria Park on Friday evening, but the citizens were apparently not surfeited for last night they crowded Central Park in hundreds.

Technically, the band did not play in Central Park. They would not have accorded with the wishes of the City Council, the members of which declared against Sunday band concerts. A temporary band stand was erected on the Government property fronting the Armouries, under direction of Major Sid. Whatley, and lights were placed above it. Here the band played on its own grounds. But the air waves have not yet become amenable to the City Council's regulation, and carried the music out over Central Park, even to George Street, and here, seated on the park benches or on the grass, the people heard as fine a concert as has been given in Peterboro.

It was a direct and convincing condemnation of the regulation acquiesced in by the Council on June 8 without a vote, and the huge attendance left no need for the oft-repeated remark, "We should have them every Sunday."

By actual count, there were 163 automobiles parked on Murray, George, and McDonnel Streets in the vicinity of the park at 8.45. Others came later. Murray Street Baptist Church steps were crowded, half a dozen ladies being seated on chairs brought from the church. And as the band played, first "Abide With Me," with chimes and then a dozen other sacred airs, the crowd thickened and the vicinity of the improvised bandstand was uncomfortably crowded while the audience stretched away back to George Street, north to McDonnel, and the bank along Murray Street had a score of groups.

Foolish to Stop Them.

Conversation with half a dozen well-known citizens brought in every case the declaration that the City Council is foolish to stop the Sunday evening band concerts. "The bathing beaches were closed," one man said, "ostensibly because there was rowdyism, but there was no excuse given for stopping the band concerts. There is no rowdyism here."

While correct in saying there was no rowdyism apparent last night, The Examiner's informer was mistaken in saying no excuse was given for refusing the citizens the Sunday concerts. On June 12 His Worship the Mayor said the Council did not care to ask any musical organization to play on Sunday, and Alderman Greene also expressed the opinion that musicians should not be required to perform on Sunday evenings. Later, the Mayor told Alderman Phelan there is no reason why the Council should cater to the apparently greater appreciation of the public for Sunday concerts than for week-day concerts.

Last night the band voluntarily gave a concert, apparently not objecting to playing on Sunday.

The Programme.

Hymn—"Abide With Me," with chimes.
Overture—"Morning, Noon and Night" (Suppe).
Selection—"La Traviata" (Verdi).
Anthem—"Evening Meditation."
Fantasia of Anglo-American Airs.

R. R. Hall Taxes Peterboro' Utilities Commission With Extravagance At Expense Of City Consumers

The Court of Appeal has declared the law to be that the City Council has no power to ask for an enquiry into the Local Utilities Commission's management of upwards of $1,750,000.00 invested in power and water plants. To that decision we must bow, with great respect to the learned Judges' opinion of what the existing law is, but that does not mean that these learned Judges think that the Muncipal Councils of Ontario should not ask the Legislature to change the law.

The Court in effect decides that the people must conduct their own investigations in their own way.

That being the case, let us examine our Local Utilities Commission in the light of the Auditor's Report for the year 1924 on the administration of their department.

This Commission bought from Hydro last year 4,640 horse power at the rate of $22.50 per horse power, and paid in all $104,407.46.

Domestic Light Consumers	$80,417.54
Commercial Light Consumers	41,591.42
Power Consumers	67,445.87
Municipal and Street Lighting	18,193.65
Total Revenue from Sale of 4,640 h.p.	$207,648,48

which means that the total horse power purchased was sold at an average price of $43.82 per horse power. This power cost the Local Utilities Commission $22.50 per horse power, and it cost the poor unfortunate consumers on the average $18.32 per horse power to have this same identical horse power delivered, in addition to $22.50 per horse power.

On page 106 of the Auditor's Report, it appears that the manufacturers and other power users consumed 4,145 horse power out of a total of 4,640 horse power purchased. But it takes about 3,000 horse power to supply domestic and commercial light consumers and street lighting.

It is necessary to set out these dry facts to support the following interesting conclusion or deductions.

The Local Commission pretend that they are selling power to our manufacturers at the rate of $16.26 per horse power, while it is paying to Hydro $22.50 per horse power to purchase it, and an average of $18.32 to distribute it. The power user or manufacturer is peak-loaded and power-factored till he is white in the face through the loss of the blood of the innocent.

The merchants of this city know to what extent their electric light bills have gone up of late. They, too, are being bled till they are white in the face. If your constant readers do not believe it, let them ask the first merchant of Peterborough they meet.

The consumer who is the most lightly "touched" is the householder, but he pays through "the nose" indirectly for the increased cost of the goods he buys.

The constant reader can hear by wireless the fiendish laugh of the members of the Local Utilities Commission when they tell our manufacturers, that they are getting power at $16.26 per horse power which costs the Commission $22.50 per horse power to buy, and $18.32 to distribute, and our merchants can clap their chests when they see their electric lighting bills merrily rolling up.

Don't be in a hurry. The householder paid $4,564.00 more last year than he did the year before. It was only a trifle, but "every mickle makes a muckle." Listen to the refrain of the song the Local Commission may now be singing for and on behalf of the manufacturers, merchants and householders of Peterborough, "What fools these mortals be."

Jewelled Crosses Missing — Robbers, Using Gloves, Left No Finger Prints.

ROME, July 6—The Treasury of St. Peter's, repository of the Vatican's priceless collection of religious and historical relics and artistic treasures, was viloated Friday night when thieves broke into its second room and escaped with a number of irreplacable objects, estimated variously to have a money value of from one to three million lire.

The criminals worked carefully, used gloves and left no fingerprints. The police have made seven arrests, including four painters and two laborers who have worked in St. Peter's and another laborer, Giovanni Bellini, who slept in a room near the scene of the crime. Bellini denies any knowledge of it. He says he slept undisturbed Friday night. Nearby residents say they saw three prowlers and heard an automobile during the night.

Was Carefully Planned

The thieves were manifestly well acquainted with the treasury and apparently had made careful preparations for the robbery. They forced the door of a store-room adjoining the treasury and then entered one of the chambers where objects precious to the Church have been gathered., After leisurely ransacking the room and selecting as booty half a dozen objects that could easily be carried away the thieves made their escape, leaving behind a rope ladder, electric torches and burglar tools used in their audacious crime.

The stolen objects include an extremely valuable ring set with sapphires and diamonds which is placed upon a finger of the statue of St. Peter in the basilica upon certain occasions a golden mass service given to St. Peter's by Cardinal Merry del Val, a golden cross presented by King Alfonso of Spain, a golden cross set with emeralds given by the Republic of Columbia, a golden cross presented by Cardinal Della Volpe, a silver vessel ornamented with diamonds which belonged to Pope Pius IX.

The robbers also took a ciborium, or coffer in which the Host is kept, in the belief it was gold but abandoned it upon discovering it was silver.

BAD LANGUAGE AT BALL GAMES

Calling of the Police Raises Question—Chief Will Preserve Order.

GAMES GO ON.

During the last two weeks, following representations made to the Police Commission on the subject of obscene language used by a section among the spectators, a constable has been in attendance at the girls softball games at the Armouries. Since then it has been intimated to Mr. Cotton that since the games are being played on government property, they must be played elsewhere, if the presence of a policeman is necessary.

The Chief of Police points out that while the necessity exists, a policeman will be stationed there to maintain law, order and decency. Filthy language is not to be tolerated in Peterboro, neither at ball games nor elsewhere, and offenders will be taught a salutary lesson involving dollars and cents. If an honorable request is made from anywhere in the town for a policeman to preserve order at any outdoor event, this will be granted provided a policeman is available.

It is at present an open question as to exactly how much of the Central Park is city property and how much is government property. It is probable that while the ground on which the girls play may be government property, the portion occupied by the spectators may be city property. In any case in the meantime, Central Park is an open place within the meaning of the Act, and in Peterboro there is a by-law, prescribing a penalty for bad language at or near a public place.

As the Chief pointed out today, a police officer in execution of his duty can go anywhere so long as he is not compelled to use force in making an entry. While the need of a policeman remains; so will the constable, added the Chief, whether the ground be government property or not.

Beyong saying the soft ball games would go on, Col. Bradburn, who consented to the use of the ground, refused to make any statement this afternoon.

AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE COSTS ANOTHER 117 LIVES THIS YEAR

Celebration of Fourth of July Week-End Attended By Fatalities.

FIREWORKS KILL 12.

Drowning, Auto Crashes, Airplane Accidents Take a Big Toll.

NEW YORK, July 6.—(Canadian Press.)—At least 117 celebrantants of the Fourth of July week end in the east are dead and 175 injured. Restrictions on the old-fashioned ways of celebration held deaths by fireworks to 12, but motor accidents killed 34, while 44 are known to have perished when a Boston building collapsed upon more than 100 dancers in a cabaret. Twenty-five were drowned and airplane crashes killed two. About 145 of the injured were automobilists.

Connecticut counted eight dead in motor crashes, Rhode Island 6, Massachusetts five. Two were killed in a grade crossing smash near Montreal, while other auto accidents caused three deaths in New York city, and five in other parts of the State; two each in New Jersey and Pennsylvania and one at Palmyra, Ont.

Eight were drowned in Ontario. The waters about New York claimed 10 victims.

KAWARTHA LAKES ARE LAUDED

interesting picture will be a panoramic view of Stoney and Clear lakes which was taken from Mt. Julien. These pictures will be first shown in the Capitol Theatre of New York, a picture palace which is conceded to be the biggest in the world and which is owned and operated by Roxy.

Folloing their showing there they will be distributed through thousands of other movie houses and will constitute a great boost for Peterborough and district.

Pictures were also taken of Major Oxley's garden, a veritable paradise carved out of solid granite, the result of 15 years unremitting toil, a garden which contains all manner of vegetables and flowers, artificially watered by gravity from a large tank on a nearby hill.

The Major's parrot formed a great attraction especialy for the ladies and at the word of command made a "tchk"-ing sound which was to represent a hale and hearty kiss. The parrot conversed freely and sagely on many subjects giving profound answers to the questions propounded to him. Polly's success was undoubted.

At Oak Orchard.

Those of the party who did not go fishing on Saturday were taken to Oak Orchard on the "Bessie Butler," and just before their departure an amusing incident occurred.

Albert, the colored valet, enthused with the spirit of the times, decided that he too would fare forth in pursuit of the finny citizens of the lakes who were durking about awaiting a sufficiently tempting fly.

Encased in long hip boots by which means he hoped to carry the war into the enemies' territory, he trudged down to the wharf nonchalantly, cast his fly over the edge, and, to the astonishment of all who had hired guides to take them miles to the favored haunts of the fish, the dusky fisherman hauled in a struggling 3½-pounder of the small-mouthed variety. Highly delighted with his feat, Albert immediately demanded to have his picture taken together with his prey.

A. L. Killaly, superintending engineer of the Trent Canal, held the "Bessie Butler" in readiness for all occasions, and proved a delightful host, providing as he did a charming little luncheon for the party as it was en route up the Canal. J. J. Duffus, vice-president of the Ontario Tourist Association, accompanied the party to Oak Orchard.

At Oak Orchard that part of the gang which had taken the trip was entertained by Perry Alexander to a dinner which all proclaimed equal to anything which might be obtained at the McAlpin or Commodore of New York, a tribute to the skill of the chefs which summer hotelkeepers mantain in order that the cuisine be not the least of the attractions which Kawartha has to offer.

Rehearsed Programme.

On Saturday night Roxy and His Gang rehearsed the program which he was to broadcast on Sunday evening from Toronto. A number of visitors at Mount Julien listened with great interest to the performance, and their delight was evidenced by their hearty appreciation and applause.

Each night Ukelele Bailey, who will become Ukelele Ignatz to radio fans, serenaded the gang. He was taken out on the lake, from whence he wafted his sweet strains, lulling to sleep the weary members of the gang.

A feature on which Roxy commented was the evident desire on the part of everyone to see that each smallest wish on the part of the guests be given immediate attention, their host at Mount Julien, W. Thompson, being particularly solicitous for their welfare. Literature descriptive of the district was given the party on its departure, so that in leisure moments more particulars might be learned.

A change of arrangements precluded a visit to the Curve Lake Indians, who were prepared in full regalia to receive the intending visitors. On account of the haste in which the plans were formulated, last minute changes were frequently necessary.

Lauds District.

Roxy is not being paid for his services. He is merely taking a three weeks' vacation in the summer resorts of Ontario and in return for hospitality he agrees to broadcast the attractions and good fellowship which he and his gang experience. M. McClelland, a member of the gang, said that he had crossed the continent twenty six times but had never before seen a district so full of possibilities as that north of Peterboro.

Mr. G. W. Brownridge, a representative of the Motion Picture Bureau, conceived the idea three months ago, and propounded it to Roxy, who however was unable to take up the idea until about a week ago, so it can be understood that the plans have been given but little time to mature.

Last Thursday from Sunnyside Beach, Toronto, Roxy broadcasted his intention to visit the Kawartha Lakes and told radio fans to be on the qui vive for further word, so it is thought that a large audience throughout the states 'listened in' last night.

On Friday and Sunday morning Peterboro citizens supplied cars, which took the gang on a motor trip to South Beach and thence to Burleigh, where they were shown a big catch of fish, including maskinonge and pickerel. On viewing them Roxy exclaimed "Bring those fish here. I want to see if they are real."

Cars were also provided to take the gang from Bewdley to Port Hope where they were entertained by A. Johnston of Washington.

The Chamber of Commerce of Peterboro was responsible for all detail arrangements and received the hearty support of the City Council in every way.

This is the first place which Roxy and his broadcasters have visited and as this district was the sole topic on Sunday night one can readily vision the decided advantage which this district will hold over the others to follow when several places will be described in one night.

Roxy and the gang do not like a fuss to be made over them. They are merely vactioning and such being the case prefer to partake the joys of summer camps rather than the stilted pleasures which cities can afford. They wish just to give their services for broadcasting in return for the hospitality which the summer camps will afford.

Gitz-Rice, famous soldier composer, has prepared a song especially dedicated to Roxy's vacation which tells of Ontario's forests and streams and the pleasures which they are so capable of lending to a summer vacation.

That foot passengers about to cross a busy thoroughfare should first signal their intention to drivers of passing vehicles was suggested recently at a London inquest.

Three hundred square miles of marvellously rich soil will be added to the area of England when the wash has been finally reclaimed from the sea.

DARING THIEVES ROB ST. PETER'S

Terrible Sacrilege.

Cardinal Merry Del Val, archpriest of the Basilica and supreme custodian, verified the loss of the sacred ring belonging to the bronze statue of St. Peter as well as many other jewels.

Cardinal Del Val despite his Spanish dignity, was terribly upset. He was still shaken and his voice trembled when he said:

"Yes the sacred ring is gone. It is a sacrilege too terrible to discuss. I myself placed some of the jewels on the statue before Peter's feast."

The thieves took the gold altar service studded with precious stones. It was given by Pope Pius to Cardinal Merry Del Val. Also taken was a gold cross set with pearls and rubies given by the Columbian Republic to Pope Pius IX. sixty years ago. Several other gold crosses, including one presented by King Alfonso of Spain, were taken. The loss is about a million lire ($50,000).

The Pope is Interested.

The Pope himself is taking the keenest interest in the investigations of the robbery of the treasury, the precious objects being irreplaceable because of their significance to the Church.

A storm of indignation and horror is found in all circles of Italian life at the audacity of the crime. Minister of the Interior Federzoni has taken personal charge of the police investigation, and the utmost effort is being made to apprehend the criminals. As the robbery was committed in Vatican territory, the activities of the State authorities are causing an unusual rapprochment between the Vatican and State officials.

It's the film on your teeth that makes them ugly

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel it. Make those cloudy teeth glisten. Begin today this new way.

EVERYWHERE are whiter teeth, teeth that gleam and sparkle.

This offers you free a 10-day test of the way that brings them. Simply mail the coupon.

What you find will surprise you. Your teeth are covered with a dingy film that ordinary methods do not combat successfully. Under it are the prettier whiter teeth that you envy.

The great enemy of teeth

Film is the great enemy of tooth beauty. And a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

You can't have prettier, whiter teeth; you can't have healthier teeth unless you combat that film.

In Peterborough Churches

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

Speaking at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday, His Lordship Bishop O'Brien referred to the dangers of the vacation period, as a time when ordinary rules of conduct were relaxed to a certain extent. He condemned the public dance hall, speaking of it as a source of temptation to the young. "So many think that they were made to enjoy this life after their own fashion, forgetting God's purpose, the salvation of their souls. This Divine meaning in life should be remembered under every circumstance, in recreation as well as in working hours."

His Lordship went on to speak of the fascination experienced in a study of the history of God's church and of the romance in the lives of so many of His saints; St. Peter, a lone fisherman, bare headed, leaning on a rough staff, on his feet rude sheepskin sandals, journeying to Rome, to the worst of the pagan cities of the time, to preach the Gospel of the crucified Christ, and to establish there His church for all time.

On the Appian Way is the little church, Quo Vadis, named thus because St. Peter, discouraged, leaving Rome, is said to have met Christ coming toward the city and to have saluted Him: "Domine, quo vadis?" ("Lord, where goest thou?") returning later to finish his work in the city and to meet his death there.

So St. Paul also, the pagan philosopher, the literatteur, the persecutor of Christians, was vouchsafed the vision on the Damascus road that changed his entire life and made him one of the greatest champions of those he had hated.

"We should glory in the church which has such a glorious history. We should live up to it and be willing to make sacrifices for it and for those things which conflict in it with the spirit of the world. Christ in His earthly pilgrimage made no friendship with the spirit of the world. We should glory in our faith and make it a practical thing in our lives by our conduct and by practising charity towards God and our neighbor."

GEORGE STREET.

On Sunday, from the pulpit of George Street United Church, the Rev. J. E. Todd, B.A., B.D., delivered his initial message to the people of his congregation.

The Rev. Todd, formerly of Guelph, made a stirring appeal in his sermons and many of the congregation remarked on the strength of character which the speaker evidenced, and it is thought that he will prove an able successor to Rev. W. Harold Young, who preceded him.

For his evening message the Rev. Todd chose the story of the beggar, who was seeking alms at the gate Beautiful, and as Peter and John were passing, the unfortunate man importuned them for alms.

Peter replied—"Silver and gold have I none, but that which I have, give I unto thee." Whereupon the beggar leaped to his feet, while the ills of a lifetime dropped from him.

Peter and John had been having a revival meeting that the work of the Master might be quickened. In these modern days some are of the opinion that they do not believe in revivals but on the contrary, everyone does. Business men believe in revivals of their business, while Mother Nature has just passed through such a revival period.

People have been prejudiced against revivals because of so many false ones. We don't believe in man-made revivals any more than we could believe that a man could go out in the depth of winter with tools and dynamite, declaring that he will bring spring out of the snow and ice. If we comply with the laws of life, revival will follow as surely as day follows night, for revival is a specific provision made by God for the renewal of life.

Peter and John, presumably in a hurry to get to church, found time to talk with the beggar and to give him what they had to give, not wasting time to tell of what they would do if they had more to give.

We are all great givers of the things we haven't got. There is no use in doling out imaginary wealth, but we should give liberally of what we actually have.

While Peter and John had no great wealth to offer the poor beggar, yet their gift caused him to leap for joy.

Church people fall down in withholding from God's cause that which should rightfully be apportioned to it. They say, "Oh, if I had as much to give as my pew neighbour I would certainly do it, but I am not wealthy, so I just naturally haven't anything to give.

It is their business to have something to give, said Rev. Mr. Todd, and it is their business to regulate expenditures so that flimsy apologies will be unnecessary. Some of us think that as we have not a surplus of wealth we are poverty-stricken, when in reality some of our most priceless gifts could not be valued by monetary standards. Peter and John gave of what they had.

The service which nurses and teachers give daily could never be calculated in dollars and cents, and no pay which they might be given would fully compensate them for the work they do in providing surcease for ills and molding character by their own high ideals.

Parents, in their unstinting gifts of love and sacrifice give offerings which are incalculable. Considerations of money or worldly wealth does not enter into these gifts.

We should each ask of ourselves this question—"Is this world a richer or a better place in which to live because of my presence in it?

"Such as I have give I unto thee," were the impressive words with which Mr. Todd brought to a close an inspiring appeal.

The special musical selections were Marks' "Now the Day is Over" and Goumod's "Oh, Divine Redeemer," sung by Miss Daisy Murray, soloist.

ST. PAUL'S.

The congregation of St. Paul's Church yesterday morning heard the report of Delegate James Dutton, who attended the recent General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, held in Toronto.

Mr. Dutton gave a clear and concise statement of the work and actions of the several sederunts, from first to last—the General Assembly before and after the consummation of union on 10th June; and in his words, "the memory of the Assembly of 1925 would ever remain with all who were privileged to attend."

Mr. Dutton stressed the joint honour to himself and the congregation, as their representative, in appreciative terms, at the outset. He dealt at length with the meetings which were held—so many had come from the farthest parts of the Dominion, imbued with the spirit of Presbyterianism, and exemplified this by the reverence and enthusiasm in the services.

The quality of the people—They showed a wonderful spirit; there were people of all ages, all having a great anxiety to do better than ever by their Church.

The note of satisfaction that the Union brethren had been thwarted in the hope that the Presbyterian Church would be like wanderers in the wilderness.

The reports heard.—The speakers referred to the work of the women, who had influenced the life and result of the recent controversy. The help of the churches and ministers was warmly eulogised in the speeches.

Excerpts were given from addresses of such men as Dr. Perry of Wingham, Dr. Frazer of Montreal, Seanator Duff (who was active in securing the vote for congregations), the students of Princeton in the Maritime Provinces, Rev. W. G. Brown of Red Deer, a typical forceful, westerner; Dr. McKerroll of Toronto, Rev. Mr. McGillivary of Guelph, Dr. Johnson of Calgary and Rev. Jonathan Goforth—all of whom stressed the Presbyterian faith of our fathers as the only solid faith on which to build up a sound Church—with sound doctrine—ministers only in the pulpits and colleges, and the teaching of the whole Bible and Catechisms in our schools and homes.

The formation of the new Assembly—This was accomplished after a memorable session, in College Street Church, with Principal Taylor protesting, while the organist played "The Hallelujah Chorus" with the full organ; and referring to the quorum of 80 delegates going over to Knox Church to carry on the Presbyterian Assembly.

Figures of The Vote.

The figures are, the speaker said, over 730 churches, with possibly 1,000 when the details are all cleared up, with 104,605 voting for union, and 110,105 votes against union.

The old church of Kildonan, with its Alex. Matheson, was referred to, it having, after a hard fight voted out of union.

The name of the Church—It was agreed to continue the name, "The Presbyterian Church in Canada," though it may go to the law courts to be restrained.

The people are the Church—This was the principal thought expressed, giving the people full rights over the Church affairs.

Delegates from Scotland and the United States were heard, with Rev. Dr. Main, from the Auld Kirk coming with an especial message and greetings from the Old Land to the Continuing Presbyterian Church.

A word about missions—Forty-five missionaries declared themselves; others were ready to do so for our Church as soon as the way was clear. Revs. Wilkie of China, McDonald of Korea, and McDonald of India told of the peoples of these countries not wishing union.

Rev. Dr. Michen, of the United States Presbyterian Church, sent a splendid message of hope and greetings to the Continuing Church.

The formation of a General Board of Missions was carried out, with women taking an active part. There were 786 branches, with 40 members, over 30,000 women. All mission problems will be handled by this Board.

Rev. Mr. Inkster's resolution and presentation of volumes to the Assembly was referred to by Mr. Dalton, giving an idea of the great enthusiasm on their presentation.

The appointment of a Board of Administration was announced, with the duties in the hands of forty laymen—mooted as a step in the right direction.

The Church paper is to be continued, with Dr. Scott as editor, and lesson helps will be included, though the subscription may be increased.

The Chinese in British Columbia, to the number of 20,000, have decided to remain with the Church, only one of the eight workers there having gone into union.

Mr. Dutton spoke of the great feeling of friendliness in a common cause, and in conclusion bespoke a great future for the Presbyterian Church, only as the people prayed to God for help and guidance.

Rev. W. S. Edgar.

The evening service was conducted by Rev. W. S. Edgar of Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church, taking as his text, the eighth chapter of Mark, the verse thirty-six: "For what shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?"

Mr. Edgar brought out many splendid lessons, showing God's putting infinite value on the human soul, though we are striving after worldly things to our own detriment, and even losing our souls. We should aim to live closer to God's way, and help others to do the right thing. Christ paid for our souls—we are accountable to Him for the safety of our souls. The folly of living only for ourselves in this world would bring its own reward in God's final reckoning.

The Music.

Mrs. H. F. Doig, who will be soloist during July, sang acceptably in the morning—"He That Dwelleth" (Prindle Scott), and in the evening, "Consider and Hear Me" (Flaxington Harker) in addition to two other hymn solos.

MURRAY STREET

Mr. H. C. Hamilton of Toronto in Murray Street Baptist Church yesterday proved himself to be a very gifted and well trained organist. Probably no better organist has been heard in this church for many years. The organ selections given at the close of the evening service were much appreciated. The following hymns, after a number of pieces from the great masters were especially enjoyed.

"Wonderful Words of Life," played as a soft meditation, with changes of harmony. "Will There Be Any Stars?" played as a Vox Humana solo, with soft obligato accompaniment. "Come to the Saviour," with a running variation, some changes of key, and combinations of the melody with itself. "I Will Guide Thee," played as a sort of dialogue on the low and upper parts of the keyboard. "Bring Them In," played as a merry little scherzo, with flute like qualities of tone. "A Shelter in the Time of Storm" played as a "storm" piece, from the first murmurings to a gradual increase in volume yet through it all can be detected "The Lord's Our Rock." The storm breaks in all its fury, and to a running pedal obligato the theme of the hymn re-appears in triumphal victory. A brilliant cord follows and then a gradual subsidence of the storm.

C.G.E. SURE OF PLAY-OFF BERTH

Win Over Hillcrests Puts Them So They Won't Finish Last.

SCORE WAS 5-1.

The C.G.E. Juniors made sure of a place in the League play-off, when they beat Manager MacMahon's East City Hillcrests 5-1 on Saturday afternoon. The game was played after the Central League game and was featured by heavy hitting and good plays.

McDonough and Ralph were the opposing moundsmen, and both hurled nice ball. The Electricians' hurler allowed only three hits, while his opponent gave seven. Hits and runs were well scattered.

Mesley and F. Jones, the rival centre-fielders, made the feature plays of the day, both robbing batsmen of what looked like sure hits, by their spectacular catches of hard flies.

Rody, Collins, and Milloy were the heavy hitters of the game.

The teams:

ROTARY HEARS STORY OF OLD TIME ROMANCE

Rev. Dr. Abbott-Smith Takes His Subject From the Apocrypha.

TOBIT'S ADVENTURES.

Unusual Address at To-day's Luncheon of the Rotary Club.

The story of a most intriguing romance dating back to the centuries before the birth of Christ was told in scholarly and entertaining fashion to the members of the Peterborough Rotary Club at the weekly luncheon to-day, by Rev. Dr. G. Abbot-Smith of McGill University, who is in charge of St. John's church during the absence of Rev. Dr. Blagrave.

Dr. Abbott-Smith's story was one dealing with some remarkable events in the life of Tobit, a Jew of the tribe of Naphtali carried captive to Ninevah and of his son of the same name. This remarkable romance, the speaker explained, was to be found in the Apocrypha, a collection of fourteen books written in Greek during the two centuries proceeding the birth of Christ and containing among others the first and second books of Eudras, Tobit, Judith, the rest of the book of Esther, and Susanna and the Elders.

Dr. Abbott-Smith, after telling the interesting story of the Jewish girl possessed of a jealous devil which slew her husbands on the bridal night and how the devil was exorcised through the instrumentality of an angel via the medium of burning the heart of a fish, recommended to his hearers that they ready the Apocryphal books of the Old Testament, assuring them they would find them full of romance and good advice as timely now as when it was written.

The speaker was given a hearty vote of thanks.

President J. H. Seels announced the personnel of the committees which are to be on duty next Tuesday and Wednesday nights in preparation for the big carnival on July 16th.

THE SUMMER CAMP.

Fifty-five Peterboro children whose health from one cause or another is below the normal standard, are being won back to strength by the simple magic of sunlight, fresh air, sane recreation, proper rest and wholesome food these days at the summer camp of the Peterboro Health Association at Jackson Park.

If any one failed to see a reason for the recent Made-in-Peterboro Exhibition he can find fifty-five of them every day out among the pines of the park.

It is a great work that is being done, and grasping the importance of it the people of Peterboro should be more than ever glad that the Exhibition showed the greatest surplus on record.

A camp of this kind where a staff has to be maintained, the children provided with proper nourishment and to and from which transportation has to be arranged, necessarily involves a considerable expenditure, and this is one of the activities of the Peterboro Health Association that have to be financed largely by the proceeds from the Exhibition.

Peterboro citizens who have visited the camp and seen the work that is being done and the many more people who have noticed the truck-loads of happy children returning from Jackson Park in the evenings, must feel a sense of satisfaction in knowing that the Made-in-Peterboro Exhibition was a great success and that they had a part in making it so.

RADIO FOR VETERANS.

The suggestion made by Roxy, well-known radio broadcaster, whose "gang" of entertainers are at present advertising Ontario's summer resorts that the people of Canada organize a fund to supply a radio receiving set for every soldiers' hospital in the country with a head set for every disabled soldier is already being acted upon, and Hon. W. H. Price, the Provincial Treasurer, has consented to act as honourary treasury of the fund.

The Examiner brings the matter to the attention of its readers feeling that Peterboro people will welcome an opportunity to subscribe to this most worthy cause.

Many invalid soldiers, some of whom have been in bed since before the end of the war, are still in the military hospitals throughout Canada, and these bedridden "fragments from France" welcome any diversion that will break the wearisome monotony of their hospital imprisonment.

To bring the wonders of radio to the bedside of every such soldier in Canada would be a wonderful boon to these men, who have suffered so much on behalf of Canada and the Empire, opening as it would the door to a world of new entertainment.

Roxy's suggestion is indeed a happy one, and it will undoubtedly bear fruit in the near future, the plan appealing to most people as a splendid opportunity to help veterans who have spent years of suffering in hospitals.

THE PLAYGROUNDS.

The opening of the supervised playgrounds at the Queen Alexandra, Central and King Edward Schools today was doubtless a source of joy to hundreds of Peterboro youngsters and a lifting of a load of anxiety from the shoulders of scores of worried mothers.

If there ever was a time when it could be said that there was no need in Peterboro for supervised playgrounds that time has long since passed.

It is absolutely essential that there should be some place other than the streets where children can play.

The street is no longer a safe recreation ground.

The mulliplicity of motor cars has utterly changed the conditions so that youngsters can no longer be entrusted as were their fathers and mothers to play ball or other games on the roadway.

A playground with facilities for the pastimes enjoyed by children and with capable supervisors to regulate the play and take advantage of the opportunity at the same time to implant in youthful hearts the desirability of being good sportsmen seems the proper solution of the problem, and Peterboro is fortunate in having three such recreation grounds.

There are none too many, and the equipment is not as ambitious as that to be seen in other cities, but the local grounds are capable of good service and parents should see to it that their children take advantage of their privilege to play in safety under careful direction.

A TROUBLED INDUSTRY.

Why is coal mining so provocative of trouble? asks the Globe. Even in our own country, in which industrial peace is the rule, there is seldom a long truce in the coal fields. Cape Breton is in almost continual turmoil, and the state of things there today is the darkest cloud on the horizon. In British Columbia and Alberta, particularly in Alberta, it is never a long time between strikes or lockouts. Two years ago 7,000 miners in the West were out for five months, and now there is another cessation of work in the Edmonton district, which may put a stop to the promised shipments of Alberta coal to Ontario. The troubles in the Western and Nova Scotia fields in 1923 were investigated by Boards of Conciliation, and there are voluminous reports, but all the machinery of inquiry and pacification was unable to do more than patch up the quarrels. The Canadian Department of Labor in its annual report for 1923 speaks of "the prolonged period of friction between the British Empire Steel Corporation and its employees in the coal-mining industry." It seems that the friction has been so prolonged as to be chronic. The state of affairs has become a national menace, and the Federal and Nova Scotia Governments should co-operate to bring every possible pressure on both parties to make a fair agreement, preparatory to a searching survey of the whole situation with the object of finding some permanent amelioration of conditions. The British Empire Steel Corporation has not too great a stock of public good-will, and if it thinks it is organized and capitalized on sound economic principles and has a clean sheet it should welcome the most impartial and thorough official scrutiny.

The nature of a coal miner's toil may have something to do with these recurring disputes, yet there is by comparison little difficulty in the gold and silver mines, where the work is equally laborious. Canada is not singular in its coal-mining perplexities. Great Britain faces a stoppage of her whole coal industry, involving over a million men. The employers refuse to renew the agreement which terminates soon, on the ground that they cannot carry the burden, while the miners declare their intention of fighting for a better one. In the United States the anthracite operators and miners are preparing for a battle which may again tie up the only hard coal field of the country. There is conflict also in a part of the bituminous area, which may spread enormously. Coal is indeed a combustible in more respects than one.

OUR UNSTABLE EARTH.

Some vast and mysterious readjustment is apparently in progress in that upper crust of the planet on which mankind have their place and habitation. Not only have earthquakes been unduly violent and frequent in those parts known to be subject to disturbance, but earth tremors have reached into regions believed to be outside of the danger zone. This year, indeed, is bidding fair to go down in history as the earthquake year, and no assurance can be obtained that their menace is now removed. The inference is natural and obvious that this old world is passing through a period of resettlement. Its strata have got out of joint, as it were, whether through shrinking of its core, or other unknown cause, and the superficial layers forming what we know as the solid ground are being compelled to undergo a general shape-up before recovering their balance and reaching a permanent and basic relationship. Students of that comparatively new science of seismology are redoubling their efforts to solve the problem presented by these recurrent disturbances, to trace their origin, to explain the why and wherefore of their outbreak, and discover the means of fortelling where, and about what time, they may be expected to recur.

Canada has not been immune from these rather terrifying experiences even in the mild degree that came to this district earlier in the year. Quebec and the Eastern States to the south tell that disturbance more severely, but nothing approaching what has since happened on the Rocky Mountain region and further west on the Pacific Coast. These earlier movements almost seem to have been preliminary or preparatory to the later and greater series. Most people are now familiar with the theory or hypothesis which places the Pacific as the favorite scene of terrestrial convulsion and traces out other lines of crust weakness. But what can be said about Montana and Alberta, hitherto considered outside the menace zone? Montana is some five hundred miles from the coast at the edge of its western boundary, with the main mass of the Rockies intervening. And what of the mountain in Wyoming, further to the south, humorously reported to be in motion some days ago? This may have been an advance signal of the tremors that cost the northwestern towns hundreds of thousands of dollars, and may also have had some relationship with the Californian disaster.

The disastrous shocks that have laid the main section of Santa Barbara in ruins serve, indeed, as an appalling reminder of terrestrial instability. The catastrophe again illustrates the treacherous character of the land bordering on the Pacific Ocean. Tremors are frequent enough in California—more than occasionally they assume a much more aggravated form. Not so very long ago San Francisco was levelled by a great convulsion of nature, and the serious aspect for that well-advertised State is that this latest occurrence may check the tide of migration from which it has profited so greatly. California is a State that stretches out both hands to the East and offers them sunshine and balmy weather all the year round, not to speak of fountains springing from beds of perpetual roses. But who is going there to spend the time, even in an earthly Paradise, under the shadow of an ever-impending tragedy? Fear of the unknown tomorrow is the worst enemy to tranquility of mind, and people have an instinctive antipathy to diving in a country where seismic upheavals may occur at any moment. Until seismologists have done something to ensure immunity many will pause a while when weighing the comparative attractions of California and Florida.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

CULTIVATING EXTRAVAGANT TASTES.

Are Canadians loyal to their own vegetable and fruit growers? asks the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior.

A glance at the reports of foreign vegetables and fruits imported into this country gives reason for serious thought as to whether we are giving our own produce the support it deserves, or whether we are not cultivating an extravagant taste for out-of-season and imported vegetables and fruits.

For instance, in the month of January of this year, we bought from the United States 2,086,665 pounds of ordinary potatoes, valued at $25,372, in a year when there were ample supplies of Canadian potatoes available, while in January of 1924 we bought but 95,865 pounds, valued at $2,341. We bought $2,342 worth of cabbage in January this year, against $1,730 last January. In the past fiscal year we bought outside of Canada 1,034,866 bushels of ordinary potatoes, valued at $835,497, and cabbage valued at $253,379, or more than a million dollars spent outside of this country for these two vegetables, while we had plenty of them at home.

For canned vegetables, such as beans, peas, corn and tomatoes, we spent $601,675 in the twelve months outside of Canada. In fruits, we bought in the United States in the twelve months 172,101 barrels of apples, for which we paid $867,826, and we also bought 1,021,064 pounds of dried apples, worth $32,906, or $900,832 for imported apples, while Canada holds the world's record for quality and has ample supplies. Other fruits which we bought in large quantities were: Plums, $835,212; strawberries, $764,593; pears, $807,959; peaches, $609,318; grapes, $862,298. For bananas we paid $4,194,017; for oranges, $6,409,805, and for lemons, $1,058,569.

This large quantity of vegetables and fruit was purchased by Canadians in large part, while the growers of these products in Canada were searching for markets in which to sell their products.

Canada is so geographically situated that she is, for a portion of the year, dependent for variety in fresh fruits on more southerly countries, but there appears to be a tendency to unduly cultivate the taste for imported fruit. Undoubtedly a great portion of the money sent out of Canada for these products could be spent with our own vegetable and fruit growers, to the benefit of the original growers and of the country as a whole. It would be worth while for dealers to give this matter serious thought and try to intensify the demand for Canadian produce.

A THOUGHT.

A QUESTION FOR THE INDIVIDUAL.

We set before us a high standard. We must try to live up to that standard and continually aim to improve it. We have also to convince those whom we employ in our offices and shops that we are trying to carry out these principles. I do not say it disrespectfully but young people are sometimes inclined to act a little too keenly on behalf of those whom they are serving, probably in order to obtain some momentary advantage for their Masters or Mistresses, and perhaps, whilst we cannot exactly condemn the transaction as dishonest, we may have the feeling that we do not quite like it. I do not mean that we have to make a parade of our religion before our staffs, but that by quiet influence we should let them see that we are trying to carry out high ideals and do not approve of anything that is not exactly straight and above-board. A few weeks ago we had a visit from Mr. Meadows of Leeds, and I was much impressed with a remark he made, "Honesty is not the best policy, it is the only policy." If we wish to be progressive, we must continually alter our standard; what appeared to us to be right ten years ago, may probably not so appear to-day. It is a question for each individual to settle for him or herself.

CANADIAN KILLED IN CAR ACCIDENT

Son of Sir Edward M. Edgar Dead in England.

LONDON, July 6. —(Canadian Press Cable.—John Fewster Macky Edgar, son of Sir Edward Mackay Edgar, formerly of Montreal, was killed in a motor accident on the Norwich Road early Saturday when the car crashed into a telegraph pole. The car was badly wrecked and Edgar, who was driving, was instantly killed. The pole was brought down and in consequence continental telegraph service was interrupted for some hours.

Young Edgar was 22 years of age. His father, Sir Edward Mackay Edgar, is a member of a London banking firm and chief proprietor of the Saturday Review. He was born in Montreal and graduated from McGill University. Lady Edgar was Miss Ethel Beatrice Pinder, also of Montreal.

FORESTS AFIRE IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

144 Broke Out Last Week—Weather Dry.

VICTORIA, B.C., July 6.—Following a brief break in the weather during last week, high temperatures are parching British Columbia forests and creating a fire situation which is causing serious alarm to officials of the Provincial Forestry Service.

New fires to the number of one hundred and forty-four broke out in the province during the last week, bringing the total for the year so far up to seven hundred and forty.

The southern interior of the province has suffered most from fire this year with 226 outbreaks.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, July 5 — Canadian Press. — A much weaker feeling developed in the spring wheat flour situation and millers generally reduced prices for all grades 50c per barrel, making a net decline of $1.60 since June 1st.

A weaker feeling developed in the market for rolled oats and prices were reduced 15c per bag. The demand showed no improvement and business was slow. There was no change in the millfeed market, prices being steady with a small trade passing.

The receipt of eggs in Montreal on Saturday were 1797 cases, as against 1133 cases for the same day last week, and 4716 cases for the corresponding day a year ago, while the arrivals for the week ending July 4, 1925, were 13,502 cases, as compared with 14,548 cases for the previous week, and 13680 cases for the same week last year. The total receipts from May 1 to date were 136,818 cases, as against 170,027 cases for the same period of 1924.

The receipts last week showed a decrease of 1046 cases, as compared with the previous week, and a decrease of 178 cases with the same week last year, while the total for the season to date is 33,209 cases below 1924.

Egg Prices Firm.

Owing to the steady decrease in the production throughout the country of late, the smaller receipts and the somewhat scarcity of high grade stock, a stronger feeling prevailed in the local market the past week and prices closed 1c per dozen higher.

The consumptive demand continues good and trade in a wholesale jobbing way was fairly active with final sales of specials at 40c, fresh extras at 38c; firsts at 35c, and seconds at 31c to 32c per dozen; storage operations have practically ceased as there are now barely enough eggs being received in consuming centres to satisfy the immediate consumptive requirements. Ontario shippers report sales of extras at 35c per dozen; firsts at 33c and seconds at 25c, f.o.b. shipping points in export cases.

A feature of the trade has been the good demand from English importers for storage eggs and it is reported that some large purchases were made during the past week for fall shipment from this port at prices ranging from 41c to 42c per dozen, f.o.b., seaboard, including one lot of 6000 cases. The ocean freight rate on eggs has been reduced 10c per cubic foot to 30c per cubic foot.

According to latest advices from England the Danish strike has been settled, and this coupled with heavy arrivals from Russia and other continental ports have created an easier feeling in the situation for the time being. The quality of a lot of the eggs arriving from the interior have been rather inferior, and the principal demand continues for the better grades such as strictly new laid English eggs. Danish f.o.b. prices were quoted at 12s 6d for 16 and 15s for 18, but buyers generally prefer to fill their requirements on the spot.

Butter Market.

The receipts of butter in Montreal for the week ending July 4, 1925, were 38,935 packages, which show an increase of 12,205 packages, as compared with the previous week and an increase of 12,459 packages with the same week last year, but the total arrivals from May 1st to date have been 16,174 packages smaller than the same period of 1924. The total receipts of butter for the month of June were 97,319 packages, and the total exports were 23,923 packages.

The movement of butter for the past week for export account has been the largest of any previous one this season to date and in consequence the market in this respect was active, there being a good steady demand from English importers for supplies with the result that a large volume of business was done. This naturally created a stronger feeling in the market and prices advanced ½c to 1c per lb., with every indication of them going still higher in the cheese situation. Trading on spot was also fairly active and the market closed strong with Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery quoted at 37½c to 38c per lb., No. 1 creamery at 36 1-2 to 37c per lb. and No. 2 creamery at 35½c to 36c per lb.

The offerings of creamery butter at the Quebec federated co-operative society auction sale held on Monday, amounted to 4400 packages, as against 4000 packages for the previous sale, and 4200 packages for the same day last year. The bidding was keen and prices were advanced 1c per lb. with No. 1 pasteurized creamery selling at 36 7-8c per lb.; No. 1 creamery at 35 7-8c per lb.; and No. 2 creamery at 34 7-8c per lb., which were 3¼c to 3½c per lb. higher than a year ago. At the country boards held in the early part of the week purchases were made at 35¼c to 35 3-8c per lb. f.o.b. shipping point.

Advance in Cheese.

The receipts of cheese in Montreal for the week ending July 4, 1925, were 72,372 boxes which show an increase of 6816 boxes as compared with the previous week, and a decrease of 4501 boxes with the same week last year, while the total receipts from May 1 to date have been 42,881 boxes in excess of the corresponding period for 1924. The total receipts for the month of June were 241,627 boxes, and the total exports were 180,040 boxes.

The feature of the trade was the pronounced strength that prevailed in the market throughout the week and spot prices scored advances amounting to 1 3-4c per lb., while in the country they were from 7-8c to 2c per lb. higher than the previous week. This was attributed to the continued urgent demand from English importers for supplies at marked advances in prices with the result that a very active business was done, in fact some houses stated that they received more orders than they could possibly fill. The highest prices paid in the country were 21c, 21¼c, 21½c and 21 11-16c per lb., f.o.b. shipping points, while at the auction sale held here 21 5-8c to 21 3-4c per lb, were realized ex-warehouse, and it was reported that sales of western No. 1 white and colored were made between houses at 22c per lb., and Eastern grades at 22c per lb.

LACOSTE CHAMPION.

Defeated Jean Borotra in British Tennis Finals.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 6. —(Canadian Press.)—The twenty-year-old French player, Rene Lacoste, holds the all-England lawn tennis singles championship. He wrested the title from his countryman Jean Borotra in clean-cut fashion Saturday in a match witnessed by the King and a crowd of 14,000 persons who jammed the centre court unmindful of the cold wind and threatening rain. Lacoste won, 6-3, 6-3, 8-6.

His victory was gained through careful, steady and strategic playing, in a game devoid of sensationalism, against an opponent who time and again performed the almost impossible in brilliant strokes at the net, but whose lack of precision in long rallies and faulty service finally spelled his own defeat.

France claimed a share in another title when Mlle. Lenglen, who on Friday won the women's singles in brilliant style, took the women's doubles playing with Miss Elizabeth Ryan, in straight sets, from Mrs. A. V. Bridge and Mrs. C. G. McIlquaham of England.

SHOT WIFE AND SELF.

Mother Eye-Witness of a Tragedy at Edmonton.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., July 6. — Vince Motle, a Belgian, shot and killed his wife at their home in Frank, Alta., Saturday and then committed suicide. Motle's mother was an eye-witness to the tragedy. No motive is known. Motle was a miner.

When you move to the country

perhaps you can continue getting supplies from your regular grocer and butcher. You can probably arrange to do so before you leave town.

Many grocers call up out-of-town prospects in a circle of 30, 40 or 50 miles on an appointed day and hour, and get their orders. Deliveries are made by truck or express.

Where orders are large enough, and given regularly, many grocers and butchers say they can afford to pay the cost of the calls.

RUSSELL T. SCOTT METEORIC CAREER

Great Writer, Descended to Dope Peddling, is Now to Hang.

CHICAGO, July 4.—(Associated Press).—Russell T. Scott at 30 was head of a $10,000,000 Canadian corporation organized to build a $30,000,000 international bridge between Detroit, Michigan, and Windsor, Ontario. A few years later, after a career as salesman, actor, bootlegger and dope peddlar, he was sentenced to hang for murder in Chicago, for the death of a drug clerk killed in a robbery.

In jail awaiting the hangman, Scott devoted much of his time to writing books on how to succeed. Before his difficulties overwhelmed him, he produced a dozen books on business problems and commercial ethics. His volumes, "Humanity and Business," and "Mind Your Mind," were considered texts of more than mediocre worth.

His plunge from fortune and social eminence to a murderer's cell, he attributed to affairs with women.

With some 80 branch offices of the bridge corporation in operation throughout Canada, Scott's first descent came when disagreement developed among associates over his business methods. Forced to leave the company, he parted with a personal fortune of $2,000,000 in settling his affairs. Penniless, a few months later, he faced a $10,000 breach of promise verdict obtained by a young woman formerly employed in his office. Unable to satisfy the judgment, he fled Canada to launch upon a varied career in the States.

On April 2, 1924, he was arrested for the murder of Joseph Maurer, 19-year-old clerk in the City Hall Pharmacy, opposite the Chicago City Hall.

Scott admitted, the police said, he had turned hold-up man under the pressure of adversity and had taken part in 34 robberies. In his trial he sought to throw the blame upon his brother, Robert, who was indicted with him, but never apprehended. He insisted Robert shot the clerk in an altercation over an attempted liquor purchase.

State witnesses refuted the story, declaring Scott and a second man, presumably his brother, held up the store and herded the employees and patrons in the basement. After being sentenced to hang on a plea of guilty, Scott petitioned for a new trial, changed his plea, and was again sentenced to the gallows.

A heroic fight was made by his father to save him from the scaffold. Actuated by an abiding faith in his son, Thomas H. Scott, pauperized himself in an effort to raise funds for a third trial.

LIQUOR PIRACY CHARGES FAILED

Max Phaff Free in France—Rum-Runner Boarded on High Seas.

CREW ASK DAMAGES.

BREST, France 6. — All the charges have been dismissed against Max Jerome Phaff, now on bail, who was arrested in 1924, charged with a piracy raid on the steamer Mulhouse, the report of which was made public when the ship put into Halifax, N.S.

The vessel's owners lost their suit for insurance on the Mulhouse's cargo, and the crew has filed a suit for damages against the owners.

Phaff was arrested in Paris in September, 1924, and taken to Brest for trial on the piracy charge, the penalty for which is death by hanging. Phaff is a United States' citizen, born in Germany. He refused to plead to the charge. This case started a hunt for rum raiders in New York, Montreal, Saint John, N.B., and other cities and involved the names of numerous persons alleged to be identified with the smuggling of liquor.

After a preliminary examination Phaff was released in 5,000 francs bail. He arrived in New York from Europe last November.

STUDENTS LEAD CHINESE RIOTS

Incited Disturbances That Developed in Anti-Foreign Demonstrations.

ARE QUITE YOUNG.

VICTORIA, B.C., July 6.—(Canadian Press)—A paradoxical situation in which school children from 12 to 15 years persuaded merchants to adhere to the anti-foreign boycott in China was described by K. K. Thompson, a Presbyterian missionary in Shantung Province, returning on leave on board the steamer President Jackson, which arrived here on Saturday.

Despite the age of the students, he said, they are the leaders of the most modernist movement in China, and in this province have proved the mainspring of the present troubles.

Agitation set up by the students throughout the country found a focus in Shanghai. Students supported by native merchants who appeared to have followed the children in the boycott plans without much reflections, set up the anti-foreign demonstrations which led to rioting.

At the school in Shanghai where Mr. Thompson was teaching, students insisted on having just such changes in the curriculum and discipline as they wished.

RIVER GIVES UP SIX OF VICTIMS

Three Others of Tug's Crew Not Yet Recovered From St. Lawrence.

QUEBEC, July 6.—With the recovery during the week end of three more bodies, six of the nine victims of the wreck of the tug Ocean King have been accounted for. The corpse of Captain Stevens was found Saturday afternoon off St. Petronville, about three miles from the spot where the tug was rammed in the St. Lawrence a week ago Friday night by the Liner Marloch. Two other bodies were brought to the surface during the day. The bodies recovered to date are those of Capt. Stevens, R. Minniss, mate and John Belmont, seaman, of Saint John, N.B., Sam Powell, cook and Emerson Powell, helper, of Seaforth, N.S., and J. Vezina, deck hand, of Levis, Que.

The bodies of Firemen Beaulieu and Marcoux and Engineer Bernier, it is believed, are still pinned beneath the sunken tug. Efforts to raise the wreck will be started Monday at high tide.

SEVEN VICTIMS IN BURNING OF ROOMING HOUSE

Were Trapped in Three-Storey Wooden Building at Saranac Lake.

TWO INJURED.

Crazed Woman Threw Pillow To Firemen Thinking It Her Baby.

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y., July 6.—Seven persons were killed and two injured, one probably fatally, early Saturday when fire of undetermined origin trapped twenty persons on the second and third floors of a wooden rooming house at 105 Broadway.

Three persons jumped from rear third-storey windows, which are unusually high, because the house was built on an incline sloping away from the street.

Two persons died in their beds, having been suffocated. It is believed they did not awaken.

An eleven-year-old boy, who became separated from his parents, perished as he made his way along the narrow hallway.

So quickly did the fire spread through the house, which had only one stairway, that it was three hours before volunteer firemen were able to enter the building and begin the work of rescue.

The victims were.

The Dead.

Moniky, Kenneth, 11 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moniky of Saranac Lake.

Martin, Patrick, 65 years old, of Chateaugay, N.Y.

Duckett, George, 21 years old, of Saranac Lake.

Duckett, George, the one-year-old infant of George Duckett.

McGowan, Joseph, 21 years old, of Burlington, Vt.

McGowan, Robert, 16 years old, brother of Joseph McGowan.

The Injured.

Duckett, Mrs. George, burned, also bruises when she jumped from the third floor.

Moniky, Mrs. Charles, mother of the boy who was killed.

Both the injured women were removed to the Saranac Lake Hospital. It was said there Mrs. Duckett would die.

Smoke Drives Firemen Back.

The fire was discovered on the first floor in the rear about one o'clock Saturday morning and an alarm was turned in. The fire house is next door and the entire apparatus of the village was on the scene in five minutes.

So rapidly had the flames spread, however, that it was impossible to enter the building. Fire Chief E. W. Harrison headed several attempts, which were invariably frustrated by smoke.

Long before the firemen were able to enter the building a slight breeze blew the smoke away from the windows of the third floor. Mrs. Duckett appeared at the window.

"Catch my baby!" she called to the firemen.

A group of firemen gathered beneath the window with their hands outstretched and their faces turned upwards. A white object was thrown out. The men caught it before it struck the ground. When they examined it they found it was a pillow from the bed. The firemen believe that Mrs. Duckett, crazed by fear, seized the pillow in mistake for her baby, who was one year old. Immediately after she threw out the pillow she jumped. She is dying at the Saranac Lake General Hospital. Her husband, who jumped after her, died at the hospital a short time after he was admitted. Later the firemen found the baby, who was burned to death, on the bed.

Mrs. Moniky, who made her way to the first floor, walked through a window. She was only slightly cut by klass.

The eleven persons who escaped jumped to a porch on the third floor of the building adjoining. Investigators declared there was no fire-escape on the building.

Nearly three hours after the alarm had been sounded a call was issued for volunteers to enter the smoking building. Chief of Police Frank E. Sheldon was the first to respond. With him were John R. Hogan, Willard Trombley and Harley McDougall, all volunteer firemen.

Fighting their way through the smoke and flames, the volunteers came upon the body of Dwyer. It was impossible to remain. A rope was passed to Chief Sheldon. He wrapped it about the body. Then it was pulled to a ladder and carried to the ground.

Chief Sheldon then found the body of Kenneth Moniky, 11 years old. His father, Charles Moniky, who was rescued, declared the lad refused to jump.

"You go first, father," the lad said. "I will follow you."

The firemen, however, found his body some distance from the window.

The body of Patrick Martin was found near the window where he had collapsed.

Joseph McGowan and Robert McGowan, brothers, both of Burlington, Vt., arrived in Saranac Lake on Friday night. They entered the house just a few hours before the fire started. They were found dead in bed.

In re-arranging the lines at Cannon Street Station, London, the engineers feel that the problem is so complicated that they are first of all making a trial lay-out in a field this Summer.

MANY PASSED ENTRANCE TEST

Only Two From Campbellford Schools, Failed, of 43 Who Wrote.

OTHER CENTRES.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 6—Principal Charles S. Hair of the Public School sent up his entire class of 35 pupils to write at the entrance examination, and of these all but one were successful, 12 taking honors. The pupil who failed had put in only two months at school during the past year having been kept at home for six months owing to an attack of appendicitis. He bravely took a chance and lost out only by a narrow margin.

Last year Principal Haig passed his entire class of 33.

Of the 34 successful candidates five had been only one year in the fourth grade. These were Alice McKelvie, Margaret Cock, Margaret Reid, Stuart Anderson and Hyacinthe Collinson. Of these five the latter took the highest stand and wins the medal which Principal Haig gives every year to the first year pupil who heads the list.

The examiners completed their labors on Saturday afternoon, and the following is the result at each centre in the district.

FIVE DROWNINGS OVER WEEK-END IN THE PROVINCE

Two Drowned Near Toronto, One in Lagoon and One in Credit.

DROWNED IN THAMES.

Ellard Greenfield Stepped Into Hole — Two Sisters Drowned at Bracebridge.

TORONTO, July 6.—(Canadian Press).—While attempting to swim across the lagoon at Hanlan's Point about four o'clock yesterday afternoon, Charles Cistern, aged 22, became exhausted and was drowned. Fred Langdon, aged 26, of Port Credit, lost his life on Saturday evening in the Credit River when he stepped into about eight feet of water. He was a poor swimmer.

Cistern was swimming with Fred and Cyril Higgins, brothers, and was engaged in a race across the lagoon, which is fifty yards wide. He was almost half-way across when he suddenly cried out, threw his hands up and disappeared. His companions dived repeatedly in the hope of rescuing their friend but failed.

DROWNED IN THAMES.

LONDON, Ont., July 6.—(Canadian Press).—Stepping suddenly from shallow water into a deep hole in the Thames River, near the John Pinkham farm at Delaware at noon yesterday, Ellard Greenfield, aged 18, of Brantford, was drowned. In his struggles he almost dragged to the same fate Fred Lockwood, of Delaware and Stanley Sexton of Mount Bridges, who caught him when he first got into difficulties, but were unable to complete the rescue.

GIRLS DROWNED.

BRACEBRIDGE, July 6.—(Canadian Press).—Velma Campbell, aged 13, and Ella Campbell, aged 9, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell, of Draper Township, were drowned in the south branch of the Muskoka River Saturday afternoon when they, with other girls, went in bathing. This part of the river is known as Campbell's Bend, and for a few feet a sandy beach runs into the water, then there is a sudden drop into deep water. Apparently the younger girl got beyond her depth, and Velma went to her assistance. The girls' companions raised an alarm, but the sisters were beyond aid.

REPRESENTS PETERBORO'

Clarence Corbett has been selected by the Council as the representative and delegate of the City of Peterboro to the Scoutmasters' Summer Training Camp in Algonquin Park. The training camp remains in session from July 7 to July 17, and is limited in number to 22 applicants. Training at this camp qualifies for appointment as a scout commissioner.

Mr. Corbett took a course of training in scoutcraft in Peterboro during the winter months.

Jacob Rosenburg, another member of the crew of the Mojave has a fractured back and left leg. Blanche Kent of Medford has a fractured spine while Frank Gasaloni and John F. Heffernan have fractured skulls. The physicians have little hope for recovery of any of these.

Lost somewhere in the tons of wreckage was the body of "Ella," her friends said. She was a waitress at the club, a diminutive young girl with a turned up nose and perpetual smile. She was engaged to be married and was earning a share of the stake which was to have established her home.

A force of sixty firemen, with an even larger gang of construction laborers assisted by two steam shovels began methodically yesterday morning to remove the wreckage. Fresh crews relieved the workers from time to time and the work went ahead rapidly. Huge searchlights erected Saturday night again were used.

While the search goes forward, an investigation into the cause of the calamity has been started and will be pushed today. "Overcrowding" in the building weakened by a fire ten weeks ago and flanked by a lot in which a building had been removed to make way for new construction, was the only reason assigned by officials. Meanwhile, all other night clubs and resorts of the city have been closed pending inspection of their buildings and a theatre and other buildings bordering on that which collapsed have been closed.

The Picwick Club had flourished for more than a year. Last night as the workers succeeded in clearing away much of the material which Saturday was merely turned over, they found more bodies. In the extreme lower level, buried under tons of bricks, five bodies of men were found. Only a start had been made on this level and the searchers believed that still more would be uncovered.

Former Lieut. Gov. Barry, who joined in the rescue work, said:

"I had feared this disaster for weeks before it happened. Several days ago I passed by the building and its condition shocked and astounded me. I could not understand why the building had not been condemned. I saw that fifty supporting timbers and a side wall had been damaged by the recent fire. Ever since that I thought the building should be condemned. Its condition suggested a crash."

TRANS-CANADA TRAIL NEARS COMPLETION

When Fraser River Canyon Road is Finished West and East May Commute.

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 6.—(Canadian Press).—Before the end of the present year the Fraser River canyon route will be completed and British Columbia will have constructed the last link in the chain of roads that will connect the West Coast of Canada with the east.

Construction has been rushed along the Fraser during the summer months with the result that progress has been even more rapid than was at first expected and the road may be completed before the first snow falls.

For years the trans-continental highway has existed with one single gap—that between Hope and Princeton. Now that gap is being bridged and when the road is finished it will add one of the most impressive scenic highways on the continent to the all-Canadian artery. The possibilities of the route in the development of tourist traffic between the coast province and the prairies are regarded as beyond calculation.

Difficult as the construction of the Fraser route is proving, even greater were the engineering problems faced more than half a century ago by the little band of Royal Engineers who were assigned the task of carving out a passage road along the Fraser River shore to connect the coast with the goldfields of the Cariboo. In many places the new highway picks up the ancient road built by the Royal Engineers, who, with the primitive tools then available, performed one of the most remarkable engineering feats known to the west. In many parts of the route it was necessary to cut a way through solid rock rising precipitously above the roaring canyons.

The old road was commenced in 1861 under instructions from Governor James Douglas who was one of the first to be impressed with the possibilities of the Cariboo goldfields.

The new route will be of tremendous historic interest as well as one of extraordinary scienic grandeur for by following the route north along the old Cariboo road, it will be possible to reach the old gold country that brought fame seventy years ago, and many of the settlemenets along the route are much the same today as they were in heyday.

PRESENTATION

On Tuesday evening the C.P.R. staff assembled in the freight office to proffer their respect and esteem to Mr. Dodd, agent, who is retiring.

J. W. Buwers, car service clerk, was called upon and in a brief address referred to Mr. Dodd as not having attained success by any short cut method, but rather that he started at the foot of the ladder and was gradually promoted until he was appointed an agent at Peterboro. Mr. Dodd, he said, has been regarded by the C.P.R. officials from the Atlantic to the Pacific as a competent energetic and valued representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway. "Your long term of office, Mr. Dodd, he said, "has been characterized by harmony in all departments. We regret that time which is ever on the wing brings the date of your retirement, but we congratulate you on having reached the expectation of your term of office."

Mr. Buyers then read the following address:

Dear Mr. Dodd:

We, the members of your staff, having learned of your resignation as agent, desire on this, the eve of your retirement, to give expression to the esteem in which you are held by all of us.

Not to many is it given to serve as long as you have served, and we congratulate you on your forty-four years of service, twenty-two of which have been spent in Peterboro. We are sure that during these many years of faithful service with the C.P.R. you must have seen great changes in many different spheres of life. You have seen the various industries of Peterboro expand from chall beginnings to present splendid proportions, to which growth you have no doubt contributetd your share, so that the Company which you served profited by the increased business that resulted.

As an expression of our esteem and high regard in which you are held, we ask you to accept this Chesterfield chair, and, in conclusion we extend to you and Mrs. Dodd our very best wishes for many years of comfort and happiness.

Signed on behalf of the staff.

J. W. BUYERS

T. F. McArthur, Chief Clerk, made the presentation, conducting Mr. Dood and seeing him comfortably seated in the chair. "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" was their song. Mr. Dodd appreciated the lovely gift very much, and expressed his gratitude for the kindness of his staff with whom he had been so long associated.

Life insurance in Canada totalled on December 31, 1924, the huge sum of $3,750,000,000, as against only $35,680,082 in 1869.

Ready money when most needed!

An attractive feature of Imperial Life policies is the fact that the money so provided is paid in cash to one's heirs or executors at a time when the need of ready money is most imperative.

For it frequently happens that men's finances at death are entirely tied up in business enterprises or investments which cannot be at once turned into cash, except at considerable sacrifice.

But claims under Imperial Policies are payable immediately completed proofs of death and title are furnished to the Company. And no legal fees have to be paid, nor lawyers engaged to collect the money.

Wouldn't you like to leave your family some ready cash to pay current expenses while your estate is being settled up? Then ask for free information and premium rates to-day.

Life insurance can only be secured while you are in good health.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

One evening a young man five years my senior called for me to take me home, I refused him, because I was tired of him. For two months I "dodged" him when ever possible.

Now I feel that I love him.

Shall I call him up and ask him to come over and call on me?

BLONDY.

BLONDY: If you are certain that you are now interested in this young man, I suggest that you drop him a note inviting him to call on you. When he accepts your invitation be cordial and gracious toward him, chat about the things which interest you, but do not mention your "neglect." Merely ignore the fact that your friendship was broken and pretty soon you will have revived the old spirit of companionship—and tactfully too.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of The Examiner and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

ON THE LOOKOUT

By Juanita Hamel

Such a dainty little Pirate! No one in the world would protest against being captured by such a captain and crew as this. Of course, the crew consists of but one man and he the adorable Dan Cupid trying to look as formidable as possible behind his old blunderbuss. But neither of them can look terribly serious for any length of time. It's only a game they're playing—the crew is on the lookout for victims and the captain will capture them and hold them prisoners in the ship of hearts—but mind you, they'll be willing prisoners—until the brave captain is at last overcome and subdued by one who shall ever after be Captain of her Heart.

IN THE KITCHEN

By Jeanette Norton

SUMMER MENUS TO TEMPT A JADED APPETITE.

Summer meals are always a problem to solve. They must be dainty and attractively served as well as nourishing. The following menus may help, but the housewife will have to substitute where the things suggested are not available in her particular locality:

BREAKFAST MENU
Strawberries and Cream
Cream of Rice
Poached Eggs on Toast
Coffee

The cream of rice is made like farina and is very delicate in flavor and texture. It is good hot or cold. Poach the eggs as usual, garnishing them with broiled strips of bacon and parsley.

LUNCHEON
Italian Relish Wafers
Shrimp Ramekins Baked Potatoes
Radishes
Melon or other Fresh Fruit
Iced Coffee or Cocoa

The Italian relish consists of one boneless sardine, three slices of the hard Italian bologna, two quarters of a small young cucumber dipped in French dressing, a red pepper that has been put up in oil, and a tiny sharp pickle. The shrimp used for the ramekin dish may be canned if fresh are not available.

DINNER
Jellied Chicken Bouillon
Broiled Fish Broiled Potatoes
Asparagus Radishes
Cucumbers Scallions
Chicken Salad
Rolls Fruit Pie, hot or cold
Coffee or Iced Tea

Select a young chicken with clear yellow skin. Singe, wash, clean and put on to boil, adding a sliced onion, a few stalks of celery and a little parsley to the water. When it is slightly cool, strip the meat from the bones and throw bones and trimmings back into the water. Add seasoning, then cook slowly until the broth is reduced to about six cupfuls. Then strain through a fine strainer into a bowl to cool. When cool, remove every particle of fat, then set to chill and jell.

Use the white meat, freed of skin, for the salad, and cut the chicken rather fine. Let the salad stand in a cold place and do not add the dressing until the last minute.

The sort of fish to be broiled depends upon the locality and what the market affords. Garnish the fish attractively.

Let's Talk It Over

When I read half through this letter I wanted to put it down and run for the nearest policeman to protect the girl against the mother who "beat her into submission" and robbed her of her pay. And then I sead on a little further and saw that the girl was 21 YEARS OLD!

This letter will sound to you like the ravings of self pity. My story is as old as the hills. Mothers are always partial to one child; the other child is therefore always in the way. I have a sister not much older than myself, and she is quite selfish. Now that we are grown, and both earning money, her domineering disposition is always causing trouble. Mother gives in to her. When I refuse to do so, both she and mother actually beat me into submission. Is it right? I am earning a good salary. I turn it all over to mother except the 10 cents a day I get for carfare. If I need money for clothes I have to quarrel to get it, and I am 21 years old. Often mother invites me to leave the house. Will you tell me what to do?

ELIZABETH D.

If you can't change the situation, Elizabeth, for the love of Mike, LEAVE IT. You are 21 years of age and getting a "good salary," and your mother has "invited you to leave." by all means accept her invitation.

When you get your pay check again, put it in the bank before you go home. Then pack your trunk and move.

HEDDA HOYT TALKS ABOUT THINGS THAT INTEREST THE BUSY WOMAN OF 1925

Washing Gloves

NEW YORK, July 6 (United Press).—Since many women insist upon wearing gloves in Summer time, the washable glove is the most sensible type one can wear. These are usually short-cuffed affairs, or short slip-ons, in light tan shades and they are worn with short as well as long-sleeved frocks.

Among the washable types which have proven successful are chamois, washable suede, doeskin, fabric and silk. Chamois and doeskin should be washed in lukewarm water and soapsuds and soap should be left in them If the soap is rinsed out, the glove becomes hard and shrinks. In rinsing, squeeze the water out with the hands and dd not twist or wring as this gets the glove out of shape. All washable kids should be dried slowly in a cool place. Never attempt to dry by heating.

The washable suede glove is also washed in lukewarm water and suds but in the case of suede all soap should be thoroughly rinsed out as soap stiffens and shrinks suede.

Fabric gloves are washed in cold water, to which have been added mild soapsuds. Both fabric and silk gloves require soap that has no alkali. Very little soap should be used on silk or fabric, as it destroys the texture of the glove. One may iron silk or fabric gloves when still slightly damp, with a slightly warm iron.

After any glove has had several washings, it has a tendency to either shrink or stretch. The glove that has stretched, whether kid, fabric or silk, may be shrunk by washing in very hot water. The glove that has shrunk should be worked on the hand while wet or stretched with a glove stretcher. Kid gloves should always be worked on the hand while slightly damp, as they will then hold their shape better.

In buying wash gloves, one must not buy a size too large in the theory that they will shrink, for in most cases the wash glove stretches.

TODAY'S FASHION

By Vera Winston

Green Crepe Trimmed with Silver Braid and Lace Makes a Smart Informal Evening Frock.

Crepe of a pleasant, cool, dull green color is used for this simple dress, designed for informal wear on Summer evenings.

The trimming is of dull silver lace and dull silver braid. The braid is inset in the crepe to give a cooler, more airy appearance.

Note the simple V neckline, which is simply a rounded neckline split at the front to form tiny revers. There is no collar at the back at all, after the mode which makes collars either extremely narrow at the back of the neck or does away with the collar here entirely.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By Lurezia Bori

HOW TO KEEP BEAUTY FRESH.

Do you sometimes feel that you have allowed your personal appearance to drop below par for some reason, and that you don't know exactly what is the matter?

Do you sometimes notice that your coiffure isn't becoming and that your clothes seem to have lost their snap, and that the whole thing is affecting your mental attitude and your general spirits?

Now, if you feel this way, as all of us are likely at to times, it is safe to say that most of it is probably mental. You may just be a little tired, and that's why things take on less attractive colors and appearance in your eyes.

The first thing I advise is a good course of resting. You can take this, you know, without taking time off from the regular duties of your life. It simply means getting your full eight or nine hours of sleep, eating regular meals, and not rushing from one thing to the other unless you absolutely have to do it.

For instance, if you have to cut down on frivolities for a time, just let them go and take the time that you would be using up in gadding about to rest and improve your appearance and your general feelings.

There are many people so constituted that they throw themselves with all their energy into whatever activity happens to be at hand. This means they work hard when they work, and that when they play they bring all their energy into this, too. Now this is an excellent way to be, provided that you don't do too much of either working or playing to drain yourself of energy.

But the danger for those so constituted is that they will find themselves trying to play as many hours as they work, or vice versa. Be moderate in all things. Keep your happy faculty of doing what you do with all the spirit possible, but do not attempt too many different things.

Of course, one of the recognized faults of the age we live in is that we rush too hard from one thing to another. Many women have engagements for luncheon, tea and dinner day after day in succession. If they only knew it, this will make them old long before their time. It simply wears them out.

"But how am I to see my friends?" they ask. "If I don't make these efforts I won't have time to see them at all."

My answer is that if it is such a very great effort, perhaps they have too many people on their list that they try to keep up with. None of their contacts will be successful at all if they are continually rushing from one to the other. Bear in mind that it is far better to see fewer people and to have time to give the few you do see real friendship and understanding.

If you feel below par, try resting up and lessening your activities, and see how it works.

Buy Milk Evaporated to Double Richness—CARNATION

One and three-fourths pints of water are in every quart of market milk you buy.

The Carnation milkman takes some of this natural water out by evaporation.

But he leaves in the concentrated food value of milk. That is why Carnation is doubly rich—and safe—because sterilized in hermetically sealed cans.

Is there any wonder, then, Carnation Milk adds rich smoothness and texture to every dish in which you use it—improves the flavor of coffee and fruit and cereals?

From your grocer—order several tall (16 oz.) cans or by the case of 48 cans.

"Come on out looking for birds, Jimmy," said Roy, one nice morning in July.

"Ah, who wants to go bird hunting on a morning like this?" answered Jimmy. "Can't you see perfectly well that this is a fishing morning?"

Roy looked a bit peeved, but Jimmy continued, "You just come on with me, Roy; I know where there are a lot of minnows and we can catch them easy too, and it is up a crooked little creek, and I know a good place to keep the minnows in, a dandy pool, and we can catch them and dam the place up and keep them till we need them and we can catch tons of great bigwhoppers of trout, just as soon as we get enough minnows saved up in the pool."

And away they went.

Jimmy led Roy up the creek, over slippery slimy stones, until the little pool was in sight. Then the boys began to catch minnows, with a wide piece of mosquito netting.

About a dozen nice fat minnows were made captives in the little pool, but the luck seemed changed and no more were in sight, so Jimmy suggested that farther down there might be more. Down they went, farther and farther from the pool, but no minnows did they see, for they frightened them down stream.

At last, Jimmy said, "Well, we've got enough anyway, and we might as well go back to the pool and get some and then I will show you how to really catch fish, Roy, for fish are more interesting than birds. Don't you think so?"

Roy was just going to say that he thoughts birds are more entertaining, when Jimmy, who had arrived at the pool first, stood so stalk still and staring, that Roy rushed up, "What's the matter?"

Jimmy looked most astonished. "Why, there isn't one single minnow in the pool, and no holes they could have escaped through, and ——"

"Haw-haw-haw-haw-haw," laughed a pretty Kingfisher, as he dashed away up the stream, having stolen all the boys' minnows. "Let's quit fishing and follow the bird, Roy, for he seems to have all our bait," said Jimmy.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, JULY 7.

The planetary forecast for this day is a generally unfortunate one for business as well as in social, domestic and affectional associations. The adverse figures hold sway in all lines of activity and there are aspects which may indicate peculiarly baffling and discomforting conditions. Under the astral portents it is enjoined that affairs be handled in cautious and routine grooves.

Those whose birthday it is are enjoined to attend all affairs with precaution and conservatively, guarding against all manners of injuries and attacks as well as griefs and deception. Quarrels and change may add to the adversity. A child born on this day may require the most rigorous training to fortify it against difficulties and to strengthen its character in probity and veracity.

A LINE-O-TYPE.

The Peterborough Rangers Band had no desire to run counter to the wishes of the City Council in the matter of Sunday band concerts, as some people seem to think. The concert last night was not a challenge to the council or a knock at its regulations, as many took it. The band simply wished to give a Sunday band concert; it was not the wish of the Council that any Sunday concerts should be given in the city parks; so the band was forced to the next best thing. It gave the concert on its own parade ground.

No Challenge

This is the assurance given The Examiner by a member of the band who was engaged in the arrangements.

* * *

Seems, though, as if the Council will have to put soundproof barriers around its parks to preserve its regulations.

* * *

Junk! That's all these boxes and barrels and tubs and tins along the sidewalk contain on garbage day. Just things that people have discarded as useless.

Odds and Ends

And yet have you never seen small boys poking around the old rejected articles and carrying off treasures, just as the stray dogs nose in the more noisome tins and break away with odds and ends of cast-away morsels of foods?

Yes, and even grown ups find in these discarded bits of household finery articles that they could use to advantage. And down at the incinerator sometimes there is a big pile of articles of all kinds salvaged from the wagons as they come in.

It is a question of degree, again. Rejected by one, treasured by another.

And in the realm of higher things there are things too that are discarded by some and treasured by others. Truth, faith, love, hope, are rejected by the thoughtless, the careless, and the profligate, but are clung to with heart and soul by those perhaps on a lower social scale or with less attainment.

And at that there will have to be some explaining of that big crowd at the band concert.

TIMELY TIPS ON OUTDOOR LIFE

When still-fishing with frogs or minnows give the fish plenty of time to swallow the bait.

After the bait is struck the fish will turn it and devour it head first.

If you try to set the hook on the strike you will most likely lose your fish.

Wait until you feel the turning process before jerking up the tip of your rod.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

MRS. TREE TOAD TEACHES THE CROSS GRASSHOPPER A LESSON.

Everything in the meadow was covered with dust. The sun never seemed quite so warm to the little meadow folks, and they all sat around complaining about it.

"Why, I've been all morning trying to find something juicy to eat," complained Hoppy Toad. "I wish I never had left the big mill pond. My skin is just ready to split, it's so very dry."

"Oh, you don't know fine weather when you see it," chirped Bobby Cricket. "I hope we never, never, never have any rain. This is the only kind of weather to have."

"Suits me fine, too," trilled Tilly Locust. "I hate old rainy weather."

"Believe me," chirped Johnny Grasshopper, "if I had the making of things around here I'd have this kind of weather all the time," and he swayed back and forth in the hot sun, laughing at his uneasy friends.

"But intense heat like this is a forerunner of a storm," said Mama Ant. "I think we'd better call in the cows."

Just then Mrs. Tree Toad opened her door and stepped out on her porch.

"Punkerup, punkerup," she called loudly in a hoarse voice, "you'd better all scamper for home, it's going to storm." And before the little meadow folks knew what was happening, the sun went behind a black cloud and rain was pouring down on the meadows.

"So Let's Make the Most of It."

My, how it did storm. Great trees were thrown over on their sides. The lightning flashed and the thunder crashed. Everyone kept under cover until after the rain stopped. Then Johnny Grasshopper, Bobby Cricket and Tilly Locust were the first out again, and such grumbling and fussing you never heard in all your life. They were so upset because it had stormed.

"Much right you have to complain," croaked Mrs. Tree Toad. "All you fellows have to do is to keep under cover when it rains. Look at Miss Spider. She isn't complaining, and yet it has torn her whole house down."

"What good would it do to complain?" laughed Missy Spider. "All I have to do is to eat up this old house and build me another one." So she went on with her work, humming merrily.

"Why, if it didn't rain, everything would dry up and there would be no food for anyone," declared Mrs. Tree Toad. "Look at Hoppy Toad. His skin is splitting, he's so happy."

"Indeed, I am," croaked Hoppy Toad.

"That's the only way to look at things," laughed Mrs. Tree Toad. "It takes all kinds to make a world—both rain and sunshine—so let's just make the most of it and try to be happy."

"Just what I think about it," cried Mrs. Ant. Then she and her children carried out the rain-soaked seeds from her storeroom and lay them in the sun to dry. "That storm will keep me busy a long time repairing the damage it has done, but I'm not complaining."

"Then I'll not, either," laughed Johnny Grasshopper. "If you fellows don't get cross with all the work you have to do after a storm, there's no reason why I should." Then, chirping merrily, he sailed off over the meadows.

That was the last time anyone ever heard Johnny Grasshopper complain about a storm.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burto

Mother Gregory turned away from the telephone to meet Dick coming in from the back yard. "Why, I thought you'd gone?" she said in surprise, "and I just told a fib without knowing it. . . . Gloria called up, and I said you'd gone out for the evening."

Dick considered. "I guess it's just as well you did," he said after a time, "we don't get anywhere, talking things over. It's just a waste of time."

His mother drew a long breath that caused all the black jet beads to heave on her vast bosom. "I certainly am glad to hear you say that!" she declared. "Your father and I have been afraid you'd go back to her, all along. She's not the woman for you, Dick, and never was!"

Dick twirled his hat in his hands. "I came back here for my brief case," he said. "Have you seen it?"

His mother walked into the living room and returned with it in her capable hands. "'A place for everything and everything in its place'," she quoted. "If you'd only put that brief case on the hall table you'd always know where it was! . . . Where are you going?"

"Down to the office," Dick answered shortly.

His mother followed him out into the wide side-porch that overlooked the driveway and the back yard.

"Now, don't be silly and call Glory up," she said, as he bent to kiss her goodby.

"She probably didn't want to say much of anything, anyway," Dick answered, "but I think I'll give her a ring and see what she wanted."

He resented his mother's advice. Didn't she realize that he was a grown man, well over thirty? Or did mothers always feel that way about their sons—that they were still little boys, even when their hair turned gray?

At the first drug store Dick stopped and went in to telephone his wife at her mother's house.

"Why, Glory's not here!" Mrs. Gordon said, when she answered the phone. "Don't you know where she is?"

"How should I know?" Dick asked helplessly. "When did she leave the house?"

"About five o'clock."

"Well, she called me about an hour ago," Dick said. "When she comes home ask her to call me at my office, will you?"

He climbed into his car and drove downtown at break-neck speed, so as not to miss Gloria's next telephone message when she called again. That is, if she did call again. . . .

He unlocked the door of his office and went in. Miss Briggs was sitting at her desk, with her long white hands draped over the keys of her typewriter. She looked as if she had been sitting that way a long time.

"I thought I told you not to work late these hot nights, Susy!" Dick said severely, closing the outer door behind him.

"I'm not working," Miss Briggs answered dully. "And it's not late—only eight o'clock."

As she spoke a clock somewhere across the roofs of the city chimed eight.

"Has Mrs. Gregory called up here tonight for me?" was Dick's next question.

Miss Briggs shook her smooth brown head. "No," she said, almost inaudibly.

She sat motionless. Only her blue eyes moved as she watched him take off his hat and hang it up. He picked up his brief-case from the chair where he had laid it and turned toward his private office.

Sue Briggs could see that there was a sort of restlessness upon him. He seemed to be waiting feverishly for something vital—stupendous.

"Be sure to call me if she does phone," he said, as he went into his office.

In a minute or two he came out again.

"Call up Mrs. Gregory's mother and ask if she's there, please," he said. "You know the number, don't you?"

Miss Briggs knew the number. She had called it scores of times for Dick during the months he had been engaged to Gloria. . . . It had always hurt her abominably to call that number. It hurt her now . . . like an old wound. But she called the number in a brisk, cheerful voice.

"No, she hasn't come in," she reported to Dick. "Her mother says she doesn't know when to expect her."

Dick ran his hand thruogh his dark hair. "But, good Lord! Where is she?" he asked, unaware that he spoke aloud.

Susan Briggs cleared her throat.

"Mrs. Gregory came into the office this morning to see you," she said, huskily.

Dick wheeled. "Why didn't you tell me?" he asked sharply. "Where was I when she was here?"

"You had just gone out to lunch," Susan Briggs answered, "and . . . and I forgot to tell you about it."

A telltale blush mounted to her face. She had not forgotten to tell Dick! . . . She hadn't wanted to tell him about Gloria's visit. And Dick knew it.

She looked at him with her unspoken misery in her eyes.

"I suppose I ought to tell you something, Mr. Gregory," she said, after a moment. "I was just going to telephone you about it when you came in tonight. . . ."

Dick waited silently for her to go on.

"I don't know whether I should have done it . . . but I gave Mrs. Gregory the key to your house today," she said at last.

"Did she ask you for it?" Dick asked.

Susan Briggs nodded.

"Well, I'll bet that's where she is, then. . . . at the house!" Dick exclaimed. His eyes lighted.

"I wouldn't wonder," Sue Briggs answered dryly. It took all of her nerve, her gallantry, to say those three small words in just that tone.

From under her lashes she saw Dick go into his office. She heard the creak of his swivel chair as he sat down in it. Then there was a long silence. . . . She knew that he was making up his mind whether to go to his wife or not . . . his wife who was waiting for him in the house that was his and hers.

Not daring to move, Susan Briggs sat there. She knew that the happiness of all her life depended upon whether Dick stayed there at the office or went to Gloria that night. . . . And so certain was she of his decision that presently she began to put on her hat to go home. As she stood before the mirror tucking a stray wisp of hair behind her ear, Dick came out of his office. He carried his hat and his inevitable brief case was under his arm.

"Good night, Susy," he said in a matter-of-fact voice, as he went out. He did not notice that she made no answer.

Miss Briggs stood there where he had left her, with her hands still holding the brim of her hat. She did not move until the sound of his retreating footsteps died away down the corridor of the building.

Then she opened the drawers of her desk and took all the things that were hers from them. Pitifully few they were. Tablets and pencils, a small box of talcum powder, a face towel, and an old candy box full of odds and ends.

She looked around the room where she had worked for so many years . . . as if she were trying to print it on her memory. And yet she knew it was the one place in the world that she never would be able to forget!

She took off her hat with a jerky, impatient movement, and sat down at her desk. After a moment she put a sheet of clean white paper into her typewriter and began to write:

"Dear Mr. Gregory:" she began and could go no further.

What could she say to him? The truth was impossible. She couldn't write to tell the man she loved that she wasn't going to work for him any more because he was in love with his wife and not with her!

She couldn't tell him that her heart was broken and that there never would be any happiness anywhere for her again. And yet that was the truth! . . . Anything else was a lie.

Well, then, she would have to tell him a lie.

She raised her hands above the machine, held them poised there an instant, and then wrote rapidly:

"I am taking this opportunity to tell you that I am resigning my position at once, for one where I will receive a larger salary.

"Sincerely yours,

SUSAN BRIGGS."

She neither dated it nor sealed it . . . just laid it in the wire basket on Dick's desk where he would be sure to see it first thing in the morning.

As she turned to go out of his office she brushed against his old office coat hanging against the wall. It smelled of the tobacco he smoked in that villainous pipe of his. The sleeves of it still held the shape of his arms. . . .

Susan Briggs put her arms around it, hugging it close to her breast, and laid her cheek against its rough tweed surface. Her mouth twisted and a tear slid from under her closed eyelids.

Suddenly she loosened her hold of the coat and let it swing back into place. She hurried out of the office.

OBITUARY.

MRS. S. J. KEYES.

OTTAWA, July 6.—(Special.)—Mrs. S. J. Keyes, wife of Dr. S. J. Keyes, Principal of the Ottawa Normal school, and formerly a teacher of the Peterborough Normal school, died here yesterday after a lingering illness. Mrs. Keyes was the daughter of Mr. John McNichol of Creemore, Ontario, and was married to Dr. Keyes 30 years ago. At that time Dr. Keyes was teaching there. Subsequently they moved to Peterborough, where Dr. Keyes taught in the Normal school, and later they went to Toronto, where they lived for seven years, coming to Ottawa from the Queen city.

Mrs. Keyes had been ill about three years and confiend to her bed since last December. She was very well known in Peterborough, where both she and her husband had many warm friends. Left to mourn her loss are her husband and her mother, Mrs. John McNichol, who has been residing with her; two sisters, Mrs. A. J. Brown, of Ottawa, and Mrs. Hisey, of Los Angeles; two brothers, R. J. McNichol and Joseph McNichol, both of Toronto.

The funeral was held at 1.30 o'clock Monday afternoon by motor from her former residence to Winchester, Ont.

YOUR GARDEN

PLANTING IRIS

Soon after they have bloomed, allowing only for a short resting period, is considered one of the best times to transplant Iris. They may, however, be planted as late as the latter part of August or the beginning of September as long as time is given them to root and become established. Late planted stock should be lightly mulched with straw to prevent heaving by the frost. This should be removed quite early in the spring.

What are the reasons for dividing and replanting? First you may wish to increase your stock; secondly you may desire to set out a new bed or chirdly and usually the most pressing, which should not be neglected, the clump may have commenced to deteriorate. This will show in fewer and smaller blooms. Also most Iris show a tendency of the rhizomes to pile up in the centre, and as they cannot obtain sufficient nourishment, consequently become weaker and cease to throw good flower spikes. Eventually the centre becomes dead and dried up and the flowering growth is but a ring round this rather dead-looking centre. Long before this serious and rather unsightly stage is reached, the clump should be divided. Every four or five years may be necessary, though some varieties will last longer. In doing so, separate from the rest and use, only the younger, strong growing pieces (units) of rhizome and discard the rest. Bearded iris separate quite easily into units by using the hands or prying them apart. Beardless Iris have a more fibrous root, and it will be necessary to sever them with a knife at times. In the case of the bearded Iris separate the clump into strong one-piece divisions or single rhizomes, or at most double rhizomes. A good plant or standard division consists of one good strong growing point (fan of leaves), with two or more lesser points flanking it. These latter may not always be present, depending on the variety. These single young pieces, placed fairly close together (eight to ten inches apart, also depending on the variety) will prove more satisfactory and fill in as rapidly as small clumps or larger pieces. It is unwise to transplant large clumps.

Iris should be given a sunny location preferably, and a reasonably good soil. They will, however, do fairly well in a little shade and fairly gravelly or stony soil. If the ground is very poor, bonemeal or wood ashes may be applied at the rate of a tablespoonful to 3-4 of a square yard. Fresh stable manure should always be avoided. Good drainage is essential and if there is any danger of water lying about, the rhizomes, the bed should be raised. Deep preparation is not necessary, except as an aid to drainage, as the Iris are shallow rooted.

As for the actual planting operations. It is generally conceded that the Iris rhizome should be set on top of the soil, rather than be buried, so that it gets plenty of sunlight and rot is avoided. This means that in freshly dug soil, covering the rhizome so that its top is just level with the soil, will give just the right depth when the soil settles.

This will leave close to two-thirds of the rhizome exposed, which is about right. If transplanting is done immediately after division, the roots should anchor the plant sufficiently for it to become established, but should they have come from a long distance, the roots possibly have withered and broken off. In such a case, shallow planting may require pegging down for a time. Beardless Iris will require planting only to the depth at which they were growing before. This is also comparatively shallow, and the crown should not be covered.

In either case the divisions will benefit by a shortening back of the fibrous roots and the cutting off of about a third of the foliage at least.

THE OLD WALLS OF AVILA

To anyone with the slightest gift of imagination, ancient Avila, with its eleventh century walls, with its eighty-six towers and ten gates, is one of the greatest visions of Spain. The invention of modern artillery has robbed the old city of its impregnability, though in places the walls are fourteen feet thick. It is a peep at an old world that elsewhere is a memory. As one of the earliest bulwarks of Spanish Christianity that was to roll back the advancing tides of Islam, the fortified city stands like a dream that American movies sometimes create for portrayal of the mighty adventures of some medieval knight.

Help Your Boy up the Big Step

It is a fine and worthy thing to hope that your boy will some day be a successful man — but it is a thousand times better and more practical to definitely help him up the ladder by making sure that he will have a college education.

A college education is a big step toward success in a business career. In the world to-day the "college man" has a decided advantage. Lawyers, doctors, engineers—all are university graduates.

The easiest means of distributing the cost of your child's education is the North American Life Child's Endowment. Through moderate deposits spread over a number of years, any sum can be arranged for.

If the policy is for $5,000 your child is guaranteed that amount on his twentieth birthday or whatever date you specify. Even if you should die after you had paid only one premium, the full amount would be paid him just as you originally planned.

On the other hand, if your child should die before age fifteen, every cent that you had paid would be returned, with interest. If his death should occur after fifteen years of age, full payment of the policy would be made to you.

You should read our booklet "Child's Endowment." It gives full particulars and will be mailed to you on request. Use the attached coupon.

HAVE FOUND 39 BODIES IN RUINS

Two Police Officers Were Among Victims of Night Club Crash.

LOOTING ATTEMPTED.

BOSTON, July 6. — (Canadian Press).—The number of victims known to have lost their lives when the wall of the Pickwick Club, an all night Chinatown resort, crashed in upon the party of more than 100 dancers early Saturday, grew steadily larger last night as firemen dug deeper into the mass of wreckage left by the collapse. At midnight 39 bodies had been recovered, 29 of which had been identified. No one knew how many more might be found. Sixteen persons were in hospitals, four of them seriously hurt. Seven of those identified were women. Among the bodies recovered was that of Police Inspector Benjamine Alexander. He was believed to have been in the club looking for a member of the underworld wanted by the authorities. His police pistol was found beside his body. The body of a patrolman, Paul Halloran, also was found in the ruins Saturday, and his body was recovered yesterday.

Vandals took advantage of the almost frantic search for bodies last night to attempt to loot part of the club.

WINS $1,000 PRIZE.

Fred K. English, B.A., is Awarded Verdict in Essay Competition.

A wire from Ottawa received last Saturday conveyed to Fred K. English, B.A., son of Mr. and Mrs. J English of Chilliwack, B.C., the news that he was the winner of a $1,000 prize offered by the Dominion government for the best essay on the subject:

"Canada, north of the 56th parallel."

As the competition was open to all University graduates in Canada, the honor of being the successful competitor is the more signal, and he is receiving the congratulations of many friends.

Mr. English is a cousin of Mr. Harry Kerr, Hilliard street and of Mr. John Kerr, grocer, East City.

PEPALL ARRIVED TO FACE TRIAL

Brought Back After Fighting Extradition For More Than a Year.

MET BY FRIENDS.

TORONTO, July 6 (Canadian Press).—Andrew Pepall, who has been resisting deportation and extradition almost continuously since May of last year, arrived in Toronto yesterday morning from Los Angeles, in the custody of Inspector John Miller of the Provincial Police and Detective Sergeant W. J. Nursey of the Toronto police force.

Pepall is held on a number of charges arising out of the provincial bond scandals at the investigation into which, he was frequently referred to as a friend and business associate of Peter Smith, former Provincial Treasurer and agent for the Province in the purchase of succession duty-free bonds. He went to England with Aemelius Jarvis, Sr., in connection with the bond purchases.

Pepall arrived on the Canadian National Railways Winnipeg train, and was met by his mother and his brother, Harry Pepall. He seemed cheerful and appreciative of the cordial greetings of his friends. No application was made for bail pending his appearance in police court this morning.

12TH AT LAKEFIELD.

Ten Visiting Lodges Expected For Celebration.

LAKEFIELD, July 6. — Preparations are on foot for a worth-while celebration of July 12th, which is being celebrated in Lakefield on Monday, July 13th. The committee have made arrangements for a full day's programme, and expect a large crowd. The morning will be taken up with a ball game at the Exhibition Grounds, and at 1.30 p.m. the parade will leave the Town Hall, proceeding east along Albert Street to Regent Street, north on Regent Street to Queen, up Queen to Colborne Street, east on Colborne to Chippawa Avenue, and north to Strickland Street, down Strickland to Queen, south on Queen to Bridge and thence to the Exhibition Grounds, where the remainder of the afternoon will be spent. Speeches will be given and sports will fill in the afternoon. A concert will be held in the evening.

Ten outside lodges have signified their intention of being present, and the local organization expect a good day. They will be glad if the houses and stores along the route of march could be decorated to assist in the gala character of the festivity.

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

FARMER IS OPTIMISTIC ABOUT PROSPECTS FOR SPLENDID CROP IN PERCY TOWNSHIP THIS YEAR

George Poole Says They Were Never Looking Better Than Now.

CONDITIONS GOOD.

Weather is Favorable For Heading of Grain, Which is a Trifle Short.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 6.—George Poole, president of the Percy Township Agricultural Society, and a representative farmer, having won first prize for oats in the standing field crop competition last year, is optimistic with regard to the farmer's outlook for this year.

"Crops in Percy Township never looked better than they do at this season of the year," said Mr. Poole to The Examiner the other day. "Every variety of grain is in excellent shape. The hay crop is excellent, wheat is good and this weather is favorable for heading; barley, like the wheat, is out in head and while it may be a trifle short this is a grain that makes growth after it shoots out. Oats are making a good showing. Corn is a little backward but with hot weather this cereal has plenty of time to catch up."

There were a number of farmers present when Mr. Poole made the above statement and every man in the gathering agreed with him. Pessimism finds no place in the makeup of a Percy agriculturist, and ungrateful indeed would be the man who, working a farm in that township would grumble at his lot. Hills and valleys alike bring forth abundantly, the tax rate is low and the public debt merely a nominal figure.

Any man at all interested in farming cannot fail to be impressed with the outlook in Percy Township at present. Considerable hay has been cut and with scarcely an exception there is scarcely room to drive a wagon between the coils when the hay is put up. Dairy herds are up to their eyes in sweet clover and alfalfa, and the amount of milk going to the cheese factory at Warkworth is above the average for this season. Wheat may be shorter in the straw than it was a year ago but it is well headed and the recent cool weather has been favorable for the filling of the kernels.

A total crop failure is something unknown in Percy but it is seldom that even that favored township has in succession two such harvests as that of 1924 and the one promised for this year.

HOW AN EXPERT FARMS ORCHARD

G. T. Powell Improved His Land 100 Per Cent Without Buying Fertilizers.

No man stood higher in the production of orchard fruits during his long life than George T. Powell of New York, whose choice apples were known in the select trades of New York and London. At one time he had over 10,000 trees in bearing and fruit growers from all over the country visited his farm and copied his methods. His soil was only moderately productive at first, and without purchased fertilizers or manure his land improved in productivity over 100 per cent as adjudged by the best soil experts.

Mr. Powell's method of orchard treatment consisted of plowing and harrowing the orchard each year up to about July 1 to 15, when 18 pounds of crimson and common red clover were sown on each acre for a cover crop for the balance of the season and for winter protection. This was plowed under the following spring. This method rendered the plant food available early in the season when the trees make an early and strong growth. By stopping the cultivation the last of June and sowing clover, the growth of the tree is checked, the wood becomes well matured before winter sets in, fruit spurs are developed and the orchards maintained in a high state of health and production. Mr. Powell's method is basic. In sections where additional help in way of fertilizers is advisable, this can be done, but cover crops and tillage are two useful hands in getting most out of trees.

HAYING DELAYED.

Wet Weather Held Up Work of Farmers in Burnbrae District.

BURNBRAE, July 6.—Rain has delayed haying here and nearly every farmer has some alfalfa or sweet clover lying out in a very bleached condition. The farmers are hoping for better weather soon as there is a good deal of ground to cover and hay would be of first-class quality if weather conditions permitted.

Spring grains look good with early barley headed and filling well in the cool, damp weather. Corn and roots are growing exceptionally well, considering weather conditions.

Cheese is holding over the 19-cent mark, and factories paid their patrons for May milk at from 44 to 45 cents per pound butter-fat.

Mr. Wm. Longmuir, a local cheesemaker, who has been out a job this spring, has secured a large factory in Prince Edward County. His friends wish him every success in his new field.

Cultivate corn just enough to keep the weeds down, is the advice of farming experts. This will lower production costs. It is now well established that weed control and not moisture conservation is the chief object of corn cultivation.

Alfalfa Over Four Feet Tall Grown In Otonabee

Some wonderful specimens of alfalfa have been grown in the Township of Otonabee from native seed. R. A. Wilson has some 52 inches long. This is Grimm alfalfa, the seed for which was grown in Peterborough County and he has a good crop of this large growth.

CLEAN MILK IS PAYING PRODUCT

Barns Must Be Clean and Also All Containers Used.

KEEP MILK COOL.

"Clean Milk," not "cleaned milk," should be the slogan of every farmer who wishes to produce quality milk, according to Thomas M. Olson.

"If our cooks kneaded bread," Olson says, "and left it to raise in places like those in which some milkmen milk their cows and store their milk and cream, we would soon omit bread from our diet. Milk is not only a better food for bacteria to grow in than such solid foods as bread, but it also absorbs and retains odors more readily.

Bad odors and undesirable bacteria, which enter the milk soon after it is drawn from the udder, influence in a very vital way the quality of the milk when it reaches the consumer and also the quality of the butter which is made from the cream of such milk. The quality of the finished product is one of the most important factors determining the price which the product will sell for."

Not Costly.

Costly barns and modern conveniences are not necessary in observing cleanliness, Olson claims. Old barns with wooden stanchions and floors, if kept free from manure and cobwebs and well bedded with an abundance of straw, will do just as well in keeping the cows, and consequently the milk, clean.

Anything that will help to keep dirt out of the milk at milking time will improve the quality of the milk. Small-top milk pails, purchased from a dairy supply house, or ordinary pails about three-fourths covered with tin by a tinsmith are very satisfactory in keeping the milk clean.

The milk containers must also be clean, Olson warns. The crevices of the milk pails, milk cans and separator parts should be carefully cleaned, then washed thoroughly, rinsed with boiling water and exposed to the direct sun rays. These utensils may have to be rinsed with cold water before using, to clean out the dust and dirt which may have blown in after washing.

As some bacteria will get into the milk under the most sanitary conditions, the temperature of the milk should be lowered and kept so low that the bacteria cannot grow. This can be done and should be done immediately after milking by placing the cans of milk in a tank of cold water and stirring the milk continuously until its temperature is as low as the cold water will make it. It should be kept at this temperature until delivered. If ice is available the temperature can be held at a point where bacteria will multiply very slowly, if at all.

Cleanliness has a big place in modern farming and in the self respect of the farmer.

GROWING DUCKS ON A BIG SCALE

They Are Easier to Raise Than Chickens When Water is Handy.

15,000 IN FLOCKS.

It is generally easier to raise ducks than chickens, and especially on a large scale. Ducks are less sensitive to filth in food, they give less trouble and are almost completely free from disease.

If sufficient space is available they lend themselves to raising in very large flocks. Indeed, duck raising is about the only branch of poultry culture in which plants of large capacity have been successfully established. It is not uncommon to find 5000 to 10,000 ducks raised in these plants and frequently 15,000 to 20,000 are raised. In a few of these establishments as many as 40,000 to 60,000 are the yearly outputs. These large plants call for much capital, large experience and great skill and knowledge.

Such plants are located on rather large areas where streams or the ocean coast provide natural comfort. In such locations the breeding ducks are in their element. Ducks intended for market rarely have a chance to swim. They are confined to yards and fed special rations until about 10 weeks old. It is best under conditions of farm culture not to let the ducks have access to any water except drinking water until the little fellows are feathered. The farm flock generally takes care of itself and if a running stream or pond is available they will in a large measure gather their own food. Some provision of housing is advisable so as to secure the eggs during the laying season.

SEEK FARM AND DOMESTIC HELP AS IMMIGRANTS

Encouragement is Given to Agricultural Labor to Enter Canada.

ARE RESTRICTED.

Those Allowed to Enter Are Carefully Selected By Officers.

At the present time, encouragement is being given to agricultural immigration in Canada and then only with strong restrictions and careful selection. This was set forth in an unusually clear statement of Canada's immigration policy given the other day by an Ottawa official to an Ottawa newspaper correspondent.

According to the correspondent, the immigration policy of the Dominion, or at least its carrying out, is pretty much in the hands of W. J. Egan, the deputy minister, the Hon. James A. Robb being required to give much time to the finance department. Mr. Egan is much opposed to an "open door" policy and believes that everyone coming to the Dominion should be assured of a position, when he arrives, and able to fill it. The keynote of the present policy is "careful selection."

The following statement given by the department sets forth the present aims of minister and deputy thereof:

"The immigration policy of the Canadian government aims to promote prosperity in Canada by the development of Canada's natural resources. The chief of these and the one from which results are most immediately obtainable by individual effort, are the fertile lands of Canada. The government, therefore, aims to obtain settlers and workers who will develop these lands, confident that the prosperity which will come to Canada as a result of increased agricultural activity will be gradually distributed through all classes in the country.

"The policy of the government aims to improve the position of the Canadian railways by bringing about increased agricultural production, and increased traffic for the lines.

"To meet the continuous demand from both rural and urban parts of Canada for additional household labor, the department also seeks to obtain suitable female household workers. A branch of its activities is also the settling in Canada, under favorable conditions of juvenile immigrants from Great Britain.

Helping Migration of Families.

"The present government has gone further than any previous Canadian government in opening up the way for the British settler to locate in Canada. Under the Selected British Family scheme it is proposed to settle 3,000 British families in Canada during a period of three years. These families are carefully selected by officers of the Canadian department of colonization and immigration in Great Britain and Ireland. The British government assist them to the extent of not more than $1,000 in the case of any one family, and the Canadian government, through the land settlement branch, places the families upon suitable farms, which, after a term of probation, they are enabled to purchase on terms of payment extended over 25 years.

"In addition to encouraging farmers, farm laborers, and domestic servants, immigration officers at Canadian ports of arrival have authority to admit:

"'The wife and family of any person legally admitted to and resident in Canada, who is in a position to receive and care for his dependents.'

"'Any British subject entering Canada directly or indirectly from Great Britain or Ireland, the United States of America, or any self-governing British dominion, or Newfoundland, who shall satisfy the immigration officer in charge at the port of entry that he has sufficient means to maintain himself until employment is secured.'

"The efforts of the department to secure farmers and farm laborers are carried on aggressively in the British Isles, northern Ireland, the Irish Free State and the United States of America, and are extended into the countries of Northern Europe in so far as such activities are acceptable to the various governments concerned.

Some Attempt Deception.

"As a result of the appeal being restricted to agriculturalists, however, the department has discovered that, in some countries a very considerable number of persons offer themselves as immigrants, claiming to be agriculturalists and to be in search of agricultural opportunity, but who, the department is aware, are seeking to enter Canada under that subterfuge without any intention of following farm life after their arrival in this country. These classes the department refuses to admit, and there is no doubt that it is desirable to protect the country against the arrival in Canada of types who might have to be deported at considerable expense."

CROPS LOOK GOOD.

Clover Cutting Started in Douro and Crop is Very Good—Showers Fine.

DOURO, July 6.—Crops are looking fine—probably never looked better. Clover-cutting has commenced, and is a fair crop. Gardens look splendid. The frequent showers of the past few days, though unfavorable for the big celebration, were fine for the crops.

In raising the dairy calf, leave the calf with the cow for one or two days and then take it away and feed from 8 to 10 pounds of warm milk per day for about two weeks. Then start substituting a little skim milk, increasing gradually until at six weeks of age, the calf will be on skim milk entirely. From 12 to 16 pounds make a good daily feed. Be sure to keep the pails clean and feed regularly.

CANVAS CAPS FOR GOOD HAY

Vagaries of Weather Can Be Combatted and Hay Kept Dry.

EASILY MADE.

If the weather could be controlled, hay-making would be rid of many of its cares and anxieties. Especially for the early cuttings and those late in Fall is curing often beset with difficulty—and sometimes with despair. You think the rain is over and you cut down a lot of hay only to find more clouds, little sun—and rain again! And the hay in the swath, or windrow or in the shock! Will you ever get it cured, ever get it in the barn?

The canvas caps are a great help. For clover, alfalfa and similar crops they are a great help. They are simply made. Square-shape and cut to a size you think would best serve your needs, is all there is to making them unless at each corner a cord is sewn tieing a wooded peg to strike into the hay to keep the caps in place, or any sort of weight may be used for this purpose. Placed over the loose shocks of hay they do turn water effectively. If properly dried out after the season's use and properly stored they will last a lifetime.

USE HARROW AS A CUTTING TOOL

One Fitted With Curved, Knife-Like Blades, Serves Purpose.

A WEED KILLER.

One of the most simple of all tools used on the farm is the harrow, yet out of the considerable variety of harrows each is adapted to some particular purpose or soil. Generally speaking, there is a place on every farm for the peg-tooth harrow, spring tooth, disk and wood drag. These tools in preparing the soil after the plow cut, turn, pulverize, stir and thoroughly mix the organic materials through the soil body, fining and compacting largely to the full plow depth.

But there are many other soil-fitting tools, one of these being a cutting and slicing tool. It consists of a number of knife-like blades, each of which is curved, and this tool very effectively helps to fit the land at times when heavy rains have left the surface pounded hard and compacted. It is liked for garden areas, orchards and for getting ready for small grains. It does not "dig in" the soil like the disk harrow, nor does it so evenly level the surface as the spike or peg-tooth harrow. It is a splendid weed killer and mulch-former, and is particularly popular for use in summer.

GUARD AGAINST ROOT MAGGOTS

Tar Paper Discs Around the Stems on Surface Are Good.

USE OAKUM.

Relative to root maggots, which are often very troublesome, especially to cabbage plants, the Dominion Horticulturist, Mr. W. T. Macoun, states that a good means of protection after planting in the field is a small tarfelt paper disk or card about three inches in diameter with a slit for the stems. These disks must be put on carefully and they must fit close to the stem, which a few short diverging slits from the centre of the disks will permit. The soil must be levelled about the plant so that the disks will lie close to the ground. Another and better preventative, says Mr. Macoun, is corrosive sublimate in the proportion of one ounce to ten gallons of water, with which the plants should be watered as soon as set out, and at intervals of a week three or four times. Corrosive sublimate is very poisonous and should be taken great care of. Another good preventive is a little oakum, a towlike material, pressed close around the stem of each plant at the ground when set out. This has a strong odor.

Corrosive sublimate is the best and cheapest weapon for checking the cabbage maggot. The chemical should be used at the rate of one ounce to ten gallons of water. Before it is diluted to this strength it should be dissolved in a small quantity of water.

BREEDERS HELD ANNUAL PICNIC

Menie Ayrshire Club Met on William Stewart's Farm For Demonstration.

GOOD ATTENDANCE.

BURNBRAE, July 6.—The annual picnic and judging demonstration of the Menie Ayrshire Breeders' Club was held at the farm of Mr. Wm. Stewart, Menie. A number of breeders and their families enjoyed dinner, picnic fashion on the lawn while most of the crowd of interested spectators arrived early in the afternoon. A heavy shower caused a delay in proceedings after dinner, but about 2 p.m., the clouds broke and the crowd assembled at the barns where eight of Mr. Stewart's cattle were ready for inspection as well as six choice specimens from the herd of Alex. Hume and Co.

The principal speakers of the afternoon were Mr. Hunter and Mr. Shephens. Mr. Hunter is in charge of the new venture in the dairy cattle business, viz., "The Advanced Registration of Bulls." He gave good sueful information regarding this important and highly essential work. Mr. Stephens, the well-known secretary of the Ayrshire men, gave a very interesting and instructive address on the things that Ayrshire breeders should strive to attain in their cattle. He stated that there was a splendid market for Ayrshire cattle, giving as they did a moderately large flow of milk with a high percentage of butter-fat. Ayrshires had been selling well at all the large sales this spring, making higher averages than the other breeds. In conclusion the speaker said that he had always preached the gospel of the advancement of the whole dairy industry as against that of one breed and he advised the Ayrshire breeders to further the sale of bulls of other dairy breeds when they would be in a position to help improve grade or scrub herds by doing so.

Everyone present enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. Stewart and his family as well as the officers of the Club, who distributed ice-cream cones free to the crowd after the other business was completed.

A league baseball game was to have been played between West Seymour and Rylstone as part of the afternoon's entertainment, but, owing to recent rainfall and rough grounds, the league game was postponed and a 4-inning exhibition fixture took place with West Seymour on the long end of a 12 to 5 score.

An Old-timer.

Mr. Wm. Stewart, on whose farm the picnic was held, is the oldest Ayrshire breeder in the district, having been in the game for over half a century. Although now seventy-six years of age, Mr. Stewart is still quite active and takes great interest in his favorite Scotch cattle. For a great number of years, his herd was a consistent winner at all the large shows, but in late years his health has not permitted the strenuous work of the show ring, although he still sends a few to the Royal and shows at the local fair.

Mr. Stewart's services are always in demand as a judge at the leading shows in the Dominion, as are also those of Mr. Alex Hume, another of the pioneers in the dairy industry and whose herd has brought a great deal of credit and publicity to the Menie and Burnbrae districts.

It is interesting to note that when the Menie Ayrshire Breeders' Club was formed, the assembled breeders were at a loss as to what name they should use. The membership covered a large area from Peterborough, Campbellford, and as far east as Tweed. One member suggested that they hitch their wagon to a star, namely, the record of Messrs. Stewart and Hume, and call their society the Menie Ayrshire Breeders' Club. It is one of the oldest breeder's clubs in the Dominion and has done some very excellent work. jJohn Locke West Seymour, is president now, and F. M. Rutherford of Bonar Law, secretary.

STARTED HAYING.

Rain Has Held Up Work in Hayfields, But Has Helped Everything Else.

INDIAN RIVER, July 6.—The recent rain has wonderfully helped the crops and gardens, and the farmers are looking for a bumper crop.

Farmers have commenced haying, but weather is not favorable.

Are you bothered with cabbage worms in your garden? If there are white butterflies hovering about the cabbage patch, you can be assured that there will soon be a crop of these detestable little worms on your plants. The pest can be controlled by spraying with a solution of two pounds of lead arsenate to 50 gallons of water, or in small quantities, two tablespoonfuls of lead arsenate to a gallon of water. This material can be used with absolute safety.

PASTURE LAND CHEMICALLY FIT

For Permanent Use It Should Be Well Prepared With Plant Food.

GOOD SEEDS.

For permanent pasture, the land should be in first class condition, chemically, as well as physically. Following is an excellent preparatory method. Unless manure and fertilizers have been applied already, the distribution of say 12 loads of stable manure, 50 pounds of nitrate of soda, 250 pounds of superphosphate and 80 pounds of muriate of potash per acre would be advisable. It is useless to attempt to establish a good permanent pasture without plant food. The stable manure should be plowed in with a comparatively shallow furrow, and the fertilizers distributed broadcast before the land is harrowed and rolled.

Provided the soil is fairly moist, immediate seeding can be recommended. Drilling in the seed gives a decidedly better catch than broadcasting, and seeding without a nurse crop will probably give better results than seeding with a nurse crop at this time of year.

The following quantities of seed are recommended:

	Lbs.
Early Red Clover	3
Late Red Clover	3
Alsike Clover	1½
White Clover	2
Alfalfa	3
Birdsfoot Trefoil	1½
Black Meddick	2
Timothy	2
Tall Oat Grass	2
Meadow Fescue	2
Orchard Grass	2
Perennial Rye	2
Western Rye	3
Kentucky Blue Grass	3
Total, per acre	32

In case the stand is not satisfactory by next spring, redrilling of from one-third to one-half of the above quantities is advised. In case the land does not contain sufficient lime, liming or marling during the winter is advisable at the rate of 1½ 2 tons per acre. A top dressing with phosphoric acid and potash may be recommended in subsequent years.

From the above, it is evident that the establishment of a permanent pasture is by no means a cheap procedure, but it is worth while to take every precaution, in order to secure this most valuable asset to any farm.

BADLY MUDDLED.

A Missouri editor who was brim full of hard cider got a wedding and an auction sale mixed, and served his readers the following report:

W. M. Jones, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Jones, was disposed of at auction to Miss Lucy Anderson on my farm, one mile east of here, in the presence of twenty guests, including the following: Two good mules, twelve good cows. The Rev. Jackson tied the nuptial knot, the animal weighing 1250 pounds on the hoof. The beautiful home of the bride was tastefully decorated with a Jersey calf, a spade, a sulky plow, one seed grinder, one set of double harness, and just before the wedding ceremony was performed Mendelssohn's wedding march was extremely well played by one milch cow five years old, and one Guernsey cow to freshen next April. A heifer calf, carrying a bunch of flowers in her hand, looked charming in a dress of light spring wagons, two boxes of apples mousseline trimmed with about two ricks of hay, one grindstone, 180 bushels of potatoes. The groom is well known among society circles of best purebred Berkshire hogs, while the bride is an accomplished and talented best Poland China, pedigreed, entered school teacher, a drove of which will be produced if desired, and among the beautiful and costly presents were two sets of knives and forks, a spring harrow, go-cart and numerous other articles. The bridal party left yesterday on an extended trip; terms 12 months to responsible parties, otherwise spot cash. —Auctioneer.

SCHOOL REPORT

OMEMEE.

The following candidates were successful at the Entrance examinations, held at Omemee, June 24, 25 and 26: Ada, Atwell, Maggie Bell, Russell Boyd, Lottie G. Bray, Christina Connell (honours), Amy Crafton, Elsie Day, George A. Dickson (honours), Florence Hickson, Ruth Jones (honours), Marguerite Magahay, Gordon McNevin (honours), Wendell McNevin, Francis O'Leary, Morgan Rowland, Kenneth Scully, Rita A. Scully, Alma G. Sluggett, Roy Tully, Mildred Imogene Williamson.

The successful candidates may apply to the principal of the Omemee High School on the opening day of school in September for their certificates.

These Elastic Carrots.

We sowed TEN miles of carrots,
About six weeks ago;
The ranch is covered with them
In many a straight, long row.
Alas! that we sowed carrots,
Six weary weeks ago!

For now we're thinning carrots,
Oh! TWENTY miles or more;
Our tired backs are aching,
Our hands and knees are sore;
And still we must thin carrots
For many hours more.

And when we're hoeing carrots,
Quite THIRTY miles 'twill be;
'Tis exercise most healthful,
As doctors all agree;
Yet miles of healthful hoeing
May sometimes pall "a wee!"

But when we pull the carrots,
They will have shrunk again,
From THIRTY down to TWENTY,
From TWENTY down to TEN!
In fact, we may be lucky
If there are FIVE miles then!

FEEDING HORSE DURING SUMMER

Most Trying Season of the Year is Now at Hand.

PROPER FOOD.

For the farm work horse, the season now on and ahead is the most trying one of the year. Hard work, heat, long hours and often no great variety of feed—these tell the story. But the late spring and summer feeding of the horse is no difficult problem. Oats, corn and bran constitute three basic feeds for the farm horse. Oats give mettle and pep and vitamins; corn gives energy, power to do work, helps to sustain substance and weight; and bran gives grain bulk as well as protein and mineral salts. Were a pound of linseed meal added to the combination the mixture would surely be called ideal as the grain portion of the work horse's ration.

How much of grain to feed? A good rule when a horse works, is one and one-fourth pounds of grain for each 100 pounds of live weight of the horse. Thus, a horse weighing 1,200 pounds would be given 15 pounds of grain daily. A rule governing amount of hay is one pound for each 100 pounds of live weight. The 1200-pound horse would need 12 pounds of hay a day, the greater part of the hay being fed at night. The noon meal may consist of a little hay but a liberal portion of the grain mixture should be given at this time. On rainy days when the horses are not working and on Sundays the grain ration should be cut in half in order to avoid attacks of indigestion, Monday morning sickness and colic. The hay allotment may remain unchanged.

Good mature pasture is as greatly appreciated by the horse as any other farm animal. Linseed meal and pasture grass are both splendid conditioners and one or the other should be considered in feeding horses for the best maintenance of health, weight and energy.

DRAW IN WET HAY.

Rain Was Good For Everything Except For Hay Crop at Warsaw.

WARSAW, July 6.—Last week's rains were needed for everything but the early hay. Everything is growing well.

Those who are harvesting sweet clover and alfalfa here are having difficulty getting it harvestde in good condition on account of the damp weather. A great deal of it is down. Some has been drawn in rather on the damp side It is almost a choice between two evils.

Several patches of ear,y potatoes are in bloom. Eggs are bringing a flat price of 27c. in the stores, and dairy butter 28c. We are told that no matter how good dairy butter is, there is little call for it; it can hardly be sold in Peterborough. So many butter buyers prefer creamery butter. The majority of farmers seem to prefer good dairy butter.

The cheese factories are getting lots of milk. Warminster is making seven and eight cheese per day, and is making whey butter.

Warsaw cheese factory is making up to twenty cheese per day. A week ago, after having separated the Saturday night's milk, they made seventy-five cheese on Monday and held over on ice ten full cans of milk. They separate the whey and ship the whey cream; also they take for shipping, cream from patrons who separate.

The milk regularly collected Saturday night and what was collected last Sunday morning is separated, and those patrons wanting whey get skimmed milk Monday morning.

Strawberries are still good. Those who grow them were, on Saturday, selling good full, measured quarts at fifteen cents. Wild strawberries are quite worth-while taking the trouble to pick.

SWAT THE FLY.

Poultry breeders are advised to swat the fly, even more than any others. Flies, it has been found, are the cause of tapeworm in poultry. Keeping the poultry house clean every day is a way to avoid this disease.

CUCUMBER BEETLE.

A mixture of powdered lead arsenate and hydrated lime in the proportion of one to ten by weight is an effective dust for controlling the common striped cucumber beetle. The dust can be placed in a gunny-sack and shaken over the plants three or four times daily until vining begins.

LIME IS ONE OF MINERALS THAT ANIMALS NEED

Bones Depend on it For Their Rigidity—Teeth Are Calcium Compounds.

IN ALL PARTS.

Amount Needed Varies, According to Age and Time.

The question of the mineral requirements in animal feeding is, at the present time, receiving much attention in the agricultural press. The constant need of the animal body for mineral matter is now being emphasized, as in the past the necessity for a sufficiency of calories in the diet, a satisfactory nutritive ratio and an adequate supply of vitamines has, each in turn, been the subject of special attention and investigation.

One of the most important of the mineral constituents which enters into the tissue of the animal body is lime (calcium). It occurs in small traces in muscle and in the blood stream; teeth are largely composed of calcium compounds but the largest deposits of calcium in the body are found in the skeleton (the bones) which depends on its rigidity upon lime phosphate. This and other mineral constituents are intimately associated with the organic matter of bones (chiefly, collagen and fat) and the relative proportions of these two kinds of matter vary considerably according to the age of the animal, type of bone, the part of the bone under consideration, etc., etc. It would, however, be a fair estimate to place the average phosphate of lime content of bone at 50 per cent.

The lime requirement of an anima. may be subject to considerable variation according to age, function, etc. A small amount is constantly required to replace that lost by elimination in the solid excreta after the calcium has served its purpose in the body. There are, however, special demands for larger quantities of calcium. While the skeleton is being built up, during both the pre-natal period and from birth to maturity it is most important that the diet should not be deficient in calcium, otherwise both mother and young must suffer. It has been calculated that a pregnant cow should have at least 0.33 per cent of calcium in her ration in order to supply her own needs and to build a strong skeletal structure in the developing calf. This would mean that if she is receiving 25 pounds of dry matter daily that this amount should contain about 0.1 pounds calcium.

Swine are apt to suffer from lack of calcium in their feed more, perhaps, than any other kind of farm animals. There are three reasons for this: (1) Producing two litters of pigs per year, makes great demands upon the mineral supply of the mother body. (2) Growth is rapid in pigs. (3) In the effort to keep down the fibre content of their ration ;Sertieularly for the young pigs, they are fed largely upon cereals and their by-products, e.g., middlings and this class of feed is generally low in calcium content.

Eggs and milk, which may be considered as perfect foods for the young, are naturally rich in phosphate of lime. It is evident therefore that their increased supply of these mineral constituents in their food.

The source of lime supply must be the feed and drink. The "hardness" of waters is, in the main, due to lime, present largely as calcium carbonate and this source of lime no doubt furnishes for many animals no inconsiderable supply of their mineral matter. Feeds differ greatly in their calcium content. Bran, for example, while one of the staple feeds is not high in calcium and this may be said to be true of most cereal products. Dependence must therefore be largely placed on the forages to increase the mineral content of the ration. Among the forages eth legumes are particularly rich in lime, alfalfa in this connection heading the list. The feeding of alfalfa or other leguminous hay fodders to dairy stock will practically obviate all necessity of supplementing the ration with special mineral-containing feeds.

Attention may be drawn to a class of feeds so rich in these desirable mineral constituents as to merit the name of mineral matter concentrates, viz., meat and bone meal, bone meal, tankage and certain other packing house by-products. In bone meal the phosphate of lime (bone phosphate) approximate 55 per cent; in meat and bone meal and meat and bone scrap the phosphate of lime exceeds 20 per cent, while in the classes of feeds designated tankage, meat meal and meat scrap possess between 10 and 20 per cent of phosphate of lime.

The calcium content of a number of feeds may be given as follows: the figures indicate the wide differences that exist between many commonly used feeds in this respect.

Calcium Content of Feeds.
(Calculated on dry matter basis.)

	p.c.
Corn	0.02
Barley	0.02
Oats	0.08
Bran	0.13
Cottonseed meal	0.24
Oil cake	0.35
Turnips	0.61
Alfalfa	2.15
Red clover	1.75
Timothy	0.39

In summer while foraging for feed in the fields and especially if the pastures contain clovers, the probability is that the animals will provide themselves with a sufficiency of calcium. In winter, however, the feed tends to contain a large proportion of the milling by-products of wheat, oats, corn, etc., and these with their low calcium content may require supplementing with calcium-rich feeds, unless good clover or alfalfa hay can be liberally fed.—Frank T. Shutt, Dominion Chemist.

PETES TAKE THE LEAD BY WIN OVER KINGSTON PONIES WHILE RAILROADERS BEAT OSHAWA

With Whitehouse on Mound Home Talent Hang Up Their Fourth Win in a Row.

CIRCUS CATCHES.

Several Spectacular Fielding Stunts Feature Saturday's Engagement.

(By F. D. C.)

By beating the Kingston Ponies by 7 to 3 at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon while Belleville were handing the Motorists an unexpected jolt at Oshawa Manager Shiner Johnston's Petes go into the third quarter of the Central Ontario League sweepstakes in the van a game ahead of both Oshawa and Kingston.

For the first time this season the home talent have a clear lead over the field, and playing the calibre of ball they have shown in the last two weeks they should be somewhere around when the play off series takes place.

Despite the fact that Frankie Whitehouse had not as much stuff on the ball as usual and consequently was not nearly so much of a mystery to the Ponies as on their previous visits, it was a much softer victory for the Petes than was the game the week before.

Whitehouse allowed eleven hits but he kept them well scattered, did not issue a complimentary and his team-mates gave him gilt-edged support when errors would have been costly, their two minor misplays having no effect on the score. The young left-hander has beaten the Ponies three times this season and with any luck in his first start at Kingston might have made it four straight.

Opposed to Whitehouse was the veteran Ted Gallagher, whose southpaw offerings did not prove particularly puzzling to the homesters and who was the victim of some costly misplays by his comrades, particularly in the third inning when Ray Rose's long double with the bases full gave the Petes three runs after the side should have been retired.

In addition Gallagher slipped in several wild pitches that were helpful to the home talent.

Fielding Features.

The game was unusually prolific in outstanding fielding plays with the two shortstops, Halbert and Johnston supplying the circus features. Halbert started the fireworks stuff by leaping into the air and grabbing Swanston's screaming drive with his gloved hand and later in the game Johnston made a similar sensational play, robbing Teeple of a hit by dragging down his liner with one hand after jumping for the ball. Cherry, the Ponies' big centre fielder came in fast and cut Whitehouse out of a hit by a diving catch rolling over but coming up with the ball, while Wolfe went back and made a fine running grab of a long hard drive to left centre.

These plays and Cherry's feat in smashing out four hits in four times up were the high lights of the matinee.

Teepel led off with a single to short and was sacrificed to second by Halbert. Helson, however, tossed out Batstone and Somerville's fly to Wolfe ended the inning.

Legon drew a walk in the Petes' half and went to second on a passed ball. Johnston flied to Teepel. Legon was out stealing third, sliding off the bag. Helson walked and was wild-pitched to second. Harrison singled through Somerville but Helson was cut down at the plate, Somerville to Purvis to Arniel, trying to score on the rap.

Cherry started the Ponies' second with a ringing double down to left but tried to stretch it into a triple and a fast relay, Hall to Johnston to Helson, beat him to the bag. Nickle struck out. Purvis hit one back at Whitehouse which the pitcher partially stopped and Rose completed the play with a quick toss to Harrison.

Petes Score First.

The Petes broke into the run column in their half. Swanston dropped a Texas League into right and moved over to second on Rose's sacrifice. Hall singled off Purvis' shins and stole second. Wolfe lifted a short fly to Teepel on which Swanston did not attempt to score. Teepel, however, threw to the plate and the ball got away from Arneil, Swanston scoring. Whitehouse popped to Batstone.

The Ponies got that one back in the third. Arniel singled to left and was sacrificed to second by Gallagher. Teepel lined one over Helson's head to score Arniel. He went to second when Whitehouse missed a toss from Rose. Halbert struck out and Batstone rolled to Rose.

The Petes practically won the game in their end of the canto. Legon was thrown out by Batstone but Johnston single to short. Somerville made a fine catch of Helson's liner which started like a sure hit. Harrison struck out but by a lucky break the third one was a wild pitch which hit the ground in front of the plate and shot away from Arniel. Break No. 2 followed when Purvis missed Swanston's easy roller, filling the bases. They were emptied again, as quickly as an American tourist empties his first glass of 4.4, for Ray Rose chose this auspicious moment to rocket a long double over Nickle's head to the fence in left centre, Johnston, Harrison and Swanston cashing in. Hall was called out on strikes.

Nip Cherry Again.

Somerville fouled to Helson to start the fourth. Cherry doubled to left centre. Nickle beat out a roller to Johnston. Cherry tried to score on the play but Harrison's accurate throw nailed him at the plate, Swanston blocking the big Kingston outfield off in great style. Whitehouse then caught Quinn off first base.

The Petes added two more counters in their half. Wolfe singled to right centre but was forced by Whitehouse's bunt to Gallagher. Legon hoisted to Batstone but Johnston singled over second, the runners moved up a peg on a wild pitch and Helson shot a single to right to score the pair. Harrison's high fly was taken by Somerville.

In the fifth Purvis rolled to Johnston, Arniel was tossed out by Rose, a fast play on a slow roller, and Gallagher struck out.

Halbert robbed Swanston of a hit by a jumping gloved hand catch of his hot liner. Rose flied to Nickle and Hall raised to Teepel in right.

Ponies Get One.

The Ponies got another in the sixth. Wolfe made a fine running catch of Teepel's fly to deep left centre, Halbert singled through short, Batstone lined to Wolfe but Somerville singled to right, sending Halbert to third. Cherry dropped a single into left, scoring Halbert, but Johnstons' accurate throw to Helson nipped Somerville trying to go to third on the play.

Wolfe flied to Nickle. Cherry made a nose dive catch of Whitehouse's drive to short centre and Legon raised to Halbert.

In the seventh, after Helson had given him a life by dropping his foul fly, Nickle struck out. Rose went far out to snare Purvis' high fly and Arniel fanned.

Johnston flied to Cherry, Helson was called out on strikes and Harrison gave Teepel a put out.

Gallagher first up in Kingston's eighth fanned, Johnston duplicated Halbert's circus grab by spearing Teepel's screaching liner with one-hand and Halbert struck out.

The Last Counters.

The Petes hung another run. Swanston doubled over Teepel's head. Rose singled over second and when the ball got away from Cherry Swanston scored and Rose went to second. Hall fouled to Arniel. Wolfe rapped one to Gallagher and Rose was trapped off second. Whitehouse struck out, for the first time this season.

The Ponies put over a counter in the ninth. Batstone started the inning by singling to left. Somerville flied to Wolfe. Cherry got his fourth hit, a double over third, sending Batstone to the difficult corner. Cairns batted for Nickle and a wild pitch scored Batstone after which Cairns fanned and Purvis rolled to Whitehouse for the final out.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

Golfers who hit a long ball get into the stroke a sort of leg spring at the ball. This takes place at the instant of impact and is done unconsciously. The golfer who tries to put this leg kick in will probably jump at the ball, which is wrong. Proper flexing of the knees during the address results in springy legs at the moment of impact. Thus the player should give this knee-flexing an eye now and then to see to it that he is not standing up too straight in the legs. Stiffness in the knees means rigidity while flexing the knees means, obviously, flexibility.

NEW SOFTBALL RULES ADOPTED

Campbellford League Adhere to Schedule and Arrange For Finals.

INTEREST KEEN.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 6. — There is no waning in interest in the softball games in Campbellford. The last meeting of the executive, which was held at the residence of Secretary Daniel, showed the best attendance at any similar gathering since the opening of the season, every club of the eight in the League being represented except the Oddfellows. Strangely enough, the meeting had been called at the request of the latter, the members of which wished to secure a revision of the schedule, but it was decided to adhere to this as originally drawn up.

J. H. Bell as usual occupied the chair, and a large budget of business was disposed of. George T. Salter and Roy Thompson were transferred from the Oddfellows to the Water and Light Commission team, and Lew Reynolds from the Oddfellows to the Hydro.

It was decided to send a team to Hastings next Wednesday night to play an exhibition game at the I.O. D.E. garden party. To make this team really representative of Campbellford, a man will be chosen from every club in the League. Charles Ansell and Hilton Beatty of the Hydros will look after the arrangements.

After every game the managers of the contending teams must sign the score card, and the winning manager is required to leave this card at the residence of Secretary Daniel on the same day the game is played.

On motion of Secretary Daniel and Walter Blakely, it was agreed to play out the schedule as at first arranged, all games to be finished by August 31st. To decide the championship, the teams finishing second and third will play for second place, best two in three, the winners of this series to play the League leaders for the trophy, best two in three. This will bring the season to a close the first or second week in September. There are to be one home and two base umpires at these final games.

On motion of Messrs. Ansell and Blakely, it was resolved that all men transferred from one team to another or signed by authority of the executive, shall be eligible to play forthwith.

Secretary Daniel, who returned recently from a trip through Western Ontario, reported that the clubs in the League in that part of the province have adopted new playing rules that are working out satisfactorily. The third strike is always out, whether caught or not, under all conditions, and a foul tip when caught is out, regardless of whether it would be a strike under the old rules. It is claimed that these chances make the game livelier.

It was decided to adopt these rules in the Campbellford League for the balance of the season. Secretary Daniel reported that an effort would be made before next year to unify the playing rules for all Ontario, this to include the size of the ball used. Some teams are now using a 10; others a 12, and still others a 14-inch ball.

Games This Week.

The following is the schedule for this week:

Monday—Outlaws vs. Water and Light Commission. Umpires from Oddfellows and Masons.

Postponed game—Hydros vs. Oddfellows.

Tuesday—Mill A vs. Hydros; Mill B vs. Clerks.

Thursday—Mill B vs. Clerks.

This week's scheduled game between the Oddfellows and Masons has been postponed, as the members of these societies have other activities to engage their attention.

REDS IN SLUMP.

Beaten By Cards After Dropping Pair to Pittsburgh Saturday.

CHICAGO, July 5 (Canadian Press).—Pittsburgh bunched hits off Bush in two innings today and defeated Chicago, 3 to 2, in a game which was marked by Kremer's great pitching and all-round playing of Traynor, who, in addition to fielding spectacularly, made four hits, two of which were doubles. Kremer did not allow a hit until the eighth inning and a double following a single scored a run. Heathcote's homer scored the other tally. Score:

Two for Boston.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., July 5 (Canadian Press). — Boston won a double-header from Brooklyn today, 4 to 1, and 4 to 2. Welch of the Braves hit for the circuit in the first contest while Felix, his team mate, duplicated in the following number. Grimes was put out of the game in the eighth inning of the second fray for protesting a decision by Umpire McLaughlin and pushing the official about. Players and the other two umpires had to separate them. Score:

First Game:

St. Louis, 3; Cincinnati, 1.

CINCINNATI, July 5 (Canadian Press).—The Reds were beaten by St. Louis, 3 to 1, chiefly because of Luque's extreme wildness. The Cuban gave eight bases on balls, which is exception for him. Ralph Shinners helped the Cardinals to victory by hitting over the left field wall in the fifth inning.

The crowd was unusually small for Sunday, but threatening weather was responsible. Score:

ST. LOUIS, July 5 (Canadian Press).—Thirteen innings were played to-day when the Browns got an even break with the Tigers by winning the final game of the series, 6 to 5. A single by Rice brought home Vangilder with the winning run. After the score was tied in the eighth, both teams tightened their defence and drew on heavy hitting reserves. Manush and Tobin, pinch-hitting for their respective teams, failed to get a safety. About 9,000 attended. Score:

LACROSSE NOTES.

Havelock - Norwood Game Here Postponed.

The lacrosse team will practice at the Oval this evening at six o'clock. All the players are requested to turn out.

The Petes were forced to postpone the lacrosse game scheduled for Saturday last with the Havelock-Norwood combines. They were given the date originally when the Ringling circus was slated to visit Peterboro, but when for some reason the big show passed up this town, the first call for the use of Riverside Park reverted to the ball team. Johnny Sutherland has been in communication with the Havelock team and the O.A.L.A. secretary, but up to last night no date had been decided on for the game.

The lacrosse team expects the generous support of the fans in its two League games. Both the Havelock and Campbellford teams are strong and the Petes are in better shape this summer than usual, with Pete King, Bailey, Ranger, McKinnon, and a string of youngsters in the field.

The Campbellford-Hastings amalgams are promising, or threatening, whichever it may be, to trounce Havelock-Norwood right on the railway team's grounds. There's a lot of material down along the Trent if it can be drilled into system and condition. At that, however, they have a big job on their hands to win in Havelock.

OSHAWA'S RALLY IN NINTH HALTS ONE RUN SHORT

Scored Two Runs in the Last Inning Against Belleville.

LOST BY 3 TO 2.

Peeney Mills in Dumb Play —Trunks Scored Three in Fourth.

OSHAWA, July 6.—The Gerow-Mills Central Ontario Baseball League outfit from Belleville lived up to advanced press notices that they were out to take a fall from Oshawa in the league standing, winning here Saturday 3-2.

They scored three runs in the fourth innings and held Oshawa safe up to the ninth.

"Ted" Saunders the ex-Kingston Pony player started something then that looked for a while like a winning rally by skying one out to Casey which the right fielder got his grappling hooks around but could not hold. "Ted" then stole second and after waiting to get his second wind while Roddick got a walk Ted purloined the third station. As Roddick got trapped between second and first Saunders broke for home. When Harry Mills pegged to the plate the big train Peeney Mills was caught loaded with his glove in one hand and cage in the other and Saunders crossed over the pan, Roddick following him a moment later when Cameron, who was sent in to bat for W. Fair, laid one down to Meagher and was out at first. Dainty ended the rally by flying out to Casey in right field and the Belleville 3-2 win pulled Oshawa off the first rung of the championship ladder while Peterboro were beating the Limestone City crew. The lineups were:

Belleville—Weir, 3b; Ross, cf; W. Mills, c; H. Mills, 1b; Hagerman, lf; Meagher, 2b; Blakeley, ss; Casey, rf; Jeffrey, p.

SYRACUSE TAKE DOUBLE HEADER FROM TORONTO

Second Game Went 10 Innings and Winning Run Was Forced In.

IN THIRD PLACE.

Jersey City and Providence Play Scoreless Nine Innings.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., July 5.—Syracuse won both games of a double-header from Toronto here today. The Stars took the first game 5 to 2, and won the second, originally scheduled for seven innings, in the 10th, by a score of 7 to 6. Toronto tied the score of the second game in the seventh inning with four hits for three runs. In the 10th, Roettger was on third running for McKee who had doubled. Smith passed Boyd and purposely gave another base on balls to Gislason to get at Hafey. He could not put any of four pitches over the plate and Hafey was walked, forcing in Roettger with the winning run. The score:

First Game:

Toronto	000000200—	2	8 3
Syracuse	40100000x—	5	7 0

Stewart and Styles, Williams; Grabowski and Niebergall.

Second Game:

Toronto	3000003000—6	15	5
Syracuse	1040100001—7	13	3

Smith, Gibson, Satterfield and Styles; Boyd, Day and McKee.

Second Game Runless

PROVIDENCE, R.I., July 5 (Canadian Press).—Jersey City won the first game today by a score of 7 to 3 by hitting Braeme hard in the 8th and 9th innings. Cantrell held the locals in check until the ninth, when three singles in a row caused his retirement and Faulkner finished the game in good form. The second game was the best seen here since the advent of the Providence team, going nine full innings to a 0-0 score, and was filled to the brim with the finest sort of baseball. Swaney and Zellars engaged in a pitching duel with honors even and were assisted by many sparkling fielding plays. Scores:

First Game:

Jersey City	001000033—	7	8 2
Providence	000000201—	3	11 2

Cantrell, Faulkner and Vincent; Braeme and Lynn, Fox.

Second Game:

Jersey City	00000000—	0	7 0
Providence	000000000—	0	7 1

Game called six p.m. on account of law.

Zellars and Vincent; Swaney and Lynn.

Reading, 7; Baltimore, 3.

READING, July 5.—(Canadian Press).—Walter Smallwood today pitched Reading to its third victory over Baltimore in two days, the score being 7 to 3. Smallwood was especially effective in the pinches. The Keys hit three Baltimore pitchers timely. The score:

Baltimore	001002000—	3	9 0
Reading	13020001x—	7	11 0

Henderson, Winkenworden, Harwood and Kopshaw; Smallwood and Meuter.

Police Stop Second.

BUFFALO, July 5 (Canadian Press).—Rochester, with a stubborn uphill fight, won the first game of the double bill with Buffalo by 13 to 12. It was a slugging match in which the Tribe used four pitchers, and Buffalo three. The Bisons enjoyed a big lead in the early innings, but Rochester evened accounts by the end of the eighth, winning with a tally in the ninth. Kelly, Walsh and Onslow hit home runs. The second game was started at five o'clock, but the clubs failed to get in full five innings, the police stepping in at six o'clock to call a halt to cover. Buffalo had in but four stanzas and one tally. Spencer hit a four-bagger for that lone score:

First Game:

Rochester	000320341—13	17	1
Buffalo	330411000—12	12	2

Levson, Mallette, Thormahlen, Yowell and Lake; Profitt, Reddy, Maley and Hill; Pond.

WOOLLENS AND VETS IN DRAWN GAME

Juvenile Boys Make a Good Showing in Spirited Tussel.

One goal each for Woollens and Vets in the Juvenile League still remains the same in the standing of the league, as the result of the drawn game Saturday afternoon at the Oval .

Opening pace was fast, with Woollens forwards breaking through. McFeat testing Corsey at close range. Ultimately Walton opened the scoring from a pass by Dallan and Sturgeon combination. A few minutes later Lavell evened up the game again. Woollens came back to confine play in against Thompson-Coleman defense that resulted in the former giving away a penalty kick that Goldie failed to convert. Half-time, one goal each.

Half-Time.

The few minutes rest revived the zeal of the contestants, who bunched occasionally. Boys play your position and swing the ball more to the wing; also, tackle the player when in possesion of the ball, don't stand and wait to see how he travels—tackle. Exchanges were even this half. Goldie for Woollens and Coleman, Vets, showed up well in the defense while Rose in goal for Woollens is improving in every game. It is nice to witness the inside men—McFeat and Sturgeon—not five feet tall, manipulate and initiate new openings in the last stages to gain the full points. Of course, Young Vets deserve credit in playing with ten men against eleven. Full time—One goal each.

Goal scorers—Lavell and Walton.

Woollen, Juniors — Rose, goal; Markman and Goldie, backs; White, Saunders and Pammet; half backs, Dallan, Sturgeon, Walton, McFeat and Vellar, forwards.

Vets—Corsey, goal; Thompson and Coleman, backs; Wade, Murray, half-backs; Lavelle, Breadman, Woodcock, Coleman and O'Toole, forwards.

Referee— Mr. Browell, Thistle Seniors.

QUAKERS LOST LEAGUE POINTS TO WOOLLENS

Two Snappy Goals in the First Half Disheartened the Quakers.

POOR SHOOTING.

H. Curtis in Goal in Second Period Held the Woollens Scoreless—Defence Good.

The Canadian Woollens added another two points to their league total when they defeated the Quaker Oats by two goals to nil on Saturday afternoon, at Nicholls oval, before a good attedance of spectators. Very erratic shooting at goal was much in evidence by both teams.

Features of the Play.

The Woollens won the toss and decided to take advantage of all the favors. With Alex. Mitchell at back, in place of Chambers now playing centre forward, they were very aggressive in the opening stages through their right wing, that tested Curtis with a riping shot from the outside. Scott transferred to his forwards into the Woollens territory, where an accidental foul against Gardner relieved the pressure.

Hodgsons Snappy Goal.

From this free kick Read placed amidst a knot of players in front of Quakers' citadel. Gaskill shot out to his partner, who immediately returned across the goal where Hodgson connected as the ball touched the ground to give Curtis no chance to avert. This set-back enlivened the transactions to their favour while the Woollens' defence retaliated with close checking when hard pressed; also Griffine holding every shot with comfort that he handled.

Chambers' Peculiar Shot.

An accidental foul against George Logan let Blowers try a "wicked left" it landed at Chambers' foot who lifted the ball over his head into the goal where it missed the cross-bar by inches. Some nice combination along with legitimate give-and-take shoulder was much in evidence when the Quaker forwards hemmed the opposing defence close up in on the goal. A foul against Mitchell was taken by Scott. He let drive for goal but Griffine snatched the sphere to clear, then Logan and Gardner had a try that was spoiled by Scott's wild punt.

Opportunities missed.

They returned again through Craig who made the Woollen's goalie step to prevent a counter. Time and again the whole forward line would work inside the solid defence pair, until a frantic shot resulted. This was accompanied by two golden opportunities going a-begging looking for the necessary tap; also Craig lifting high up in the air when close in on the sticks. At the other end, George Clark was crossing the ball like air express, while Maker and Curtis, full backs, were offsetting the attacks with precision, and from one of these visits Chambers added the last goal of the game just before half time. Woollens 2; Quakers 0.

Half Time.

On resuming, it was noticed that Harry Curtis was in goal, in place of Willie his brother, who received an injury to his arm in the first moiety. Bill went to inside left berth, and made a good showing in the attack. In the repeated endeavors to get a goal the Queker forwards peppered away at the Woollens' citadel without any success.

Lackadaisical Efforts

It was of course very discouraging to players to be rewarded with no issue forthcoming. This was demonstrated when Logan went through the defence but the ball beat him, as it took a peculiar twirl at the critical moment. Then his teammate being robbed when in the act of shooting. The Woollens' left wing was always on the move and wee fellow on extreme wing was always dangerous when he gained the verdict in any tussel. Quick as a flash the wing men of the Quakers were hammering at the Woollens' goals. Then the same performance was enacted against them as Chambers led many threatening raids that never failed to get a stubborn set-back.

Harry Curtis' Display in Goal was Excellent.

As the Woollens paid everlasting raids on the Quakers' defence, they found Harry Curtis an excellent man between the uprights. He punted, checked and fisted clean in a masterly fashion that held the winners scoreless in the second half; no matter whatever the losers tried to initiate they never had the breaks in their favor. Two minutes before the final whistle a penalty was awarded the Quakers for Mitchell committing an infringement. Scott awarded tursted with the kick that went the way of the lift lock as the end arrived in favor of the league leaders by two goals to none. Woollens 2; Quakers 0.

Goal scorers: Chambers and Hodgson.

Woollens: Griffine, goal; Read and Mitchell, backs; Sayers, Mann and Blowers, half backs; Clark, Gaskill, Chambers, Hodgson and Burgess forwards.

Quakers: W. Curtis, goal; S. Maker and H. Curtis, backs; Metcalfe, Scott and Maker, half backs; Mayette, Logan, Gardner, Craig and Willshaw, forwards.

Referee Alex. McKinley.

EDMONTON GIRLS WON.

Famous Basketball Team Swamp American Five.

GUTHRIE, Okla., July 6. — Canadian Press. — The Guthrie Red Birds girls' basketball team, lost a claim to the international girls independent basketball title Saturday when they were defeated by the Commercial Grads of Edmonton, Canada, 21 to 5.

The Commercial Grads won the first gamcs Friday night 24 to 14.

James Neismith, who originated basketball at Springfield, Mass., in 1892, watched last night's game, and gave a short talk, commending the ability of the champion team.

DON CARRICK IS GOLF CHAMPION, ONLY NINETEEN

Young Toronto Player Added Canadian Amateur Title to His Honors.

COOL IN VICTORY.

Unflustered in Final Round With Ross Somerville—Steady and Skillful.

ROYAL OTTAWA GOLF CLUB, Ottawa, July 6.—(Canadian Press). —Don Carrick, a youthful golfing prodigy from the Scarboro Golf Club of Toronto, is the new Canadian amateur golf champion. Young Carrick, who is only nineteen years old and came into prominence as a potential champion two years ago, when he won the Canadian junior title, mounted the pedestal of amateur golfing fame recently vacated by Frank Thompson, on Saturday, when he defeated C. Ross Somerville of the London, Ont., Hunt Club, 5 up and 4 to play, in a 36-hole match for the Canadian title.

Thus, for the second successive year, Somerville, who himself is only 23 years old, was beaten after fighting his way through the qualifying round, and four rounds of match play to the final round. Last year it was Frank Thompson who thwarted his efforts to gain the title.

Carrick Had Courage.

Carrick won the title by the brilliancy of play, and the consistent steadiness which have marked his performances throughout the tournament. His victory was no youthful luck. In all departments of the game he has shown his ability to deal successfully with all kinds of difficult situations, and his knowledge of the game, combined with his splendid courage when striving to overcome his opponent's lead, has won him the plaudits of the large galleries which have followed his play.

The superiority of the champion over Somerville was obvious in Saturday's play, although it could not be called a brilliant match. A heavy rainfall an hour before the players teed off slowed up the greens considerably, and made them tricky for such a crucial test. However, it was a moderate display. The element of excitement was eliminated by the early lead established by Carrick, and after the fourth hole of the morning round Carrick was master of the situation. Carrick also defeated Somerville in the semi-finals of the Ontario championship this year.

OSHAWA WON IN TENNIS EVENTS

Peterborough Players Took Only Men's Singles and Ladies' Doubles.

SOME CLOSE SETS.

Oshawa had the better of Peterborough in the tennis match last Saturay afternoon by 4 events to 3. There were several surprises in the results of the play, notably the winning of the ladies' doubles by Mrs. Moore and Miss Kirn from the strong Oshawa team. Hewett and Jackson, who were counted to carry the locals to victory in the men's doubles, fell before Henry and Carruthers, chiefly through the very steady play of Henry, who is the most improved player in the league this year.

The feature match of the day was a long duel between Scott and Henry. The Oshawa player showed wonderful form and booked the first set of the match at 6-1 before the local veteran could get going. Scott, however, had plenty of kick in his play when he opened up, and he quickly ran the score in the second set to 5-1, only to go after and drop a couple of games before capping the evener. The third set was a hammer and tongs affair, with both players brilliant by turns. Scott, however, had the most in reserve, and with the score 7-6 against him, closed out the last three games with the loss of only two points.

Mrs. Cruthers made a very good showing in the ladies' singles, taking the middle set from Miss Richardson with a series of five placement shots.

The refreshments were in charge of Mrs. W. M. Cruthers and Mrs. Walter Jackson, assisted by a number of the younger members, poured the tea.

The following is the detailed score:

Scott, Peterborough, beat Henry, Oshawa, 1-6; 6-3; 9-7.

Webber, Peterborough, beat Marshall, Oshawa, 8-6; 6-4.

BRILLIANT PLAY BY GOALERS IN JUNIOR SOCCER

De Laval and Canadian Packers Failed to Score in Saturday Game.

STRONG DEFENCE.

Frick and Montgomery Kept Score Sheet Blank—Dick Evans Starred.

The DeLaval and the C .P.C. met in a junior league match at King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon and a very fast and exciting game ended in a goalless draw. Both goal keepers, Frick for the DeLaval, and Montgomery for the Packers, were in great form and covered themselves with glory. The Packers forwards usually strong, were off color, and gave a poor display. The backs of both teams were excellent.

The Packers won the toss and elected to play with the elements against them. Anson centred to Dyer and Montgomery showed his ability in the first moment by fisting out. Halliday sent to Foster who overran the ball. From the goal kick Dick Evans took possession and sent out to Lindsay whose centre Grant headed away. Buchan got away but was robbed by Hensby when nicely placed. Anson and Abrahams were very busy on the left for the DeLaval and kept the Packers' defense on the move. Once it looked as if Montgomery's citadel would fall. Anson centred to Dyer who sent in a terrific drive which Montgomery tipped over the bar. Lindsay took the corner kick and sent well among the crowd. Asa Downer headed out of danger. Cross got hold of the sphere and sent out to Mitchell who made a dashing run and sent a cross shot which Frick pushed away like an artist. The game, considering the heat, was very fast. Dick Evans, who was most dangerous forward on the field, made a great effort to score Montgomery again saved when a score seemed almost certain. Halliday sent out to Foster who in turn gave to James who sent in a nice shot which Frick turned around the post. Mitchell took the kick and placed well, Frost relieved and Dyer passed to Anson. Asa Downer just robbed him when he was well placed. Frost for the DeLaval was coaching his team and kept sending his men well up with some huge drives and it was Grant or Downer who kept them from gaining their objective. Half time arrived with the score sheet blank.

Second Half

Upon resuming the Packers now with the wind in their favour at once pressed and Frick saved a beautiful shot from Mitchell. Anson got hold of the return and went away at lightning speed and sent a shot which went just wide. From the goal kick Montgomery kicked well down the field. Foster made a tricky run and sent in a dangerous shot which Frick turned over the line. Mitchell took the kick and sent behind. From the goal kick Halliday headed to Buchan who hung on to the ball too long, Hensley robbing him when he could have passed to James who was well placed. Dick Evans was again in the limelight and sent to Abraham who tested Montgomery with a lacing cutter. The DeLaval were now having the best of the argument and Frost was using his generalship to advantage placing the ball to his forwards along the ground. They were a source of trouble to Grant and Downer who were in tip top form. The pressure was relieved, sending to James who raced and sent in the best shot of the game. Frick bringing down the house with a splendid save. The heat was intense and the pace was a cracker. First one goal and then the other was the order. The defense of both teams was too good for the forwards. James made a great individual effort; Ward gave a corner, Foster took the kick and sent behind. Time now was called and a well contested and a fast game ended in a goalless draw. Before leaving the field Frost, the captain of the DeLaval called for three cheers for the Packers and Walley James' boys responded with three times three for DeLaval.

The Teams

DeLaval — Goal, Frick; Backs, Frost, H. Hensley; Halves, J. Ward, J. Cooper, Harvey; Forwards, Lindsay, Dyer, Anson, R. Evans, Abrahams.

C.P.C.—Goal, T. Montgomery; Backs, D. Grant, A. Downer; Halves J. Cross, A. Halliday, L. Gore; Forwards, J. Mitchell, W. James, T. Foster, J. Buchan, J. Downer.

Referee—S. Calladine.

CITY LEAGUE NOTES.

The Juvenile baseball game scheduled for Sacred Heart grounds on Friday night has been transferred to the King Edward School grounds owing to the church grounds being required for the annual social. The game will be played at 6.00 o'clock on Friday night, and the contending teams will be the Knights of Columbus and the Kiwanis team. Great rivalry exists between these teams and a fast game will result from their meeting.

The Dufferin All-Stars will practice tonight at 6.30 at Dufferin Park. The team for to-morrow night's game will be chosen at this practice so it is important that every player should be on hand. To-morrow night the East City boys will meet the Rotary bantams in a League game at the King Edward grounds.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

Under a hard drive the Peterboro entry in the Central Ontario League stakes, after passing the half-mile post neck and neck with Oshawa and Kingston, has opened out a slight lead going into the third quarter, with the Ponies and Motorists bunched and Belleville, after being nearly distanced, showing some signs of making a ride of it yet. All of which means that, thanks to their own defeat of Kingston on Saturday and Belleville's win in Oshawa, the Petes find themselves leading the league. Here is the standing:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Peterboro	8	5	.615
Kingston	7	6	.538
Oshawa	7	6	.538
Belleville	4	9	.308

Games this week:
Wednesday—Peterboro at Belleville; Oshawa at Kingston.
Saturday—Belleville at Peterboro; Kingston at Oshawa.

Swanston had a narrow escape from being badly spiked in tagging Cherry at the plate in the fourth. The burly centre fielder went in with a jumping slide, but Swanston threw him wide of the plate. Both players were spilled and Cherry's spikes ripped the side out of the catcher's boot, but Swanston held tightly to the ball and the runner was out.

Al. Heckman will likely get the pitching assignment against the Railroaders in Belleville on Wednesday, while Jeff Hardill may draw the billet in the return game on Saturday.

* * * * * * * * *

Fans who saw Gallagher back up Arniel in a play at the plate and then make a wild throw to third, while Swanston scored and Hall reached third, will naturally wonder why the Kingston pitcher is not credited with an error in the box score. The explanation is simple. When Teepel's throw from the outfield rolled past Arniel the ball hit the stand, and therefore by a ground rule Swanston was entitled to score and Hall to advance to third. Thus Gallagher's throw, while apparently costing a run, was not officially in the play at all, and the southpaw escaped an error.

* * * * * * * * *

Cherry's hitting was better than his base running. The big outfielder threw away one double by trying to stretch it into a triple and another by attempting to score from second on a grounder to Johnston. Somerville, too, got too ambitious and broke up a hitting be[illegible] being nipped trying to take two bases on a short single by Cherry, and Nickle got caught off first in another inning. These plays materially helped the Petes' cause.

* * * * * * * * *

Whitehouse did not issue a charity Saturday, which makes the Peterboro pitching staff's free list read thirteen complimentaries in thirteen games. An average of one free trip per game over a stretch of thirteen is mighty steady pitching.

* * * * * * * * *

The largest Saturday crowd of the season saw the Ponies beaten. A feature of this year's crowds is the out-of-town attendance. The Petes have a big following from around the district. Charlie Davidson generally heads a Campbellford quota here every Saturday, Dr. J. C. Smith and Dr. Gibson are among the Lakefield fans who seldom miss a game, and other points in the district are always represented. And the delegates from out-of-town are more enthusiastic Peterboro rooters than some of the home patrons.

* * * * * * * * *

The Belleville team will be the attraction here on Saturday, and wise fans are determined to let nothing keep them away from this fixture. In their two visits this year the Railroaders have put up two of the scrappiest games of the season, losing the first 6 to 5 when the Petes put over two runs in the ninth and winning the second 5 to 4 in ten innings. Walt Gerow's men seem to save their best ball for Riverside Park.

* * * * * * * * *

It is seldom that one game sees two such spectacular catches as those made by Halbert and Johnston, the rival short-stops, on Saturday. Both leaped high in the air to pull down a liner with the gloved hand, in both cases the batters being robbed of what seemed to be a sure-fire hit.

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL

"COUNTRY STORE NITE" TO-NIGHT.

In addition to the big Pearl Doles Bell novel, "Sandra," "Country Store Nite" is added to to-night's programme at the Royal.

RARE SCENIC EFFECTS IN LA MARR PICTURE.

"Sandra" presents a variety of beautiful interior settings and exterior backgrounds, now at the Royal Theatre.

More than fifteen sets have been provided for the action of the story, including an exotic boudoir, an impressive hall with stairway leading to a mezzanine, a beautiful dining-room provided with archways for entrance, a modern bachelors' studio apartment, a Russion dance club revealing the modern style of art in an extremely bizarre manner, a picturesque villa at Deauville, using for decorative purposes the present Mah Jong vogue, and several other settings.

Most striking of all is the tremendous setting depicting a ballroom in Paris, designed in velvet draperies, giant columns and silver decorations.

"Sandra" also offers some exteriors depicting lovely Long Island landscapes, beautiful scenes in Westchester County and colorful shots of the beach at Deauville, and intimate glimpses of the most interesting parts of Paris.

BARBARA LA MARR'S GOWNS.

Barbara La Marr wears a bewildering array of gowns in her latest picture, "Sandra," which is being offered by First National at the Royal Theatre. Everything from negligee to ball-room gown is included—evening dresses, sport wear, afternoon gowns, dinner wraps, bathing costumes, etc. Chief of her new style modes is a ball-room costume consisting of silver cloth and imported lace, carrying a fifteen-foot train of silver lace in brilliants. This is said to be one of the most pretentious gowns ever worn in motion pictures. Bert Lytell has the leading male role in "Sandra."

AT THE CAPITOL

BARTHELMESS HERE IN "SOUL FIRE."

Star Appears as Musical Genius in Film of Broadway Stage Hit.

No star has made such steady progress on the screen as Richard Barthelmess, who comes to the Capitol Theatre to-day in his newest production, "Soul Fire," adapted from Martin Brown's drama, "Great Music."

As a star, Barthelmess has been shrewd enough to realize that he should always try something new. No two roles ever played by this young star have been alike. He has no intention, as he himself says, of getting into a screen rut. Each new role must be different from the last.

Before he became a star, Barthelmess had a number of hits to his credit. He had scored as the young Oriental dreamer of "Broken Blossoms," and as the vigorous young New England hero of "Way Down East." He scored again in first first stellar role, the mountain boy of "Tol'able David." His hits since have been widely varied: the young soldier of "Sonny," the sailor lad of "Fury," the adventurous young American enmeshed in Cuban adventure in "The Bright Shawl," the roystering swashbuckler of "The Fighting Blade," the boy broken on the wheel of war in "The Enchanted Cottage," the dashing West Pointer in "Classmates," and the serio-comic young husband of "New Toys."

"Soul Fire" provides a brand new type of part, a young musical genius seeking to find himself. First of all, he is distinctly an American, although his search to express himself carries him from Italy to Paris, from Port Said to the South Seas.

The role of Eric Fane, the young composer of "Soul Fire," has been pronounced by critics to be Barthelmess' best acting role thus far. In it he strikes new heights of emotional force, wistful pathos and histrionic vigor. It is easily the big dramatic event of the screen year.

Dr. Livingstone's only surviving daughter is still a missionary at Chitambos. Her famous father died there in 1873.

AT THE REGENT

"A LOST LADY."

A marvellous picture of a woman's life is being shown at the Regent Theatre this week, where Irene Rich portrays the entire gamut of sorrow, bitterness and joy in the Warner screen version of Willa Cather's novel, "A Lost Lady."

There are few stories or plays that have been able to draw so realistically the glory and heartache of a beautiful woman, whose mind and heart is ruled by an overwhelming love that sweeps everything before it and leaves moral destruction in its wake. From the security of a wealthy marriage, lovely Marian Forrester, as interpreted by Irene Rich, follows the will o' the wisp of her heart's desire, unseeing and with complete passion, until she finds herself hopelessly sunk in the slough of filth and poverty. Yet the essence of all womanhood rises victorious as Irene Rich battles against herself and life.

This picture is one well worth while seeing, as it paints human emotions on a wide-spreading canvass of brilliant colors. John Roche, Matt Moore, June Marlowe, George Fawcett, Victor Potel, Eva Gordon, Nannette Valone and Orville McGregor support Miss Rich in "A Lost Lady," which was directed by Harry Beaumont.

G. R. C. CLUB BOYS ARE ENTERPRISING BUNCH

Issue Own Newspaper and Are Holding Carnival For Charitable Purposes.

The Rod, Gun and Camera Club, an organization of 18 or 20 boys under fourteen years old, is putting on a carnival in a vacant lot on Gilmour street on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

This club was organized about a year ago and has had a very successful career, promoting sportsmanship and athletics among its members. The president is Jack McWilliams, and the secretary Bob McWilliams. Warren Turner is treasurer, James Turner is quartermaster and Merill Ruiter, cyclemaster.

The R.G.C. News, a typewritten paper, written, edited and typed by the boys themselves, is an interesting sheet, containing news of the club's activities, stories and other items of interest.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

OVERSEAS MEN OF BATTALION TO MEET HERE

"Twenty-one or Bust" Was Battle Cry of War-Famed Unit.

PLAN RE-UNION.

Delegation Will Wait on the Council To-night to Ask Grant.

On Friday, September 18, the Twenty-First Battalion will hold its sixth annual re-union in this city, and men from all over the province who saw weary years of service together on the French battlefronts, who shared dug-outs and went over the top together, will again meet for the purpose of fraternizing and renewing the fine spirit of loyalty which actuated millions to sacrifice their lives on the fields of Flanders.

These re-unions permit of the re-acquaintance of men who have not met since they fought together in France, and allow them to keep pace with the progress of the year, checking the changes which take place in the personnel of the battalion.

A Link Broken.

Last year at the re-union in Kingston Major Donald Hector McLean, Commandant of the left half which included the Peterboro boys, was reminiscent of the days through which they had passed, and was very solicitous about the welfare of his boys, enquiring about their health and occupation and showing in general a most devoted interest on their behalf. About six weeks ago the major died, one more link missing from the chain of the past.

The gallant 21st was composed of men from the cities and districts of Toronto, Ottawa, Belleville Kingston and Peterboro, and with the exception of Toronto the annual re-union is held at the different cities in turn. Four years ago 150 members of the unit congregated in the city for the purpose of keeping old memories green. Peterboro's turn has come again, and how will the remnants of the battalion be welcomed?

Seven hundred of the original unit died in France in an attempt to make their effort in the war which would be an everlasting guaranty of peace. The remainder have lived to see that the sacrifice, while not in vain, did not produce the results which they had so fervently desired.

There must be some way of showing that the offering of lives is appreciated by people for whom peace was purchased at such a price, and to-night a delegation will wait upon the City Council for the purpose of securing a small grant, whereby the overhead connected with such a venture might be safely covered.

The Mayors of Toronto, Ottawa, Kingston and Belleville will be invited to attend the banquet which will be held in the Empress on the evening of September 18, while many prominent men connected with the battalion will also be present.

OBITUARY.

MRS. JOSEPH STORTZ.

The remains of the late Mrs. Joseph Stortz, of North Bay, whose death occurred yesterday morning, will be brought to the city on the noon C.P.R. train to-morrow (Tuesday), with interment directly from the train to St. Peter's Cemetery. Mrs. Stortz was a former resident of Peterboro, and has many friends in the city.

MRS. F. C. ROBERTS.

The death occurred this morning of Mrs. Jessie Roberts, in Nicholls Hospital. Mrs. Roberts had been ill for some time. She was born in England, and had lived in this city for about fifteen years. There remain to mourn her loss her husband, Frank C. Roberts, and one small son, Bryan.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon from the family residence, 206 Lansdowne Street, to All Saints' Church and Little Lake Cemetery. The Rev. J. D. Paterson will conduct the services.

MRS. JOHN ADAMSON.

On Sunday morning Mary Jane Adamson, beloved wife of John Adamson, passed peacefully away at her home 228 George street.

The funeral service will be conducted by the Rev. J. D. Paterson, at 2.00 p.m., Tuesday, and will proceed from All Saints Church, which Mrs. Adamson attended faithfully for the past twenty years, to the Little Lake cemetery where interment will take place.

Born in England Mrs. Adamson has lived in Peterboro for 28 years, and in that time has made many sincere friends who now mourn her loss.

There remain her husband and four sons, three of whom are in this district, while the fourth is in England.

Weddings

GRAHAM—JANEWAY.

The marriage was solemnized at the parsonage of the Murray street Baptist church, 491 Water street, at half past nine o'clock Sunday morning, of Norma. George Graham and Nettie Berenice Janeway, both of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. W. Rose, D.D Witnesses to the sighing of the register were Miss Wave Janeway and Mr. Coyle Downer. Mr. and Mrs. Graham will reside in Peterborough.

HUSTON—MUIR.

CEYLON, Ont., June 30. — The home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Muir was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when their eldest daughter, Mary Acton (May) became the bride of Joseph Henry Huston, of Peterboro. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Matheson of Lorneville, formerly of Priceville. The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was played by Miss Carrie Metcalfe of Redwing. The bridal procession was led by six girl friends of the bride, who formed an aisle with white satin streamers. They were Miss Laura McKinnon, Miss Myra McLean, Miss Margaret Tryon, Miss Agnes Harrow, Miss Ella McKinnon and Miss Edna Ferguson. Next came Miss Marian Muir who acted as he sister's bridesmaid. Then came the bride on the arm of arm of her father. She looked charm ing in her gown of white georgette, her long tulle veil being arranged in double Grecian effect, and held in place by a coronet of pearls and orange blossoms. Her only ornament was the gift of the groom, a gold bar pin set with pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of ophelia roses and lilies of the valley. Mr. Earle Huston of Peterboro supported the groom. After the ceremony a dainty buffet luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. Huston left by motor for Muskoka. The bride travelled in a fawn and rosewood ensemble costume with hat and shoes to match. On their return they will reside in Peterboro. An interesting feature in connection with the ceremony was that on this date the bride's parents celebrated the 29th anniversary of their wedding.

J. D. FLAVELLE DIED SATURDAY

Former Chairman of Ontario License Board, Born in Peterborough.

WELL KNOWN CURLER.

LINDSAY, July 6. — (Canadian Press).—John D. Flavelle, former chairman of the Ontario License Commission and widely known business man, died here at his home at 7 o'clock Saturday evening. Mr. Flavelle had been ill nearly two weeks, pneumonia developing during the past few days. Most of Saturday he was unconscious. Members of the family were at the bedside when the end came. The funeral took place this afternoon to Lindsay Cemetery.

Was Born Near Peterboro.

John D. Flavelle was born in 1850, near the city of Peterboro, the son of John Flavelle and Dorothea Dundas. It was in 1864 that he settled in Lindsay and entered the firm of Dundas & Flavelle, and in 1884 he became manager of the milling interests of the firm. In 1911 he was president of the Canadian Cereal Company, a big milling merger.

Mr. Flavelle was chairman of the Lindsay Board of Education, 1915-17, and member for many years. He had been chairman of the Board of Governors of the Ross Memorial Hospital for 23 years, and chairman of the Board of Waterworks Commissioners for 18 years, and a member of the Board for 25 consecutive years. In politics he had been a life-long Conservative and ardent worker for temperance, and was chairman of the Licence Board of Ontario from 1915 to 1921.

At the time of his death he was a trustee of the First United Church and was always a staunch supporter of the Methodist Church. He was a charter member of the Twenty Club, one of Lindsay's social organizations.

Was a Famous Curler.

Mr. Flavelle was known throughout Canada as a famous curler, and he was the first curler in the Dominion to receive a gold medal from the Royal Caledonia Curling Association for doing more than any other man in Canada for the game of curling. He won many trophies in the famous Winnipeg bonspiels, including the International Cup and the Grand Challenge Cup. He figured on the rinks from Lindsay which won the Ontario Tankard six times, as well as the Governor-General's Trophy and other events. Mr. Flavelle was also a famous lacrosse player in the days of Sir Sam. Hughes and was also a noted bicyclist, riding as far as Buffalo and back. Of later years he played golf. He was an executive member of the first tennis club in 1884, and vice-president of the Lindsay Skating Company when the present rink was erected in 1889.

In 1873 Mr. Flavelle married Minnie Cooper of Lindsay and there were three children. His wife and three daughters (Ethel of Lindsay, Mrs. J. W. Macmillan and Mrs. Stanley MacLean, Toronto), and two brothers (Sir Joseph Flavelle of Toronto and William of Lindsay) survive him.

Herrings were recently found in such shoals off the Schleswig coast that fishermen were baling them into their boats with buckets.

FINANCIAL NEWS.

Wheat Price Showed Upward Trend In Morning

CHICAGO, July 6 (Canadian Press)—In line with the action of foreign markets since Friday wheat values here showed an early upward trend today, the Canadian Government crop report was construed as bullish. The official estimate of the yield deing decidedly less than recent private report from Canada had given reason to expect. Sultry weather this morning in spring crop states counted also as a stimulus to business on account of the possible resulting damage from black rust. The opening unchanged to 3-4 cents higher, September 140 to 140 1-4 and December 141 to 141 1-2 was followed by minor changes and then by a general upturn with September, touching 140 5-8 and December 142 1-8. Fine weather for corn growth led to a setback in corn prices, after opening at 5-8 cents off to 5-8 cents up, Sept. 101 1-4 to 101 3-4. The corn market declined all around to well below Friday's finish. Oats traders took their cue from wheat rather than from corn. Starting at 1-8 to 3-8 higher, Sept. 45 to 45 1-8. Oats market sagged but soon rallied. Higher quotations on hogs gave firmness to provisions.

General Upward Course On New York Exchange

WALL STREET, July 6 (Canadian Press).—The main course of prices continued upward throughout the morning. Lowering of renewal rate on call money to 4 per cent, as compared with 4 3-4 on Friday last and the stiffening tendency of basic commodity prices particularly steel and copper, together with the market's ability to withstand the selling inspired by the Santa Barbara earthquake and the big stock exchange failure last week, encouraged operators on the long side. Accumulation of Rails apparently was in anticipation of good earnings statements by many of the principal carriers during the next few month and a renewal of the merger discussions. Southwestern group followed Wabash into higher ground, while New York Central and several other seasoned dividend payers responded to steady investment demand. Mack Truck extended its early gain to over 7 points by touching record high price of 186 3-8. General Railway Signal was run up 6 points and Nash Motors 5.

Active Trading In Mines Argonaut Being a Leader

TORONTO, July 6 (Canadian Press (Canadian Press) — After a week end holiday, trading on the Standard Mining Exchange was fairly active this morning, transactions numbering 141,868 shares. Argonaut and Baldwin displayed activity being fractionally lower at 24 1-4 and 2 3-4 respectively. Hattie preferred was slightly covehr at 8 7-8 while common was steady at 1 1-4.

Winnipeg Railway Led Toronto Exchange To-day

TORONTO, July 6 (Canadian Press)—Winnipeg railway dominated the week's opening session of the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, with Twin City also prominent. Elsewhere trading was light and scattered but prices held steady on the whole. Winnipeg, on dealings, passed the thousand share mark, climbed to a new peak of 49 1-2 and closed at noon at the high, a gain of 1 1-2 points. Twin City advanced a half at 66 1-2, Consolidated Smelters strengthened a point at 85 and Dominion Canners improved half at 99. Other leading issues were unchanged.

SILVER GIFT TO DOURO TEACHER

Surprise For Miss Mildred Bentham at School Picnic.

LAKEFIELD, July 6—Last Monday Miss Mildred Bentham and her pupils of S. S. No. 6, Douro, held a picnic in Mr. Dunford's field at which about one hundred children and adults attended. The afternoon was spent in games with baseball and football matches and in social intercourse. Supper was served to all, who thoroughly enjoyed the reunion and the pleasant afternoon.

A very pleasing feature was the presentation to Miss Bentham of a dozen silver teaspoons, Adams pattern, and a pair of Dutch Silver salt and papper shakers, accompanied by the following address:

S. S. No. 6, Douro,
June 29th, 1925.

Dear Miss Beutham,

We, the pupils and ratepayers of S. S. No. 6, Douro, feel that we cannot let the occasion of your departure from among us pass without expressing in some way our appreciationt of your services for the past two years, during which time you have acted in the capacity of teacher.

We have at all times found you to be a most painstaking, conscientious and sympathetic person and in addition to this a ready and willing worker in our community, always taking an active part in all our local undertakings. Be assured we shall not soon forget how S. S. No. 6 was "put on the map" during your stay in our midst.

In closing, we ask you to please accept these little gifts as tokens of our esteem and good will. One and all, we heartily extend to you our good wishes for your success in the future.

Signed n behalf of the pupils and ratepayers: Roland Dunford, J. H. Moore, Veleta Dunford, Hannah Sharpe.

Miss Bentham was much touched by the remembrance and in a graceful speech she thanked her friends for the gifts and the kindly thoughts that prompted them.

Union Services

Throughout July and August the Methodist and Presbyterian congregations of the United Church, Lakefield, will worship together as in past years. During July services will be held in the Presbyterian Church in the morning and in the Methodist Church in the evening with Rev. P. L. Jull in charge. During August services will be held in the Methodist Church in the morning and in the Presbyterian Church in the evening with Rev. S. A. Kemp, the new pastor of the Methodist United Church in charge.

Around The City.

Canoeists who patronize the boathouses above the C.P.R. Bridge will for the next few days run the gauntlet of logs, as the drive of the Macdonald Company started coming through yesterday. The camp and men are at Nassau, sending the logs down through the last stretch of the river.

For That Wedding Gift

You are going to buy for this month. We have added a lot more new silver to our display. Some beautiful pieces in the new designs. Whether it be $1.00 or $10.00 you will be able to pick something that will meet with your approval. It will be worth your while to spend a little time looking over our samples when you are looking for suggestions because our stock is very complete.

SEVEN OF EIGHT BODIES OF THOSE DROWNED IN LAKE AT ST. THOMAS HAVE BEEN FOUND

Seven Children and One Adult Lost Lives in St. Thomas Park. MAY BE MORE.

Number Rescued By Boaters Who Witnessed Tragedy Is Not Known.

ST. THOMAS, Ont, July 7 (Canadian Press).—The bodies of seven of the eight persons drowned in Pinafore Lake, when the pleasure craft capsized shortly after eight o'clock last night have been recovered and a dozen rowboats are still searchin the waters for the body of Jean Murray, the nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Murray, 97 Myrtle Street, the only victim not yet recovered. The body of John Alfred Sutherland was recovered at about two o'clock this morning.

The lake is really a large pond, formed by the damming of a creek and the storage of water by the Michigan Central Railway. There is no current and the deepest point is not over twenty feet. This morning both shores were lined with people anxiously awaiting the finding of the body of the eighth victim.

Bodies recovered before were Mrss Thomas Watts; Jean Robinson, aged 12 years; Edith May Robinson, aged 8 years; Frances Vidler, aged 8 years; Murray Barnes, aged 6 years, and Roland Smith, aged 5 years.

The bodies believed to be still in the water are those of Roland Smith, aged 5 years, and Jackie Sutherland, aged 6 years.

It is possible that more children may have been drowned, and it was not known how many were rescued by boaters who witnessed the tragedy and rowed to the rescue. The tragedy is the most terrible of its kind in the history of this city, and took thousands of persons to Pinafore Park. The children were attending a joint picnic at Pinafore Park of Trinity and St. John's Anglican Sunday Schools of the city and St. Luke's of Yarmouth Heights and were having their last ride on the lake before going home. The swan boat is a new amusement, placed on the lake only this week by William Stoner, who has the boating concessions, and was regarded as being perfectly safe.

The craft is constructed of two large row boats, fastened side to side with a flat bottom and high sides. It is propelled by a paddle wheel operated on a bicycle frame. Mr. Stoner was in charge of the boat and had just taken out a load of 21 children and Mrs. Watts and Mrs. Underhill. The boat was about the centre of the lake and well up toward the creek end when it capsized.

Ward Of Orphan Home Is Drowned Swimming Creek

BROCKVILLE, July 7. Canadian Press — Overcome while bathing in Morton Creek, near the corner of Leeds and Lansdowne townships, Sam McMahon aged 17, a ward of the Orphan Homes of Scotland, who had been placed with Harmon McFadden, Lyndhurst, met death by drowning, the body being recovered 5 hours afterwards. In company with another youth, Wilbert Kirkland, McMahon went boating on the creek. He left the boat to swim to shore and succeeded in doing so, but on the return became involved in difficulties. Before Kirkland could reach him he had gone down for the third time.

PROSPECTS FOR WESTERN CROPS BEST IN DECADE

Saskatchewan and Alberta Beginning to Need Rain—Grain Heading Out.

REPORT OF C.P.R.

Damage From Pests and Hail Lighter Than in Other Years.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 7.—(By Canadian Press).—Present indications point to one of the best crop years Western Canada has experienced in a decade, according to the weekly agricultural report of the Canadian Pacific Railway, issued Monday.

Prospects of a bumper yield in all three Prairie provinces are uniformly bright. Fields generally present a splendid appearance, the stand being heavy and color good. Early wheat and barley is reported to be heading out at many points.

While damage from pests hail and other agencies has been experienced in several districts, the loss to date has been small compared with that of previous years at this time of the season.

Warm weather and abundant moisture have materially promoted growth in Manitoba, where prospects are the best in many years. Slight damage has been done in low-lying country as the result of excessive rains.

Drier In Saskatchewan.

Despite liberal rainfall during the early part of June, some districts in Saskatchewan need further moisture to offset the spread of cut worms. Taking the province as a whole, however, the crops are making encouraging progress.

The outlook in Alberta continues favorable, although in Southern parts of the province rain now is badly needed. Wheat at all points is in shot blade and many fields are in head. There is a decided increase in the acreage under cultivation, which the report intimates will counteract damage from hail in the Blackie, Vulcan, and Carseland districts.

Farmers Optimistic.

Optimism pervades the farming districts adjoining the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia railway. Growth has been excellent and conditions generally are ideal.

Fruit and field crops have developed rapidly in British Columbia during the past week. Fruit trees have been comparatively free from pests and sections that escaped winter injury give indications of a good yield.

THE WEATHER.

After almost a month of moderate temperature the weather has become much warmer. On Monday the thermometer reached 90 degrees in the shade. This has been exceeded only once this year, namely on June 7th, when we had it 91 degrees. Last night's lowest point was 70 degrees, (the warmest night to date.) Another gentle shower this morning will tend to freshen things, and lay the dust.—W. P.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 7 (Canadian Press). — Attacking the members of his family with a large knife while they were sleeping, Ernest Franzen killed his wife and one of his children early today and sent four other children into the street in their night clothes, injured and screaming for help.
He then killed himself.

IRISH BOUNDARY COMMISSION HAS HEARD EVIDENCE

Members Have Returned to London to Prepare Report.

TREMENDOUS TASK.

Documentary and Other Evidence Required Seven Months' Hearing.

LONDON, July 7. — (Special by the United Press).—The Irish Boundary Commission, after bringing to its conclusion its seven months' sitting in Ireland, in which evidence was heard from individuals and public bodies, is now returning to London to enter upon the most delicate stage of its work—the production of its report fixing the legal and statutory boundary between Northern Ireland and the Irish Free State. The task of the Commission has been a Herculean one, for, besides the voluminous documentary evidence submitted, there was also a mass of real evidence. No boundary commission brought into existence since the world war has undergone such a taxing ordeal nor conducted its sittings with greater secrecy.

It was recognized at the outset that disaster would overtake the work should any premature statements be made. Justice Feetham, formerly of the Supreme Court of South Africa, who was appointed chairman by Ramsay Macdonald, expressed the hope that the commission would be permitted to go about its work without any other interference.

Ulster leaders and some of the Ulster press from time to time, however, made threats that Ulster, despite the findings of the commission, would refuse to surrender an inch of territory.

With the return of the Commission to London, the imminent question is once more the subject of interested speculation in political quarters today, especially among the Tories.

WOUND CHINESE WITH BAYONETS

British Sailors Protecting Property at Chung King Wounded Four.

REMOVE WOMEN.

LONDON, July 7—(United Press)—British sailors protecting property at the walled town of Chung King, on the Yangtse River, wounded four Chinese with bayonets in the course of a riot there July 2, according to China despatches received here to-day.

The British Consul warned the local authorities he would hold them responsible for any repetition of the rioting and also made urgent representation to Peking.

All women and children have been evacuated from Chung King with the exception of six, ill in the American hospital.

Women and children have also been removed from King Chow to Pakhoi, Kwang Tung Province.

EXPECT CHANGES IN DOMINION CABINET

Resignations of Several Ministers Are Rumored in Ottawa.

OTTAWA, July 7.— (Canadian Press).—Cabinet changes are expected here during the recess but from present indications, it is not likely that there will be any important developments for some weeks yet. The annuity voted by Parliament to Hon. W. S. Fielding ist taken to indicate his coming retirement to private life. The resignation of Hon. Dr. Beland (with his probable appointment as High Commissioner in Paris) and of Hon. Messrs. Motherwell, Bureau, Copp and Murphy have also been rumored from time to time but there is so far no definite announcement.

Should the Government decide on a general election this fall the reconstruction of the cabinet would precede the appeal to the polls.

SUNDAY BATHING.

For.	Against.
Phelan	Jones
Meyers	Turner
Hancock	Fife
Denne	Greene
	McIntyre
	Mayor

Absent: Crowe.

Sunday bathing was again the subject of discussion at last night's meeting of the City Council, and was again defeated, this time by a vote of six to four, with Alderman Crowe (an opponent) absent. The vote on June 12 was five to three.

The question arose last night on a suggestion made by G. N. Gordon, K. C., M.P., that the bathing beaches be opened on Sundays under proper supervision for the remainder of July as a trial. Mr. Gordon appeared as a deputation of one in the interests of what he termed the bulk of public opinion. He had learned, he said, that some disorderlines had take place at the beaches, when young men had annoyed the residents in the neighborhood. Chief Newhall, however, had assured Mr. Gordon that he would assign a police constable to patrol the beaches on Sunday afternoons, and this would prevent a recurrence of the rowdyism.

Mr. Gordon did not ask that the beaches be opened for aquatic sports on Sundays, but in the interests of children who should have the privilege, he thought, of cooling off in the hot weather. If it was pointed out that the opening of the beaches on Sundays during July was as an experiment, and the continuance was conditional upon the good behaviour of the bathers, he did not think that there would be any trouble. He felt that there would be no desecration of the Sabbath if the privilege of bathing is extended for the purpose of cooling off and refreshing, and not for sport.

He was also certain that the action would be in accordance with the weight of public opinion.

Plan Rejected.

On a motion by Alderman Phelan that the beaches be opened on Sunday during the remainder of July, the council voted six to four against the request. Ald. Phelan called for the Yeas and nays.

Alderman Jones said the Council's stand had been misrepresented through the press, and the opinions of the press could not be forced upon the Council.

PORTLAND, Oregon, July 7 (Canadian Press).—Dr. Francis E. Clark, founder of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, has retired after 38 years of unsalaried service os president of that body, and the duties of that office have been taken over by Dr. Daniel A. Poling, a native of Portland, and at present a resident of New York.

FRANCO-GERMAN NEGOTIATIONS ARE BROKEN OFF

Paris Says Cessation of Talk on Commercial Treaty is Definite.

NEW TARIFF LAWS.

Until Both Countries Pass Measures Under Consideration, Nothing Can Be Done.

BERLIN, July 7.—(Special by the United Press).—German industrial circles expect a temporary postponement of the Franco-German negotiations for a commercial treaty, but deepndable reports from Paris say negotiations will be broken off definitely.

The difficulties do not lie so much in the specific differences between the parties as in the general situation. In both countries tariff laws are before the Parliaments, and before they pass in one form or another, the signing of an important commercial treaty is difficult.

It is further hoped that a clarification of the political situation will bring a better atmosphere for continuing the negotiations.

It is not yet possible to say whether the German tariff laws will be passed at the summer session of the Reichstag, this depending on the development of the foreign political situation.

Many Japanese were dressed in Russian blouses instead of the kimona.

Thirty-two Acres Of Buildings In South American City Laid In Ashes: Thirty Bodies Are Recovered

BOGOTA, Colombia, July 7 (Canadian Press).—hirty bodies are reported to have been found after a fire which started early Saturday morning, swept over the City of Manizales, 110 miles northwest of here, and destroyed thirty-two acres of buildings in the centre of the city. The conflagration is under control, but the total death list is unknown.

All banks, business houses, hotels, the bishop's palace and the municipal buildings were burned. Search parties are busy among the ruins hunting the missing.

The fire started in a pharmacy where an explosion occurred, and which caused fire to spread to stores of gasoline, petroleum and other inflamable material.

Assistance is being given by the government, and by all other parts of the country. The district has been placed under military control.

YOUNG FRENCH GENERAL PLACED IN COMMAND OF MOROCCAN ARMIES FOR OFFENSIVE AGAINST MOORS

General Stanislas Naulin Transferred From the Rhineland.

KNOWS THE NATIVES

Premier Painleve Admits Secession of Some Tribes—No Cause for Alarm.

PARIS, July 7.—(Canadian Press Cable).—General Stanislas Naulin, Commander of the Thirtieth Army Corps on the Rhine, has been appointed supreme commander of operations in Morocco. General Naulin, who is now on leave, will proceed to Morocco at the earliest possible moment.

In announcing the appointment Premier Painleve said what was ficer, well versed in the methods of ficer, wel versed in the methods of both European and Colonial warfares and thoroughly acquainted with the mentality of the natives. Gen. Naulin possesses those qualities to an eminent degree.

The new Commander who will replace Marshal Lyautey, is 55 years of age. He served for a long time in North Africa, was in command at Oran for a year and lived two years in Morocco. He was also in Syria during the European War, where he commanded the Twenty-first Army Corps.

In conclusion M. Painleve repeated what was said in the official note issued by the War Ministry Sunday night, giving assurance that, though some of the loyal tribes had seceded and numerous attacks had been made on the French by the Riffians who broke through the front line in the Taza region, there was no reason for alarm. He added that the French forces would be regrouped for new concentrations and that counter-action of an important nature would be taken against the Moors.

R. R. HALL, K.C., ADVISES CITY COUNCIL TO SUE CAMPBELL MILLS AND UTILITIES COMMISSION AND CITES SWORN EVIDENCE TO SUPPORT CASE

City Solicitor Joseph Wearing Expresses Doubt as to the Advisability of Council Following Mr. Hall's Advice —Says Evidence Insufficient and Cost Heavy.

ALD. PHELAN WOULD DROP THE MATTER BUT COMMITTEE OF WHOLE WILL CONSIDER

Mr. Hall's Figures Allege a Loss of Over $12,600 in Three Years—Merits of Claim Did Not Come Before Court, Only Side Issue.

R. R. Hall, K.C., in a letter to the City Council reporting on the judgment recently handed down by Mr. Justice Hodgins in the city's appeal regarding the proposed investigation into the power accounts of the Campbell Milling Company, advised further action in a suit against the Company and the Peterborough Utilities Commission. "If the members of the Peterborough Utilities Commission will not perform their duty upon demand," he said, "then I submit that it is clearly the duty of the City Council to see that the taxpayers of Peterborough are not deprived of their just rights."

After the reading of Mr. Hall's letter, containing three pages of excerpts from sworn evidence available to the city, City Solicitor Joseph Wearing told the Council that he was doubtful of the advisability of the Council's following Mr. Hall's advice. He was not certain that the city had the right under the section, and he said there is no practical evidence on which to base a case.

The opinions were referred to the committee of the whole council for discussion.

The question arose a year ago when Alderman Meyers, as Chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee, drew the attention of the Council to what he considered discrepancies between the amount of power used by the Campbell Milling Company and the amount charged. An inquiry conducted by the Utilities Commission at the request of the Council, and investigations by the Council itself were equally abortive so far as results were concerned. The City applied for a judicial inquiry, but an injunction issued at the request of the Campbell Milling Company restrained His Honor Judge Huycke from proceeding. On the appeal from the injunction issued by Mr. Justice Middleton the judgment has been sustained, and the City is prohibited from pursuing the inquiry.

Mr. Wearing, as City Solicitor, represented the City at the hearings, and Mr. Hall, representing Judge Huycke, was associated with him.

Mr. Halls' letter, citing the evidence on which the city based its case and giving his opinion of the entire matter, is as follows:

Haig Greets Chafeur Of Headquarters' Fleet When Armies In France

WINNIPEG, July 7—A British "Tommy" who served on Field Marshal Earl Haig's staff in France was greeted by the famous Field Marshal at Kenora during the week-end.

Albert Blackburn, who enlisted in 1914 at his native city, Manchester, England, when 17 years old, was the "Tommy." He was a chauffeur at general headquarters at Montreil, France, and driver for General Ford, officer of Fleid Marshal Haig's staff.

Dressed in his working clothes Blackburn walked quietly up to the British Army leader, and introduced himself, and the Earl presented him to Lady Haig, saying: "This is one of my boys."

Blackburn had a varied military career, having been in action at Mons, at Zeebrugge, acted as chauffeur for many generals, and also for Right Hon. Winston Churchill.

PLAN NEW PAVING PROGRAMME ON HALF DOZEN CITY STREETS AT EXPENSE OF ABOUT $35,000

Council to Advertise Work to be Done With Bitulethic.

THREE OPPOSED

Twenty-first Battalion Asks for Grant of $100 Towards Reunion.

At last night's meeting of the City Council, Alderman Phelan moved to give notice of the Council's intention to pave Stewart, Reid and Rubidge Streets from Hunter to Charlotte; Scott Street and Simcoe Street from Rubidge to Aylmer; with Warrenite Bitulithic paving, not on concrete base. After some discussion his motion carried.

Alderman Fife suggested letting a local contractor pave the few hundred yards necessary.

Alderman Turner moved that figures be submitted to Committee of the Whole Council before any action is taken, at the same time seconding Alderman Phelan's motion.

Alderman Greene, although opposed to any paving this year, thought if any is done these connecting links should receive attention.

Alderman McIntyre's motion that no paving be done was defeated by 7 to 3. He called for the yeas and nays, indicating the vote as follows:

Against paving—Meyers, Hancock and McIntyre.

For advertising paving to be done — Phelan, Jones, Turner, Fife, Greene, Denne, and the Mayor.

Alderman Phelan's motion to advertise the work to be done carried by seven to three.

A rough estimate of the work set the figure at $75,000.

Mark Streets.

Alderman Fife sought and obtained authority for the Board of Works to mark the streets in accordance with the parking by-law.

Oil Water Street.

Alderman Denne moved, seconded by Alderman Jones, that Water Street north of Smith be oiled where it is not paved between the street car tracks. The engineer will be instructed to do the work.

Need Dressing Rooms.

Alderman Fife pointed out the great need for dressing rooms at King Edward Park. He said sanitary conveniences are needed here if the sports are to be encouraged.

Alderman Turner, speaking of King Edward Park, said the bowling club promised to take out the ground which would be needed for greens under a proposal to the Council, and submit a sketch, but no action had been taken. In the meantime work on cinder paths had been held up awaiting a decision.

A misapprehension among south-end residents regarding the number of band concerts to be given in King Edward Park was pointed out by Alderman Fife, who said a great many thought last Friday's concert by Peterboro Rangers' Band was to have been given there. The next

Peterborough Boy On Long Canoe Trip Through North

KINGSTON, July 7 (Special) — Harold Joliffe, son of Prof. Joliffe of Queen's University, is leaving shortly on a canoe trip of two months' duration, and will be accompanied by Fred. Bamforth, of Peterboro. The course laid out for the trip is to go from Peterboro up the Trent Canal and the Gull River to Haliburton and then across Lake-of-Bays to Algonquin Park, then down the Petawawa to Ottawa. If time permits they will go on to Montreal, but otherwise they will return to Kingston via the Rideau. They expect to be home again about September 1st.

CHINESE UNDER BOLSHEVIK FIST

Statement Made By Former Resident That Canton Government Controlled by Russia.

SITUATION SERIOUS.

TORONTO, July 7. — Canadian Press. — The Canton government may not be aware of the fact (certainly it does not admit the fact) but the Canton government is completely under the control of Bolshevik Russia.

Such is the considered opinion of one, who less than a month ago, left Canton, after years of residence in South China, Dr. Edward Kirk, dean and professor of anatomy in Kung Yee University Medical School Canton, at present in the city.

"There is no use in blinking at facts," he said. "The situation in China is serious, much more so than was the Boxer business. There is one fact, however, that justifies optimism; the great mass of the Chinese are not behind the anti-foreign movement.

NO CIRCUS HERE BUT CARNIVAL TAKES ITS PLACE

Rotary Frolic Will Make Up Loss of Circus to Peterboro Folk.

MANY FEATURES.

And Unlike Barnum and Bailey's Cog Wheels, Will Have Real Parade.

Although th Barnum and Bailey Circus missed the city this year, the people of Peterboro are going to have a circus of their own next week at the Rotary Carnival at the Exhibition grounds.

Barnum and Bailey's had only five rings and no parade.

The Rotary event will have a whole series of rings—and a big parade.

So that's that.

Much has been said lately about the objects for which the Carnival is to be held and very little about the Carnival itself.

However the people have been expecting something out of the ordinary in the line of entertainment, and they will not be disappointed.

The doings will start with a parade from Central Park, and from then on there will not be a dull moment.

The programme for the afternoon includes a soft ball tournament, baseball games, horse races and music, while in the evening there will be other features, including dancing. The Rotary Midway will be running full swing both afternoon and evening and the fun and excitement of this department of the Carnival will undoubtedly, as last year, attract a big share of the crowd.

Peterboro folks are not going to have all the fun to themselves by any means, for the Rotary Clubs over the district are coming for big event and their presence will add to the liveliness of the Carnival.

The date is Thursday, July 9th, and many boys and girls are selling tickets now. Don't turn them down when you are asked to support this outstanding community frolic of half of an organization during the year for the community.

REDUCE LOSSES IN CAR THEFTS

Chief Newhall Approves Plan to Make Carrying of Card Compulsory.

HELP TRACING.

Chief of Police S. Newhall is entirely in accord with the movement now afoot in some of the cities to secure compulsory possession by motorists at all times of registration cards. The Chief quite agrees with the opinion that has been expressed that the putting into effect of such a law would help to reduce the number of automobile thefts and would be of assistance in tracing stolen cars.

These cards are issued by the Department of Highways simultaneously with the car licenses and bear the name of the person to whom they are given, the make and type of the car, the license number, horse power and all distinctive details. But at present motorists are not compelled by law to have these cards always in their possession and the idea is to have authority given to police officers to demand the production of the cards where they deem it necessary. This would create an additional hazard for automobile thieves, giving at the same time protection to the owner and assistance to the police.

The Chief points out that any such measure would be nullified to a great extent if motorists continued to leave their cards in the pocket of the car, in which case the would-be thief would merely have to assure himself of the presence of the card and feel his risk of detection correspondingly lessened.

Chief Newhall suggests the issuing of a card to each member of the family capable of driving and that each card should bear a photograph of the person for whom it is intended. Such a precaution would put an additfonal obstacle in the way of the wrong-doer. And the motorist of sense would welcome any measure that would reduce losses by thieving.

SEEKING BAIL FOR A. PEPALL

Toronto Report Says Case Is Not Yet All Plain Sailing.

SOME CONFUSION.

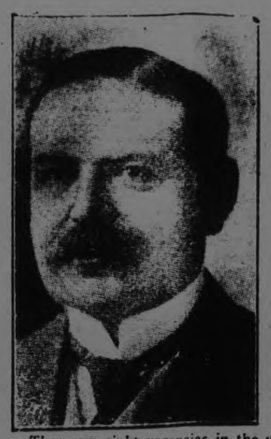
TORONTO, July 7 (Canadian Press) — Counsel for Andrew H. Pepall who was brought back from California a few days ago to answer charges preferred against him in connection with the Ontario Government bond transactions, will make application for bail before Magistrate Jones in police court this afternoon.

A Toronto report this afternoon says: "While the province has been successful in securing the return of Pepall to Toronto to face charges arising out of the Provincial Treasury bond scandals it is not yet plain sailing, according to a report about the parliament buildings. Deviation from the usual routine procedure in handling extradition cases in the Attorney-General's department seems to be at the base of the confusion that exists, so far as the "details" of the case are concerned.

Official of the department are not "exactly sure" on what charges Pepall was extradited and until they are, they cannot say what charges he will have to face in Toronto. It is admitted that Pepall can only be charged in Canada with the counts that were allowed by courts in the United States in granting extradition."

After pointing out that conspiracy was not charged in the warrant on which Pepall was extradited, the report declares that it "cannot, therefore, be used against him now."

SAID TO BE SLATED FOR SENATE.



There are eight vacancies in the upper house at the present time—two in Ontario, and one in Alberta. Several of these are undoubtedly earmarked for certain members of the present cabinet. Among the prospective beneficiaries are said to be included Hon. Jacques Bureau, minister of customs; Hon. Charles Murphy, postmaster-general, and Hon. J. E. Sinclair, minister without portfolio. In addition to the cabinet changes thereby involved, it is rumored that Hon. E. M. MacDonald, minister of defence, is slated for a judgeship. The above are shown from left to right in the order named.

BRITISH AVERSE TO ASSUMPTION OF NEW RESPONSIBILITIES UNDER THE PROPOSED SECURITY PACT

Confine Commitments in Eastern Europe to League of Nations' Interests.

CONFERENCE SOON

Lord Balfour Believes International Disputes Could be Referred to Arbitration.

LONDON, July 7.—That formal negotiations for a security pact were likely to begin within a few days was announced in the course of a debate in the House of Lords yesterday, which threw little additional light on the British government's views on that question. The debate, initiated by the Earl of Oxford and Viscount Grey, turned largely on the subject of arbitration, and Lord Balfour, for the government, deprecated Great Britain's assumption in Eastern Europe of any responsibilities beyond those already undertaken under the League of Nations.

With that proviso, said Lord Balfour, no dispute could arise between France, Belgium, Germany and Great Britain which could not be submitted to arbitration. In the event of a dispute between France and Germany, if either party refused to arbitrate or declined to carry out the arbitral decision and resorted to force then the other parties to the pact would be bound to throw their whole strength into defending the nation subjected to such outrage and gross violation of international morality.

On the general question, Lord Balfour said: "We desire nothing that can reflect on Germany's position, nothing that German pride or policy need object to."

FIGHTING SINGERS

Handel's operatic experiences in London never lacked for excitement. At times, almost tragic; at times, farcical, Handel was kept busy from morning to night with his temperamental companies of singers. Among these was the prima donna, Cuzzoni, who was a stumpy, little person, strutting and strolling on the stage and enthralling it by the sheer wonder of her voice. The boxes stormed her with applause.

Handel's next rival was Heidigger, who proved an active, if not a formidable, competitor. Handel brought Faustina to the opera and thus started the strife between the new singer and Cuzzoni. Cuzzoni's range was limited, her tone golden. On the other hand, Faustina had a large range, was a singer of finer musical training and a very fine actress. Partizan audiences hissed one prima donna and then the other. Race-horses were named after them. Society was divided upon their merits. The audiences night after night for weeks, were interrupted by riots, and the music became a farce. Some even declared that "if the two singers were not put in bags and drowned in the river, they would cause a civil war."

The climax came on June 6, 1727. "When Faustina appeared on the stage the crowd that represented Cuzzoni rose up and shouted her down. A battle began in the auditorium and finished on the stage by Cuzzoni setting upon Faustina and the two women tearing out each other's hair. Some of the audience rushed upon the stage and joined in the fray, smashed scenery, and created a pandemonium of struggling humanity."

JAPS PLAN WORK

By MOTO TAKATA
(Written for the United Press)

OSAKA, PJuly 4. — (United Press).—Japanese Government finally has settled upon plans for operation of its oil concessions in North Saghalien. An oil company will be established, and the government will have some share in the enterprise. As soon as te plan receives the sanction of the business men who are interested in the company, it will officially be announced.

The decision of the government to participate in the enterprise by lending financial as well as moral aid to the new company was influenced by the attiude of the Navy Department which olds te view that there is a supply of oil to provide fuel for the entire Japanese navy. At the initiative of Admiral Takarabe, Navy Minister, Vice-Admiral Nakasato, an expert on fuel question in the Japaneses navy, is selected to be the government's representative in the company. He is expected to be the President of the company after te concern is established.

Government's Share.

The government investment in this enterprise is estimated at 750,00 yen out of a total capitalization of 10,000,000 yen. The Government's share is to be returned in five years, after a five-year interval from the time of the company's establishment. The government also binds itself to assist in every possible way in the exploitation of the territory. In exchange for the assistance the company promises to divide all profits above 15 per cent between the government and the shareholders equally.

The Mitsui Company, Okura and Company and Nippon Oil Company, all of whom were heavily interested in the first wells drilled in North Saghalien five years ago, are others heavy stockholders in the new enterprise.

The articles of the company, consisting of twelve major agreements, is to be announced shortly, and a certain number of the shares will be offered for public distribution. The articles of the enterprise will be taken shortl yto Moscow for the Soviet Government's approval.

CUBAN WOMEN TO WORK

Mayor Advocates That Jobs be Given to Salesladies in Department Stores.

REGLA, Cuba, July 7 (Associated Press)—Cuban women need ampler protection and should be provided with an adequate means of making an honest living, Mayor Antonio Bosch said in making public a plea to merchants and employers of the city to employ women wherever possible.

Mayor Bosch has asked the city council to adopt an ordinance making it compudsory for department stores and other establishments where women's articles are sold, to employ saleswomen, 75 per cent of whom must be of Cuban nationality.

Regla lies on the eastern shore of Havana harbor.

NEW OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED

Otonabee and Peterborough Lodges, I.O.O.F., Had Joint Ceremony.

CUPS PRESENTED.

After the finish of business at the regular meeting of Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, last night, the joint installation of the officers of the two local lodges took place.

District Deputy Grand Master F. Merrett, together with the members of District Committee No. 41, I.O.O.F. conducted the ceremonies, at the close of which, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered them, which was suitably acknowledged by D.D.G.M. Merret, when he followed with a splendid address on the work of the Order, which was greatly appreciated by all privileged to be present.

An event of unusual interest to the members of Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, during the evening's proceedings, was the presentation of a silver cup, donated by E. V. Warne, for competition between the two local lodges at progressive euchre and won by the members of Otonabee Lodge; the presentation being made by D.D.G.M. Merrett.

At the close of the meeting an adjournment was made to the dining room, where the Wardens of the two lodges had a bounteous supply of orangeade, ice cream and cake in waiting, to which ample justice was done, the night being extremely warm.

SUSPEND SENTENCE ON THEFT CHARGE

Young Man Took Bill Out of Purse Lying in Motor Car.

The sight of a woman's handbag lying in an unattended automobile in Dommer on June 28 aroused the curiosity of a passing farmer's son. Like Eve, his curiosity led him astray, for he opened the bag and finding some bills inside, took out a $5 bill and hurried away. But he was discovered, and the discovery had a climax in his afternoon appearance between Magistrate O. A. Langley in the County Court this afternoon, when he was allowed to go on suspended sentence, on his father undertaking to make restitution and to pay the costs of the prosecution.

To the young man, who is 17 years old, Magistrate Langley pointed out the folly and enormity of his offence, which, said His Worship, in less enlightened days, would have resulted in him being branded as a felon. His Worship said success never, in the long run, attended those who made free with other people's property, and he counselled the young man so to live in the future as to prevent his ever appearing again in the Court under similar circumstances.

GOSPEL HYMNS NEXT TO BIBLE

No Other Book Has Ever Sold in Such Large Numbers.

BLISS EDITOR.

For a long period of the middle ages the only participation that the congregation was entitled to have in the singing part of the church service was in the short responses, "Kyrie Eleison." Charlemagne even went so far as to forbid by law the singing of secular songs in the streets, so that the only musical expression of many people was the "Kyrie Eleison."

The adoption of Lowell Mason's hymns was very widespread. In Scotch hymnals of the present time some thirty-four are said to appear.

The Gospel Song was not originated by Ira D. Sankey, as many people have assumed. Long before Sankey's trip to England, where he met with great success, there were songs of a similar type in wide currency. They came from the activities of such men as Kirknatrick, Philip Phillips and W. Howard Doane, but principally P. P. Bliss. Sankey was the veriest amateur in his musicianship, while Bliss was a real musician. Thus Bliss became the senior editor of 'Gospel Hymns' and Sankey his assistant. 'Gospel Hymns' are said to have sold more than any other book with the exception of the Bible.

TOUCHED THE BUTTON.

Mayor Turner Started the Balloon Tire in Watson's Window on Three Week's Trip.

Sharp at 12:23 p.m., to-day, Mayor J. J. Turner turned on the power that started the big balloon tire in Watson's window on its three weeks' trip, in the Oak Balloon Tire Contest, which started to-day.

Customers will get a chance to estimate the number ot miles the tire will travel by 12.23 p.m. of Tuesday, July 28th. The closest estimator will receive free a complete set of balloon tires for his car, large or small.

After inspection by the Mayor, the registering speedometer was sealed up and will not be opened until His Worship breaks the seal at 12:23 on Tuesday, July 28th. Mayor Turner, in school boy parlance is a "Good Scout," and is always ready to lend the weight of his official presence to any worthy object.

ACROSS CANADA AND BACK.

The wonder trip of the coming summer will be conducted by Dean Laird of MacDonald College, to Victoria, B.C., and back.

Inspired by the success of the trip to Victoria last year on the occasion of the Teachers Federation meeting at that point, and filled with patriotic motives for everyone to see their own country, the Dean has arranged for a special train of standard sleeping cars to leave Toronto on July 20, visiting Port Arthur, Fort William, Winnipeg, Regina, Moose Jaw, Calgary, Banff, Lake Louise, Vancouver thence steamer to Victoria.

Returning, the trip will be via the Okanagan Valley, Nelson, the Kootenay Lakes, Windermere Bungalow camps from which place the party will be motored to Banff, 104 miles over the newly completed Banff-Windermere Highway, the most charming and awe-inspiring trip it is possible to conceive, with stops at Radium Hot Springs, Vermilion River, and Storm Mountain Bungalow Camps—another day at Banff, then Edmonton, Saskatoon, Devil's Gap Bungalow Camp, near Kenora on the Lake Of The Woods, steamer from Fort William to Port McNicholl, thence rail to Toronto, where the trip will terminate on August 10.

Everything is included at the price of $325.00 from Toronto; transportation, sleeping cars, accomtation in hotels and bungalow camps, meals in diners, hotels, and on steamers, sightseeing tours at points visited, and all gratuities.

While appealing primarily to teachers, the tour is open to everyone desiring to go.

All will be welcome.

Fares from other points than Toronto will be named and descriptive illustrated booklet sent on application to Dean Laird, Macdonald College, lege, P.Q., Que.

SHE WAS MY WISEST AND BEST COUNSELLOR

Dead Statesman Linked Love and Lesson in a College Romance.

By LARRY BOARDMAN

LaFollette linked love and lessons. In other words, his courtship of Mrs. LaFollette comes under the sub-title, "A College Romance."

They met when "Badger Bob" was a student at the University of Wisconsin. Miss Belle Case, of Baraboo, was one of his classmates. Both were hard workers, earnest students. They had much in common. They became better and better acquainted as time went on.

Then "Bob" started climbing up the scale in university life. He was a leader in college dramatics and he captured enough prizes in oratory to fill half a dozen safety vaults. He was a hero in the eyes of Miss Case.

LaFollette was studying law. Miss Case also took it up, to help him.

And he evidently kept right on wanting her help after he was admitted to the bar in 1880, a year after his graduation, with a B.S. degree, for he married her on New Year's Eve, 1881.

"She was," he says, "my wisest and best counsellor."

After marriage they kept on working side by side. She prepared a case for him which was considered a model of its kind. She helped him with his work when he was prosecuting attorney of Dance County, Wis., from 1880 to 1884, and later, when he entered politics, she made stump speeches throughout the state in his behalf.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. LaFollette.

Her influence is clearly shown by his early advocacy of women's suffrage and by his action, as governor of Wisconsin, of appointing women to important offices.

But Mrs. LaFollette's active participation in her husband's career evidently did not detract from her interest in her home and family. Despite her many outside activities she found time to rear four chil-

SUNDAY'S CONCERT.

Hundreds of citizens have to thank the Peterboro Rangers' Band for several hours of enjoyment provided by the concert in Central Park on Sunday evening.

If any evidence was needed to demonstrate the popularity of Sunday programmes the attendance at the Rangers' concert provided it, for, in spite of the fact that the majority of them had to stand during the programme, the biggest crowd that has gathered at a band concert in years assembled.

The huge attendance stressed the mistake made by the Council in not providing for Sunday concerts in the usual way, for, while other concerts may be given at Central Park under the same conditions as last Sunday, it is not an ideal place for such entertainments.

There is no accommodation for the crowd such as is provided by the sloping hillside of Victoria Park, the absence of lights makes it more difficult to keep youngsters in order, and the accoustics so far as the band's playing is concerned are not of the best.

Victoria Park is ideally suited for band concerts, and the majority of citizens would undoubtedly approve of it being used for such purposes on Sunday evenings during the summer.

JOHN D. FLAVELLE'S PASSING.

Peterboro shares with its neighbor, Lindsay, the sense of deep loss that is felt at the passing of that fine old sportsman, John D. Flavelle.

Born near here and a resident of Peterboro until he was fourteen years of age, Mr. Flavelle had lived in Lindsay since 1864, but although absent from this city, he had always maintained a friendly relationship with scores of Peterboro citizens who admired his sterling qualities and enjoyed the pleasure of his genial society.

The association was the more intimate perhaps because of Mr. Flavelle's long and distinguished career as a curler. "Flavelle" and "curling" were synonomous terms in this district, and the fact that he was the first curler in Canada to receive a gold medal from the Royal Caledonia Curling Association for doing more than any other man in the Dominion for the game shows that his fame was much more than local. His record as a skip, as a patron of the game and as a sportsman was above reproach.

A keen opponent, he never allowed his desire to win to sway his sense of fair play, and his attitude always was that of a real curler and a gentleman.

Mr. Flavelle served the Province of Ontario in efficient manner as Chairman of the License Board, and his fellow-citizens of Lindsay in many public capacities.

His loss is not merely a Lindsay one—the country has lost a fine citizen, one of the old school.

LEARN TO SWIM.

The heavy list of drowning accidents in Ontario over the week-end should emphasize the wisdom of the advice "learn to swim."

Good swimmers, it is true, are sometimes drowned—but the person who knows how to take care of himself in the water has one hundred chances to one over the individual who cannot swim.

In the list of fatalities reported yesterday it is significant that the majority of the victims knew nothing about the art of swimming.

At Renfrew a boat capsized throwing three young men into the water. None of them could swim, and one life was lost.

A young man who was unable to swim got into deep water in the Credit River and was drowned.

Bathing in the St. Clair River at Sarnia two brothers stepped off a sand bank into a deep channel. Neither could swim and both lost their lives.

A similar accident is reported from Delaware, where a boy of eighteen stepped suddenly from shallow water into a hole and was drowned. He was unable to swim, and two companions, also ignorant of the rudiments of the art, almost lost their lives trying to save him.

The Muskoka River claimed the lives of two young girls who got beyond their depth.

Seven young people drowned over the week-end because they could not swim is a heavy enough toll to arouse fresh interest in this question of learning at least enough about swimming to enable one to save one's self from accidents of this kind.

With its hundreds of lakes and rivers Ontario offers delightful hours of enjoyment for those who can swim, but there is always danger threatening for those who cannot.

Many of the "old swimming holes" are far from safe for non-swimmers, having dangerous holes or a sudden drop from the shallows into deep water.

There is little excuse for Peterboro people who cannot swim these days when such institutions as the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. provide an opportunity to learn under absolutely safe conditions.

USING GOVERNMENT PROPERTY.

A correspondent utters a protest against the Government property in front of the Armouries being used for baseball games.

The Examiner must confess that it cannot agree that the complaint is justified.

So long as the property is not being damaged, and there is no evidence that it is, there does not seem any reason why it should not be used for recreation purposes, even if it does belong to the Government—or, in other words, to the people.

A lot of public money is represented by the Armouries and drill halls, schools and other public buildings throughout the length and breadth of Canada, and it is a very open question whether the people are getting anything like one hundred cents on the dollar value for the funds invested.

It has always seemed to the Examiner that a much more general use of such buildings and properties for community purposes could be made possible without interfering in the least with the objects which they were originally intended and without damage.

Many millions of dollars are tied up in Armouries; if the militia units are not to be maintained at anything like their former strength and the buildings are thus of no great service along the line for which they were erected, is there any sound reason why they should not be of use for other public purposes.

The girls' baseball games on the Government property at the Armouries provide exercise for the contestants and entertainment for the spectators, and there is no worth-while reason why the property should not continue to be used.

REVIEWING THE BANK VERDICT.

There have been all varieties of opinion expressed about the decision of the Appellate Division Supreme Court of Ontario which quashed the verdicts rendered by the lower courts against directors of the defunct Home Bank. The case was given a long and exhaustive trial in which there were few bright spots, and at the conclusion sentences of varying lengths were passed on the directors, not because they had been found guilty of deliberate fraud, but because they had not exercised the discretionary powers that a directorate is supposed to possess. They had taken too much for granted, and in so doing had failed to provide protection for the depositors.

The Hamilton Spectator thinks the reversal of the verdicts by the Supreme Court is the best thing that could have happened, and adds:

"The decision of the Appeal Court is of a nature to restore confidence in the banking institutions of the country. The six directors who had been convicted and sentenced to prison terms were all substantial businessmen, whose reputations were their most-prized possessions. Their only error, the appeal judges have found, was that they took it for granted those upon whom they had to lean were dependable, instead of proving it."

The St. Catharines Standard cannot see it that way at all, and holds that, according to the finding of the Supreme Court, the position of being a bank director is a very perfunctory affair and not one fraught with grave responsibility. The Standard says in part:

"The decision practically means that directors are not responsible if the president or general manager of a chartered bank brings the institution to ruin. It was held by Judge Coatsworth, at Toronto, that ignorance of the condition of the Home Bank was no excuse on the part of the directors. It was their duty, according to the judge, to have inquired into the state of the bank, and to have known all about its affairs. The decision of the higher court of appeal wipes all this out. A director is not responsible for the proper management of a chartered bank. He is only a dummy figurehead, some one whose name might be useful in connection with the bank's promotion. This seems to be one case in law where ignorance is quite a legitimate excuse, no matter what misery it may cause others."

The Standard concludes its comment with the pungent phrase: "Legally correct it all may be, but lacking in elementary justice."

The Sarnia Canadian-Observer fears that a continuation of such reversal of verdicts will result in the public becoming very much befuddled about the finality of any decision. It cites the case of the Peter Smith-Aemilius Jarvis verdict, where "the finding of the lower court was modified to an extent that drew the teeth of what seemed an exemplary judicial finding." The Sarnia paper fails to see where there is need for a lower court at all if its findings are to be so frequently upset. It says:

"If the Appellate Division's conclusion is entirely correct then the lower court's finding is notoriously erroneous.

"This is mightily perplexing to the common people. It tends to induce them to sneer at courts and legal procedure.

"If the authorities and the courts desire that, they are taking a first-class method to bring it about.

"There ought to be a certain standardization of deducing court verdicts, particularly when judges who are trained in their calling have the say.

"Continued upsetting of decisions of the lower courts suggests that these are a fifth wheel. Why not go to the higher court in the first instance and abolish the stupendous outlay of money and time necessary to have the glory of this apparently extraneous procedure?"

The point raised here is pertinent. A court heard the case that was competent to do so; the judge directing it was schooled in the same course of justice as those who threw out his findings. If the Supreme Court was right in removing the jail sentences, then the lower court was all wrong in imposing them in the first place, and there is nothing to reconcile the two positions because they are diametrically opposed.

As the case stands now directors of a bank are not held responsible for what the managers of the institution may do. If the directors are deceived the blame is on those who deceive them. As the banking circle becomes narrower by reason of amalgamations of banking houses this is not a comforting or a satisfactory conclusion. The need is for directors who will positively and intelligently direct, and the call is for a law that will make them do so.—London Advertiser.

Seven people were drowned on Sunday because they could not swim. Even the ability to swim a few strokes might have saved most of them. Learn to swim.

Have you bought your ticket for the Rotary Carnival yet? Remember, it is a week from Tuesday.

Apparently there are not a few people in Peterboro who enjoy a Sunday band concert.

The head of the radio entertainers caught a big bass at Stoney Lake, again proving that Roxy has a very good line.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics predicts a big wheat yield for Canada, and the liklihood of good prices being maintained. That is cheerful news on both counts.

The Star Weekly wants to know much of the repair work on the principal highways could not be done before the tourist season. The question has been asked by a good many people, without securing a definite answer.

The Rotary Carnival—a big day's fun for the community—means many big days' fun for the under-privileged boys. Keep July 16th in mind.

GARDEN FETE

Annual Social Event of Brighton Church Was a Success.

BRIGHTON, July 7.—On July 3 the annual garden fete, under the auspices of St. Paul's church, was held on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Murdoff. The grounds were prettily decorated with bunting and flags and the coloured lights made the scene very picturesque. One part of the lawn was set aside for tables where refreshments were served. Several booths were scattered around the premises from where flowers, candies, and hot-dogs were sold. The fortune teller's tent proved very popular among the young.

In the evening the Band of the Northumberland Regiment rendered a delightful concert and the music was enjoyed by everyone.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

The Indian Chief

The Editor Of the Examiner

Dear Sir:

In answer to the letter of Mr. Daniel Whetung Sr. of Curve Lake, Ont. who praised his son very highly for being Chief once more at the Election June 5th and win a majority, by means of different ways before the commencement of putting votes in.

In reference to the improvements of roads on the Reserve and other minor things. It seems is all done up by the people's money and the efforts of the Road Master Geogre Taylor and the great majority of Indians who were also paid at $1.50 per day for the spring, was the best time, for them when the work was plentiful.

There is only 3 qualifications mentioned in the Indian Act: First honesday, second temperence, third, morality. These 3 qualifications the Chief should possess then everything will be allright.

Mr. Daniel Whetung who is 80 years old should be satisfied now, that his son is in again, and who has already past several terms. It is us should complain but we find this is only a regulation for 3 years term but if we had a change the Indians would feel at home to attend Indian Council, we know there is hardly any Indians go. This is something like the old worn out schoolmaster, that the children do not want to go to his school.

I am highly praised Mr. Roy Whetung, who is young for being a candidate. You know that it is one of the best things in the world to have self control and trust he will win it next time.

A THOUGHT.

SUNSHINE SONNET.

"If we could carry with us when we go,
Beyond the hidden shores across life's sea,
Some treasure—would we choose a victory,
Or great achievement shining with fame's glow?
No, not these things. The loves that we have known,
The gentleness that soothed and stilled our pain,
The perfume of the garden after rain,
The music of a bird that sings alone:
The golden hue of corn-fields, poppy strewn,
The perfumes rising from the sun-warmed sod,
The silver radiance of the crescent moon,
The scent of roses, and the love of God—
All these we joyously may carry
The mystic gate. For all these things are true.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 6 — Announcement of a liberal reduction in the United States visible supply of wheat helped to bring about a lively late advance in the wheat market today. Closing prices on wheat were firm at the day's top level, 1 1-4 to 2 1-2c net higher, September 141 5-8 to 141 3-4 and December 143 to 143 1-4. Corn finished unchanged to 1c lower, oats at 5-8 to 7-8c gain and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a rise of 15c.

Wheat values shot an upward trend from the outset. The fact that the Canadian Government crop report indicated a yield of considerable less volume this season than unofficial estimates of late had called for was largely responsible for individual gains in prices. There was also special reports at hand telling of crop deterioration in Red River Valley.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, July 6 — It was a two-sided market at Union Stock Yards today. Trade good and prices steady for choice butcher cattle, trade slow and prices lower for rough butcher. A heavy run of nearly 7,000 cattle, besides 867 billed through, proved too much of a load, with the hot weather combined. As anticipated, the usual happened. There was too large a proportion of rough and half finished grass cattle, and the inevitable summer break in prices occurred, except for anything choice in the butcher class. These were good and steady and in active demand.

In the rough butcher class prices broke 25c to 50c lower.

There was a fair export trade. Rogers and Maybee took about 600 cattle. Top prices, 8.25 to $8.60; general run of export, $7.50 to $8.00, medium quality export being a little easier.

Cows and bulls steady for best quality. Half fat grass cows lower.

Calves steady at $9.00 to $10, tops, grassers down to $4.00.

Lambs weak and $1 lower, at $14 to $15, tops.

Hogs steady, $14.00 off cars, thick smooths.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 6—New York houses were in the market for oats and sales of odd lots of No. 2 feed were made at 3-4c over the Winnipeg July option.

An easier feeling developed in the butter market and prices were 1-2c per lb. lower on spot, 3-8c per lb. off at the auction sale, 5-8c per lb. down at country boards. This was attributed to a lull in the demand from foreign buyers and a general quieter tone to the market as the volume of business was smaller with Western No. 1 pasteturized creamery offering at 37 1-2: per lb; Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery at 37c to 37 1-2c per lb., No. 1 creamery at 36c to 36 1-2c per lb., and No. 2 creamery at 35c to 35 1-2c per lb. In a wholesale jobbing way prices were unchanged with a moderate amount of business passing finest creamery at 39c per lb. in 1 lb. blocks, and at 38c per lb. in solid packages.

The receipts of cheese were 12,254 boxes, as against 13,912 for the same day last week, and 11,970 for the corresponding day a year ago. There was no important change in the condition of the market, the undertone being firm and prices fully maintained under a continued steady demand for supplies from foreign buyers at a further advance in prices of fully 1s. per cwt, with the result that a fair business was done and the market was moderately active, with sales of Western No. 1 white and colored on spot at 22 1-4c to 22 3-8c per lb, and Eastern No. 1 white and colored at 22c to 22 1-8c per lb.

Egg Market Firm.

The feature of the local egg situation yesterday was the stronger feeling that developed in the market for specials and extras, and prices for these grades were advanced 1c per dozen which was attributed to the increasing scarcity, but supplies of the lower grades were ample and prices show no change. The trade in a wholesale jobbing way was only fair owing to the fact that buyers are only taking small lots to meet actual wants on account of the warm weather prevailing. The market was rather quiet with sales of specials in a wholesale jobbing way at 41c, fresh extras at 39c, firsts at 35c, and seconds at 31c per dozen.

There were no new developments in the market for cold storage dressed poultry, prices for all lines and sales of 10 to 12 lb. turkeys passing for immediate consumption, being maintained with a fair trade were made at 40c to 45c per lb., 5 to 9 lbs. at 32c to 39c per lb., milk-fed chickens at 35c to 40c per lb., selected chickens at 34c to 36c per lb., selected fowl at 18c to 28c per lb., selected ducks at 24c to 26c per lb., and selected geese at 18c to 22c per lb.

There was no change in the condition of the market for honey, prices for all grades being steady with a very small trade passing on account of the light consumption at this season of the year. No. 1 white clover honey in comb was quoted at 22c to 23c per section, No. 2 grade at 17c to 18c per section, white extract in 30 lb. tins at 11c per lb., 10 lb. tins at 11 1-2c per lb, 5 lb. tins at 12c per lb., and 2 1-2 lb tins at 12 1-2c per lb.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, July 6 (Canadian Press).—Sterling demand closed at $4.85 5-8 on the local market today. Sterling cables closed at $4.86 1-8.

PLAN NEW PAVING

concert in the south end park is scheduled for July 17.

Alderman Turner said the inferior band stand is not suitable for the best presentation of musical programmes because of the absence of a roof.

Alderman Greene moved that the clerk on duty at the City Buildings on Saturday afternoon be given a half-holiday on the Thursday previous. Carried.

21st Battalion Re-union.

A deputation consisting of O. White, A. Nicholls, G. Melton, R. Muir and D. Ivison, headed by G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., asked for a grant of $100 towards the expenses of the annual re-union of the 21st Battalion to be held here in September. Mr. Gordon said Peterboro is vitally interested in the war history of the Battalion, which was practically a Peterboro unit. It is expected that General St. — Hughes, former commander of the Battalion, will be present, and a great many men will come from out of the city. It is necessary for the men here to arrange billets and hotel accommodation for the visitors, and Mr. Gordon put forward the request as very worthy. The event would be broadcast by the news services and would be a good advertisement for the city.

O. White pointed out the expense necessary. The men pay for their own meals, but there are a great many complimentary tickets sent out to prominent speakers and visitors.

Mayor Turner promised that the request would be given sympathetic consideration, and if there is any money in the treasury available, the $100 will be given, he was certain.

Roxy and His Gang—$220.

Leon Frazer, secretary of the Peterboro Chamber of Commerce and secretary of the Tourist Association of Ontario, told of the events leading up to the coming here of the famous broadcaster, Roxy, and his party, and of the entertainment given in this district. Peterboro district and Kawartha Lakes had benefitted considerably through being the only section mentioned in the first broadcast.

He presented the financial accounting, showing an expenditure of $280.40 on entertainment over the week-end. Of this the Provincial men with the party assumed $60.10, leaving $220.30 to be paid.

Alderman Greene sought assurance that the information collected on the trip would be broadcast again in winter when more people are listening-in on the radio. He had not heard of a single instance in which a listener had received the broadcast on Sunday night.

Mr. Frazer thought it would be almost impossible to obtain the services of Roxy in winter, when he is heavily booked up in broadcasting. He will keep the suggestion in mind.

The City Council will pay the $220.30.

Gasoline Pump.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, representing Fitzpatrick and Geraghty, protested an order passed in Board of Works, that he remove his gasoline pump from the corner of Charlotte and Park Streets. He could see no necessity for moving it, since the pump had been there eight years without an accident or near accident that might be attributed to it. The order was joined with one to J. E. Lillico.

Alderman Jones, who said he had been working at this corner nearly a month, and had observed conditions, thought the Council is "chasing the gasoline pump business too far." This particular pump, he said, is no worse than many others. He moved the rejection of the clause in the Board of Works report demanding the removal of the two pumps, but his motion was defeated by five votes to four.

Alderman Greene, speaking after Alderman Jones had asked for reconsideration, said the salesmen of gasoline should not be allowed to put their tanks at the edge of the sidewalk when merchants of other commodities are prohibited under penalty of fine.

Alderman Phelan thought if one is taken off, all should be removed.
